A Business Proposition!

FOR BUSINESS MEN AND WOMEN

I want business men and women who have money to invest to write me for particulars.

I have an absolutely clean and safe deal that has been tested and proved by actual experience.

It will pay over $500 yearly income on every $1,000 invested. (over $100 yearly on each $200 invested) yet is not a racing or gambling scheme, but a straight, legitimate, profitable, honest business you would be proud to be identified with.

It needs more money to run it on a large scale, hence this offer to you who have money and the business sense and acumen to share in this good thing.

I have submitted particulars of this deal to the proprietors and editors of this paper; they are business men and have approved it because it is safe, sound and clean, and the promises made are straight and reasonable.

When you read these particulars I believe you will approve and be glad you investigated. No matter if you have $5,000 or $10,000 to invest or only $100 or $200, it applies equally to all. It is a

for Business Men and Women of sense and discrimination. THIS MEANS YOU.

Write at once; write now, before you forget, stating about the amount you have for investment, and I will promptly send you a personal reply with the clearest and most concise facts and particulars.

Galbraith Coal Co., Ltd.

Non-personal Liability

Capital, $250,000.00 1,000,000 Shares 25c. each.

Good coal stock is a safe and sure investment. Galbraith shares are especially attractive.

Modest Capitalization Large Coal Reserves

This Company organized under the laws of the Northwest Territories of Canada, owns and operates the Galbraith mine located at Lundbreck, Alta. They have four vertical seams of coal traversing their property, aggregating over 40 feet in thickness. Three of these seams are developed to a depth of 350 feet, and as they pass through the Company's lands for nearly a mile, some idea of the amount of coal may be had.

Shipping Steadily

The present output of the mine is about 200 tons per day. These shipments will be rapidly increased, as the C.P.R. allows its cars to be loaded with coal for points in the U. S.

in blocks of 100 or over. Tight money in the States makes it possible for us to give this unprecedented offer in stock that will be paying dividends inside of six months, and you are sure to realize a handsome profit.

Parties ordering can send money by P. O. Orders, Express Orders or Bank Drafts, and we will have the stock issued direct to you. Full information furnished on request. Correspondence solicited. Reference, Bank of Montreal

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTHWEST HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an Agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each on and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of a homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father or mother.

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line exclusive of the width of road allowance crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing must be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa, of intention to apply for patent.

Lincoln's Reason.

One afternoon when Lincoln was president word came to the war department from the provost marshal at Portland, Me., that Henry Jameson, the Confederate secret service agent, was on his way to New York, where he had engaged passage for England. The war department was at once all astir.

Charles A. Dana, then assistant secretary of war, received the message and hastened at once to consult with Secretary of War Stanton, says the Ladies' Home Journal.

"How do you advise me to act in this matter?" queried Dana.

"Arrest the man at once," was Stanton's reply; "but you had better see the president before you proceed further."

Dana went immediately to the White House. As he was a frequent visitor he was readily admitted to Lincoln's private room.

"What is it, Dana?" asked the president as the secretary came in.

Dana told about the incident and asked the president what ought to be done.

"Well," was the quiet reply, "you say Jameson will soon leave the country?"

"Yes, sir; he will escape within a few hours if nothing is done to stop him. My purpose is to arrest him."

"Well," was the president's reply, "when you have a white elephant on your hands and he's doing his level best to get away, why not leave him alone, Dana?"

And Jameson was let alone.

CLAIRVOYANT AIDS SLEUTHS.

Scotland Yard Officials Try to Penetrate Murder Mystery.

The so far impenetrable mystery which surrounds the savage murder of a woman named Dimmock, or [illegible], at her home in St. Paul's road, Camden Town, has driven Scotland Yard to the employment of novel expedients.

For about the first time in a big crime sensation the detectives have sought the aid of the press by sending photographed copies of postcards received by the victim the day before her terrible death.

An even stranger development has to be recorded—no less than the calling in of a famous clairvoyant who had volunteered to do his best to discover the murderer.

All arrangements having been made, the clairvoyant called at the police station to meet the detectives who are specially devoting themselves to the unraveling of the mystery, and went with them to the murdered woman's house.

Here a weird scene was enacted.

After a short inspection of the room, the clairvoyant lay down on the bed where the dead body was found, and apparently sank into a trance. Soon he began to speak in a rapt, tense voice. He described several persons, and he mentioned their names.

Then he proceeded to give a startlingly vivid description of the actual commission of the crime; pictured in detail the appearance of a certain man, and concluded by exclaiming, in answer to a question, "The man you want is on his way to Melbourne."

Altogether, it was an astonishing episode, which impressed even the usually impassive detectives with its seeming quality of reality. What actual value it may have remains to be seen.

FARMER'S QUICK STUNT.

Corn Cut and Turned Into Baked Loaves In Four Hours.

The reproach so often leveled against British agriculturists that they are slow and unprogressive can never be raised again after a demonstration of motor harvesting given at Kirton recently, when loaves were handed round baked from corn that had been standing in the fields four hours before.

The demonstration, which was given on the farm of Messrs. Dennis Brothers—one of the largest in the kingdom—showed that in up to date farm work England is well ahead of most countries. Several remarkable feats were accomplished.

A acre of standing corn was marked out in the fields, cut, bound, threshed, and ground by motor implements. An acre of ground was also plowed, drilled, harrowed, and sown with a new crop within seven and a half hours. This constitutes a world's record.

At 11.35 the tractor started its work by taking the threshing drum into the cornfield. Five minutes later it began to draw two harvesters. These not only cut the corn but bound it. Half a dozen men walking behind stacked it, and in exactly fifteen minutes what had been an acre of growing crop was standing on the field ready to be placed on the cart which the tractor proceeded to draw round the field.

By 1 o'clock the corn was lying at the side of the threshing drum. The tractor then got into position to drive the thresher. At 10 minutes past 1 a halt was called for luncheon. As soon as the threshing began the flour began to come out of the mill, which was being worked off a pulley on the threshing drum.

TO THE DISCOURAGED.

Live Up to Your Highest Mental Development and You'll Succeed.

Meet your problems with an effort of the mind. Meet your difficulties, your sorrows, your disappointments, with an effort of the will, which is a struggle of the brain.

Devote your energies to maintaining mental alertness. Remember that the brain inside your skull contains all your hope for the future, all your possibilities of usefulness as well as pleasure, since there alone sensation and real activity exists.

Use your brain to succeed and, above all, use your brain to counteract the depressing, discouraging effects of failure.

Remember that if you do as well as you can you have done all that you ought to do. Don't worry about the superior achievements of others. You have no cause for worry unless your life fails to bring you up to your highest possible degree of mental development.

HELPFUL HINTS.

If the covers of the kitchen range get red and will not blacken easily, try rubbing on lemon juice first, then blacken the usual way.

Wall paper which has been marked with grease may be cleansed by means of a hot iron and a blotter or several sheets of tissue paper.

A small brush, borax and hot water will give a beautiful polish to cut glass. When drained rub with a clean cloth or a soft dry brush.

Hang a child's blackboard in the kitchen, with a piece of chalk attached. It is more convenient than pencil and paper and not so easily lost.

It will be economy to finish your sheets with the same width hem at each end. By so doing they can be used either side up and gain much wear.

Whoever has tried to fasten a nail or screw in a plastered wall will welcome a solution to the puzzle. Burrow a hole slightly larger than the screw, fill with plaster of paris and insert the screw in the moist substance. It will be firm in a very short time.

Girls' Ideals.

Girls nowadays seldom care to get married before they are twenty-five. They are willing to get engaged, and many girls say that the ideal life is to live at home, have some business to occupy their time and a fiance to spend his money on their amusement.

Add a little boiling water to the sweet milk used when you are making biscuits, and less shortening will be needed. The result will be quite the same.

"SOLID GOLD" IN LAW.

Meaning of a Puzzling Term in the Jewelry Trade.

The term "solid gold" has been the cause of much discussion on the part of manufacturers of gold articles and of much misapprehension on the part of the public for some time past, and the recent law fixing the commercial definition of the phrase is welcomed on all sides.

According to this law, says the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, 10 carat gold is the commercial "solid gold," and all articles containing more alloy than this or all articles with parts which contain more alloy are henceforth to be known as plated, filled or rolled gold and must be so marked by the manufacturer. For example, a pin with a top of "solid" gold, even to the value of 18 carats, cannot legally be called solid if hinge, hook or pin is not 10 carat gold, while another pin of 10 carats throughout, though of much less intrinsic value than that of 10 carats, is legally "solid gold." This law was made to protect the manufacturing jewelers against the makers and sellers of "phony" jewelry and has been heartily indorsed by the legitimate trade all over the United States.

"It is a law which we have long needed," said a St. Louis wholesale jeweler, "but solid gold is a misnomer, and I for one should be very glad to see the term abandoned and the value stamp used in its place. Commercially speaking, there never was such a thing as 'solid gold'—at least not for the last 200 or 300 years. Some of the ancient jewelry of the Roman and the renaissance periods was made of pure gold, worked up by hand with the crudest tools, and that is, of course, of far greater value on account of the purity of the material as well as its quaint and beautiful workmanship and its antiquity than any modern products of the goldsmith's art.

"But alloy has been used to a constantly increasing extent since, because jewelers found that the harder the gold was rendered by good alloy the greater its wearing qualities and the more secure, therefore, the setting of the gems it contained. Our jewelry now is of 18, 14 or 10 carats, according to the design and character of the article, and it is much more frequently 10 than 18.

"The law requires us to mark on the article itself or on the card to which it is attached the exact value of the gold in all the parts, just as the food manufacturers are now obliged to state the ingredients of the package on the label, and a heavy penalty is attached to the use of the words 'solid gold' if any part of the article contains less than 10 carats of gold.

"There is a bill now being prepared to be introduced at the next Congress to abolish the use of this term and substitute the carat stamp for it, and both wholesale and retail jewelers over the country will work hard for its passage. We believe the term is calculated to deceive, even when fully explained. This bill, if passed, will require manufacturers to stamp all gold articles with the number of carats registered. Half a carat will be allowed for errors, but the manufacturer will have to see that the gold comes within this limit. This would be a great help to the buying public as well as to us, for then everybody could see at once what he is getting and there would not be so many chances for a comeback at us."

Mushroom Breaks Asphalt Walk.

Illustration of the wonderful strength of growing vegetable matter is afforded in a forceful manner by a mushroom brought to the office of the News by T. J. Trustler. The mushroom, which is of the edible kind, grew under the asphalt pavement of the Middle drive. Its strength in growing was sufficient to bulge up the pavement for a radius of more than two inches and finally to break off the hump of asphalt.

Imbedded like a cap in the center of the mass of asphalt is the pileus of the mushroom. This is perfectly formed. The stipe or stem is slender and only slightly bent. The circular piece of asphalt displaced is about four inches in diameter and about an inch and a half thick. The surface is filled with seams and cracks, showing that the asphalt gave way slowly under the gradually increasing pressure of the mushroom beneath.—Indianapolis News.

Dear Coffee.

Louis XIV. of France drank the first cup of coffee made in western Europe. Coffee was then worth £5 10s. a pound.

Ancient Wines.

The wines of the ancients would not be thought palatable today, for they were mixed with sea water, resin, salt, pitch and aromatic herbs, exposed in smoky garrets till reduced to a syrup and then strained and mixed with water.

Heart Strength

Heart Strength, or Heart Weakness, means Nerve Strength, or Nerve Weakness—nothing more. For beauty, not one weak heart in a hundred is, in fact, actually diseased. It is almost always a hidden tiny little nerve that really is all at fault. The chronic nerves—the Cardiac, or Heart Nerve—simply needs, and must have, more power, more stability, more controlling, more governing strength. Without that the Heart must continue to fail, and the stomach and kidneys also have those same controlling nerves.

This clearly explains why, as a medicine, Dr. Shoop's Restorative has in the past done so much for weak and ailing Hearts. Dr. Shoop first sought the cause of all this painful, palpitating, suffocating heart distress. Dr. Shoop's Restorative—this peculiar prescription—is alone directed to these weak and wasting nerve centers. It builds Nerve-strength; it creates real, genuine heart help.

If you would have strong Hearts, strong digestion, strengthen those Nerves—nourishing them as needed, with

The Great Provincial Charity, The Hospital for Sick Children, Calls On You For Aid.

Remember that this Hospital is not a local institution, but Provincial.

"I LIKE PICTURES"

It cares for every sick child in the Province of Ontario whose parents cannot afford to pay for treatment. Busy dollars are better than idle tears. The sympathy that Weeps is good, but the Hospital has to have the sympathy that Works.

Last year there were 1063 patients admitted. Of these 376 came from 251 places outside of Toronto—all were children of poor people who could not afford to pay for treatment of their little ones.

Each child was in the Hospital 47¼ days at a cost of $1.31 each per day, or $62.22 for the 47¼ days stay.

If your dollar could straighten the feet of a little boy or girl with club feet, you would gladly give it, and your dollar will do that. There were 79 cases of club feet treated last year. Out of the 79, about 60 were from the country.

If you know of any child in your county who is sick or has club feet, and whose parents can not afford to pay, send the name to the Hospital Secretary.

The stock books are open. Won't you let the Hospital write your name down for a few shares in Heaven's own work of healing little children?

A great mine of Mercy—the mining stock that always pays dividends—is bought with the money that helps The Hospital for Sick Children to extract the Gold of Life from the Quarts of Death.

Improvements in Snowden House

Work is progressing rapidly on the Snowden House improvements. Already the former partition between the entrance hall and the writing room has been removed, and an archway made, thus turning the hall and that room practically into one. Mr. Fraser, the new proprietor, contemplates many other improvements, including several changes upstairs. In the meantime the former sample room has been turned into a temporary writing and reading room.

Slow Digging on George Street

Talking about hard times, if you want to see something harder than hard times, harder than water from Victoria Springs, harder than Harry K. Thaw thinks his present confinement in the asylum, harder than most anything known as hard, just step up the roadbed where men yesterday began to dig down to a leaking gas pipe in front of Mr. P. Hooper's, lower George street store. Both men, one would disappoint and think steel crowbar as a drill and another striking the drill-head with a heavy sledge hammer, and hardly made an impression on the frozen roadbed. One grumpily remarked, "Say, it would take quite a long time to get through that earth to the Antipodes," to which he of the crowbar said the shortest method, "Boss, if we get through to that gas pipe by March we will do well." On top of the roadbed is a good foot of hard solid ice.

FAT DEFEATING EXTRAORDINARY

MARGARET KNOLLY.

Slender Margaret Knolly now. If you please. The fascinating leading lady of the Bijou, now more fascinating than ever, astonished all her friends on Broadway the other day by presenting to their admiring gaze a svelt and willowy form in place of the plump, not to say fat, outlines with which she gayly sailed away to new triumphs and foreign shores last January. After a good deal of diplomatic cross-examination from interested fat acquaintances the secret was cautiously whispered to a few dear friends, with the result that everybody knows it now. It was not exercise, not fasting, nor sea air, nor worry about her new venture that had brought about this wonderful willowy change in the charming Margaret; no none of these; nothing but a simple mixture which all druggists are familiar with and can supply at small cost, to wit: One-half ounce Marmola, 3-4 ounce Fluid Extract Cascara Aromatic and 4 3-4 ounces of Syrup Simplex. "Grown folks need a tranquonful after meals and at bedtime," explained the now slender Margaret. It is simply wonderful. It takes off the fat quickly, as much as a pound a day, and keeps it off. You can eat what you like, too. In that respect it is unlike anything of the kind I ever heard of, and, besides, it has another splendid feature—it is entirely harmless and will not cause wrinkles. I think it is about as essential a toilet article for the woman who is fat and wants to get thinner as face powder. In order to get the best results, however, you should buy the Marmola in the original package and mix it with the other two ingredients after you get home.

His Health Not Improved

It is said that Hon. Dr. Willoughby, who has many friends in Peterborough, and one of the oldest members of the Legislature, will not be able to take his seat in the House for some time because of bad health, even though an improvement had been looked for so that he could attend to his legislative duties. He was a member of the special commission that went to Europe recently in connection with the report on prison asylums, but even this trip had no beneficial effect upon him.

Woodpeckers Seen Yesterday

A sure sign of the sudden, and badly wanted, changes in temperature yesterday was the appearance of several black-headed woodpeckers at Central and Victoria Parks. These birds, as is generally known, during excessively cold weather lie "perdu" in their snug winter quarters in hollow trees, only venturing out in quest of food when the weather moderates. May these plucky little birds remain in sight for many a day, as this means both warmer weather and the destruction of noxious bugs and beetles.

Laid at Rest

The last sad tokens of respect were paid the late Mr. E. B. Stone, who died recently in California, when his funeral took place on arrival of the C. P. R. train yesterday morning. Services were conducted by Rev. Canon Davidson, rector of St. John's Church, in the Mortuary Chapel at the Little Lake Cemetery. The pallbearers were Messrs. G. W. Hatton, D. O'Connell, E. A. Peck, John Green, Jos. Mills and W. H. Robertson. There was representation of the local bar present, the late Mr. Stone having practised law here for some years.

Phillips-Norley

Yesterday morning a quiet but prettily celebrated wedding was consummated when Rev. E. A. Langfeld united in the holy bonds of matrimony Miss K. Phillips to Mr. Harry C. Norley. The ceremony was witnessed only by the immediate friends and relatives of the contracting parties. The bride was given away by her brother, Mr. George Phillips, of Toronto. She was becomingly gowned in a tailor-made suit of brown broadcloth, with hat to match, and carried a bouquet of white roses. The bride and groom were unattended. Mr. and Mrs. Norley left on the eight a.m. train for western points, and will reside in Welland, Ont.

Baby James Died Suddenly

A sad accident occurred Saturday night or early Sunday morning when the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. James, who live in North Monaghan, just outside the city limits, was smothered in bed. The five months old baby was apparently in good health when put to bed Sunday night and it is thought that he was smothered by the bed clothes. The parents will have the sincere sympathy of friends in their sad bereavement.

St. Paul's Church Weekly Program

There are quite a number of important meetings in connection with St. Paul's Church this week, including the regular weekly prayer meeting, with a talk by Rev. Mr. Pogue to-morrow evening.

The regular monthly meeting of the Faithful Workers' Guild will be held on Thursday afternoon at 4.15 o'clock. The regular monthly meeting of the W. F. M. S. will be held on Friday afternoon at 3.30 o'clock. The annual Sunday school tea will be held on Friday evening. Tea will be served from five to seven o'clock and afterwards a programme will be given.

A Bad Accident

Kingston, Feb. 8. — At the canal works here a sad accident occurred when William Friendship, aged 18 years, while oiling a piece of machinery had his right hand caught in the gearing and before the machine could be stopped the hand and forearm were so badly crushed that it was, on his removal to the hospital, found necessary to amputate the member. He was married but three months ago.

Frozen to Death

New York, Feb. 10.—Frozen to death as they slept before a stove in which the fire had burned itself out, Margaret Berti, 70 years old, and Margaret Kelley, 50, were found to-day in the kitchen of the house at 351 West Seventy-first street, where they were employed as caretakers. The women were sitting in big easy chairs. Mrs. Berti had her head thrown back against the rest, while the gray-haired woman's head lay in her lap. It is believed by the police that they met death while asleep. Dr. Swan of Roosevelt Hospital said he thought they had been dead for three days.

Premonition of Death

New York, Feb. 10.—When a reporter went to the home of Mrs. John Coyle at 604 Sixth avenue, Brooklyn, to notify her that a man carrying her husband's cards had dropped dead on a Bay Ridge train, while crossing the bridge, the gray-haired woman anticipated his message and said:—

"You have come to tell me that my husband is dead. I knew he was going to die. I had three premonitions of it and warned him when he went to work last night to be careful. He laughed at me, but I knew something dreadful was going to happen."

The bereaved wife paused a moment and burst into tears. Recovering immediately she continued:—"I had a warning of this in three dreams, a premonition of death."

MONEY IN A SAFE DEPOSIT BOX OR AN OLD STOCKINGS DOES NOT INCREAE YOUR WEALTH

February, 1908, is here and so is

The Pacific Fruit Cooling and Vaporizing Company, Incorporated, for the purpose of cooling deciduous fruits and removing moisture from citrus fruits and keeping unde cold storage such fruits and other food products from the time of receiving them from the fruit growers until loaded on car and taken away by the Railroad Company for Eastern shipment.

STUBBORN FACTS UNIMPEACHABLE

The loss in shipping deciduous and citrus fruits is enormous. The orange crop of Southern California alone is valued at $30,000,000. The government experts estimate that about 25 per cent. or $7,500,000, is lost every year by rough handling in picking and decay of fruit in transit to the Eastern markets. What a revenue of profit this loss would be to the shipper if it could be saved. Our process will save it. The same is true of the deciduous fruits of Northern California.

GREAT FORTUNES ARE MADE BY INVESTING IN NECESSITIES

Fruit is one of the necessities of our civilized life, and the company that can place the fruit in the markets of the world in the best shape, in the quickest time, at the lowest rate, has a fortune within its grasp. The Armour Company in ten years made $5,000,000 net handling California fruit in refrigerator cars. Our process is as necessary to the fruit grower as the refrigerator car. Therefore we ought to receive as large a revenue for handling the same commodity.

GET IN WHILE THE ENTERPRISE IS NEW

No wiser words were ever spoken than these: "The chief point about getting rich is to invest in a new enterprise that is being managed by successful men, who have some of their own money in the deal." "One good investment is worth a lifetime of labor". Think over this sentence. A man's daily labor will never make him rich. He must have some money at work for him. Money invested never gets sick, keeps no holidays, never goes on strike. There are three things that ought to guide you: First, invest with honest men; second, invest with men of sound judgment; third, invest under conditions where you get your full share of profits the business yields. Get into a company whose destiny is guided by men of this stamp when its future is before and not behind it. Here is the secret of fortune. Plant the seed of your investment in the soil of opportunity, at the season of greatest promise when the enterprise is new. Every ounce of honor in the hearts of the men managing this company is pledged to give

A SQUARE DEAL FOR EVERY INVESTOR

There will be no preferred stock. Every dollar invested will be worth 100 cents on the dollar. Our Directors, as honourable business men, will not allow any tricks of trade by which the small investor can be frozen out. Their commercial standing proves they are not "grafters". The poor man's 100 or 100 shares will have the same standing in court as the rich man's, 10,000, and they will draw the same proportionate dividend. We court investigation.

EVERY RICH MAN IN THE WORLD WAS ONCE POOR, OR HIS GRANDFATHER WAS.

THE OPPORTUNITY OF A LIFETIME

To get into a company that has the certainty of growth, the assurance of large and quick returns, a rapid advance in the price of stock, to make it an exceptional chance for big profits on a small investment. This is an ideal investment for the wage earner as well as the rich man. Moderate sums invested now will bring splendid returns in the near future. The logic of all this is

DON'T WAIT

Time is the essence of this proposition. The stock will certainly double in a short time. Jay Gould once said: "When you see a good investment don't wait to see if it pans out well, for by that time other people see it, too, and you have lost your opportunity."

WOMEN AS INVESTORS

Some of the heaviest stockholders in our company are women of keen business instincts. One lady in Los Angeles bought 5,000 shares. In a few days she returned and bought 5,000 more. This lady has never made a mistake in her business ventures. Women are good investors because they have courage to follow their convictions. Their intuitions are keener and truer than man's logic. Men may prevent her voting, but they can't prevent her drawing dividends on her investments. This is one branch of trade where sex, culture, or color does not count.

MANAGEMENT

The affairs of this company are in the hands of men of honesty, ability, courage and good business judgment—men who have made a success of their own business—men whose business reputation is A1 in the commercial circles in which they move.

These men are "square" and "shrewd". They will not deceive you nor will they be deceived themselves. Because of the promise of growth, permanency and profit this business offers they have united their money, energy, time and business experience to make this enterprise a grand success.

Notwithstanding the Financial Crisis, Investments made Six Months ago have Advanced

150 PER CENT

The next six months promises to far exceed the past six months

If you investigate this proposition you will surely invest.

SHOT HIMSELF AND HIS SON--BOY TRIED TO PROTECT MOTHER

Violent Temper Led to a Determined Attempt to Murder and Suicide--Father is in a Precarious Condition

Woodstock, Feb. 11. — One of the saddest tragedies in the history of Oxford county occurred yesterday morning at the little village of Oriel, nine miles southeast of Woodstock. As a result William Holdsworth, aged 24, is suffering from a charge of shot-gun shot in his hands, the wound inflicted by his father, and Alfred Holdsworth, the father, is horribly injured owing to attempts on his own life, and will probably die.

The family have always borne a good name and were well known throughout the district where they resided. Holdsworth is 55 years of age, and was born in Oxford. His father is Benj. Holdsworth, of London. His wife, who is broken-hearted by the happenings of yesterday, told your correspondent last night that her husband had not been in good health for the past three years, and she made this as some excuse for what he had done. He had never indulged very deeply in intoxicating liquors, she said.

AFRAID TO GO HOME.

The story of the affair is this. On Sunday Holdsworth was sick, cranky and irritable. Mrs. Holdsworth and her twelve-year-old daughter, Rena, expressed their intention of calling at a neighbor's to see a sick baby. The old man refused to let them go, for some reason. They went away, saying they were going to see to the fires at the school, which they tend. Then they went to the neighbor's, and were afraid to go home. Frank Fitch, the neighbor, went to see Holdsworth and interceded for the woman and child, with the result that the old man became quiet. They went home then and everything apparently was all right.

Monday morning the old man got up more irritable than ever. He expressed his intention of whipping Rena. The mother objected, and he threatened to whip her also. Then the son, William, appeared on the scene, and energetically told his father he would not let him touch his mother and sister. The old man ordered this son from the house. William started to go. The father picked up a chair to strike the son, and accelerate his departure. They grappled and the son wrested the chair away. The father promised to behave, but as soon as he got free he went to the bedroom and took down a loaded double-barrelled shot-gun from the wall, and said to the wife and son that he would blow their brains out.

The mother and son ran out of the house. He followed and pointed the gun at his wife. She spoke to him, and he did not shoot. Then he took after the son. The latter ran around the house and into the woodshed, and held the door. Holdsworth raised the gun and shot once through the door. William had his arms against the door, holding it shut, and the shot penetrated his left arm and right hand. He will be laid up for months.

The son then ran through the house and up the road to Fitch's. The old man followed and pointed the gun again at the boy, but did not shoot. Presently he returned to the house. In a few minutes he went to Fitch's place, and his son told him he would make him smart for what he had done.

Holdsworth mourned to his house, and told his wife he was going to shoot himself. She ran out, and Frank Fitch came down just as Holdsworth shot at himself. The shot missed and went into the ceiling. Fitch took the gun away and secured what he thought were all the cartridges in the house. Holdsworth grabbed a bottle of carbolic acid to drink, but Fitch took it from him in time.

SUCCEEDS THIS TIME.

Then the latter went away, leaving the gun. After a while he returned, just in time to see the old man discharge the gun directly into his face. He had found more cartridges that Fitch did not know about. His nose was literally torn away, eyes made sightless, and his whole face terribly torn and shattered. A doctor was called, and the wounds were hastily dressed. All the afternoon the injured man remained alone in the house, and during the night some neighbors stayed with him. He was semi-conscious, but the wounds were of such a nature he could not speak.

County Constable Hobson was put on the case, and went to Oriel with a warrant for the man's arrest, but he could not be moved. The son is being cared for at Fitch's place, and the wife and daughter are with neighbors. The other daughters are married.

SON A HARD WORKER.

If Holdsworth should recover he will be charged with attempted murder and suicide. The wife is a very respectable woman and feels their position very keenly. The son, William, is a hard worker. Holdsworth himself has been working at carpentering jobs. The family lived on a couple of acres in Oriel village, which was nearly paid for.

C. P. R. PLACING STORM FENCES

Toronto, Feb. 12.—The C. P. R. sent a big cut-out plow east last night to widen the cuts between Locust Hill and Peterborough. The snow banks will be thrown well back from the tracks, so that in case of another blizzard it will be easier to clear the line. Also, there will be less danger of the cuts filling in again from a lead wind storm, as large snow fences are being built in Peterborough to prevent blockades.

NINE MEN KILLED BY EXPLOSION OF NITRO-GLYCERINE AT VAUDREUIL

Montreal, Que., Feb. 11.—Nine men met death in an explosion in the plant of the Standard Explosive Company at Isle Perrault, near Vaudreuil, this afternoon.

The explosion occurred at the noon hour, when most of the men were away, otherwise half a hundred lives would have been lost.

There were only nine of the employees in the building at 12.45, when the explosion occurred.

Two big store-houses containing nitro-glycerine blew up, and the nine men in the building adjoining were blown to atoms.

The killed include:
Pierre Menard.
Arthur Legault.
Urgel Lusso.
Trepannier.
Rossau.

MARRIAGE LAW IS HARD TO ENFORCE --BISHOP PUZZLED

The Attachment Between Roman Catholics and Protestants are Not so Easily Broken

Montreal, Feb. 10.—Ne since Archbishop Bruchesi undertook to place the ban on mixed marriages by refusing to allow them to be performed by a Roman Catholic priest has there been so much discussion about it as since it became known that Miss Delhellefuille Strathy, a descendant of the famous old French-Canadian family of Delhellefuilles, had been married to Mr. James G. Lewis by Rev. Dr. Barclay, the pastor of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church. Ever since the engagement was announced it was felt by close friends of the family that the peculiar circumstances surrounding it would result in either a dispensation being obtained, or an arrangement being made by which the parties might go into one of the adjoining dioceses where mixed marriages were permitted by the bishop, and the ceremony performed by a priest. The peculiar circumstances surrounding the engagement were that while Mrs. Strathy and her daughter, Miss Strathy, were Catholics, Mr. Strathy and the male members of the family were Protestants. Then, again, while the groom, Mr. Lewis, was a Protestant, his first wife had been a Catholic, and it was intended that the only issue of this marriage, a boy, would have been brought up a Catholic. Since the death of his mother, there have been few opportunities of having him instructed, and it was believed his intended step-mother would see that he was educated a Catholic. It was thought that on this account some exception would be made to the new law.

The account given by close friends of the family of the first interview Mr. Gordon Strathy, the father of the bride, had with Archbishop Bruchesi is particularly interesting. Mr. Strathy said he knew about the law but wanted to know if His Grace could not offer some suggestion, as his daughter was particularly anxious to have the ceremony performed by a priest. When His Grace replied that he could not, Mr. Strathy remarked to this that the young folks had fully made up their minds that they were going to get married.

Even after the interview it was thought the matter would be arranged by going into an adjoining diocese where the Strathys were said to have property, and in the meantime the utmost secrecy was maintained regarding the probable date of the wedding. Even on the day of the wedding, the lady editor of one of the local papers rang up Miss Strathy and asked if she could mention the date, but, although it was then only a few hours before the ceremony, Miss Strathy said she could not tell her, although it would be some time during the week.

Now, while the marriage ceremony, performed by Rev. Dr. Barclay is recognized by the State, it is not recognized at all by the Catholic church, of which Miss Strathy is a member, and there is much interest as to what action the Archbishop will take regarding such marriages. In practice the new law is proving a very difficult one, as where there is an attachment between two young people, and they happen to be of different denominations, people continue to ask the question, "What can you do about it, anyway?"

Took Fling at Hotelmen

A hotelman yesterday took a fling at the arguments of the "reductionists" that the hotels will be equally profitable minus their licenses.

"What happened the Rossin House on Bay street?" he asked. "It was a large building and well managed, and its proprietors were actively prominent in the temperance cause in Toronto.

"But when temperance orators and visiting clergymen came to town, did they patronize that hotel? Not they. Even Moody preferred the Rossin House to the welcoming portals of temperance hostelry, and the Robinson House degenerated into a cheap boarding house and then into decay."—Toronto World.

Chinaman Has 27 Children

Vancouver, Feb. 11.—There are now one hundred and seven Orientals attending the Central School, which is nearest the Chinese district. It is proposed to open a special room for them, as many Orientals of from eighteen to twenty years of age are sitting alongside Canadian children of six and seven. Of the total number not less than fifty Chinese are putting in study specially to evade the head tax of five hundred dollars, and establish a special privilege as students. Vancouver, too, in this connection, easily holds the palm for the size of a family attending school. Twenty-seven of the Chinese boys and girls in the Central school are sons and daughters of Yip Sang, a prominent Chinese merchant, who has three wives living and several others dead, and whose children are of school age.

Twent-Seven Children Hurt While Coasting Two of Them May Die

Over a Score were on Bodsleigh when the Accident Occurred

Dashed Into a Line Pole

Pittsburg, Pa., Feb. 11. — Twenty-seven persons were injured, two probably fatally, in coasting accidents in Greater Pittsburg during the past 24 hours. 21 of them in one accident, on the north side, and five in another accident in the same section.

Twenty-five boys and several girls started for Brighton road, down the Marshall avenue hill on a four-board sled, about fifteen feet long, last night. The weight of the crowd and the grade of the hill carried the sled at an uncontrollable speed. For over 300 feet it dashed, and when George Becker, the guide, tried to drop the chain, it refused to work.

There is a curve at the foot of the hill. Here the sled took a sudden turn, crashing into a telegraph pole.

Ten of those who occupied the front part of the sled were hurled clear to the street car tracks, fifty feet away. Two were injured so seriously they may die. Others sustained broken limbs, cuts, and other minor hurts.

Precaution in Dealing with Smallpox

Dr. R. W. Bell, a former local practitioner, but now provincial health inspector, is authority for saying that in the cities of Belleville and Brockville several cases of smallpox have been in evidence, but now cured. There are also a few cases of this loathsome disease in the counties of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry. A joint meeting was held of the councils of the three counties, and the precautions necessary for dealing with smallpox were explained. Dr. Bell has just returned after an official trip through the infected districts.

New York, Feb. 10.—Aurelia Lightbourne, a fourteen year old colored nurse girl, who is a prisoner in the Nassau County Jail at Mineola, L. I., charged with assault in the second degree, yesterday made a full confession to Assistant District Attorney Coles concerning her reasons for making two year old Robert Purdy, her charge, swallow pins, needles, matches and other materials to make the child ill.

"I have been working for Mr. W. A. Purdy, at Rockville Centre," she said. "I had his son Robert in charge. A few months ago Robert began to cry at nights and I had to get up to attend to him. I got tired of this thing. I wanted sleep so I hit on the plan to give him the matches and the pins and the other things. That kind of stuff made him sick, and Mrs. Purdy had to take care of him.

"It wasn't only because the baby made me lose sleep that I gave him the pins and matches. I'd come to like dances, and parties, and socials, and get acquainted with a lot of white folks who liked me. I wanted to go to their affairs, but because Robert needed attention I couldn't get off nights. So by making the boy sick and making Mrs. Purdy nurse him, I managed to get away many nights.

"The Purdys never would have known, I guess, just what was the matter with Robert if a minister had not come to Rockville Centre to start a religious revival and get money enough to build a Baptist church for colored people. The minister converted me, and my conscience bothered me so much that I just had to go to Mr. Purdy and confess that I'd almost killed Robert just to get a few nights off. Mr. Purdy had me arrested.

GIRL SHOT DEAD IN A STREET CAR

Killed by Young Man

New York, Feb. 10.—A girl of the underworld, known to her companions only as "Queenie," about 17 years old, and decidedly pretty, was shot and almost instantly killed while riding on a north bound Second avenue car at Eighth street early to-day. A young man who was sitting opposite the girl in the car fired the shot, the police say, and then made his escape. So far the only clue the police have is that the murderer had a light grey overcoat. Two girls, who said they were Mabel Cousins of Lyndhurst, N. J., and Helen Sullivan of this place, and the motorman and conductor of the car have been detained as witnesses.

Queenie and the two other girls, accompanied by two young men, one of whom wore the gray overcoat, boarded the car at Brooklyn Bridge.

At first the snap cut across the chin from the girl's, but soon the man in the black overcoat crossed over and sat between Queenie and the Cousins girl, and at the same time the man in the gray overcoat asked Queenie to come over and sit by him. She refused and he reached over and tried to pull her out of the seat.

While they were struggling, the Cousins girl startlingly resembled for his watch and fob. They were found in her pocket at the police station, but the detectives who had impounded returning them.

Just what caused the shooting has not yet been learned. Those who were on the car say that the first intimation they had of any serious trouble was when they heard a shot and looked around to see the man in the gray coat standing with a revolver partly concealed by a handkerchief held in his hand. Queenie had half risen from her seat, with her hand pressed to her breast, and as the man with the revolver dashed from the car she toppled over to the floor dead. The other man also made his escape.

The Cousins and Sullivan girls declare they knew neither of the men, and knew very little about the dead girl.

LONGBOAT NOT IN DEERFOOT CLASS.

London, Feb. 8.—Alfred Shrubb, interviewed, says Tom Longboat is not in the same street as Deerfoot. He says Longboat is a good stayer, but looks speed, and that a man with short strides could run him off his feet. He says he is improperly trained. Shrubb returns to Canada in the spring.

Incipient Blaze in the East Ward

Yesterday afternoon about 4.30 fire alarm No. 54, situated at the corner of Mark and Hunter street east, brought out the brigade who within three minutes after the bell rang had the hose waggon train crossing Hunter street bridge at the gallop. The fire was ascertained to be in the private residence, a small two-storey brick house at 434 Mark street. The fire brigade quickly entered by the kitchen door and found the premises filled with a smoke so dense one could not see across the room. However, nothing daunted, the firemen forced their way up a pantry off the kitchen, the shelving, doors and woodwork of which were merrily burning. To get a Babcock to work took less time than it does to write the word Babcock. This quickly extinguished the incipient conflagration.

A strange feature of this fire was the absolute impossibility of ascertaining how the fire originated. The fire started in a large cupboard off the kitchen at a good many feet distant from the stove. There is an electric light wire in the cupboard, but the fire evidently did not take its origin there. Again it was thought it might have been mice robbing matches, but a pasteboard box full of matches was on the top cupboard shelf and the covering was not burnt through. The fire was discovered by Mr. Stewart Armstrong, a boarder, who, happening to enter the then vacant house, saw smoke pouring out and gave the alarm. Mr. Kerr, who lives at the place and operates a grocery store on Hunter street east, had just completed painting the house at a large expense. The doors were blistered almost out of recognition. A sad little incident was that the family pet canary, confined in a cage suspended from the kitchen ceiling, was smothered to death. This gave rise to a ridiculous rumor current among the crowd as the fire that a child had been smothered to death; this, however, was only the canary bird. The loss will probably approximate $60, fully insured.

Confidential Chats With the Beauty Specialists

"Yes," said the Beauty Doctor, adjusting a lock of her fashionably coloured auburn hair, "lots and lots of women will undergo treatment that is almost torture in order to correct some of Nature's mistakes." "And yet," she continued, "a too retroussé nose, a rather too large mouth or an imperfect contour of the face are all forgotten if the complexion is blooming and the glow of health is in the skin."

"And, by the way," she said, "now I am out of the profession, here is the formula that has given many of my most charming clients their brilliant complexions.

"Take two ounces of Rose water, one ounce of Cologne spirits and four ounces of Eppotone (skin food). Put the Eppotone in a pint of hot water (not boiling), and after dissolved, strain, and let cool. Then add the rose water and cologne spirits. You now have at a slight cost the finest thing for the complexion that money can buy, and enough to last you for months.

"This wash is absolutely harmless to the most delicate skin, and it gives back to the faded complexion the natural glow of youth."

"Oh, yes, you can make any use you like of this formula."

No! I'm not going back into the business. I'm going to take my own treatment and enjoy a little of the good things which come to a woman who knows how to make herself attractive."

Toronto, Feb. 11.—A fire which did about $30,000 damage, broke out shortly after midnight in the basement of 760-762 Queen street east, a store occupied by H. W. Bowles, as to 5, 10 and 15-cent store, and spread to the basements of 758 and 764, and to the millinery store of Miss Barrett and under an empty store just vacated by Alfred West, tailor.

The fire was discovered by A. Cappa, who keeps a neighboring cigar store. He saw the reflection of flames in the basement windows of the Bowles store and ran at top speed to the corner of Broadview and Queen to turn in the alarm.

ROUSED THE OCCUPANTS.

Then he rushed back and ran upstairs to waken the inmates of the eight different apartments over the burning stores.

The greatest danger to them was the danger of suffocation by smoke. The fire, though confined to the basements, had a firm hold there, and had by this time eaten its way into the basement of Miss Barrett's millinery store.

W. H. Bowles and his wife were the first to get to the street. They came down the front stairs, and, dressed only in their night clothes, made their way through the snow to the Poplar Hotel, where Mrs. Bowles was well cared for. In the meantime the other people had made their way out by the rear. The building has a large double verandah connected with the ground by wide stairways, and once out of the smoke all danger was past.

The two basements of the Bowles and Barrett stores were completely in flames, and the fire was rapidly working its way through a small opening into the basement of the empty store.

HYDRANT WAS FROZEN.

The fire brigade first attempted to the west of the burning buildings, but got water from the hydrant just to found it frozen. The next one was, however, clear, and water was immediately turned on. The blaze was fairly well confined to the back, and Miss Barrett showed the brigade the best way to get at it. As many as four streams were got at work, most of them from the rear.

A sheet sweep of Bowles' store was made. The pressure of water smashed the plate glass windows, and the contents were thrown all over the street. Dolls, tin pails, granite ware, coffee pots, and chairs poured out of the broken window, driven by the water pressure behind as far as the other side of the car tracks. For five hours and a half the brigade worked; this morning they say that it is little short of a miracle that the whole Barrett block is not in ruins, as firm a hold had the fire on the basements.

THE CAUSE NOT KNOWN.

What caused it is not known. No electric wiring is used anywhere in the block, except in Bowles' display window.

"I had no idea how it happened," said Miss Barrett this morning. "In one part of my cellar there is a wooden partition, lathed and plastered, and a year ago the gas jet was set into this. But later the jet was moved over to the other side of the cellar and set in between the two boilers which warm the whole block. You can see for yourself that the wooden joists of the cellar nearest to the furnace are not burned very badly, although they are scorched."

BASEMENTS FLOODED.

It is pretty hard to form any idea of the cause of the fire, as there is about three feet of water in both basements.

The cellar of the Bowles shop was particularly well equipped with fire-fighting apparatus. There were dum extinguishers there and a hose ready laid, ready to be used in any emergency. Mr. Bowles' idea was that in the event of fire being discovered even the girls employed in the store could extinguish it. Had the fire broken out by day it would have been mastered in a few minutes with the apparatus on hand.

The interior of the Bowles store is a total wreck. On the west side the floor has given way and fallen into the basement. Miss Barrett's millinery store is not much better, but the other stores have suffered very little. The basement of the Barrett shop was used by the Bowles as an extra store room.

"I can't say exactly what my loss will be," said Mr. Bowles. "About $15,000 I should think. I allowed an extra $2,000 to lapse just at Christmas. The new stock, which is still boxed in the back yard, is, of course, all right. My loss will be particularly heavy as this store was my main storage place, and was the supply store for my other one at 302 Queen street west. It's the first set-back I've had since I went into business."

MISS BARRETT OWNS BUILDING.

Miss Barrett, who owns the block, was just moving into No. 766 from 758. All her stock of millinery at the latter number is totally ruined. She estimates her loss at about $10,000 on her stock, and on the smudge to the stores burned.

A Most Valuable Agent.

The glycerine employed in Dr. Pierce's medicines greatly enhances the medicinal properties which it extracts from native medicinal roots and holds in solution much better than alcohol would. It also possesses medicinal properties of its own, being a valuable demulcent, nutritive, antiseptic and antiferment. It adds greatly to the efficacy of the Black Cherry-bark, Bloodroot, Golden Seal root, Stone root and Queen's root combined in "Golden Medical Discovery." In subduing chronic, or lingering coughs, bronchial, throat and lung affections, for all of which these agents are recommended by standard medical authorities.

In all cases where there is a wasting away of flesh, loss of appetite, with weak stomach, as in the early stages of consumption, there can be no doubt that glycerine acts as a valuable nutritive and aids the Golden Seal root, Stone root, Queen's root and Black Cherrybark in promoting digestion and building up the flesh and strength, controlling the cough and bringing about a healthy condition of the whole system. Of course, it must not be expected to work miracles. It will not cure consumption except in its earlier stages. It will cure very severe, obstinate, hang-on chronic coughs, bronchial and lung affections, and chronic, deep-seated blood troubles, and chronic, deep-seated blood disorders. In acute coughs it is not so effective. It is in the lingering, hang-on coughs, or those of long standing, even when accompanied by bleeding from lungs, that it has performed its most marvelous cures.

"In dyspepsia it serves an excellent purpose. Holding a fixed quantity of the peroxide of hydrogen in solution, it is one of the best manufactured products of the present time in its action upon carbuncles, disordered stomaches, especially if there is mucous or catarrhal gastritis (catarrhal inflammation of stomach), it is a most efficient preparation. Glycerine will relieve many cases of pyrosis (heartburn) and excessive gastric (stomach) acidity."

"Golden Medical Discovery" enriches and purifies the blood curing blotches, pimples, eruptions, scrofulous swellings and old sores or ulcers.

Send to Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., for free booklet telling all about the world's medicinal plants employed in this wonderful medicine. There is no alcohol in it.

THE IRREPRESSIBLE QUESTION

The London imTes recently told the people of Australia that in dealing with the question of Oriental immigration the people of the Commonwealth would have to bear in mind that they owed their present status to British protection and this has led the Sydney Morning Herald to say :—

It might as well be plainly and definitely understood in England, once and for all, that, at whatever cost, the Commonwealth will determinedly adhere to the white ideal. If the mother country's protection were withdrawn Australia might or might not be able to assert herself, but we should make the attempt; there is no possibility of compromise. Asiatic exclusion is a life-and-death matter for a small white community within jumping-off distance of the teeming Orient. In declaring for a white Australia we have at stake Western civilization, our breed, and our institutions. A white Australia keeps one of the finest stretches of the world's surface for the British race, which is the greatest service to the British connection of which we can conceive ourselves capable.

This is pretty plain speaking. It is all very well to cry "peace, peace, when when there is no peace." The issue is upon it and its solution is past finding out. In connection with another phase of it the following from the London Times is of great interest :—

The wrongs of the Transvaal Indian community will soon be known and brooded over by the dumb millions who look to us as all-powerful in India, and, when the evil is done, will be used for all they are worth by the agitators against our rule. And the worst of it is that their grievance will be just. Nor can we wash our hands of the business by casting the responsibility on the Colonial Government, for Mr. Harold Cox points out with undeniable force that His Majesty's Ministers specially reserved the right of the Imperial Government to deal with questions of this nature. Even now, while there is yet time, we hope that a statesman who has the honor and well-being of the whole Empire at heart will be found in South Africa able, by tact and justice, to avert such a calamity as would be the deportation of even a few loyal Indians, for it can hardly be imagined that the whole 10,000 in the country would be expelled from a British colony. It is not for us to suggest a definite way out of the impasse; but a moratorium in the execution of the law until the Transvaal Parliament meets again would at least afford time for sober reflection and consultation before irreparable mischief is done.

The serious conditions due to the spread of tuberculosis are indicated by Dr. Chisholm's statement that forty-nine out of every fifty Canadians suffering from the disease are still unprovided with accommodation in sanitaria. They are outside, spreading the disease among their fellows. Forty thousand Canadians are afflicted with tuberculosis today, and 7,000 die from it every year. Tuberculosis is largely preventible, and the dissemination of sanitary knowledge is an effective instrument to that end. Typhoid and other deadly diseases are largely avoidable by proper precautions. Public ignorance is in great part responsible for the large mortality from common ailments. The need for an energetic and persistent remedial policy seems to be fully established.

News in Brief

FOUR BURNED TO DEATH.

New Richmond, Que., Feb. 5. — A very sad fatality occurred here this afternoon by which four lives were lost. Shortly after one o'clock the residence of Andrew Campbell, aged 74, a well-to-do farmer, took fire, and he, as well as his daughter-in-law, Christina Ames, of St. Godfrey, aged 30, and her two children, aged respectively two years and four months, perished in the flames. The origin of the fire is unknown. Young Mr. Campbell was in his barn when the fire started, and can throw no light on the mystery. His mother-in-law, Mrs. Ames, escaped, but was so seriously burned it is feared she will not recover. The loss is estimated to be about $2,000. There was no insurance on the building or contents.

CHILD FROZEN TO DEATH.

Aurora, Ill., Feb. 5. — An Aurora couple, who are devoted to fresh air, slept soundly last night while their girl baby, four weeks old, was chilled to death by the frigid atmosphere which came in by way of an open window.

Mr. and Mrs. Gross retired last night at 10.30 o'clock after wrapping their sleeping infant in warm blankets as protect it from the cold as it lay in its cradle.

They slumbered deeply until early this morning, when Mrs. Gross was roused by a foreboding that all was not well with her little girl. She jumped out of bed and struck a light, and her first glance was arrested by a sight of the baby rigid in death.

Horrified, she awakened her husband and sent him racing after a physician while she worked frantically to bring back a spark of life. But her efforts were unavailing.

QUESTION OF RACES.

London, Feb. 5. — The Times, discussing the colored immigration question, points out that settlements in Canada and Transvaal are only temporary, and says surely it is time to establish some body more fully in touch with the various communities and races composing the empire, than the cabinet. The question, with its enormous risks, is important enough for a colonial conference, but if that is too much to ask for, a permanent secretarial might at least have a way for a commission which should elaborate an imperial scheme to anticipate and avert evil by a common understanding.

BERLIN, N.B., ON FIRE.

Berlin, N.B., Feb. 5. — A conflagration is raging here to-night, and at the time this despatch is transmitted, its extent cannot be estimated. Assistance has been asked for from Portland and Lewiston.

The fire broke out about 10 o'clock in Burbanks' furniture establishment and spread with rapidity, and has almost entirely wiped out all buildings on Exchange and Main streets. The Berlin National Bank, Post Office, Central Telephone office, Garrish block, Green block, Gilbert property, and a residence are among those destroyed.

The fire has taken hold of the building adjoining the telegraph office and the operator must abandon the office.

Berlin, N.B. Feb. 6.—At midnight the first fire was under control, and the department were striving to control a second fire which started at 10 p.m. It was controlled at one o'clock. The total loss of the two fires is estimated at about two hundred thousand dollars.

Detroit, Feb. 6.—Percy Bowles, of Woodville, Ont., the slayer of Mrs. Cornelia Welch, was taken sick in the jail Thursday night, and was so bad yesterday that County Physician Grimes was called.

Bowles has a high fever, caused, it is thought, by disappointment over the non-arrival of his mother. He has been moody and fretful for the past few days, and has frequently retired to his cell to cry like a child.

Attorney Kennedy appeared before Judge Phelps yesterday morning and announced that he would make a motion to-day to quash the information on the ground that the police obtained the confession by holding out false inducements, and that the boy should have been given a preliminary examination in the police court. Bowles' illness may make a difference in this plan. Kennedy contends that he must have more time in which to prepare for the trial.

Toronto, Feb. 3.—As he was taking a recess on the Hamilton express from Hamilton to Toronto yesterday, two foreigners relieved Herbert Ford, 167 Lisgar street, of $274, jumped off at Burlington, tapped on the window and waved him a fond farewell.

When the train started Ford was wide awake and wondered about the two men waving at him. He felt for $274, his savings for some time, which he had drawn from the bank to take a trip to New York. The money was gone, and so was a brand new grip filled with clothing.

As soon as he arrived in the city he notified the detective department, giving a description of the men he thinks got his money.

Ford was a bartender at the St. Alban's Hotel, Bathurst and Bloor.

A Business Proposition!

FOR BUSINESS MEN AND WOMEN

I want business men and women who have money to invest to write me for particulars.

I have an absolutely clean and safe deal that has been tested and proved by actual experience.

It will pay over $600 yearly income on every $1,000 invested. (Over $100 yearly on each $200 invested) yet is not a racing or gambling scheme, but a straight, legitimate, profitable, honest business you would be proud to be identified with.

It needs more money to run it on a large scale, hence this offer to you who have money and the business sense and acumen to share in this good thing.

I have submitted particulars of this deal to the proprietors and editors of this paper; they are business men and have approved it because it is safe, sound and clean, and the promises made are straight and reasonable.

When you read these particulars I believe you will approve and be glad you investigated. No matter if you have $5,000 or $10,000 to invest or only $100 or $200, it applies equally to all. It is a

for Business Men and Women of sense and discrimination. THIS MEANS YOU.

Write at once; write now, before you forget, stating about the amount you have for investment, and I will promptly send you a personal reply with the clearest and most concise facts and particulars.

Galbraith Coal Co., Ltd.

Non-personal Liability

Capital, $250,000.00 — 1,000,000 Shares 25c. each.

Good coal stock is a safe and sure investment. Galbraith shares are especially attractive.

Modest Capitalization — Large Coal Reserves

This Company organized under the laws of the Northwest Territories of Canada, owns and operates the Galbraith mine located at Lundbreck, Alta. They have four vertical seams of coal traversing their property, aggregating over 40 feet in thickness. Three of these seams are developed to a depth of 350 feet, and as they pass through the Company's lands for nearly a mile, some idea of the amount of coal may be had.

Shipping Steadily

The present output of the mine is about 200 tons per day. These shipments will be rapidly increased, as the C.P.R. allows its cars to be loaded with coal for points in the U. S.

in blocks of 100 or over. Tight money in the States makes it possible for us to give this unprecedented offer in stock that will be paying dividends inside of six months, and you are sure to realize a handsome profit.

Parties ordering can send money by P. O. Orders, Express Orders or Bank Drafts, and we will have the stock issued direct to you. Full information furnished on request. Correspondence solicited. Reference, Bank of Montreal

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTHWEST HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an Agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of a homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father or mother.

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing must be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa, of intention to apply for patent.

Lincoln's Reason.

One afternoon when Lincoln was presiding word came to the war department from the provost marshal at Portland, Me., that Henry Jameson, the Confederate secret service agent, was on his way to New York, where he had engaged passage for England. The war department was at once all astir. Charles A. Dana, then assistant secretary of war, received the message and hastened at once to consult with Secretary of War Stanton, says the Ladies' Home Journal.

"How do you advise me to act in this matter?" queried Dana.

"Arrest the man at once," was Stanton's reply; "but you had better see the president before you proceed further."

Dana went immediately to the White House. As he was a frequent visitor he was readily admitted to Lincoln's private room.

"What is it, Dana?" asked the president as the secretary came in.

Dana told about the incident and asked the president what ought to be done.

"Well," was the quiet reply, "you say Jameson will soon leave the country?"

"Yes, sir; he will escape within a few hours if nothing is done to stop him. My purpose is to arrest him."

"Well," was the president's reply, "when you have a white elephant on your hands and he's doing his level best to get away, why not have him stay, Dana?"

And Jameson was let alone.

The Mistaken Identity of Tommy

By ADDIE P. MITCHELL.

Copyright, 1897, by R. G. Pressells.

Mrs. Vaughn put down the letter she had been reading, with a troubled little sigh. Her daughter Madge looked up from the step.

"What's the matter, mother? You look as if you had been reading your death warrant."

"I have—the death warrant of our summer's peace. Aunt Mary North writes to ask if we won't keep her Tom while she and Mr. North go abroad for the summer."

"Who's her Tom?" asked Madge unexpectedly.

"Her stepson. I've met Aunt Mary since she married Mr. North, and I know next to nothing of the North family. But Mrs. Wilson knew Mr. North when they were living in Chicago (that was in the time of the first Mrs. North), and she said there were two girls and a boy. The boy was in kilts then, and that was five years ago, so he must be about eight or nine years old. Aunt Mary says he has been ill with typhoid and that she remembers with hope for his health that the air at Pinecroft is healing."

"But we can't have him, mother. Think of having an eight-year-old boy on our hands the whole summer! We can never get enough cooked for him to eat, and he'll be drowned regularly once a week and break all his arms and legs on the other days. And I wanted a quiet, heavenly rest this summer before I have to go back to that awful office. And it will be—well, the other kind of a time with a Tommy around, that is certain."

"But, Madge, I can't refuse Aunt Mary. She was your father's favorite aunt and always so good to him. No, Tommy will have to come, whether we want him or not."

"Well, then, when?"

"The letter says next Tuesday unless they hear from us that it is not convenient."

"Tell Aunt Mary I have the smallpox or that I died suddenly at the news—anything. Please, mother!"

"I was wondering," said her mother, "whether an eight-year-old boy would be afraid to sleep in a room by himself. Shall we put a bed in the alcove off my room or fix up the south chamber?"

"Al the boys I've ever seen," answered Madge, "were afraid neither of the things under the earth nor of those upon it. [illegible] to himself, and then you'll be saved the everlasting clutter of fishing tackle and knives and toads and things in your room."

Still grumbling, Madge helped her mother get ready the south chamber. As she worked she grew interested and even took from the walls of her own room some interesting prints which she thought would be suitable for a boy's room.

"I can't see, though, why Aunt Mary didn't take the little wretch abroad with her—the sea air would do him good. Take out all the fancy things, mother, as you value them."

"If you only understood big boys as well as you seem to understand the small ones you would not be twenty-four and still single," teased her mother.

"I do, mother," said Madge vehemently. "I understand them altogether too well, and that's the very reason I am still single."

There was no immediate reply to this, and Mrs. Vaughn turned her attention to the room.

"Get all your old picture books and put them on that shelf, Madge, and I think I'll bring Jim's old hobbyhorse down from the attic. He may despise it, but you never can tell."

"I suppose I could make him some kites," said Madge. "There's all that red and blue paper and miles of yellow string. Perhaps if I make a big one he'll get fastened to it and fly off to Mars. And while I'm up in the attic I'm going to bring down some of Jim's old overalls."

Arrangements were finally completed, and Madge rather looked forward to the coming of the little boy, so that when Tuesday came she willingly drove to the station for him, though she protested that St. Lawrence and his griffins were as nothing to the torment she was undergoing. She took along a bag of cookies, "just to stop up his mouth so he can't ask questions," she explained.

The train was late, and Madge got a little cross as she waited in the open trap with the hot sun beating down upon her. The pony was restless, and she dared not leave him to go inside of the station. When the train finally steamed in, however, she gave the reins to a porter and went to find her young charge. She watched the few who came out of the coaches nervously, with one eye on the dancing pony, but as far as she could see no small boy was on the train. Fearing that he had not heard the name of the station called, she spoke to the conductor, who told her that no such person was on the train.

"Well," she thought, "I suppose I should be glad of it," and was going back to the trap when it occurred to her that he might come any have got past her into the station and might be waiting for her there. She looked in. No one was there but a very tall young man, who was leaning back rather limply against the seat, pale as from a recent illness. Madge gave him more than a passing glance because she wondered who he might be. Then she caught sight of the [illegible] was a puppy.

"Lovely pup," she muttered, "or a little dear." She was getting into the cart when a quiet "I beg your pardon" caused her to wheel around. The strange young man, hat in hand, was evidently speaking to her. She merely looked her surprise.

"Are you not Miss Vaughn, and weren't you expecting me?" Her blue eyes widened into a positive stare of amazement.

"I—I am Madge Vaughn, but you—you cannot be mistaken," she said.

"I am Dr. North—Tom North, my mother wrote." He was [illegible] a little at the coarseness of her reception.

"You—you are little Tommy? Why"— She began to laugh merrily, and the young man laughed, too, a bit stiffly, for he did not understand the joke. "You have the advantage of me," he said.

Madge colored at his tone and realized that she was not displaying any marked hospitality. She held out a repentant hand, which the young man took eagerly. "We're sort of cousins, I guess," she said. "Anyway, if you are Tommy North we've been looking for you, so get in, and we'll start."

"I can go away if it is not convenient," protested the man.

"Convenient! After I've worked for three days getting picture books and kites and little blue overalls ready for you? No, sir; you will have to use all those things."

"You see," she explained as she drove along, "we got the impression from some one that you were about eight years old. Your mother never mentioned your age or height, and so we got ready for a small boy, and—and here are some cookies I brought along so that you would not ask questions on the way home." She thrust a paper bag into his hands.

They were both laughing like children as they drove in at the gate, and by the time explanations were made to Mrs. Vaughn the young man was thankful that the surprise had happened. He felt that it had been a good thing to take Madge by surprise, for when two people have laughed together they have rapidly progressed in their acquaintance.

On the very first day Mrs. Vaughn had looked at the two with comprehension in her eyes, and as the weeks grew into months she felt reasonably sure that Madge would never go back to the office.

"Why should she," whispered the elder woman to herself, "when a prosperous young physician is not only willing, but obviously anxious, to monopolize her?"

The day before he was scheduled to go back to the city a new man by reason of Pinecroft air and agreeable companionship they took the big red and blue kite to the top of a nearby hill to fly it. It soared clear above the trees as the man slowly unwound the long yellow string. The girl watched it rather sadly, for as yet there had been no word of love between them and she realized that she had grown to care so much that it was hard not to let him see it. She felt glad, though, that she had not let him see it, because there might be another girl in the city to whom he was bound, and she—well, she had her work at the office. The tears had come into her eyes, and now they splashed over. The young man looked up just in time to catch sight of them, and, letting the string go, he turned and caught her in his arms.

"Dear," he whispered, "what is it?" She did not speak, but she did not try to get away either, and after a moment he said:

"Is it because I am going away—is it, Madge?" She shook her head.

"Why, then," he urged, "tell me." Suddenly she began to laugh—a soft little laugh that made the man hold her closer.

"I was only wondering," she said, "whether or not there was a girl"—

"You bet there is," he interrupted, "and I've got her right where I want her." Which sentence, slangy as it was, seemed to be wholly satisfactory to Madge.

German silver is a brass containing from fifteen to twenty-five parts of nickel in each hundred.

Spiders.

The spiders that spin webs are in an infinite minority compared with those which do not. Ground spiders, as the spin spanners are called, abound everywhere and depend on agility and swiftness of foot to catch their prey.

Vanilla comes from a genus of climbing orchid which grows plentifully in the tropics.

A Sea Story.

The good ship Fair Wind was bowling along before the northwest trade. The captain was in the galley peeling potatoes for the mess's dinner; the mate was swabbing down the poop; the cook was shooting the sun and the apprentices were merrily shooting holes in the skylight with chunks of plum duff.

"There she blows!" cried the man in the crow's nest.

Instantly all was excitement.

"There what blows?" yelled the skipper.

"The wind," answered the lookout, with a hoarse laugh.

The captain burst into tears.

"I sailed aboard my own ship," he wept, but his tears were interrupted by a wild yell from the forecastle.

"Land ho!"

"Whereaway?" cried the skipper.

"At the bottom." A sneering laugh from the hands.

"Pooled again," said the captain tearfully. And with a plunge over the side he was gone.—New York

DR. HAMILTON SPEAKS ON WOMAN'S HEALTH

The reputation of this noted physician needs no commend. Few years he was one of the most noted and distinguished practitioners in England. In speaking of the ills from which women suffer, Dr. Hamilton points out that nine out of every ten women are by nature inclined to habitual constipation. Harsh purgatives are resorted to which only intensify the trouble. Although not generally known, it is a constipated condition of the bowels that causes half the sickness and tired weariness with which all womankind is so familiar. It was after long years of study that Dr. Hamilton perfected the pills which have been of such marvelous benefit to women the world over. In his pills of Mandrake and Butternut every sufferer will find an absolute specific for constipation, sick headache and biliousness. It is safe to say that Dr. Hamilton's Pills bring better health and keep the system in a more vigorous condition than any other medicine ever discovered. At all dealers, in 25c boxes.

Valuable Hen Fruit Smashed

Yesterday morning as an Otonabee farmer was delivering some potatoes to a customer on King street his team took fright at something and ran away. The box of the sleigh was knocked off and a couple of bags of potatoes were strewn on the ground. A dozen of fresh eggs for another customer were smashed. The horses stopped voluntarily after running about a quarter of a mile.

Unique Funeral Procession

A peculiar terminus of a funeral, that would be depicted by the London Graphic as a typical Canadian incident, occurred a few days ago at Allandale. It seems that the cemetery there is situated about a mile and a half from the Roman Catholic church. The roads were so heavy that it was impossible to get the hearse through to the place of interment, so the bearers placed the coffin in a toboggan, and there they mounted on snow-shoes, fulfilled fulfilled their sad duties, after dragging their load the whole way to the cemetery.

Lindsay Man's Narrow Escape

A Lindsay citizen, by name Harold Wallace, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Wallace, of Cottonne street, had an adventure night before last that will probably impress him more than a whole encyclopedia of sport and travel. It seems that the young man, who has charge of a South Venetian School, with Arthur Philps, a missionary at Bobcaygeon, walked from that home of the Bob. Ind. on snowshoes to Lindsay. On arrival at Baker's mill they separated. Mr. Wallace making for Cottonne street. Whilst crossing the river ice he suddenly sank through a hole. Fortunately, at this time, his snowshoes were strapped to his back, and caught on the surface of the ice. With some difficulty he managed to extricate himself from his cold and perilous bath and went home.

Great Skating Race for Tuesday Next

By special arrangements C. B. Heffernan and Fred Robson, both of Toronto, will race for the skating championship of Canada in half mile, and two mile heats on Tuesday night next. Both these men are speedy skaters. A valuable trophy will be given the winner by the Brock street rink company. There will also be a race for boys eighteen and under for a gold medal, and another for a gold medal, open to the county. The 57th Regimental Band will furnish music.

Local Constable's Jurisdiction Enlarged

High County Constable Geo. Cockburn has had the limits of his duties and jurisdiction extended so that his powers will hereafter include the county of Haliburton. At the annual meeting of the Children's Aid Society, held a few weeks ago, a resolution was passed, asking Mr. J. J. Kelso, superintendent of the society in Ontario, to have Haliburton county placed under the supervision of the Peterborough branch. Yesterday Mr. E. L. Goodwill, secretary of the Children's Aid Society of this city, received a certificate from Mr. J. J. Kelso entitling Mr. Cockburn to the powers named. In future all cases of child neglect in Haliburton should be reported to Mr. Cockburn and the co-operation of magistrates and other officers of the law in that county is asked for. For some time passed the need of an agent in Haliburton has been urgently felt, especially in the back country. Some families are living in a state of destitution. The assistance of the society will certainly be welcomed in Haliburton.

Dog Poisoners at Their Nefarious Work

As noted in the Times recently, a valuable hound belonging to Mr. H. C. Winch was poisoned a few days ago. It seems that the cowardly and indiscriminating dog poisoner has once more awakened from the grance a beneficent providence held him under for some months and is once more getting in his nefarious work. Still another sample of the man's or men's work is on the gate as a dog ran into the yard of Mr. Frank Smith, 466 George street, and died there from the effects of poison. As was remarked yesterday by a local dog owner, "At this time of year the old garden spading and lawn destroying argument does not hold good. If people are bothered by dogs in their yards a dipper of fairly hot water will get rid of the plague, but it's a cowardly, contemptible piece of business to lay poison around so that dogs which never bother people suffer for the trouble given by others."

Public Library to be Discussed

Board of Trade to Hold Annual Meeting on March 3rd

It seems that the long pending subject of a public library for Peterborough is to be once more taken up in earnest by the Board of Trade which holds its meeting on Thursday evening, March 3rd. Officers will be elected for the coming year, reports received and other business transacted. At this meeting the library question will be considered in detail, and, as public sentiment on the subject of asking Mr. Carnegie for a grant towards the erection of such a building seems pretty well divided, an interesting discussion is assured. Special invitations will be sent the members of the City Council, Board of Education, Public Library Board, and other public bodies, and one of the best meetings in years is anticipated.

Supplies for City's Poor

That Mr. Finch Miller, City Relief Officer, takes "time by the forelock" in the way of providing for his numerous Saturday night appliances was shown by a purchase he made yesterday morning. This consisted of twelve fine dressed hogs, purchased on the market from Mr. H. S. Stabler, the local cattle and hog buyer. This will afford a pleasing change in the menu of those whom the duties towards their children have impelled them to ask for assistance. The number who ask assistance of Mr. Miller every Saturday night is deplorably large, but one deserving head of a family who applies need go hungry on Sunday.

No Quorum Again

Once more the "no quorum" difficulty prevented the local Board of Health from holding their meeting which was advertised for yesterday morning at 9.30. There were only present Chairman Dr. Burnham, Mr. Murty, Sanitary Inspector Geo. Hall and Medical Health Officer Dr. Bingham. It seems that the members of so important a branch of Peterborough's quasi executive might attend with more regularity. However, it is easier to criticize than explain reasons or motives unknown.

ed simultaneously, but Martin was the megaphone man all right. Say, I never heard anything like it. It wouldn't surprise me to learn that they heard Martin as far west as Yonge street. It wasn't long before the neighborhood knew that something must be happening.

"I ran upstairs and called "Fire!" Coming down to the street again I met F. O. Parshall, his wife and their 12-year-old boy. They came along with me, and we had some coffee.

"I met McDermott, his wife and sister. They had come out as hurriedly as the rest, and I threw my overcoat over the shoulders of one of the ladies."

FELL DOWN STAIRS.

"What did you do?" the Star asked Mr. Parshall.

"Among other things, I fell down the back stairway. That smoke was thick, let me tell you.

"There were three children in the building. The O'Leans boy and girl and my boy. We tossed the youngsters out. They weren't hurt, the snow breaking their fall. It wasn't much of a drop anyway.

LAME MAN CARRIED OUT.

"Bryans, a jeweller, was carried down. He is lame, you know, and was a case. Those firemen worked like trojans. The basement and ground floor were far from delightful places to work in, but from 1 until 5 the boys kept overhauling at it.

"One fireman was overcome by the smoke to such an extent that artificial respiration was necessary. Chief Thompson himself was driven back three times, but he returned each time.

"I forget to tell you about O'Leans. He is a mail clerk between Toronto and Montreal, and, of course, knew nothing of the fire until he returned to the city this morning. His first words were, "Where is my wife? Where are my children? Say, he was a relieved man when he saw them safe and before him."

There were twenty-two people in the eight apartments when the fire broke out, and not one of the twenty had time to put on anything warmer than a gray garment snatched up as they made their escape.

The occupants were Harry W. Bowles and his wife, F. O. Parshall, his wife and boy, Mrs. J. O'Leans and her two children, Mr. and Mrs. F. Detsley, John Hoffman, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas R. Bryans, Mr. and Mrs. McDermott, and Miss Wellington and Frank Spear. Mrs. Spear and her children were visiting in New Jersey and O'Leans, a mail carrier, was absent on his Toronto-Montreal run.

February, 1908, is here and so is

The Pacific Fruit Cooling and Vaporizing Company, Incorporated for the purpose of cooling deciduous fruits and removing moisture from citrus fruits and keeping under cold storage such fruits and other food products from the time of receiving them from the fruit growers until loaded on car and taken away by the Railroad Company for Eastern shipment.

STUBBORN FACTS UNIMPEACHABLE

The loss in shipping deciduous and citrus fruits is enormous. The orange crop of Southern California alone is valued at $20,000,000. The government experts estimate that about 25 per cent. or $7,500,000, is lost every year by rough handling in picking and decay of fruit in transit to the Eastern markets. What a revenue of profit this loss would be to the shipper if it could be saved. Our process will save it. The same is true of the deciduous fruits of Northern California.

GREAT FORTUNES ARE MADE BY INVESTING IN NECESSITIES

Fruit is one of the necessities of our civilized life, and the company that can place the fruit in the markets of the world in the best shape, in the quickest time, at the lowest rate, has a fortune within its grasp. The Armour Company in ten years made $5,000,000 net handling California fruit in refrigerator cars. Our process is as necessary to the fruit grower as the refrigerator car. Therefore we ought to receive as large a revenue for handling the same commodity.

GET IN WHILE THE ENTERPRISE IS NEW

No wiser words were ever spoken than these: "The chief point about getting rich is to invest in a new enterprise that is being managed by successful men, who have some of their own money in the deal." "One good investment is worth a lifetime of labor". Think over this sentence. A man's daily labor will never make him rich. He must have some money at work for him. Money invested never gets sick, keeps no holidays, never goes on strike. There are three things that ought to guide you: First, invest with honest men; second, invest with men of sound judgment; third, invest under conditions where you get your full share of profits the business yields. Get into a company whose destiny is guided by men of this stamp when its future is before and not behind it. Here is the secret of fortune. Plant the seed of your investment in the soil of opportunity, at the season of greatest promise when the enterprise is new. Every ounce of sweat in the hearts of the men managing this company is pledged to give

A SQUARE DEAL FOR EVERY INVESTOR

There will be no preferred stock. Every dollar invested will be worth 100 cents on the dollar. Our Directors, as honourable business men, will not allow any tricks of trade by which the small investor can be frozen out. Their commercial standing proves they are not "grafters". The poor man's 100 or 100 shares will have the same standing in court as the rich man's, 10,000, and they will draw the same proportionate dividend. We court investigation.

EVERY RICH MAN IN THE WORLD WAS ONCE POOR, OR HIS GRANDFATHER WAS.

THE OPPORTUNITY OF A LIFETIME

To get into a company that has the certainty of growth, the assurance of large and quick returns, a rapid advance in the price of stock, to make it an exceptional chance for big profits on a small investment. This is an ideal investment for the wage earner as well as the rich man. Moderate sums invested now will bring splendid returns in the near future. Two logic of all this is

DON'T WAIT

Time is the essence of this proposition. The stock will certainly double in a short time. Jay Gould once said: "When you see a good investment don't wait to see if it pans out well, for by that time other people see it, too, and you have lost your opportunity."

WOMEN AS INVESTORS

Some of the heaviest stockholders in our company are women of keen business instincts. One lady in Los Angeles bought 5,000 shares. In a few days she returned and bought 5,000 more. This lady has never made a mistake in her business ventures. Women are good investors because they have courage to follow their convictions. Their intuitions are keener and truer than man's logic. Men may prevent her voting, but they can't prevent her drawing dividends on her investments. This is one branch of trade where sex, culture, or color does not count.

MANAGEMENT

The affairs of this company are in the hands of men of honesty, ability, courage and good business judgment—men who have made a success of their own business—men whose business reputation is A1 in the commercial circles in which they move.

These men are "square" and "shrewd". They will not deceive you nor will they be deceived themselves. Because of the promise of growth, permanency and profit this business offers they have united their money, energy, time and business experience to make this enterprise a grand success.

Notwithstanding the Financial Crisis, Investments made Six Months ago have Advanced

150 PER CENT

The next six months promises to far exceed the past six months

FORMER PETERBORO BANK CLERK SAVED LIVES OF TWO GIRLS

Mr. Jack Erskine, of Canadian Bank of Commerce, Saves Two Young Ladies from Death by Drowning

The Vancouver, B.C. World of Feb. 4th contains a report of the plucky rescue of two girls from drowning at that city:

"Modesty alone was the reason that the name of Mr. Jack Erskine of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, did not appear in these columns yesterday in connection with the story of the narrow escape of two ladies from drowning in the new reservoir. It was ascertained that a skater had jumped into the reservoir, and, by the trick of treading water, had kept the ladies' heads up and thus prevented a double drowning. At the time the young man's name could not be ascertained, and it was today learned that the plucky preserver was Mr. Jack Erskine, of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, and to him is due the credit of having prevented what would have been one of the saddest accidents in the New Year."

The Jack Erskine referred to is well known, and has many friends here, having for some time filled a position in the local branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce. He is a son of the late Mr. John Erskine, one of Peterborough's former merchants, who operated a large dry goods store on the south side of Hunter street, just east of George street.

COAL MINING BY CANADIAN PACIFIC

Getting Ready for the New Building

Yesterday morning, the Bell Telephone Co. had a gang of linemen busily engaged in taking down their wires from the fronts of the various buildings in the business section of the town re-connecting such cut off subscribers from the rear of the buildings.

This is preparatory to connecting them up with the company's fine new building on Hunter street. Although these wires were moved in great numbers, no complaints were made by subscribers as to inconvenience or delay. This is the way the Bell Co. does business. As regards the new building, it might be added that the handsome new switchboard, which has every latest appliance to date, has already been installed. Other work in connection with getting the new building ready for active service is being pushed ahead as quickly as men, muscles and mind can accomplish results.

Areas to be Developed in British Columbia

Great Plant at Homer

Montreal, Feb. 13. — The Canadian Pacific Railway intends to undertake the development of important mining areas in British Columbia, and in the near future will be turning out a large amount of coal to supply their locomotives in the West.

As stated by The Star some weeks ago a new company, known as the Homer Mining Company, of which the provisional directors are a number of prominent officials of the C. P. R., was incorporated during the present session of Parliament, the object stated being to develop mining areas in Canada.

The chief object is to commence mining operations at Homer in British Columbia, where it has been decided to at once equip a modern plant capable of mining a large amount of coal.

WILL START AT ONCE.

Mr. H. W. Aldridge, the chief mining engineer of the company, with headquarters in the West, is at present in Montreal, and during the past few days has been in consultation with the chief officials of the company. Talking to The Star this morning, Mr. Aldridge stated that it was the intention to begin the work of development at Homer at once. The town is in the Crow's Nest country, and only eight miles from Fernie, in the centre of the best coal mining district of Western Canada.

Eight seams in all will be opened here, but the product of all will be brought to the surface by the one tunnel. A steel tippler is to be erected at once and up-to-date machinery installed. It is expected that the actual work of raising coal will start not later than the first of next year, and the company is providing for a daily output of three thousand tons.

A large part of the coal will be used on the C. P. R., but will be also placed on the market, both east and west of the mines.

Mr. Aldridge states that the mines near Banff are very busy at present, and that the daily output here is some twelve hundred tons a day. A large business in briquetted coal, the dust pressed into bricks is also done at this mine and the company find that the demand for this class of fuel is very large.

POLICE

It will be remembered that last April a young man named W. Wallace got int osome little trouble with others and was fined, the whole amount, with costs being $7.00, to be paid in ten days, and in default of payment "distress". Instead of paying the fine Wallace left town, whereupon, at the termination of the termination of the ten days a "distress warrant" was issued. As no distress (or property to be levied on) was to be found, a warrant of commitment was issued, and then the man could not be found. Wallace returned to the city a day or two ago and on Tuesday night the police located him in the bar of a local hotel. He was yesterday morning supplied with quarters in Castle Nesbitt, where he will put in his time unless the fine be paid.

Militia Orders from Headquarters

Following are the latest orders issued by Lieut.-Col. Stevenson and members of the 57th Regiment should take due notice:

Headquarters,
Peterborough, Feb. 12, 1908.

Orders by Lieut.-Col. A. Stevenson, Commanding 57th Regiment, Peterborough Rangers.

No. 1. By order of the O.C. Eastern Ontario, a special inspection of all arms, clothing, and equipment will be made on a date to be named on or after the 17th inst.

No. 2. Officers commanding companies and other officers are required to take the necessary steps to ensure that all such articles are returned to the Armories not later than the 19th inst.

No. 3. All N.C.O.'s and men are ordered to turn into the Armories at once, any arms, clothing or other equipment in their possession."

No. 4. Extract from Command Order No. 9, 1908: Every article not actually present in the Armory at the time of the inspection will be charged against the squadron, battery or company, commander or other officer responsible.

By order,
E. B. CLEGG, Major,
Act. Adj.

At the Grand

All Men Who Are Over 65 Must be Retired Now

Toronto, Feb. 12.—Orders have been issued to the heads of the different departments of the Grand Trunk Railway System, instructing them to immediately retire from the service all of those employees in their jurisdictions who have reached the age of 65 years. This is in accordance with the new pension rules.

Any who are over 65 and who do not want to be retired must apply to the committee to continue in the service until 70 years of age, and their cases will be considered. In the meantime, however, they will be relieved from duty.

DROVE INTO AIR HOLE ON RICE LAKE

Harwood, Feb. 12 — Two Peterborough men, Lewis Hoody and D Johnston, had an experience on Saturday when returning from Harwood, where they had been snowbound for two days, to Peterborough, that they would not care to have repeated.

They left Harwood at 2.30 in the afternoon in a cutter with a team of horses, to cross Rice Lake. All went well until, without warning, the horses, cutter and men, plunged into an air hole, and with the thermometer up in the twenties they were struggling in the icy water. The men managed to climb out upon the unbroken ice, and, after hard work, succeeded in saving their horses. They secured dry clothing at the home of an Indian, and succeeded in making the remainder of the trip in safety.

THIRTY-TWO CHILDREN ARE FATHERLESS--PATHETIC INCIDENT MARKS TRAGEDY NEAR VAUDREUIL

Every Tree on Acres was Shattered by the Explosion of Nitro-Glycerine

Were Blown to Pieces

Montreal, Feb. 12.—By this morning only the garrisons of five mangled bodies of the nine victims of the explosion at the Standard Powder Co.'s plant at Ile Perrault, near Vaudreuil, had been found. The scene of the disaster has been visited by hundreds of curious people. There is hardly a vestige of the buildings to be seen, and the scene is a desolate one in the extreme. After considerable difficulty, the five bodies recovered were identified, and after the coroner's jury had inspected them last evening, the friends and relatives of the dead workmen were allowed to remove the remains to their homes.

The real cause of the explosion has not been discovered, the explanation given by one of the workmen yesterday that it was caused by one of the victims thawing out dynamite having been found to be incorrect.

There are only two explanations that appear at all plausible, according to the officials of the company. One is that one of the workmen accidentally struck the side of one of the cans with a hammer or tool of some sort, while the other is that the dynamite froze when in what is known as the washing stage. This would have caused an explosion.

NOT THE WORLD'S END.

The terrible force of the explosion caused many of the superstitious French Canadian farmers for miles around to imagine the end of the world had come. It shattered hundreds of windows in Vaudreuil village and the glass in many houses far beyond suffered. Following the terrific crash there was an earth tremor like that of a seismic disturbance that was felt for miles.

At the site of the plant itself the explosion worked a terrible transformation. Every tree over two acres of land was blasted, the trunks of some were split open from top to bottom, while others were reduced into ruins of dried wood.

BUILDINGS DISAPPEAR

The light railway track which ran between the two buildings was buried under a heap of upturned earth and snow. Instead, it looked as though the ground for hundreds of yards around had been overturned by some Titanic force. There was absolutely nothing to indicate that a moment before two large buildings had been standing on the spot. What looked like two huge crumpled cylinders of tattered sheet iron was all that remained of the immense vats. Scattered among the branches of trees at the press that remained standing were ghost masses resembling arrows' wants. In closer inspection these were found to be remnants of the victims' clothing.

COAT ON BRANCH

One tree on a branch twenty feet from the ground, hung almost complete coat, but there was no sign of its former owner.

The search among the debris for the remaining victims was resumed this morning, large parties of the workmen who were fortunate to escape being engaged in turning over the upturned earth and shattered masonry in an effort to find their dead companions. The work is a horrible one, and yesterday as some portion of a body—sickening proof of the thoroughness of the tragedy—was brought to light, some of the workers sickened and were unable to go on with their task. This morning more tattered clothing and several portions of the mangled victims were found, but no other complete body was discovered.

A HEARTRENDING STORY.

A most heartrending scene took place yesterday afternoon at the late Pierre Menard's residence, a few feet away from the C.P.R. station at Vaudreuil. On board the train which left Wonder station at 4 p.m. were Mr. Edouard Hamoire and Mrs. Lecoue, Montreal. They are the parents of the young wife of the foreman, Menard, who died at his post with the men under his charge. The scene at Menard's home shortly after the disaster was one of the most trying that ever befell the eyes of a newspaper man, however hardened to this life's miseries he may be by the nature of his occupation. Mrs. Menard was in a pitiable condition. She could not cry, although her heart was sobbing to the point of breaking. She begged of God to make her cry, so tears might relieve her grief. The much-wanted relief came to her when her father and mother entered the room, in which she was sitting surrounded by her two children, the eldest of whom is only a little over 2 years.

A heart touching feature of this case is that Mrs. Menard is in a very delicate state of health, and her confinement is expected every hour. Mr. Pierre Menard, the dead husband, was well liked, and 33 years of age.

J. B. Robillard, another victim, was 46 years old, and leaves a widow and two daughters, aged 17 and 8.

FAMILIES OF VICTIMS.

Joseph Simon was only 29 years old, born at St. Lazare. He had been a farmer until two years ago, when he started work with the explosive company. He is survived by a widow and three young children, two daughters and a boy.

Joseph Hurtubise Cayen was 42 years old. He had resided at Ile Perrault for many years, and had been in the employ of the company for 18 months. He leaves a widow and three children.

David Dumbarry, born at Lachine and was 48 years of age. Leaves widow and six children. A feature of Mr. Dumbarry's death was that three of his boys were also working at the mine, and were attending their regular duties not more than three acres from where the father met with such an awful death.

George (Alis Narge Rousseau had resided at Ile Perrault all his life. He was 40 years of age, and leaves a widow and five children.

Fortunat Trepanier leaves a widow and ten children to mourn his death. He had been born at St. Martins, Vaudreuil county, 45 years ago, but had made Vaudreuil his home for many years. He had been in the employ of the company for a little over two years.

Thirty-two children were left fatherless.

Coroner McMahon went out to the scene of the accident and opened an inquest last night, but as very little information could be secured it was adjourned till Saturday.

TWO THOUSAND POUNDS EXPLODED.

About two thousand pounds of nitro-glycerine exploded, and as the stuff was very powerful, it blew men and buildings to atoms. The force of the shock was felt a distance of 15 miles, and the people thought it was an earthquake.

As the men were not allowed to carry insurance, the death of the breadwinners will be severely felt.

John Leduc and J. Robitaille were severely injured, and a number of the other employees slightly injured by the flying stone, every pane for miles around being broken. Had the explosion occurred a few minutes later scores of lives would have been sacrificed.

LARGEST WORKS IN DOMINION.

The Standard Explosive Company's works on Ile Perrault are the largest of their kind in the Dominion. Three hundred acres of land on the island is used for the purpose, and on this land there are over forty buildings, the number of hands employed when in full operation being about 250. The capacity of the plant is two carloads of dynamite and one carload of blasting powder daily. From eighty to ninety per cent. of these explosives is used on railway construction work.

A Dozen Men were Terribly Burned by Explosion of Furnace

Pittsburg, Pa., Feb. 12 — A dozen men were burned in a terrific explosion of molten steel at the Monongahela Blast Furnace of the National Tube Company, McKeesport, near here, early today. Thomas O'Toole, aged 35, died soon after, and Alexander Smith, aged 42, was fatally burned. Two other Americans and one Hungarian, were burned on the hands, arms and face, and sent to McKeesport Hospital.

The huge steel plated furnace, 100 feet in height, burst at the tap-hole, and fifty tons of liquid metal dropped to the floor, accompanied by explosions as it spread and splashed over the hands and bodies of the workmen near by. The detonations broke all the windows of the plant and for a radius of two squares, causing intense excitement in the town.

Mechanic Wants Cheaper Meat

To the Editor Daily Times.

Dear Sir.—Will you allow me to write a few lines in your paper about the high prices that the people here have to pay for meat. It seems to me that the present system of charging a license to the butchers is only getting the meat trade in the hands of a few men who only pay $10 a year. This is not much, but it is enough to stop strangers or others from handling meat and this lets the butchers charge just about what they want or think the people will stand. If the license was taken off and farmers let sell, and one day's meat on the market square, after paying the market toll, it would bring down the price of meat by the competition, and everybody knows just now that it's better to let the poor get cheap food than make a fat living for a few in the trade.

The Salvation Army Bringing Out 450 Immigrants Feb. 20

Salvation Army's First 1908 Contingent will Arrive this Month

Another Lot In March

Toronto, Feb. 12.—This title of immigration to Canada's shores is again about to begin for the year 1908. Lt.-Col. Howells, of the Salvation Army, stated to the News that the first company of their immigrants for the fruit districts of British Columbia, numbering 450, will leave England on the steamer Kensington, on Feb. 20. They include English, Scotch and Irish. The next party, numbering 250, will leave on March 26th. The Army will also endeavor to locate about 1,000 people on farms in New Brunswick and Nova Scotia.

"You do not intend to bring out 20,000 or 30,000 people this year, as was reported last fall?" Mr. Howells was asked.

"We'll just bring out as many as can be accommodated in the country."

Speaking of the distress in Toronto, he said: "In the month of January we had 600 applications for farm help. On this morning's mail we had 32 applications."

"Why are none of the unemployed sent out to the farms?" he was asked.

"Because the men will not go to the farms."

Mr. Howells added that, if men went out to the farms, it was only fair that they should stay for a reasonable time, and not run off just when the spring work was commencing."

Government Emigration Bonus System

London, Feb. 7. — The Guildhall magistrate's strictures on the Canadian Government emigration bonus system is being taken up by the British Passenger Agents' Association. There are doubtless emigration agents whose representations regarding Canadian conditions do not always accord with the facts. It is anticipated that this association, consisting of the most responsible agents, will desire the Canadian Government to withdraw the bonus in all such cases as was done in the case before the Guildhall Court last week. The same association is making energetic protests against the action of the religious emigration societies, notably the Salvation Army, who, it is alleged, pursue a general tramping business for first and second class passengers, under the guise of a religious organization. One letter read at the association meeting, dated from the Salvation Army headquarters, and signed by Colonel Lamb, which commenced with "Dear Friend" and closed with "May God bless and guide you," stated that the Army was prepared to take part of the passage money to agricultural laborers and domestic servants, the loans to be repayable to the Army out of the wages earned in Canada. A resolution was passed condemning such methods.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

Bad Symptoms.

The woman who has periodical headaches, backache, sees imaginary dark spots or specks floating or dancing before her eyes, has gnawing distress or heavy full feeling in stomach, faint spells, dragging-down feeling in lower abdominal or pelvic region, easily startled or excited, irregular or painful periods, with or without pelvic catarrh, is suffering from weaknesses and derangements that should have early attention. Not all of above symptoms are likely to be present in any case at one time.

Neglected or badly treated and such cases often run into maladies which demand the surgeon's knife if they do not result fatally.

No [illegible] has such a long [illegible] record of cures as has [illegible] Pierce's Favorite Prescription. [illegible] has such a strong [illegible] of cures of [illegible] cases of [illegible] as has Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. [illegible] is worth more than any number of ordinary non-professional testimonials. The very best ingredients known to medical science for the cure of woman's peculiar ailments enter into its composition. No alcohol, harmful, or habit-forming drug is to be found in the list of its ingredients printed on each bottle-wrapper and attested under oath.

In any condition of the female system, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription can do only good—never harm. Its whole effect is to strengthen, invigorate and regulate the whole female system and especially the pelvic organs. When these are deranged in function or affected by disease, the stomach and other organs of digestion become sympathetically deranged, the nerves are weakened, and a long list of bad, unpleasant symptoms follow. Too much must not be expected of this "Favorite Prescription." It will not perform miracles; will not cure tumors—no medicine will. It will often prevent them, if taken in time, and thus the operating table and the surgeon's knife may be avoided.

Women suffering from diseases of long standing, are invited to consult Doctor Pierce by letter, free. All correspondence is held as strictly private and sacredly confidential. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser (1008 pages) is sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps for paper-covered, or 50 stamps for cloth-bound copy. Address as above.

Woman Who was Married in Toronto Killed in Cincinnati

Cincinnati, Feb. 11. — Madeline A. Booth, who was murdered here on Saturday, had merely secured a divorce from James R. Booth, a former Toronto contractor, to whom she was married in Toronto in 1895. It is reported to have left his home in Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., more than a week ago.

Previously to securing the divorce Mrs Booth is said to have eloped with a Canadian, whose name is not known.

According to her employers and the friends she made during her short stay in this city, the woman lived in constant fear of some man, and often expressed the belief that if they should meet she would be killed.

The theory that a burglar wielded the hatchet that ended her life has been exploded by the police, but they have as yet found no evidence to any particular person.

Court records show that the divorce was granted two weeks ago without contest. There is no reference to any quarrel between Booth and his wife The petition simply charged neglect and extreme cruelty.

The woman was found in a doctor's office with her head smashed in by a hatchet, which lay beside her. The theory of suicide is discarded.

BOTH WERE ECCENTRIC.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Feb. 12.—J. Roger Booth, whose wife was murdered in Cincinnati, a few days since, is supposed to be in Saskatchewan. Booth was in town the latter end of December, and was here while the municipal campaign was progressing. He had been away from the Soo off and on for three years. When he left there early in January he gave it out that he was going to return to the West. Booth was for three or four years superintendent of the Superior Wood Yard here. Both he and his wife were well known in town, and both were considered eccentric during the two year of their residence in the Soo. They had frequent squabbles, and Booth was before the Magistrate several times, charged with assaulting his wife. At length they separated, Mrs. Booth going to the States and her husband to the Canadian West.

The dress I must have been all of 60 years old, and was certainly not good looking.

WOMAN A BIGAMIST.

Cincinnati, Feb. 12.—Mrs. Madeline A. Booth, who was chopped to death with a hatchet in the home of Dr. Hopps, was a bigamist. This was brought out at the inquest yesterday, when letters found in the woman's effects were read. One letter signed T. J. Dwier, and written from Miller's Grove, Texas, August 10th, 1906, is a confession of wrongdoing. The letter is addressed to Mrs. Madeline A. Dwier, and the writer calls her "Dear wife." In this letter Dwier says the Booth had tracked him to Minneapolis, and had him arrested, but that he escaped from the police there, and had just landed in Texas. He urged the woman to flee to Mexico with him. "Madeline," he writes, "you know that they can sentence you to anywhere from five to fifteen years in Canada, and get less than three years in Minneapolis, and I don't know what they would do to me if they caught me again for they know the kind we were the wife of J. R. Booth when we were married, and I suppose they would hang me." The murdered woman, after getting this letter, secured a divorce.

KEEP AUTOMOBILES OFF COUNTRY ROAD

War to the Death Against the Automobile on the Country Roads

Toronto, Feb. 12.—War to the death against the automobile on country roads is the slogan of the farmers of Brant Township, in the County of Brant. They are so out of patience with the new method of locomotion because of the trouble it causes to people driving along the rural roads that they are up in arms, to prohibit the autos from using the country roads at all.

Dr. Clapp, M.P.P. for South Brant, has, therefore, been entrusted with a petition exactly eight feet in length, signed by farmers of Brant Township, and asking the Provincial Government to compel the automobiles to keep to the cities, towns and villages.

The petition will be presented to the Legislature at an early date.

Sports

Winnipeg, Feb. 12.—The soft weather has forced the postponement of the bonspiel until tomorrow or until better ice is made.

Rain fell all night, turning to snow today.

The mercury stands 40 above zero. The first draw shows 123 rinks.

Los Angeles, Feb. 12.—The fight between Twin Sullivan and Jim Flynn last night went the limit of ten rounds, no decision being rendered. Honors were about even.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Feb. 12.—In the fifth day's play in the international bowling tournament held here at the First Regiment Armory, Toronto was represented by three two men teams in the afternoon contests. The teams consisted of Phelan and Marinesse, Archambault and Orr, and Sutherland and Adams.

Compared with his work of yesterday, Archambault bowled very poorly. The weather did not agree with him, and he did not feel like bowling at all. The team mate, Orr, did not do much either, and both succeeded in bowling but 580 points.

Sutherland and Adams, however, did good work, and scored 1025 points with Sutherland having a high score of 215 for one of the games. Phelan and Marinesse also did well, scoring 1060 points. Marinesse was high score man for his team with 212. Haller and Stein of Newark led the 2 men bowlers, with 1132 points. Sutherland and Adams are No. 22 in standing for two men teams, while Phelan and Marinesse are 25th.

Tool and Shovel Company Officers

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Tool and Shovel Company, shareholders developed the fact that the earnings of the company during the past year were satisfactory. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

YOU FEEL TIRED ALL THE TIME

Night comes and it's hard to sleep. Morning dawns and the anxious tired feeling is still there. Unwilling to get up, a strong desire to rest just a little longer.

Unwise to neglect this gradual decline. It can't cure itself,—but Ferrozone by forming rich pure blood at once supplies nutriment for building up the system. This extra nourishment is distributed throughout the entire body, gives force to the nerves, strength to the muscle, and power to the digestive organs.

At once you feel braced, toned and strengthened. You know a powerful force is building up depleted energies, you realize what it means to have the vim and spirit of robust health.

Search the world over and you won't find a tonic, to nourish, build up, and fortify a weak, tired like Ferrozone. Physicians claim it is the best all round strengthening medicine ever discovered.

To take Ferrozone regularly is an insurance policy of health, a guarantee that you will be free from vexatious spells of tiredness and debilitating sickness of every kind. Surely it is worth while trying a medicine that Mrs. H. S. Gold, of Bowsman, Man., speaks of as follows;

"I want to state my case, because I think it may be the means of assisting other suffering women back to health. A year ago I was almost a wreck. I was pale and emaciated, suffered from nervous-ness and dyspepsia. Little things that went wrong in the house bothered me. The doctor advised different treatments, but they didn't help. He said that my low condition of health was due to weakness that might never be cured. Ferrozone had a peculiar grateful effect and built me up quickly. The pills I suffered from are cured. I am now strong and vigorous, and was made so by Ferrozone." (Signed) Mrs. H. S. Gold.

Before your ill-health assumes a chronic or malignant form build up with Ferrozone. Sold everywhere, 50c. per box or six for $2.50, at all dealers.

STEEL PASSENGER CARS

The Travellers' Protective Association of the United States is supplementing its active campaign for a passenger fare of two cents a mile by another for steel passenger cars. Backed by more than half a million travelling salesmen, there will, within a week, be introduced into Congress a bill, which, if passed, will compel all the railways of the United States to replace all their present wooden passenger equipment with fireproof steel coaches. It is desired that the railways retire 10 per cent. of the wooden cars each year for the next ten years.

The association, which is actively engaged in working for the proposed legislation, has compiled some startling tables, showing the great destruction of life during the last five years as a result of collisions, derailments and other accidents. In nearly every case the great sacrifice of lives are due almost wholly to the fact that the wooden coaches either were crushed into splinters or caught fire after the wreck. Steel cars, it is claimed, would have prevented the loss of life.

It further states that in the 19 years since the interstate commission began the collection of facts about accidents, nearly 6,000 passengers and over 65,000 employees, besides nearly 19,000 other persons, have been killed on American railways, and nearly 1,300,000 more have been crippled. In 1906 it was twice as dangerous to travel on a railway train or to work for a railway company of the United States as it was in 1888. It is only accidents which are reported to the commission which are included in these statistics. The fact that a large number of railway companies do not report accidents is demonstrated by the fining recently of one of the largest railway companies for failure to report 600 accidents.

THE BRITISH NAVY

Some time ago when the present British Government came to power the fear was expressed that the policy of the country regarding both the navy and the land forces would be modified to an extent almost alarming. Those fears, if such were aired, have not yet been quieted. There was a remodeling of the standing army, which, it is stated, will render it more mobile and its effectiveness infinitely greater, but this opinion was by no means shared by all, and there was a howl of disappointment, particularly from Scotland, which has yielded to the nation some of its proudest regiments. However, the result, so far as the army is concerned, may fairly be said to be still an open question.

It is different with the navy. On it Britain depends almost entirely for defence and defiance. Leaders of thought agree that to preserve peace the equipment for war must be perfect. Since the days of the Spanish Armada the mother country has striven to keep herself in this respect far in the lead of naval powers. An entirely maritime country herself, her statesmen have consistently pursued the course of making her essentially a maritime power, and so any movement which is calculated to upset the traditions of the empire and to impair the greatness of her vast fleet is regarded with trepidation.

What the proposals of those who would diminish the British navy are have not been promulgated, but it is observed that the Government itself is by no means unanimous. A cable from London yesterday says that much importance is attached to a strong speech which Sir Edward Grey, Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, made in the House of Commons in reply to a suggestion from the Unionists side that it was to Great Britain's interest as the greatest sea barrier in the world that private property at sea should be immune from capture, and that it was Britain's refusal to assent to the principle of immunity which hindered the disarmament proposal at The Hague conference.

Sir Edward said that the Government couldn ot consistently and with safety to the country take the risk proposed.

"The British Empire" he said, "is a tremendous obligation, but it might, if we were weak, become a tremendous temptation. At the present time we have the good will of the world, but supposing the policy of immunity had been adopted and supposing that our navy should lose command of the sea it would mean not only defeat but conquest."

Sir Edward is reported as solemnly pointing out the possibility of invasion, urging the nation to beware of acting in such a manner as to increase the risks of war and prolonging it indefinitely at a minimum risk to other powers.

This pronouncement by the distinguished Foreign Secretary will serve to allay the fears of those people who have had little confidence in the foreign policy of the Liberal administration.

News in Brief

London, Feb. 11.—Albert Kirby Fairfax, who has been described as the only American bearing an English title, has taken steps definitely to establish his right to the title of of Lord Fairfax. King Edward has referred to the House of Lords the "petition of Albert Kirby Fairfax, claiming to be Lord Fairfax of Cameron in the peerage of Scotland, that his majesty will cause his right to the title and dignity of Lord Fairfax of Cameron to be declared and established." Lord Fairfax was born in the United States, where he is in business. He is 57 years old.

Fort Worth Texas, Feb. 10.—L. C. Butchens, fifty years old, second vice-president of the Fort Worth National Bank, committed suicide yesterday by shooting himself. Ill-health and mental worry are given as the cause of suicide.

Brooding over the suicide of Banker Butchens, a man he did not know, Eric C. Gambrell, thirty-eight years old, shot and killed himself in a local hotel last night.

A TRUST COMPANY PRESIDENT.

San Antonio, Texas, Feb. 10.—C. A. Beasley, president of the American Bank and Trust Company, at Houston, Texas, and until recently president of the Texas Bankers' Association, shot and killed himself late yesterday. Ill-health is believed to be the cause of the act.

F. W. GOULD KILLED HIMSE. F.

Moline, Ill., Feb. 10.—Frank W. Gould, president of the Union Malleable Iron Company and president of the Board of Trustees of the Western Illinois Hospital for the Insane, at Watertown, committed suicide in his bedroom Saturday by shooting himself in the mouth. The suicide was brought about by heavy financial difficulties.

LOST FORTUNE; TOOK POISON.

New York, Feb. 10.—E. C. Brooks, who came from the west a wealthy man a few years ago, and lost his fortune on Wall Street, suicided by drinking poison in the annex to the Produce Exchange Saturday. A note in his pocket asked the authorities to communicate with his brother, Clifford Brooks, 16 Week road, Hampstead, England.

DEATH OF ITALIAN BANKER.

Philadelphia, Feb. 10. — Michaele Martino, banker, importer and philanthropist, and one of the wealthiest Italians in the east, died at his home here last night, aged fifty-six years. Mr. Martino was a member of the New York Chamber of Commerce and owner of La Vesse de Popolo, a leading Italian newspaper of this city.

DEATH OF RICHARD TULL.

Philadelphia, Feb. 10.—Richard Tull, treasurer of the Philadelphia and Reading Railway Co., the Reading Coal & Iron Co., and the Philadelphia Belt Line Railroad, died at his home yesterday, aged fifty-six years.

Palmerston, Feb. 8.—As illustrative of the severity of the storm on Tuesday, a lady passenger with a boy in arms, who, in response to her earnest request, despite the warnings of the other passengers, was let off at a flag station and started to walk across country to her destination, was picked up shortly after, stuck fast in a snow drift, the train having stopped on a short distance further to a cross road, where a farm house was situated not far from the track, and a couple of male passengers sent as an escort with her. By the time they returned to the car the men were so completely done out that the speed to get up steam. She was taken charge of a doctor, who was on the train, had to be obtained to bring them around.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Any person whose tender is accepted shall within ten days after the acceptance thereof furnish such additional approved security as may be required by the Commissioners; sign the contract, specifications, and other documents required to be signed by the said Commissioners; and, in any case of refusal or failure on the part of the party whose tender is accepted to complete the whose tender is accepted to complete and execute a contract with the said Commissioners, and to furnish the additional approved security within ten days after the acceptance of the tender, the said cheque shall be forfeited to the Commissioners as liquidated damages for such refusal or failure and all contracts rights acquired by the acceptance of the tender shall be forfeited. The cheques deposited by parties whose tenders are accepted will be deposited to the credit of the Receiver General of Canada as part of the security for the due and faithful performance of the contract according to its terms. Cheques deposited by parties whose tender are rejected will be returned within ten days after the signing of the contract.

'All mechanics, labourers, or other persons who perform labour for the purposes of the construction of the works hereby contracted for, shall be paid such wages as are generally accepted as current for competent workmen in the district in which the work is being performed, and if there be no current rate in such district, then a fair and reasonable rate; and, in the event of a dispute arising as to what is the current or a fair and reasonable rate, it shall be determined by the Commissioners, whose decision shall be final.'

'This agreement is subject to the regulations now in force, or which may at any time hereafter be in force during the construction of the works hereby contracted for, made under the authority of the Department of Labour, and which are, or shall be, applicable to such works.' (The schedule of minimum wages determined upon by said Department will form part of the contract).

The contractor shall in connection with the whole of the said work, as far as practicable, use only material, machinery, plant, supplies, and rolling stock manufactured or produced in Canada, provided the same can be obtained as cheaply, and upon as good terms, in Canada as elsewhere, having regard to quality and price.'

The contractor shall conform to the fire regulations adopted by the Commissioners, and also to the laws and regulations respecting fires in the different provinces wherein the work is being performed.

The right is reserved to reject any or all tenders.

A Business Proposition!

FOR BUSINESS MEN AND WOMEN

I want business men and women who have money to invest to write me for particulars.

I have an absolutely clean and safe deal that has been tested and proved by actual experience.

It will pay over $160 yearly income on every $1,000 invested. (over $160 yearly on each $200 invested) yet is not a racing or gambling scheme, but a straight, legitimate, profitable, honest business you would be proud to be identified with.

It needs more money to run it on a large scale, hence this offer to you who have money and the business sense and acumen to share in this good thing.

I have submitted particulars of this deal to the proprietors and editors of this paper; they are business men and have approved it because it is safe, sound and clean, and the promises made are straight and reasonable.

When you read these particulars I believe you will approve and be glad you investigated. No matter if you have $5,000 or $10,000 to invest or only $100 or $200, it applies equally to all. It is a

for Business Men and Women of sense and discrimination. THIS MEANS YOU.

Write at once; write now, before you forget, stating about the amount you have for investment, and I will promptly send you a personal reply with the clearest and most concise facts and particulars.

Non-personal Liability

Capital, $250,000.00 1,000,000 Shares 25c. each.

Good coal stock is a safe and sure investment. Galbraith shares are especially attractive.

Modest Capitalization Large Coal Reserves

This Company organized under the laws of the Northwest Territories of Canada, owns and operates the Galbraith mine located at Lundbreck, Alta. They have four vertical seams of coal traversing their property, aggregating over 40 feet in thickness. Three of these seams are developed to a depth of 350 feet, one as they pass through the Company's lands for nearly a mile, some idea of the amount of coal may be had.

Shipping Steadily

The present output of the mine is about 200 tons per day. These shipments will be rapidly increased, as the C.P.R. allows its cars to be loaded with coal for points in the U. S.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTHWEST HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS.

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an Agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A Homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of a homestead, or upon a homestead entitled for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father or mother.

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing must be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa, of intention to apply for patent.

BALANCE IN THE AIR.

The Necessity For Equilibrium in Bird Flight.

It is likely that the bird's superb ease and grace in the air are due to its ability to maintain absolute balance. If a gull makes the mistake of bending until the wind strikes its head and wings on the top it will tumble instantly. And the smiling birds, though they make no flapping motion of their wings, are constantly balancing themselves, like a man on a tight rope. Some scientists have maintained that the air sacs make it possible for the bird to manage minute changes that are very valuable in restoring equilibrium. It is known that the wing is joined to the body of the bird by what is called a universal joint, enabling the creature to make almost every possible motion. The body of a man is heavier than water, but if he gets into a position of perfect balance he will float. In some such way, it is claimed, the bird floats in the air. But as the bird would fall much more rapidly in the air than a man's body would sink in water the necessity for a far more subtle ability to keep the center of gravity on the part of the bird is apparent; hence, according to this theory, the bird is provided for this purpose with the most sensitive equipment, made up of nerves and mysterious air duct, many of the wing feathers perhaps acting as sentinels, warning instantly of the slightest approach of shifting currents.—Everybody's Magazine.

CAP AND THE CAT.

By Judson Welles.

Copyright, 1897, by Homer Sprague.

Hank Hinman sat on the front porch and gazed frankly and longingly across the neat fence to where Matie Forman worked in the garden and apparently gave him no heed. Hinman had yet to find that a woman may look north or south and yet be seeing east or west.

Matie very much approved of Hinman's attitude. The hunched up shoulders spoke eloquently of the good effect of her training. As a rule, those shoulders were accustomed to swagger, and it was the swagger to which Matie had objected. Just because they were engaged she did not concede his right to order her about, and the engagement had been broken.

Now that he was in this frame of mind she was quite willing to make up, but naturally to let the overture come from her would be a tactical error, and it did not look as though Hank would ever be enough himself again to make the first move. She was rather sorry for him and just a tiny bit contemptuous.

This might have been the end of the story had it not been for Miss Marsden's cat. Hank hated Miss Marsden, her cat and all else that was hers. Having failed to acquire a proprietary right to a man in her younger days, she was revenging herself upon the sex by leading the women's rights movement in Carmdale.

It was she who had inculcated these advanced notions in Matie, and Hank cordially hated her for it. Captain, Hank's dog, looked up, with wagging tail and appeal in his soft brown eyes. Hank nodded.

"Get her, Cap," he urged, but Captain needed no urging. With a yelp of delight he was off down the side of the plot. Susan (her full name was Susan B. Anthony) looked up to find retreat cut off. There were no trees in the Hinman front yard, and she made for the next lot. She scrambled through the wide set pickets, and Captain took the fence with a leap, landing against Matie, who was just planting a bulb. He precipitated her into the middle of the tulip bed. Then he dashed on in pursuit of the cat, now comfortably intrenched up an apple tree.

Hank sprang to Matie's rescue, but before he could leap the fence she had scrambled to her feet and was facing him, her face white with anger save for the red spots that glowed on either cheek.

"You set the dog on me," she declared, with a stamp of her foot. "I never thought that you could be so—so—"

"I didn't," defended Hank before she could find an adjective commensurate with the offense.

"You did," she contradicted. "I heard you. You said, 'Get her, Cap,' and then he"—

"Nothing of the sort," protested Hank hotly. "Old Miss Marsden's familiar spirit came over into my yard. Cap wanted a run, and I told him to get after her. She ran into your yard, and then she is now up a tree, just like her mistress should be."

Cap's canine contention to the cat to come down and be annihilated were too vociferous to be overlooked. Matie took a fresh tack.

"Anyhow," she sniffed, "you were cruel to dumb animals. That's bad enough."

"She's not a dumb animal," insisted Hank. "She's a demon in a cat's skin. I think she puts her mistress up to all these tricks."

"What tricks?" demanded Matie truculently.

"Those women's rights things and all that. I heard her telling you the other night that it was traitorous to the cause to stand my bullying. I heard her. I wasn't bullying. I was telling you for your own good that Jim Sears was not a fit person for you to know."

"And because you think that she influenced me you are taking it out on a poor little kitten?"

"Kitten!" he scoffed. "She's no more a kitten than is Miss Marsden."

"We shall all be old some day," she reproved. "It is not Miss Nancy's fault."

"That statement is beginning to look frayed on the edges," he reminded. "It is what you said last night, also day before yesterday."

"Well, you are," she repeated. "Here I was enjoying the nice morning, and you race your dog after a cat and spoil my flower beds. Then because I am naturally annoyed you tell me that I am a confirmed old maid."

"Only a second degree old maid," he reminded. "The third degree is cast-iron curls and a pointed chin. There is still hope for you."

"I am grateful that you concede anything," she said coldly.

"Not honest," he retorted.

"Not always," she insisted. "What you said about Jim Sears, for instance."

"He was arrested last night for running a dog fight last week. That was my kick. I knew about it when I spoke. Both dogs were killed."

"Perhaps you were right," she shuddered. "I didn't care about Jim Sears, but I did not like your dictatorial manner."

"Thanks to Miss Marsden," he contended. "I'll bet she told you that if you gave in before marriage you would encourage a tyrant husband."

"Who told you?" she asked quickly.

"No one. I just know how she talks. She knows everything about husbands except how to get one."

"It wasn't that I am guided by her," declared Matie, with a toss of her head. "But I think she was right. Anyhow, you had no right to take it out on the cat."

"But she kills my chickens."

"Susan? Impossible!"

"Impossible!" he echoed. "Why, she is the worst"— The sentence was broken short, for with a growl Cap started for the fence, just in time to collar Susan, who was trying to slip through. There was a scurry, a howl and the cat lay dead on the grass.

With a cry of anger Matie sprang forward, Hank following more slowly. It was not like Susan to get caught in this fashion. Usually she could beat the ponderous Newfoundland. Then Matie, who had been stooping over the cat, straightened up and patted Cap's head.

"Good old dog," she praised. "Nice old fellow."

"What is it?" cried Hank, bewildered by the sudden change. She held out a little ball of yellow.

"I was cleaning Dicky's cage," she explained, "and left him out on the porch. That horrid brute knocked over the cage and killed him."

"So that's why she couldn't make her get away," he murmured. "I knew she was too fast for Cap."

"I'll call the bird Cap," she promised. "And there won't be any horrid cat to kill him."

He glanced at the solitaire restored to her finger.

"And if Miss Marsden interferes we'll set Cap on her," he promised. "Come, Cap. Good old boy."

Trees and Fools.

Any fool can destroy trees. They cannot run away, and if they could they would still be destroyed—chased and hunted down as long as fun or a dollar could be got out of their bark hides, branching horns or magnificent bole backbones. Few that fell trees plant them. Nor would planting avail much toward getting back anything like the noble primeval forests. During a man's life only saplings can be grown in the place of the old trees, tens of centuries old, that have been destroyed. It took more than 2,000 years to make some of the trees in these western woods—trees that are still standing in perfect strength and beauty, waving and singing in the mighty forests of the Sierra. God has cared for these trees, saved them from drought, disease, avalanches and a thousand straining, leveling tempests and floods, but he cannot save them from fools. Only Uncle Sam can do that.—John Muir of California.

ENTERTAINING THE DUKE.

Rudely Interrupted While He Was Chatting With Royalty.

The daily papers do their best, but not even their ubiquitous representatives garner all the store of good things which attend a royal visit to Ireland, says the London Sketch. No paper at the time printed the cream of the stories which grew out of a visit of the Duke of Connaught to the Emerald Isle. "Welcome to Ireland!" said a man as he saw the duke on the steps of a hotel in the little western town in which he was staying. "Welcome to Ireland, your royal highness. I hope I see your royal highness well." "Quite well, thank you," answered the duke. "And your noble mother, the queen. I hope her cold laddyship is enjoyin' the best of health?" "Yes, thank you. The queen is very well indeed," said the duke, vastly amused with the easy familiarity of the peasant. "It's glad I am to hear it. And tell me, your royal highness," the other went on, "how are all your noble brothers and sisters?" Before the duke could answer an aid-de-camp appeared, with, "Here, get along there." The peasant looked up with infinite scorn. "Arrah! What are yez interruptin' for?" he exclaimed. "Can't you see that me and his royal highness is houldin' a conversation?"

PAIN

Pain is the hand-grip upon you. Pain is warning. Pain is accusation, and it blames nothing more usually. At least so says Dr. Shoop, and to prove it he has created a little pink tablet. That tablet—called Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets—relieves blinding pain every time. Its effect is phenomenal, absolutely delightful. Gently, though safely, it quickly equalizes the blood circulation.

If you have a headache, it's blood pressure.

If it's painful periods with women, same cause.

If you have dizziness, restless, nervous, it's blood congestion—blood pressure. That nicely is a correlative, for Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets stop it in its tracks, and the tablet simply distributes the unnatural blood pressure.

Broken your sleep, and doesn't it get red, and swell, and pain you? Of course it does. It's congestion—blood pressure. You'll find it where pain is—always. It's simply Common Sense.

We sell at 25 cents, and absolutely recommend

The Great Provincial Charity, The Hospital for Sick Children, Calls On You For Aid.

Remember that this Hospital is not a local institution, but Provincial.

"I LIKE PICTURES"

It cares for every sick child in the Province of Ontario whose parents cannot afford to pay for treatment.

Busy dollars are better than idle tears. The sympathy that Weeps is good, but the Hospital hastens the sympathy that Works.

Last year there were 1083 patients admitted. Of these 379 came from 231 places outside of Toronto—all were children of poor people who could not afford to pay for treatment of their little ones.

Each child was in the Hospital 47½ days at a cost of $1.31 each per day, or $62.22 for the 47½ days stay.

If your dollar could straighten the feet of a little boy or girl with club feet, you would gladly give it, and your dollar will do that. There were 79 cases of club feet treated last year. Out of the 79, about 50 were from the country.

BEFORE. AFTER.

If you know of any child in your county who is sick or has club feet, and whose parents can not afford to pay, send the name to the Hospital Secretary.

The check books are open. Won't you let the Hospital write your name down for a few shares in Heaven's own work of healing little children?

A great mine of Mercy—the mining stock that always pays dividends—is bought with the money that helps The Hospital for Sick Children to extract the Gold of Life from the Quartz of Death.

EVE CASES.

Please send contributions to J. Ross Robertson, Chairman, or to Douglas David son, Hon. Treas., of the Hospital for Sick Children, College Street, Toronto.

Had Bad Taste and Headache

Thus writes Mrs. D. F. Fowler, from Yarmouth:

"I used to feel drowsy and heavy, my color was sallow, and there was usually a bad taste in my mouth. I had vague pains all through my limbs and an annoying headache as well.

"After one dose of Dr. Hamilton's Pills there was a sudden change. I felt better, my appetite increased, and that exhaustion and depression gradually left me. Life seemed brighter and happier after I used Dr. Hamilton's Pills, so I strongly recommend such good medicine."

No Appetite—Bad Color—General Debility

"I was run down," writes Mr. Albert H. Dixon, of Fairhaven P. O. "My color was dull and, appetite was poor, and I constantly suffered from rheumatism.

"I found it hard to sleep and felt worn out and tired all the time. Dr. Hamilton's Pills made an instant change. I grew strong, my blood was restored, rheumatism vanished. To-day I am vigorous, cheery and healthy in every respect."

SPECIAL NOTICE.—The secret of the wonderful success of Dr. Hamilton's Pills is due to their ability to improve the tone of the kidneys, liver, stomach and bowels, thereby assuring an ample supply of rich, nourishing blood, which circulates its strengthening influence to every part of the system that requires assistance.

Take Dr. Hamilton's Pills when you're well, when you're sick, whenever you think a purifying tonic will do you good. Sold everywhere in yellow boxes, 25c. each or five for $1.00. Insist on having only Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut.

Mr. Kennedy will take charge in about a month. This has always been a good stand for the above line of business, and no doubt Mr. Kennedy will meet with a large patronage.

Arm Crushed by a Belt

Frank Rushover, a belt repairer at the Marlbank Cement Co.'s works, near Tweed, had his arm caught in a belt, and the limb was badly crushed. Dr. Young Fully Recovered

Major Dr. Young, Rubidge street, we are pleased to say, is once more to be seen thriving about the streets looking after his patients. It will be remembered that some two weeks ago Dr. Young had the misfortune to step on the point of an upturned nail, which passing through the sole of his shoe, entered his foot. For some time it was feared that septic emia might result. However, yesterday, the genial medico looked hale and hearty as ever.

A Lecture on Wales

Last night, Rev. Arthur Davis, before a large audience in the Park Street Baptist church, delivered a most instructive and eloquent lecture on "The Welsh Revival." Mr. Davis, who is himself a Welshman, and possesses the ancient fire and vigor of his sturdy fellow countrymen, depicted graphically the great wave of religious enthusiasm that has recently dominated that principality, and gave his audience a good insight into Welsh life and customs. A silver collection taken at the door realized a good round sum, which will be devoted towards the building fund of the Wesley church.

—The new bowling alley in the old Opera House Block is complete, and the merry rumble of the balls is heard day and night.

—The pupils of the Norwood High School have sent a donation of money and clothing to Toronto for charitable distribution. Good. High School pupils !!

—Mr. W. H. Hall is a strong advocate for asking Mr. Carnegie for $30,000 towards a public library; while Mr. James English, Peterborough's veteran, expert in library matters, is as strongly against such procedure.

—Ald. Tovey's Young Ladies' Bible Class of the Charlotte Street church have contributed $25 from the autograph quilt fund; city relief fund, $15; relief committee, Children's Aid Society, $10.

Stop that tickling Cough! Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure will surely stop it, and with perfect safety. It is so thoroughly harmless Dr. Shoop tells mothers to use nothing else even with very young babies. The wholesome green leaves and tender stems of a lung healing mountainous shrub furnish the curative properties of Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. It calms the cough, and heals the sensitive bronchial membranes. No opium, no chloroform, nothing harsh used to injure or suppress. Demand Dr. Shoop's. Take no other. All Dealers.

—Peterborough will be represented in the C.B.A. meet to be held in Toronto on Feb. 15th. The local bowlers will probably "hob up serenely" in the front rank.

—The Children's Aid Society acknowledges the receipt of the following donations towards the relief fund: A Friend, $1.; Dr. Burnham, $10; a Friend, $5.

—A local man claims that Peterborough dogs are not being poisoned by malicious forethought, but by eating the paste falling from the local bill boards. How about goats that eat paste, show bills and all, and wind up with tin cans for dessert?

—Those knowing of the whereabouts of any military articles would confer a favor not only on the regiment as a whole, but the various companies, by acquainting Sergt.-Major Britnell.

—The Sanitary Inspector of North Monaghan has been instructed to make a careful inspection of all slaughter houses, pork packers, school wells and water supplied to cheese factories, dairies, etc.

I wish that I might talk with all sick ones about the actual cause of Stomach, Heart, and Kidney ailments. To explain in person how weak Stomach nerves leads to Stomach weakness, I am sure would interest all. And it is the same with weak Hearts or Weak Kidneys. This is why my prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative—so promptly reaches ailments of the Stomach, Heart, and Kidneys. It is wrong to drug the Stomach or stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. These weak inside nerves simply need more strength. My Restorative is the only prescription made exclusively for these nerves. Next to seeing you personally, will be to mail you free, my new booklet entitled, "What To Do." I will also send samples of my Restorative as well. Write for the book to-day. It will surely interest you. Address Dr. Shoop, Box 8, Racine, Wis. All Dealers.

Again yesterday there was nothing doing at the Police Court. Police Magistrate Dumble congratulated the Chief of Police on the moral and sober condition of the city. It is certainly unique that in a manufacturing city of some 16,000 people that day after day should pass by without any grist for the police mill to grind.

Personal

Ald. Bradburn is confined to the house with a severe cold.

Miss Eva Cambrace, of the General Hospital, Galt, is the guest of Mrs. T. B. Manness, East City.

Mrs. William Thompson and Miss Mamie Thompson have returned after visiting in Toronto.

Mr. Bernard Murray, the County Registrar, was in Toronto yesterday on business.

Mds. S. Boyde, Boyceygeon, was a guest at the Snowdon House yesterday.

Mr. Thos. King, Whitby, the well known tanner, was in the city yesterday on business.

Mr. Bert McCallum, of McCallum & Lee, the well known livery men on Water street, is home from Cuba.

Miss Spillsbury, Water street, who has been living in Toronto for the past year, has returned to the city and will reside here permanently.

Mrs. Robinson and daughter, of Toronto, returned home yesterday, after attending the funeral of Mrs. Robinson's brother, the late E. B. Stone.

Mrs. (Dr.) McClelland, Brock street, will not receive today but on Monday next, February 17th, and afterwards on the second and third Monday of every month.

Rev. A. H. Brane returned from Sydney, where he lectured Monday night to a large audience on "The Secret of Solving Life's Problems." This is the second year he has preached anniversary sermons and lectured at this church.

Mrs. E. B. Stone, who accompanied the remains of her late husband here from Pasadena, Cal., and who during her stay in the city was the guest of Mrs. A. H. Mathews, Aylmer St., left yesterday morning to visit her father, Rev. Mr. Craze, of Trenton.

Funeral of the Late Miss A. T. Fife

The friends of Miss A. T. Fife, of Bethel, Otonabee township, will regret to learn that this lady passed away last Monday in Toronto, whilst visiting friends there. She went to that city about two months ago, and was taken ill with pneumonia. The remains were at once brought home, and the funeral was held yesterday afternoon, interment taking place in Fife's cemetery.

A Death at Hazel Brae

Early yesterday, one of the inmates of the Barnardo Home, in the person of Alice M. Carter, passed away. This little girl was born in England twelve years ago, and has been in Canada for five years. Her death was the outcome of an accident while playing at school, when she was accidentally struck on the knee by another child. The funeral will take place at two o'clock tomorrow afternoon from "Hazel Brae," to the Little Lake cemetery, for interment.

Of Interest to Local Regiment

In view of the fact that the 57th Regiment recently visited and had a good time at St. Catharines, Ont., it is of interest to know that a dispatch from that gaity city says:—Lieut.-Col. Campbell has received word from Lieut.-Col. Galloway, O. C., military district western Ontario, that the application of officers of the 19th Regiment, to increase the regiment from four to six companies had been granted by the Minister of Militia.

A Local Phrenologist is Angry

It seems that some wag has been trying to "get a rise" out of a gentleman generally known in this city, viz., the phrenologist expert, Mr. Dick McBride. This would-be joker wrote an anonymous letter to Richard, insinuating that he, McBride, had insured his goods for more than their value, and threw out vague hints that a fire might break out in consequence. Mr. McBride, although the letter was evidently (especially to those knowing him) a canard, was much incensed over the matter, and says the writer is a contemptible low down hound.

Could Not Secure Premises

Mr. J. A. Mordon, a member of a syndicate controlling several Turkish bath houses in Pittsburg, Pa., and Cincinnati, O., was here in the city since Monday, trying to get a location and premises in which to erect and equip a fine Turkish bath establishment here. While most favorably impressed with Peterborough as a likely place for such an institution, Mr. Mordon was unable to secure suitable premises, and so returned yesterday to Toronto. He may return, however, and carry out his original intentions.

Dave Hartley off for Kansas City

Mr. David Hartley, the local crack pedestrian, leaves today for Kansas City, Mo., where he will compete in the big six days' walking contest to be conducted there, commencing Feb. 24th. Through the financial assistance of friends, Mr. Hartley, in addition to the receipts from the concert, is able to take this trip. Notwithstanding the handicap put on this walk, of late, Dave is in good trim. There will be about twenty entries in the Kansas City competition, and they will walk twelve hours each day, from Monday morning until Saturday night.

A Lady Finds Help From Simple Food

Civilization brings blessings and also responsibilities.

The more highly organized we become the more need there is for regularity and natural simplicity in the food we eat.

The laws of body nutrition should be carefully obeyed, and the finer, more highly developed brain and nervous system not hampered by a complicated, unwholesome dietary.

A lady of high nervous tension says: "For fifteen years I was a sufferer from dyspepsia. I confess that an ill-regulated diet was the chief cause of my suffering. Finally, nothing that I ate seemed to agree with my stomach, and life, at times, did not seem worth living.

"I began to take a pessimistic view of everything and see life through dark blue glass, so to speak. My head became affected with a heavy creeping sensation and I feared paralysis.

"Palpitation of the heart caused me to fear that I might die suddenly. Two years ago, hearing Grape-Nuts so highly spoken of by some estimable friends of mine, I determined to try it.

"Change in my condition was little less than miraculous. In a short time the palpitation, bad feeling in head and body began to disappear and the improvement has continued until at the present time I find myself in better health than I have ever enjoyed.

"My weight has increased 20 lbs. in the past year and life looks bright and sunny to me as it did when I was a child.

"For breakfast I eat only Grape-Nuts with cream or good milk, and a cup of Postum."

An Ideal All-Around Newspaper

Probably no other newspaper in the United States can show so brilliant an array of special features suited to the tastes and needs of every member of the family as The Chicago Record-Herald. Its regular daily and Sunday features include the letters of William E. Curtis and Walter Wellman, besides the special dispatches from the great centres. Next in importance comes The Record-Herald's unparalleled foreign news service, embracing its own specialties and those of the New York Herald, World, Journal of Commerce and Associated Press. Its pages devoted to commercial and financial news of all kinds are unsurpassed in scope and accuracy. Among other noteworthy features are its popular sporting page, its sound editorials, Kiser's humorous "Alternating Currents," the lively "Stories of the Street and Town," the railroad and insurance columns, music and drama, society and clubs, daily reviews of the latest books, the continued story, the "Woman Beautiful" department, the daily fashion article, "Meals for a Day", news of the times, etc., besides a complete array of local and domestic news—all uniting to give the people of Chicago and the Northwest a complete and interesting all-around newspaper.

The Sunday Magazine of The Record-Herald is an artistic and literary triumph. Famous authors and illustrators, fine paper and pressework, combine to make it the rival of the great independent periodicals and a distinct departure in Sunday journalism.

February, 1908, is here and so is

The Pacific Fruit Cooling and Vaporizing Company, Incorporated for the purpose of cooling deciduous fruits and removing moisture from citrus fruits and keeping unde cold storage such fruits and other food products from the time of receiving them from the fruit growers until loaded on car and taken away by the Railroad Company for Eastern shipment.

STUBBORN FACTS UNIMPEACHABLE

The loss in shipping deciduous and citrus fruits is enormous. The orange crop of Southern California alone is valued at $30,000,000. The government experts estimate that about 25 per cent. or $7,500,000, is lost every year by rough handling in picking and decay of fruit in transit to the Eastern markets. What a revenue of profit this loss would be to the shipper if it could be saved. Our process will save it. The same is true of the deciduous fruits of Northern California.

GREAT FORTUNES ARE MADE BY INVESTMENTS IN NECESSITIES

Fruit is one of the necessities of our civilized life, and the company that can place the fruit in the markets of the world in the best shape, in the quickest time, at the lowest rate, has a fortune within its grasp. The Armour Company in ten years made $5,000,000 net handling California fruit in refrigerator cars. Our process is as necessary to the fruit grower as the refrigerator car. Therefore we ought to receive as large a revenue for handling the same commodity.

GET IN WHILE THE ENTERPRISE IS NEW

No wiser words were ever spoken than these: "The chief point about getting rich is to invest in a new enterprise that is being managed by successful men, who have some of their own money in the deal." "One good investment is worth a lifetime of labor". Think over this sentence. A man's daily labor will never make him rich. He must have some money at work for him. Money invested never gets sick, keeps no holidays, never goes on strike. There are three things that ought to guide you: First, invest with honest men; second, invest with men of sound judgment; third, invest under conditions where you get your full share of profits the business yields. Get into a company whose destiny is guided by men of this stamp when its future is before and not behind it. Here is the secret of fortune. Plant the seed of your investment in the soil of opportunity, at the season of greatest promise when the enterprise is new. Every ounce of honor in the hearts of the men managing this company is pledged to give

A SQUARE DEAL FOR EVERY INVESTOR

There will be no preferred stock. Every dollar invested will be worth 100 cents on the dollar. Our Directors, as honourable business men, will not allow any tricks of trade by which the small investor can be frozen out. Their commercial standing proves they are not "grafters". The poor man's 500 or 100 shares will have the same standing in court as the rich man's, 10,000, and they will draw the same proportionate dividend. We court investigation.

EVERY RICH MAN IN THE WORLD WAS ONCE POOR, OR HIS GRANDFATHER WAS.

THE OPPORTUNITY OF A LIFETIME

To get into a company that has the certainty of growth, the assurance of large and quick returns, a rapid advance in the price of stock, to make it an exceptional chance for big profits on a small investment. This is an ideal investment for the wage earner as well as the rich man. Moderate sums invested now will bring splendid returns in the near future. The logic of all this is

DON'T WAIT

Time is the essence of this proposition. The stock will certainly double in a short time. Jay Gould once said: "When you see a good investment don't wait to see if it pans out well, for by that time other people see it, too, and you have lost your opportunity."

WOMEN AS INVESTORS

Some of the heaviest stockholders in our company are women of keen business instincts. One lady in Los Angeles bought 5,000 shares. In a few days she returned and bought 5,000 more. This lady has never made a mistake in her business ventures. Women are good investors because they have courage to follow their convictions. Their intuitions are keener and truer than men's logic. Men may prevent her voting, but they can't prevent her drawing dividends on her investments. This is one branch of trade where sex, culture, or color does not count.

MANAGEMENT

The affairs of this company are in the hands of men of honesty, ability, courage and good business judgment—men who have made a success of their own business—men whose business reputation is A1 in the commercial circles in which they move.

These men are "square" and "shrewd". They will not deceive you nor will they be deceived themselves. Because of the promise of growth, permanency and profit this business offers they have united their money, energy, time and business experience to make this enterprise a grand success.

TWO MEN MASHED TO PULP BY LOAD FALLING 760 FEET

Car of Coal Dropped from a Dizzy Height on Underground Managers Conversing at Bottom of Shaft

Halifax, N.S., Feb. 31.—Both the underground managers of Sydney No. 1 Colliery, were instantly killed, this morning, by being crushed to death by a heavy cage which broke away at the top of the shaft and dropped 760 fee: to the bottom. Their names are Malcolm Stuart and John Dorsey. Both are married men and leave large families.

One underground manager is on duty at night and one at day in this colliery. They were standing together at the bottom of the shaft early this morning, presumably in consultation about some matter in connection with the mine, when the heavy cage, in which the coal is hauled to the surface, dropped on them crushing them into a pulp.

The cage had been carried up too far in the last hoist and the cable broke, letting the heavy steel tub drop to the bottom of the shaft.

This is the worst accident which has occurred at the Nova Scotia Steel and Coal Company's collieries at Sydney mine for some time. About a year ago three men were killed in the same manner.

Peterboro Champion Pedestrian Leaves for Kansas City

Yesterday at noon Mr. David Hartley, carrying a large telescope valise with his racing clothes, left by G.T.R. on his long trip to Kansas City, to participate against the crack American pedestrians—the six days' walking match in convention hall of that city. Mr. Hartley looked in the best of health and was thoroughly confident as he shook hands with several friends who wished him good bye and good luck at the station. Mr. R. J. Munro accompanied Dave to the station, and bade him "Au revoir." Mrs. Hartley and their little girl also saw him off.

In addition to particulars about the great contest that the local man will take part in, we might note that a full list of the entries is as follows:

Federal Government Will Disallow the Anti-Japanese Law

Ottawa, Feb 13.—Your correspondent is informed that as soon as the act of the Anti-Oriental law of the Province of British Columbia, which was assented to this week by the Lieutenant-Governor, has reached Ottawa, it will be promptly disallowed by the Federal authorities.

In the meantime instructions have been wired to the agent of the Justice Department on the Pacific Coast that if any attempt is made under the Provincial law to deny admission to Japanese immigrants, that habeas corpus proceedings are to be instituted at once, and the validity of the Provincial statute attacked before the courts. The Japanese Government has already been made aware of everything that has been done, and that the rights of Japanese under the terms of the Japanese-Canadian treaty will be fully protected.

Federal authorities claim the Provincial statute is so plainly ultra vires that there will be no difficulty whatever in obtaining a pronouncement to that effect from the courts, and that this would not only dispose of the matter for the present, but also make it impossible for the Province to re-enact its law next session.

Directions for Home Made Blood Medicine

This Splendid Prescription Should be Known to All

A leading druggist journal, in answering the question, "What is the most prescribed to cleanse and purify the blood," gives as a recent issue the following: Fluid extract of Burdock, one-half ounce, Compound Extract of Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Make a dose and use as teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bedtime.

A well known local druggist who is familiar with this prescription states that it is harmless, being composed of simple ingredients which can be obtained from any good druggist, then pharmacy.

It cleanses the blood of all impurities and nourishes the blood, in just a few days the skin begins to clear of sores, boils and pimples. It puts vigor and energy into run-down, debilitated men and women. For many years Sarsaparilla alone has been considered a good blood medicine. But while it built up and made new blood the impurities remained within, and the good accomplished was only temporary. Sarsaparilla, however, when used in combination with Compound Extract and Extract Dandelion works wonders. This combination puts the kidneys to work to filter and sift out the waste matter, uric acid and other impurities that cause disease. It makes new blood and removes rheumatism and lame back and bladder troubles.

This prescription is better than the usual target medicines, which are to the most part alcoholic concoctions. The ingredients cost but little and are easily mixed at home. Every man and woman here should make about up and try it, they feel their system requires a good blood medicine and tonic.

The Kargon to clean the kidneys and vitalize them so they can clean the blood, Sarsaparilla as purifier, new rich blood and Dandelion to tone the stomach, obtain the liver and make it active and vigilant assistants to the work this prescription aids step by solidly and rightly that good does not overtake those who are taking a medicine.

Sports

TRENTON WON SEVEN TO FOUR.

Queenston, Ont., Feb. 12.—A very interesting game of hockey was played here last night, in which Trenton defeated Queenston by a score of 7 to 4. The game was fast and furious, and Queenston made many good rushes and kept the Trenton goal keeper busy all through the game. The Trenton boys were very much surprised with the hard fight Queenston gave them. It was said by some of the Trenton team that they intended to defeat Queenston by ten goals at the very least. This was the first St. Lawrence League game of the season here. The rink was crowded with spectators coming Niagara, Belleville and Trenton.

AFTER CHAMPIONSHIP

London, Feb. 12.—Eustace Miles will leave here for the United States on March 10 to make an attempt to win the American court tennis championship honors, as well as to retain the British championship, which he lost last summer to Jay Gould. Miles has been practising steadily for three months, and he shows good form.

TRESSALON WAS BEATEN.

Little Current, Ont., Feb. 12.—The Manitoulin Island, met defeat here last night by the score of 8 to 5. The game was clean and fast.

Boston, Mass., Feb. 10. — Believing that he owes his life to daily ocean swims, Sam Mahoney, captain of the Volunteer Life Saving Service, Corps No. 35, of Revere Beach, will attempt in June to swim the English Channel. Mahoney is confident of his ability to succeed where many other skilful and strong swimmers have failed.

ABSOLUTE CONFIDENCE NEEDED.

"To swim from the English to the French shore, as I propose to do," said Mahoney, "requires a lot of vitality, a good stomach and absolute confidence of one's self while in the water. More fail at long-distance swimming because of the latter than from any other reason. When a man gets into the water and is all alone, even a mile from shore he feels that he is a mighty small potato."

"Can I do it on the first attempt?" repeated Mahoney in reply to the reporter's question. "I can if weather conditions are right. It is all a study of wind and water conditions. I figure on being able to spend it in the water for twenty hours. If I can do that and am beaten off the French shore by an adverse tide, I should be able to stay in the water until the tide changes and come in with the next."

A FIRST-CLASS ICEMAN.

One day last week with the temperature below zero and the wind blowing a gale, Mahoney went into the water and swam around for five minutes. A while ago when Revere Beach was ice-capped and miniature glaciers dotted the sandy stretch, Mahoney went out in his bathing suit, shoeless and hatless, remaining on the ice for one hour and thirty-five minutes, while two physicians, doubting Mahoney's endurance, looked on in amazement.

PROVINCIAL ELECTIONS WILL LIKELY TAKE PLACE ON SATURDAY, JUNE 20

That is if the Legislature Can Get Through Business Before Good Friday

Toronto, Feb. 13.—If the Legislature is able to wind up its business and prorogue by Easter, the Government will make its appeal to the Province on or before Saturday, June 20th.

There is opportunity for the carrying out of this programme, which is reported to be the first choice of the Administration, owing to the late date of Easter this year. It does not come until April has well advanced. If, however, the House is unable to wind up its proceedings by that time, no election will be called until the early autumn, after harvesting operations have been completed.

The aim of the Administration, however, is to secure the earlier appeal. Government legislation is well advanced, and the measures will all be placed before the House early in the session. Of course, much is dependent upon the course decided upon by the Opposition in debate and discussion. There is likely to be considerable speech making, on both sides by those anxious to secure campaign material.

FOOD FOR THE CAMPAIGN.

Much of the Governmental legislation for the present session is to be utilized as planking for the campaign platform, and will be of a constructive character. Hon. Mr. Foy's measures, already brought down of law reform and amendments to the Election Acts, with a view to ensuring cleaner campaigns, Hon Mr. Pyne's plans for increased aid to urban public schools along lines already adopted in reference to rural schools, coupled with a contemplated important announcement in relation to the new Readers and reduced prices for better school books; Hon. Mr. Hanna's proposal for improvement of prison and asylum conditions, with a settlement of the vexed prison labor question; Hon. Mr. Cochrane's measures to aid and protect bona fide settlers, and to further develop a larger Ontario; Hon. Mr. Matheson's bills to aid municipalities in disposing of their debentures and in caring for their sinking funds; proposals from Hon. Mr. Monteith along agricultural and colonization lines, and from Hon. Dr. Beaume on colonization roads; Hon. Mr. Hendrie's railway legislation, and a pronouncement by Hon. Mr. Beck as to the Power Policy — all these will be utilized in the coming campaign. If the Government had its way, the question of Provincial Rights will also loom large on the political horizon.

OPPOSITION PLANS.

The plans of the Opposition are not yet fully matured. They expect to hold an important caucus next week to discuss the outlook. It is likely they will seek to out-Herod Herod along radical lines and advance the criticism that the Government programme is largely taken from their suggestions, but does not go far enough.

The temperance question is regarded charily by both parties. A proposal is likely to be submitted to the Liberal caucus that prohibition be adopted outright, but a canvass of the members shows that it will not be generally supported. It is probable, however, that, upon selecting their line of conduct, the Liberals will decide upon a Provincial convention to be held almost immediately upon the conclusion of the session, to confer with the rank and file of the party, and to give Hon. Mr. MacKay, the new leader, the prestige of a general party endorsement prior to the campaign.

Convert All Kansas Object of Campaign

Ten Months to be Devoted to Revivals in Every Town in State

Churches Will Unite

Washington, Feb. 14.—Kansas has been the scene of many sensational movements. The first settlers were free soilers who fought to extend and defend their opinions. From the beginning of Kansas history there have been periods of moral, social, religious and political uprisings in that state that have stirred the entire commonwealth. Many fantasies and fallacies have originated there. It has been said that there is more moral sentiment to the acre in Kansas than in any other state, except Massachusetts, and more original and independent thought than in any other quarter of the habitable world.

The temperance people have long claimed Kansas for their own. They now insist that the prohibition law is enforced strictly throughout the state, except in two or three small spots, which they are looking after carefully. Now, having reformed the morals, they propose to improve the spiritual condition of the entire population by holding simultaneous revivals in every Kansas town during next fall and winter.

The movement is to be conducted upon business principles, with a complete organization, including many of the leading bankers, merchants, manufacturers, farmers, and professional men of the state.

It is expected that this agitation will result in a great religious awakening that will not be confined to Kansas, but will spread over the entire country like that led by Jonathan Edwards and George Whitefield between 1734 and 1740.

They call it "the Kansas forward movement for evangelistic work." The motto is "Kansas for Christ". The headquarters will be at 118 West Eighth avenue, Topeka. The general manager is Rev. William Edward Biederwolf, D. D., of Monticello, Ind., a Presbyterian, and the executive officers are as follows:

President—C. Q. Chandler, Wichita.
Vice-president—C. E. Putnam, Richmond, Kan.
Treasurer—D. W. Hills, Salina, Kan.
Secretary—Howard E. Taylor, Philadelphia.

There is a press bureau under the direction of Ray Cliff.

The advisory board consists of four representatives from each of the following denominations, two clergymen and two laymen: Baptist, Christian, Congregational, Evangelical, Friends, Methodist, Methodist Protestant, Presbyterian, Lutheran, United Brethren and United Presbyterian.

The originator and leader of the movement, Rev. William E. Biederwolf, D. D., is now conducting a series of meetings at Reading, Pa., where he will remain until Feb. 23. He then expects to return to his home at Monticello, Ind., where he will carry on his preparations for the Kansas crusade.

COMMON SENSE

Leads most intelligent people to use only medicines of known composition. Therefore it is that Dr. Pierce's medicines, the makers of which print every ingredient entering into them upon the bottle wrappers and attest its correctness under oath, are daily growing in favor. The composition of Dr. Pierce's medicines is open to everybody. Dr. Pierce being desirous of having the search light of investigation turned fully upon his formulæ, being confident that the fuller the confession of their medicines is known the more will their great curative merits be recognized. Being wholly made of the active medicinal principles extracted from native forest roots, by exact processes original with Dr. Pierce, and without the use of a drop of alcohol, triple-refined and chemically pure glycerine being used instead in extracting and preserving the curative virtues residing in the roots employed, these medicines are entirely free from the objection of doing harm by creating an appetite for either alcoholic beverages or habit-forming drugs. Examine the formula on their bottle wrappers—the same as sworn to by Dr. Pierce, and you will find that his "Golden Medical Discovery," the great, blood-purifier, stomach tonic and bowel regulator—the medicine which, while not recommended to cure consumption in its advanced stages (no medicine will do that) yet does cure all those catarrhal conditions of head and throat, weak stomach, torpid liver and bronchial troubles, weak lungs and hang-on-coughs, which, if neglected or badly treated lead up to and finally terminate in consumption.

Take the "Golden Medical Discovery" in time and it is not likely to disappoint you if only you give it a thorough and fair trial. Don't expect miracles. It won't do supernatural things. You must exercise your patience and persevere in its use for a reasonable length of time to get its full benefits. The ingredients of which Dr. Pierce's medicines are composed have the unqualified endorsement of scores of medical leaders—better than any amount of lay, or non-professional, testimonials. They are not given away to be experimented with but are sold by all dealers in medicines at reasonable prices.

Durham, Ont., Feb. 13. — Henry Clayburn, Glenelg township's first and oldest settler, died at Williamsland, near here, on the 4th instant, at the age of 112 years. Clayburn, the last of a family of negroes who settled near Rocky Saugeen about the year 1842, was born in Virginia in 1795, and from his birth till the age of 45 was a slave on his master's plantation, near Richmond. In 1811 he and a number of his comrades deserting, less the result of capture than the thought of a life of everlasting drudgery, packed up their few belongings and fled northward to the free country, gaining Canadian territory without mishaps and locating within five miles of the place where he died.

Though there are some who place the old negro's age at 116, Mrs. James Edge, who is herself 85 and who has known him since 1844, has no doubt but that 112 is the correct figure.

Above the fact that he was a good, respectable neighbor, little is known of the old darkey, who, though a familiar figure on the streets of Durham three years ago, has been seen but little since that time.

Found dead, frozen, fishing and trapping, he did little else, and was contented and happy with enough to eat and wear. He leaves no relatives, and was buried in the Rocky Saugeen Cemetery on Monday, the snow blockade preventing earlier interment.

DOWNFALL OF THRONE WAITED IN PORTUGAL

Republic Within Few Months, is Prediction of Radical Leaders--Think King Will Give Up

Lisbon, Feb. 14. — The republican leaders in Portugal are to-day in extremely high spirits. They assert confidently that a republic is now a matter of months, not of years. The Associated Press to-day secured an opinion on the situation and an outline of the republican plan of campaign from perhaps the most competent spokesman of the party. This man said:

"The end of the monarchy is near. It will come as unexpectedly as did the murder of the king and the crown prince, and the world will wake up one morning to find a republic in Portugal. We are convinced that the revolution will be a peaceful one. It is a mistake for foreigners to imagine that the people of Portugal are not awake. There is a republican organization in every town, and doctors, lawyers and even the village priests are sending in notices of their adherence by the score, and there are avowed republican officers in the army.

SAYS KING WILL YIELD.

"King Manuel is a well intentioned boy. He starts his regime with fair words and the restoration of political liberty, but it is inevitable that he should fall into the hands of the manipulators of the two old parties, whose bankruptcy was proclaimed by King Carlos and Premier Franco. The men about the throne know that the end is near, and when the time comes when they realize that they cannot fight they will surrender, as did Dom Pedro in Brazil. I don't think a shot will be fired. King Carlos knew he was making his last fight. He had transferred every dollar he had to England.

"We will make a change of regime an open issue in the coming campaign. We will demand that the monarchy, which has dragged down Portugal into the mire of political and financial bankruptcy, abdicated to the people. They dare not try repression again; they can only surrender."

While the troops since last Tuesday remain in their barracks during the daytime, Lisbon at night still resembles an armed camp. Cavalry is massed in the public squares, pickets patrol the streets and heavily armed sailors guard the state bank night and day.

COMMERCE IS PARALYZED.

The financial situation is viewed with great alarm. The country is staggering under its foreign debt and commerce is almost paralyzed by the fluctuations of the gold premium. Conservative bankers consider the financial situation to be more critical than the political.

Political conditions, already chaotic before the murder of the king and crown prince, became utterly demoralized after the commission of these crimes. Then consternation and panic prevailed among the police and at court, and the release of France's strong hand from the helm left the ship of state adrift. But with the new cabinet pledged to constitutional methods and the abolition of the dictatorship and existing measures of repression, the situation improved. King Manuel openly acknowledged the irregularity of the money advances to the royal family under his father's reign, which were the original causes of the political turmoil, and he publicly ordered the discontinuance of this practice.

It is hard to forecast the future. If things drift back to the old rut of governmental corruption, whence King Carlos and Premier Franco rescued the monarchy, a republic might come. The republicans are the natural inheritors of the mistakes of the monarchy, but the masses are groaning under their personal burdens. They are either ignorant of or indifferent to the political turmoil. Something is necessary to galvanize them into action, and this is exactly what the small but evidently desperate organization of militant revolutionists in Lisbon and Oporto are trying to do. They want to drive the people to revolt.

WOULD KILL OUT DYNASTY.

The immediate danger in the situation comes from the fact that the police are baffled and the government unable to ascertain the extent of the ramifications of the conspiracies which have been signaled during the last fortnight by the discovery at various places of depots bombs and arms and ammunition. It was known that Premier Franco was marked for assassination. That is why he deemed it wise to flee. But the assassination of the king was not expected and it created almost a reign of terror in high places. There is not the slightest question that the plot was only half successful. The murder of the entire royal family and the extinction of the dynasty was the aim of the conspirators. It is certain that other men had been stationed at other points of the route of the royal carriage that fatal Saturday afternoon, and that if the murder had not been committed on the Praca do Commercio it would have been attempted elsewhere. That same night an attempt was made to bring about a mutiny on the part of the infantry and artillery regiments in Lisbon, but the officers locked the doors of the barracks and the conspirators were unable to gain access to the men.

The latter part of the week the fear grew that an attempt would be made when the funerals were held to complete the bloody work that was left unfinished a week ago. To prevent anything of this kind extraordinary precautions were taken.

The censorship over both commercial and press dispatches is rigorous. There is in operation a regular star chamber to prevent any but the most rosy view of the situation from reaching the outside world. Even letters mailed at the postoffice are opened by the authorities. The foreign newspaper correspondents who flocked into Lisbon after the tragedy were completely fooled for several days. They were informed by telegraph officials, high and low, that the censorship was virtually at an end. By this means they were induced to file their messages in Lisbon. But thousands of the words written by the newspaper men never got any further than the waste paper basket.

Opened the Ballot Box and Changed Many of the Ballots

Mayor Wiltse Says Chas. Hillyer Confessed of Irregularity In Vote

In Town of Clinton

Toronto, Feb. 31.—A most extraordinary revelation of ballot manipulating by a Deputy Returning officer of the town of Clinton the occasion of the submission to the public vote of a bylaw to expend $53,000 on waterworks improvements in that town, is being made before Mr. Justice Britton in the Single Court at Osgoode Hall today.

A motion to quash the bylaw because of these irregularities is being made against the town by Mr. H. L. Dickenson, on behalf of four ratepayers, Oliver Johnson, George Graham, T. Jackson and Alexander McKenzie. The bylaw was voted on Sept. 30th last, and carried by a vote of 280 for and 139 against. On Oct. 7th it passed the Council.

The motion sets forth:

"That one Charles Hillyer, who acted as deputy returning officer at polling subdivision No. 2, when the said bylaw was submitted to the electors on the 30th day of September, 1907, did, while so acting, and during the hours of polling, break and open the ballot box at the said polling booth, and take out and destroy a number of ballots of voters who had cast their votes thereat, and did mark an equal number of ballot papers in favor of the said bylaw, and place them in the said ballot box in lieu of those taken out and destroyed, which said ballot papers so substituted, were counted in favor of the bylaw at the said election."

"Charles Hillyer, who acted as deputy returning officer at the taking of the vote on the waterworks bylaw, confessed to me that he destroyed a number of ballots marked by voters, and himself marked other ballots, and deposited them in the ballot box, and that he marked all of the said ballots for the bylaw."

It is further stated that one of the deputy returning officers, N. Robson, was absent from his post for a few minutes and left no one in charge. Against this point affidavits are filed by R. Homes and F. R. Hodgens, to the effect that they only were near the boxes during this time, and that the boxes were untouched by them.

It was also charged that the promoters of the bylaw engaged hacks to work during the polling. This is contradicted by Dr. Shaw, the chairman of the committee.

Judge Britton this afternoon refused to quash the bylaw.

PROTESTANTS WILL PERFORM CEREMONY

Montreal, Feb. 13.—Archbishop Bruchesi has made it known that since he placed the ban on mixed marriages whereby applications have been made to him for dispensations, and that in no instance has it been granted. Following quickly on the Strathy-Lewis wedding, which was performed by a Protestant clergyman, it has become known that a member of another very prominent Toronto-Canadian family, and a descendant of the Seigneur of Rimouski, Miss De Lery Macdonald, unable to secure a dispensation to be married to Mr. A. Shipsted by a Catholic priest, will be married by a Protestant minister, and the ceremony will take place during this Lenten season at a time prescribed by the Catholic church. Miss Macdonald is a relative of Sir W. C. Macdonald, the tobacco king.

MORE ADVANCES BY DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION

The Minister of Education has issued a circular in which he says that the policy of the Government will be to lessen the importance of examinations in the schools. Examinations are often looked upon as the chief end of the work of schools, while the principal aim of education is the formation of character.

Another objection to the existing system is that the product of secondary schools are often poor in spelling, penmanship, reading, letter-writing, and elementary arithmetic, which are usually regarded as the essentials of a practical education. Still even if the examination system were a fair test it would hardly be fair to keep a pupil back a whole year because he lacks proficiency in one of these subjects.

Accordingly the circular says the Education Department proposes to do away altogether with the stress of examinations in the lower public school subjects. Examinations for entrance to the training schools for teachers will be conducted for the sole purpose of testing the competency o fthe candidates. A thorough academical course is provided in the normal schools, and no candidate will be allowed to pass the final examination without a competent knowledge of all the subjects he will have to teach in the public schools.

As far as practical at present the same provision has been made in the faculties of education, and will be made in the model schools of the future. It is also the aim of the Education Department to make the trustees and teachers responsible as far as possible according to local needs that every pupil receives the education for his life work, to which he has the right.

"We have educated too many for clerical and professional pursuits, in which there is little room, and too few for industrial pursuits, in which there is always room. The future of Ontario demands that this shall cease."

In conclusion, the circular, after outlining in detail the way the new system will be worked, says: "The examination holds an important place in any well-ordered system of education, but a system which depends mainly upon the stimulus of examinations cannot build up the character of our youth or prepare them for the diverse duties of life."

A Winter Number of "Rod and Gun"

When Winter is King in Canada the delights of the Dominion come out in manifold guise. The woods put on new beauties and sportsmen turn to the open, sure of fresh pleasures and increased enjoyments. Winter scenes are so characteristic of Canada, so much misunderstood abroad, and so heartily enjoyed within the borders of our own wide country, that ROD AND GUN AND MOTOR SPORTS IN CANADA, published by W. J. Taylor, at Woodstock, Ont., in issuing a Winter number and directing attention to the wonders of that season in Canada, is doing good service. The delights of a snowshoe tramp are not exceeded by any other form of outdoor pleasure and experts tell of experiences which make the blood tingle and the longing come again with ten-fold force to again find one's self on the skees. While Winter is prominent throughout the number there is plenty of other fare for the sportsman who may be particularly recommended to the valuable paper on the Woodcock, by Mr. John Arthur Hope, and the fine story of Crossing the Waterways, by Martin Hunter. In addition there are stories of hunting in Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and British Columbia, while the echoes of the dog controversy continue to be heard in three short, forceful papers which form no mean contribution to a question, the full effects of which must be considered by the Legislature ere long. Mountain climbing is given a place and the departments all display vigorous life and are full of interest. The whole number is such as could only be produced by a magazine having Canada as its field, and both in subjects and in method of dealing with them must interest every sportsman, let his particular hobby in outdoor life be what it may.

An English Amenity.

A striking difference between our manners and those of our English cousins was shown one day at a garden party. The hostess, an American, was speaking to one of her guests, an Englishwoman of rank.

"Dear Lady B.," she said, "here are some sandwiches which I made with my own hands, particularly for you. You know I've often told you about our American sandwiches and how good they are. Here are different sorts, lettuce and cucumbers, if you care for 'grass,' or if you like a savory better try the cream cheese ones with pimentoes. I've some sweet ones, too, raisins and nuts chopped together—which will you try first?"

She held a plate in each hand, a plate filled with dainty looking sandwiches, and they were extended invitingly toward her guest, who looked at them critically, then said in the clear, high pitched voice of the well bred Englishwoman:

"Oh, thank you, so kind of you, but do you know I never touch the nawsty things?"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Chance For a Home Run.

A clever teacher who has the power of calling out originality in her pupils says that she would have no use for text books if she took time to answer all the startling questions asked in the classroom. One day the attraction of gravitation was under discussion when one of the boys said that he didn't see any need of it, anyway.

"It seems to me," said he, "there's no particular use in having the earth attract things. Now, when the apple fell and made Newton think out the reason for it, that apple might just as well have stayed where it was until somebody gathered it."

"You play ball, don't you?" asked the teacher. "Well, suppose you knock the ball very high, what happens?"

"It falls."

"But if there were no attraction toward the earth it wouldn't fall. Don't you think that might prove inconvenient?"

"My," cried the boy, "what a bully chance for a home run!"

The "Six Hundred Ruffians."

On Feb. 23, 1838, Lord Maidstone called the attention of the house to a speech delivered by O'Connell at a political dinner in London in which he asserted that the Tory election committee of the day—or the committees appointed by the house to try election petitions, a practice which has since been abolished—had stooped to "foul perjury" in order that their friends might retain their seats. A vote of censure on O'Connell, which was moved by Lord Maidstone, was carried by a majority of nine.

A few days later a curious scene was witnessed in the house. O'Connell had to stand up in his place in the crowded chamber while the speaker, James Abercromby, solemnly reproved him for "the false and scandalous imputation" he had cast upon "the honor and conduct of members of the house. It now only remains," said the speaker in conclusion, "that in obedience to the commands of this house I should reprimand you, as I now accordingly do."

The reprimand, however, made no impression upon O'Connell. "I have repented of nothing, I have retracted nothing," said he in the course of a speech he delivered when the speaker resumed his seat, and he concluded by moving a committee before which to prove his charges. He subsequently described the house of commons—in a speech delivered outside—as "six hundred ruffians."

Squirrels in Missouri.

Squirrels are generally thickest in the heavy hickory timber in the big tracts of overcup oaks. When these crops have borne but slightly the squirrel transfers his feeding grounds to the willow oak flats, where an abundance of these small acorns makes up for the lack of other dainties. But if a farmer has plowed up a tract of rich swamp land and planted it in corn, then the gray squirrel feels as though the nut crop was but a very common diet and levies tribute day after day on the farmer who has had the audacity to invade a territory that has been sacred to him for centuries.

Gray squirrels are out stirring from the first gray of dawn until the hour of 10 a. m. After that they are not seen again until 4 p. m. On very windy days few stir about. During the nutting season they are very gentle, and during the latter part of January, while watching the mallards drop into the willow oak flats, they scampered all around us, and hardly a tree but held a band of these running varmints. Often they boldly returned within ten yards of us. In the fall they are more wary of man and make good shooting as they run and jump from tree to tree, as they seldom lie still and permit one to walk all around their tree, like the fox squirrel of the hills.—Forest and Stream.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in the curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

Sealed Tenders addressed to the undersigned, marked on the envelope "Tender for Construction," will be received at the office of the Commissioners of the Transcontinental Railway, at Ottawa, until twelve o'clock, noon, of Tuesday, the 10th day of March, 1908, for the work required for the construction, in accordance with the plans, profiles and specifications of the Commissioners, of the following sections of the Transcontinental Railway, viz:—

(1) District 'A'.—From a point designated on the plans of the Commissioners, about the 58th mile west of Moncton, to the crossing of the Intercolonial Railway at or about mile 97.7, a distance of about 39.7 miles.

(2) District 'A'.—From a point designated on the plans of the Commissioners, at or about the crossing of the Intercolonial Railway by the Transcontinental Railway at mile 97.7 west of Moncton to the Tobique River, at or about mile 165.7 less one mile, a distance of about 67 miles.

(3) District 'A'.—From a point designated on the plans of the Commissioners, at or near the Tobique River, to a point shown on the said plans about 2 1-2 miles west of the Town of Grand Falls, in the Province of New Brunswick, a distance of about 31.5 miles.

(4) District 'B'.—From a point designated on the plans of the Commissioners, at or near the boundary line between the Provinces of Quebec and New Brunswick, westerly a distance of abut 52.4 miles.

(5) District 'D'.—From a point designated on the plans of the Commissioners, about eight miles west of the Abitibi River crossing, in the Province of Ontario, westerly for a distance of about 149 miles.

(6) District 'E'.—From a point designated on the plans of the Commissioners, about 19 1-2 miles west of the crossing of Mud River, near Lake Nepigon, in the Province of Ontario, easterly for a distance of about 75 miles.

Plans, profiles and specifications may be seen in the office of the Chief Engineer of the Commissioners at Ottawa; also in the offices of the District Engineers concerned, viz:—Guy C. Dunn, St. John, N. B.; A. E. Doucet, Quebec, P. Q.; John Aylen, Acting District Engineer, North Bay, Ont.; and T. S. Armstrong, Nepigon, Ont.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made in duplicate, and on the printed forms supplied by the Commissioners. A separate tender must be submitted for each section.

Tenderers shall not be in any way entitled to rely upon the classification, or any other information given by any person on behalf of the Commissioners; and before submitting any tender, bidders should make a careful examination of the plans, profiles, drawings and specifications and read the forms to be executed, and fully inform themselves as to the quantity and quality of materials, and character of workmanship required; and are understood to accept, and agree to be bound by, the terms and conditions in the form of contract, specifications, etc., annexed to the form of tender.

Each tender must be signed and sealed by all the parties to the tender, and witnessed, and be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered bank of the Dominion of Canada, payable to the order of the Commissioners, of the Transcontinental Railway, as follows:—

For Section No. 1, District 'A'... $ 75,000
For Section No. 2, District 'A'... 100,000
For Section No. 3, District 'A'... 75,000
For Section No. 4, District 'B'... 100,000
For Section No. 6, District 'E'... 100,000

Any person whose tender is accepted shall within ten days after the acceptance thereof furnish such additional approved security as may be required by the Commissioners; sign the contract, specifications, and other documents required to be signed by the said Commissioners; and, in any case of refusal or failure on the part of the party whose tender is accepted to complete and execute a contract with the said Commissioners, and to furnish the additional approved security within ten days after the acceptance of the tender, the said cheque shall be forfeited to the Commissioners as liquidated damages for such refusal or failure and all contracts rights acquired by the acceptance of the tender shall be forfeited. The cheques deposited by parties whose tenders are accepted will be deposited to the credit of the Receiver General of Canada as part of the security for the due and faithful performance of the contract according to its terms. Cheques deposited by parties whose tender are rejected will be returned within ten days after the signing of the contract.

'All mechanics, labourers, or other persons who perform labour for the purposes of the construction of the works hereby contracted for, shall be paid such wages as are generally accepted as current for competent workmen in the district in which the work is being performed, and if there is no current rate in such district, then a fair and reasonable rate; and, in the event of a dispute arising as to what is the current or a fair and reasonable rate, it shall be determined by the Commissioners, whose decision shall be final.'

'This agreement is subject to the regulations now in force, or which may at any time hereafter be in force during the construction of the works hereby contracted for, made under the authority of the Department of Labour, and which are, or shall be, applicable to such works.' (The schedule of minimum wages determined upon by said Department will form part of the contract).

The contractor shall in connection with the whole of the said work, as far as practicable, use only material, machinery, plant, supplies, and rolling stock manufactured or produced in Canada, provided the same can be obtained as cheaply, and upon as good terms, in Canada as elsewhere, having regard to quality and price.'

The contractor shall conform to the fire regulations adopted by the Commissioners, and also to the laws and regulations respecting fires in the different provinces wherein the work is being performed.

The right is reserved to reject any or all tenders.

A Business Proposition!

FOR BUSINESS MEN AND WOMEN

I want business men and women who have money to invest to write me for particulars.

I have an absolutely clean and safe deal that has been tested and proved by actual experience.

It will pay over $600 yearly income on every $1,000 invested, (over $100 yearly on each $200 invested) yet is not a racing or gambling scheme, but a straight, legitimate, profitable, honest business you would be proud to to be identified with.

It needs more money to run it on a large scale, hence this offer to you who have money and the business sense and acumen to share in this good thing.

I have submitted particulars of this deal to the proprietors and editors of this paper; they are business men and have approved it because it is safe, sound and clean, and the promises made are straight and reasonable.

When you read these particulars I believe you will approve and be glad you investigated. No matter if you have $5,000 or $10,000 to invest or only $100 or $200, it applies equally to all. It is a

for Business Men and Women of sense and discrimination. THIS MEANS YOU.

Write at once; write now, before you forget, stating about the amount you have for investment, and I will promptly send you a personal reply with the clearest and most concise facts and particulars.

Modest Capitalization Large Coal Reserves

This Company organized under the laws of the Northwest Territories of Canada, owns and operates the Galbraith mine located at Lund bank, Alta. They have four vertical seams of coal traversing their property, aggregating over 40 feet in thickness. Three of these seams are developed to a depth of 350 feet, and as they pass through the Company's lands for nearly a mile, some idea of the amount of coal may be had.

Shipping Steadily

The present output of the mine is about 200 tons per day. These shipments will be rapidly increased, as the C.P.R. allows its cars to be loaded with coal for points in the U. S.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTHWEST HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an Agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of a homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father or mother.

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing must be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa, of intention to apply for patent.

BALANCE IN THE AIR.

The Necessity For Equilibrium in Bird Flight.

It is likely that the bird's superb ease and grace in the air are due to its ability to maintain absolute balance. If a gull makes the mistake of bending until the wind strikes its head and wings on the top it will tumble instantly. And the sailing birds, though they make no flapping motion of their wings, are constantly balancing themselves, like a man on a tight rope. Some scientists have maintained that the air sacs make it possible for the bird to manage minute changes that are very valuable in restoring equilibrium. It is known that the wing is joined to the body of the bird by what is called a universal joint, enabling the creature to make almost every possible motion. The body of a man is heavier than water, but if he gets into a position of perfect balance he will float. In some such way, it is claimed, the bird floats in the air. But as the bird would fall much more rapidly in the air than a man's body would sink in water the necessity for a far more subtle ability to keep the center of gravity on the part of the bird is apparent; hence, according to this theory, the bird is provided for this purpose with the most sensitive equipment, made up of nerves and mysterious air ducts, many of the wing feathers perhaps acting as sentinels, warning instantly of the slightest approach of shifting currents.—Everybody's Magazine.

"SOLID GOLD" IN LAW.

Meaning of a Puzzling Term in the Jewelry Trade.

The term "solid gold" has been the cause of much discussion on the part of manufacturers of gold articles and of much misapprehension on the part of the public for some time past, and the recent law fixing the commercial definition of the phrase is welcomed on all sides.

According to this law, says the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, 10 carat gold is the commercial "solid gold," and all articles containing more alloy than this or all articles with parts which contain more alloy are henceforth to be known as plated, filled or rolled gold and must be so marked by the manufacturer. For example, a pin with a top of "solid" gold, even to the value of 18 carats, cannot legally be called solid if hinge, hook or pin is not 10 carat gold, while another pin of 10 carats throughout, though of much less intrinsic value than that of 18 carats, is legally "solid gold." This law was made to protect the manufacturing jewelers against the makers and sellers of "phony" jewelry and has been heartily indorsed by the legitimate trade all over the United States.

"It is a law which we have long needed," said a St. Louis wholesale jeweler, "but solid gold is a misnomer, and I for one should be very glad to see the term abandoned and the value stamp used in its place. Commercially speaking, there never was such a thing as 'solid gold'—at least not for the last 200 or 300 years. Some of the ancient jewelry of the Roman and the renaissance periods was made of pure gold, worked up by hand with the crudest tools, and that is, of course, of far greater value on account of the purity of the material as well as its quaint and beautiful workmanship and its antiquity than any modern products of the goldsmith's art.

"But alloy has been used to a constantly increasing extent since, because jewelers found that the harder the gold was rendered by good alloy the greater its wearing qualities and the more secure, therefore, the setting of the gems it contained. Our jewelry now is of 18, 14 or 10 carats, according to the design and character of the article, and it is much more frequently 10 than 18.

"The new requires us to mark on the article itself or on the card to which it is attached the exact value of the gold in all the parts, just as the food manufacturers are now obliged to state the ingredients of the package on the label, and a heavy penalty is attached to the use of the words 'solid gold' if any part of the article contains less than 10-carats of gold.

"There is a bill now being prepared to be introduced at the next Congress to abolish the use of this term and substitute the carat stamp for it, and both wholesale and retail jewelers over the country will work hard for its passage. We believe the term is calculated to deceive, even when fully explained. This bill, if passed, will require manufacturers to stamp all gold articles with the number of carats registered. Half a carat will be allowed for errors, but the manufacturer will have to see that the gold comes within this limit. This would be a great help to the buying public as well as to us, for then everybody could see at once what he is getting and there would not be so many chances for a comeback at us."

Mushroom Breaks Asphalt Walk.

Illustrative of the wonderful strength of growing vegetable matter is afforded in a forceful manner by a mushroom brought to the editor of the News by T. J. Trantler. The mushroom, which is of the edible kind, grew under the asphalt pavement of the Middle drive. Its strength in growing was sufficient to bulge up the pavement for a radius of more than two inches and finally to break off the lump of asphalt.

Imbedded like a cap in the center of the mass of asphalt is the pillow of the mushroom. This is perfectly formed. The stipe or stem is slender and only slightly bent. The circular piece of asphalt displaced is about four inches in diameter and about an inch and a half thick. The surface is filled with seams and cracks, showing that the asphalt gave way slowly under the gradually increasing pressure of the mushroom beneath.—Indianapolis News.

Fruit Cookies.

One cup of butter worked to a cream with two cups of granulated sugar. Add three well beaten eggs, one teaspoonful of baking soda dissolved in two tablespoonfuls of sour milk, one teaspoonful each of cloves and cinnamon, ground; one-half teaspoonful of nutmeg, one cup of raisins, stoned and chopped; one cup of nuts, chopped; enough flour to make a dough that can be rolled out. Roll thin, bake in a quick oven, brushing over before baking with an egg beaten with a tablespoonful of sugar.

Coal House in Germany.

In the early morning upon with every door and window on two streets. Then close the doors, leaving each window open not more than six inches. Leave this opening in every window all over the house, high and low, east and west, and throw down the chicken close to the edge of the opening. By keeping the sun out and providing a circulation of air a person may be kept cool.

Girls' Ideals.

Girls nowadays seldom care to get married before they are twenty-five. They are willing to get engaged, and many girls say that the ideal life is to live at home, have some business to occupy their time and a home to spend his money on their—sweethearts.

Add a little boiling water to the sweet milk used when you are making biscuits, and less shortening will be needed. The result will be quite the same.

WHEY FED CALVES.

Important Points in Rearing Them in Good Form.

Some persons claim that good calves cannot be reared on whey. Others have said that the best cows that they ever saw in the dairy include a number that were reared during calfhood essentially on a diet of whey. The truth probably lies between these two extremes, remarks Professor Thomas Shaw in considering the matter, as follows, in American Agriculturist.

Calves can be reared in better form if they are not given much whey until they are five or six weeks old. Before feeding whey the calves should be started on new milk during the first week or two. No supplemental food will take the place of new milk at such a time. It would seem to be an absolute necessity in order to start the work of digestion aright. If it is not started right, ill doing is likely to follow, even though the management subsequently should be judicious. Then a change is made from new to skim milk, taking one to two weeks to make the change from all new milk to all skim milk.

As soon as the change is begun to skim milk then oilmeal or flaxseed or linseed gruel may be fed as the calves may be able to take it. This is put into the milk until they eat meal freely. As soon as they do this it is put into the meal that is fed dry. With this added to the mixture it may be composed of the following: Ground corn three parts, ground oats three, wheat bran one, oilcake one. For a time the calves may be allowed to take all of this that they will eat.

Changing to Whey.

When the change is made to whey the calves will be five or six weeks old, as intimated. Should they be younger three to four weeks should be occupied in making the change from all skim milk to all whey. If they are five weeks old, the change may be made in one or two weeks, but it should not be sudden. The quantity of whey to feed will be a little more than for calves of the same age on skim milk—that is, it will be fourteen to eighteen pounds per day for calves at six weeks, increasing at the rate of one to two pounds a week for the next few weeks. It should not be given to the extent of unduly distending the paunch, as has been sometimes done. Animals of that class are sometimes rendered hideous because of the large amount of paunch they carry as a result of the excessive feeding of whey. The character of the whey—that is, the condition in which it reaches the calves—is important. When brought from the whey tank at the factory it is frequently in bad condition, because of careless management.

The Dainty Eater.

The dainty eater is not the cow the dairyman wants for business, because his profits come not from the feed that remains in mow and bin, but from that which is consumed, says D. W. Lighter in National Stockman and Farmer. During the winter, when they do little or no work, we feed our horses a light ration that we call a maintenance ration, but in the spring we add to the maintenance ration a lot of corn and oats to be transformed into pulling power to move plows, harrows, etc. The food consumed besides the maintenance ration is what gives us results. I have no use for a cow that cannot utilize three or four times the maintenance ration.

Tobacco Tongs.

The tongs, the size of a wishbone, were of rough gold, studded here and there with turquoises.

"They are tobacco tongs," said the antiquary. "They date back to Elizabeth's time. This pair belonged to Raleigh—at least I have been told so, and who is there to contradict me? In Elizabeth's time they had no matches. When a man wanted a light, therefore, he took his tobacco tongs from his girdle and nipped out of the fire a redhot chunk of wood. This glowing coal, held in the tongs, gave a beautiful light. Tobacco tongs, as my pair witnesses, were often very costly and ornate. Of gold, of silver, of ivory and decorated with diamonds, rubies, emeralds and so forth, they were pretty trinkets to dangle upon silken coats. They are being revived now. Cigarette holders are being made in their shape. That is why I keep this old pair in my window."—Los Angeles Times.

Ancient Sweetmeats.

Some sweetmeats have for centuries remained unchanged in their composition. The custards and omelets of 500 years ago still remain unchanged. Again, centuries ago slices of apple, parsnip, etc., were dipped in batter and fried just as we make our beignets. In the fifteenth century "to make payn purdieu" the cooks fried "payn-meyne or frenche bred" and soaked it with yolks of eggs sweetened. In the cookery books of today we find "pain perdu" means slices of stale bread soaked in milk, then dipped in beaten egg and fried in boiling fat and served hot in custard.—Blackwood's Magazine.

Indigestion

Stomach trouble is but a symptom of, and not in itself a true disease. We think of Dyspepsia, Heartburn, and Indigestion as real diseases, yet they are symptoms only of a certain specific Nerve disease—Nervous Dyspepsia.

It was this fact that first startled and led Dr. Shoop in the creation of that now very popular Stomach Remedy—Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Going direct to the stomach nerves, alone brought that nerve and power to Dr. Shoop and his Restorative. With and that original and highly vital principle, no

The Great Provincial Charity, The Hospital for Sick Children, Calls On You For Aid.

Remember that this Hospital is not a local institution, but Provincial.

"I LIKE PICTURES"

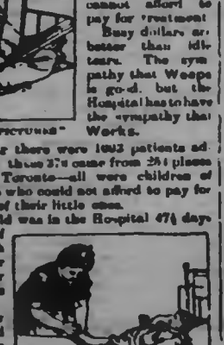
It cares for every sick child in the Province of Ontario whose parents cannot afford to pay for treatment.

Many dollars are better than idle tears. The sympathy that Weeps is good, but the Hospital has to have the sympathy that Works.

Last year there were 1893 patients admitted. Of these 278 came from 28 places outside of Toronto—all were children of poor people who could not afford to pay for treatment of their little ones.

Each child was in the Hospital 47½ days at a cost of $1.31 each per day, or $62.25 for the 47½ days stay.

If your dollar could straighten the foot of a little boy or girl with club feet, you would gladly give it, and your dollar will do that. There were 70 cases of club foot treated last year. Out of the 70, about 50 were from the country.



BEFORE. AFTER.

If you know of any child in your county who is sick or has club feet, and whose parents can not afford to pay, send the name to the Hospital Secretary.

The stock books are open. Won't you let the Hospital write your name down for a few shares in Heaven's own work of healing little children?

A great piece of Mercy—the issuing stock that always pays dividends—is bought with the money that helps The Hospital for Sick Children to restore the Gold of Life from the Quartz of Death.

Please send contributions to J. Ross Robertson, Chairman, or to Douglas David son, Esq., Treas., of the Hospital for Sick Children, College Street, Toronto.

I Cure Pimples

My Remedy is Sure, Because it Removes the Cause

Bad blood is always responsible for pimples, blackheads and humours.

Trouble is the excretory organs become sluggish and fail to carry out the poisons, that constantly accumulate. Finally the blood absorbs them.

Pimples, eczema and boils are the common result.

I contend that to cure these ills the liver, kidneys and bowels must receive attention.

My remedy, known as Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut, invariably reaches the trouble.

For putting life into sleepy organs, for forcing out every Lkind of waste and foreign matter, for mainkg healthsustaining blood, where can you find such efficiency as in Dr. Hamilton's Pills?

In a thousand cases I have demonstrated that Dr. Hamilton's Pills cure facial blemishes and skin diseases.

I look upon these pills as the best blood purifier and system builder of the age, and guarantee they will cure every complaint having its origin in a weak or debilitated blood supply.

If Dr. Hamilton's Pills will not cure that tired, rundown condition, if they will not change lack of force into energy and vim, then nothing will.

By creating an abundant supply of rich, nourishing blood they maintain that standard of health so much desired by those participating in the strenuous life we live to-day.

Horse Frightened by Snow

Yesterday morning shortly before noon a horse and cutter belonging to Mr. W. G. Howden, the local music dealer, was standing in front of a Hunter street store on business. Unfortunately a quantity of snow on the roof nearby, being loosened by the present thaw, fell with a crash to the ground. This was too much for the spirited system of the equine features, which at once proceeded to get in some funny stepping. Away down Hunter street the frightened quadruped sped towards the Atlantic Ocean. However, it was captured after running a mile or two. No damage was done.

New Industry for Hastings

One day last fall a representative of Bird & Son, Parapid Roofing Manufacturers, came to Hastings to look over available manufacturing sites for his firm and make a report to his company. The gentleman was shown the different sites available for manufacturing, and in due time made a report to his company. Last week another representative of this company came down for further information regarding the possibilities of locating here, and emerged very favorably impressed with the natural advantages of the town for the purposing requirements of his firm, and it looks as though a united effort on the part of the business men and council would bring this firm here.—Hastings Star.

Annual Water Street Complaint

Citizens living along Water St., on the west side have again begun to use uncomplimentary remarks about those who made such a "botch" of the pavement there, which is much lower than the roadbed, and is consequently, every spring covered with water. The residents living near Murray street yesterday expressed the intention to put a fourth time pavious into operation to carry protection above the sidewalk dryshod. It was suggested, and with every chance of plausibility, that this council should accept about a foot off the street and use this gravel elsewhere.

This would bring the pavement to the consideration level it should have been when laid. The trouble seems not so much that the pavement is too low but that the roadway is too high.

Another Trent Canal Contract is Let

Ottawa, Feb. 13. — The contract for the construction of the Rosedale section of the Trent Valley Canal has been awarded by the Department of Railways and Canals to the Randolph MacDonald Company of Toronto, the lowest tenderers. While the section will be actively commenced in the spring.

The Rosedale section of the canal consists of the portion between Chemong and Balsam lakes. It will greatly increase the distance by water between the two lakes indicated, and will be about a mile and a half in length. In addition to the canal proper a flood and dam have to be constructed.

Osgoode Hall Cases of Local Interest

The following cases of local interest have been argued at Osgoode Hall, Toronto:

Peterborough Hydraulic Power Co. vs. MacAlister.—W. Nesbitt, K.C., and O'Connell, Peterborough, for defendants, appealed from judgment of a Divisional Court (10 O.W.R. 694) allowing an appeal by the Ontario Bank (third parties) from judgment of Boyd, C. (10 O.W.R. 169) and dismissing the claim of the defendants against the bank. The action was for rent and the claim now by defendants against the bank was for indemnity against the payment of the rent undein an agreement between the defendants and the bank and by reason of the bank having, as alleged, assignment of the term. J. Bicknell, K.C., and A. B. Morine, for the Ontario Bank, opposed the appeal. Not finished.

McWilliams vs. Dickson of Peterborough.—G. H. Watson, K.C., and G. M. Rogers, Peterborough, for defendants, appealed from the report of the local Master at Peterborough dated 3rd September, 1907, on grounds that it was not warranted by the evidence, is contrary to law, and the evidence, ignores the judgment, is definite and incomplete that their was wrong and illegal receipt and acceptance of evidence, improper and wrongful rejection of evidence, and the report does not comply with the judgment, etc. R. F. McWilliams, Peterborough, and A. R. Clute, for plaintiffs, contra. Not concluded.

I wish that I might talk with all sick ones about the actual cause of Stomach, Heart, and Kidney ailments. To explain in person how weak Stomach nerves leads to Stomach weakness, I am sure would interest all. And it is the same with weak Hearts or Weak Kidneys. This is why my prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative—so promptly reaches ailments of the Stomach, Heart, and Kidneys. It is wrong to drug the Stomach or stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. These weak inside nerves simply need more strength. My Restorative is the only prescription made exclusively for these nerves. Next to seeing you personally, will be to mail you free, my new booklet entitled, "What To Do." I will also send samples of my Restorative as well. Write for the book to-day. Change Made in Simcoe St. Store

Ald. Johnston and staff were busy yesterday altering the shop on Simcoe street, formerly occupied by Messrs. Adamson & Dobbin. This store to the rear, or west end of Messrs. J. C. Turnbull & Company's dry goods establishment, is to be absorbed by the latter firm, who will have an entrance cut through from their present premises. The door entering Adamson & Dobbin's former shop is to be closed up and the side light placed in the former doorway so as to give a large display window.

Local Knights had Pleasant Visit

The local Knights of Pythias who attended the institution of a new lodge of their Order in Lindsay on Wednesday night, report having had a splendid time and that the ceremonies were conducted without a hitch. The new Lindsay lodge, "Maple Leaf," No. 48, opens under auspicious circumstances, and has a goodly number of charter members. Those from Peterborough who attended were Messrs. Dr. J. F. Middleton, C. M. Stewart, G. K. Martin, W. W. Armstrong, V. Hamilton, B. F. Patterson, George Whitehead, T. Wilson, Joseph Armstrong, J. Gibson and J. Squires.

Annual Report

Dr. T. N. Grier, M.H.O. of North Monaghan, in his annual report to the Board of Health of that township, congratulated the Board on their comparative freedom from infectious diseases.

Five cases of typhoid fever occurred in one family by polluted well water, as shown by bacteriological examination. Samples from the family well and from Fraserville school well were examined, and reported on by Dr. Amy of the Provincial Board of Health. The sediment came from seepage from the surface. The doctor has had the wells cleaned. He ordered the use of water from the Fraserville well, stopped by No. 4 school, for drinking purposes.

News in Brief

Belleville, Ont., February 13. — It looks as though the city would have the benefit of another large cement industry, thus making three here. It is now said that Messrs. H. Corby, ex-M.P., and Fred. H. Tingham, with others, have purchased vast rock and clay properties along the Bay of Quinte shore, and that big cement works and limekilns will be started at an estimated cost of nearly $7,000,000.

Pekin, Feb. 11. — Border complications and the success of the rebels on the French Indo-China border, due, it is believed, to foreign assistance, have induced the Chinese Government to hasten the organization of her modern drilled troops at all frontier points. The government proposes again to send Prince Su to Mongolia for the purpose of developing the plans looking to the organization of defences for frontier districts. A modern drilled skeleton brigade is now on its way to Tibet for the purpose of organizing a Thibetian division.

The fact that the Indo-Chinese trade convention has not been concluded prevents for the present the evacuation of the Chumbi Valley by the British troops. This delay tends to bring Great Britain into conflict with the Anglo-Russian convention, which regulates the respective interests of these two powers in Tibet, Afghanistan and Persia, and which China is using for the purpose of reducing Great Britain's rights in dealing direct with the Thibetians to a minimum.

China has admitted the Thibetian text into the convention, upon written assurances that this text is for the purpose of elucidation, and now is striving to secure an exact definition of Great Britain's relations with Thibet.

The throne has authorized uniform punishments for Manchu and Chinese offenders.

February, 1908, is here and so is

The Pacific Fruit Cooling and Vaporizing Company, Incorporated for the purpose of cooling deciduous fruits and removing moisture from citrus fruits and keeping unde cold storage such fruits and other food products from the time of receiving them from the fruit growers until loaded on car and taken away by the Railroad Company for Eastern shipment

STUBBORN FACTS UNIMPEACHABLE

The loss in shipping deciduous and citrus fruits is enormous. The orange crop of Southern California alone is valued at $30,000,000. The government experts estimate that about 20 per cent or $7,500,000, is lost every year by rough handling in picking and doing of fruit in transit to the Eastern markets. What a revenue of profit this loss would be to the shipper if it could be saved. Our process will save it. The same is true of the deciduous fruits of Northern California.

GREAT FORTUNES ARE MADE BY INVESTING IN NECESSITIES

Fruit is one of the necessities of our civilized life, and the company that can place the fruit in the markets of the world in the best shape, in the quickest time, at the lowest rate, has a fortune within its grasp. The Armour Company in ten years made $5,000,000 net handling California fruit in refrigerator cars. Our process is so necessary to the fruit grower as the refrigerator car. Therefore we ought to receive as large a revenue for handling the same commodity.

GET IN WHILE THE ENTERPRISE IS NEW

No wiser words were ever spoken than these: "The chief point about getting rich is to invest in a new enterprise that is being managed by successful men, who have some of their own money in the deal." "One good investment is worth a lifetime of labor". Think over this sentence. A man's daily labor will never make him rich. He must have some money at work for him. Money invested never gets sick, keeps no holidays, never goes on strike. There are three things that ought to guide you: First, invest with honesty men; second, invest with men of sound judgment; third, invest under conditions where you get your full share of profits the business yields. Get into a company whose destiny is guided by men of this stamp when its future is before and not behind it. Here is the secret of fortune. Plant the seed of your investment in the soil of opportunity, at the season of greatest promise when the enterprise is new. Every ounce of labor in the hearts of the men managing this company is pledged to give

A SQUARE DEAL FOR EVERY INVESTOR

There will be no preferred stock, every dollar invested will be worth 100 cents on the dollar. Our Directors, as honorable business men, will not allow any tricks of trade by which the small investor can be frozen out. Their commercial standing proves they are not "grafters". The poor man's 500 or 100 shares will have the same standing in court as the rich man's, 10,000, and they will draw the same proportionate dividend. We court investigation.

EVERY RICH MAN IN THE WORLD WAS ONCE POOR, OR HIS GRANDFATHER WAS.

THE OPPORTUNITY OF A LIFETIME

To get into a company that has the certainty of growth, the assurance of large and quick returns, a rapid advance in the price of stock, to make it an exceptional chance for big profits on a small investment. This is an ideal investment for the wage earner as well as the rich man. Moderate sums invested now will bring splendid returns in the near future. The logic of all this is

DON'T WAIT

Time is the essence of this proposition. The stock will certainly double in a short time. Jay Gould once said: "When you see a good investment don't wait to see if it pans out well, for by that time other people are in, too, and you have lost your opportunity."

WOMEN AS INVESTORS

Some of the heaviest stockholders in our company are women of keen business instincts. One lady in Los Angeles bought 6,000 shares. In a few days she returned and bought 5,000 more. This lady has never made a mistake in her business ventures. Women are good investors because they have courage to follow their convictions. Their intuitions are keener and truer than men's logic. Men may prevent her voting, but they can't prevent her drawing dividends on her investments. This is one branch of trade where sex, culture, or color does not count.

MANAGEMENT

The affairs of this company are in the hands of men of honesty, ability, courage and good business judgment—men who have made a success of their own business—men whose business reputation is A1 in the commercial circles in which they move.

These men are "square" and "shrewd". They will not deceive you nor will they be deceived themselves. Because of the promise of growth, permanency and profit this business offers they have united their money, energy, time and business experience to make this enterprise a grand success.

J. J. Feeley Shot Wife Then Killed Himself

Tragedy in Euclid Avenue, Toronto, Following a Series of Quarrels and Separation for a Week--Mrs. Feeley Will Survive.

Toronto, Feb. 15 — Because his wife, Anne Turner Feeley, positively refused to have anything more to do with him, James Feeley walked into her bedroom at 62 Euclid avenue yesterday morning and deliberately shot her in the back.

Then, when her son rushed to her assistance, Feeley, thinking he had killed his wife, turned the revolver to the lower head and also himself dead. Mrs. Feeley will probably recover.

KEPT A GROCERY STORE.

The attempted murder and suicide caused tremendous excitement in the neighborhood. The Feeleys kept a grocery store at the northwest corner of Euclid avenue and Bloomfield street for the past three months. Business was not very good, and it was common gossip that the couple did not get along very well together.

SON TURNED HIM OUT.

Last Wednesday Feeley left the store in the wife's control. Early that day he had threatened to shoot a young man who called on Mrs. Feeley, and the son turned his father out of the house. Feeley was then heard muttering to himself that he would get even with his wife and daughter-in-law.

He was evidently as good as his word, for at 9 o'clock yesterday morning he entered the bedroom of his wife and deliberately shot her in the back.

Then, when her son rushed to her assistance, Feeley, thinking he had killed his wife, turned the revolver to the lower head and also himself dead. Mrs. Feeley will probably recover.

Feeley was then heard muttering to himself that he would get even with his wife and daughter-in-law. [illegible] determination in committing the act, for no less than three of the cartridges [illegible] fire. It is possible that it was owing to this fact that Mrs. Feeley escaped with the one wound.

Coroner Dr. J. H. McConnell was early on the scene and arranged for an inquest [illegible] night at St. Andrew's Hall at eight o'clock. It was, however, adjourned to await Mrs. Feeley's evidence.

CUT HIS THROAT YEARS AGO.

On the man's neck on the left side there still remains a ghastly scar [illegible] a couple of years ago, when he tried to cut his throat, but failed.

A NEIGHBOR'S STORY.

A woman who lives next door and who was the first outside person on the scene, said:

"The poor boy rushed to my door and cried out that his mother was shot. I ran in and upstairs. The smoke had not yet cleared away. He was still breathing, but was almost dead. Mrs. Feeley was lying in the bed, and I went to her. She was faint and trembling with excitement and terror, and said, 'Oh, what will the children do?' I soothed her, and told her not to worry, that we would look after them. She then became a little calmer until the doctor came."

BOY RAN FOR DOCTOR.

Mrs. Calloott, wife of Mr. T. Calloott, who keeps the grocery store opposite, said:

"I was in the store at the time when the boy rushed across to telephone for a doctor. He said, 'He has shot mother; oh, what will become of us?' My husband telephoned for the police and then went across."

Rev. J G Potter Entertains His Brother from New York

We have in our midst one of New York's most talented and widely known civil engineers. This visitor, who is the guest of Rev. J. G. Potter, is a brother of this gentleman, Mr. Alexander Potter, whose offices are situated on Doherty street in the American metropolis. Mr. Potter is accompanied by his wife, and will remain over Sunday. His sphere of work covers important engineering work in New York, Newara, Mexico, Houston, Tex., Nevada and other work in many other states.

At present Mr. Potter is engaged in supervising the engineering work in the construction of a huge filtration and water softening plant in Mt. Kenaport, Pa. The water there is very hard and affects boilers, piping, etc., and for general use has to be softened. The plant handles ten millions gallons of water per day.

Mr. Potter is a member of the Canadian and also the American Society of Civil Engineers, and has won an eminent place in the profession he has chosen.

Mr. Potter is a graduate of the Lehigh University, Pennsylvania. He visited the Lift Lock yesterday, and was very impressed in Peterborough's great structure. He states that the Canadian young man make a success of their work in the United States.

—The funeral of Pantaleone Da Paolo took place yesterday afternoon from Mr. M. McFadden's undertaking establishment to the Roman Catholic Cemetery.

Daring Hold-Up in Toronto When Two Men Get Robbed

Toronto, Feb. 15.—Much excitement was caused throughout the city yesterday, especially in police circles, when it became known that two daring hold-ups had been committed at 11.45 the preceding night within a block of each other.

Alexander Lessert, a mining man of Englehart, Ont., aged 37 years, was assaulted and robbed in a lane in the rear of 600 Church street. He lost $15 and a silver watch.

His companion, W. P. Pickard, a student boarding at 42 Gloucester street, was kicked in the face and head. A diamond ring, for which he had paid $125, and a small sum of money were taken from him.

TWO MEN FOLLOWED THEM.

The two men, who had mining business in common, met in the tobacco store of Jos. Richardson, 666 Yonge street, early in the evening. After discussing business they walked towards Pickard's home. Lessert, who during his stay in the city has been the guest of his brother, Samuel, of 28 St. Mary street, noticed two men following them as they turned from Yonge street into Gloucester. Pickard asked them what they wanted, but the four fell into conversation.

Lessert left Pickard directly in front of the latter's door. One of the strangers remained to chat with Pickard and the other accompanied Lessert to Church street. In a lane a little north of Gloucester street, Lessert was assaulted. He did not know what instrument was used, but believed it to be a piece of heavy wood. There were four bad gashes inflicted on his scalp.

THIRD STRANGER ON SCENE.

"If he stirs, fill him with lead," said the stranger who assaulted him to a companion who mysteriously appeared. They ransacked his pockets, getting the money and his watch. They left him bleeding and partly unconscious in the lane. He staggered to his feet and gained the street. A young man who was passing inquired the trouble, and on being informed, accompanied him to Agnes street police station.

Policeman Rainey then took him to St. Michael's Hospital, where eight stitches were necessary to close his wounds. He remained in the emergency ward until nine o'clock this morning.

THE ATTACK ON PICKARD.

In the meantime Pickard was undergoing his punishment.

"The man who remained with me appeared to be very well dressed," he said. "Just as we stopped at the door he struck me in the face. I went down and then felt him dragging my ring from my finger. I paid $125 for that ring. While I was down I was kicked in the face and back. After the man got away I got up and walked towards Yonge street to get, if possible, a clue to [illegible] identity, but was unable to do so."

Lessert is a stranger in Toronto, only coming here on Sunday last to perfect a business deal called the Major Syndicate Company, which operates twenty-two claims in New Ontario.

FOUND HIS WATCH CHAIN.

A newspaper man accompanied them over the ground of his adventure this morning, and in the lane he picked up his watch chain. His assailants had most likely unsnapped it from the watch. The leg of a chair on which were traces of blood and hair, was also found.

Pickard is of the opinion that the man who attacked him followed the men with Lessert and helped his companion in robbing him.

Both men were badly bruised this morning, but neither could foresee a smile when they met in Pickard's apartments and told the tale of the damage done.

"Anyway," said Pickard, smilingly, "they didn't get my watch." And he drew the solid gold timekeeper from beneath his pillow.

LOCAL HOTEL BUS HAS AN UPSET

Driver Skilfully Controlled Horses and Nobody Got Hurt.

Yesterday afternoon about 4.30 as the Oriental bus was making its way south along George street to meet the C. P. R. western express, loaded, as usual, with travellers, the latter had a hugging match not on the programme. The two soon just as the bus got in front of Bank's livery store, when the commercial men sitting on the right hand side suddenly threw their arms about the backs of those sitting opposite. The cause for the sympathy, said of enchantment was the breaking of the runners of both conveyances on the car tracks. The one driven on the west side was taken across, but fortunately did not go completely over on its side. This accounted for the entrancing so much. Fortunately no one was hurt. The driver at once pulled the horses up and proved what might have been a serious accident. As the startled travellers poured out of the bus door, one of them, carrying a heavy grip remarked, "Great Caesar, I'll miss that train, and started on the run towards the C. P. R. station. The Snowden House bus, happening along just after the trouble, picked up the rest of the Oriental's guests and took them to the station.

Will Peterborough See Tie-Off Game

The Kingston-St. George's Game Here or at Belleville.

Kingston's victory last night over the St George's creates a tie in the group and a play-off for the championship will be necessary. The managers of the teams could not agree last night in regard to the conditions under which the matter should be settled, said the O.H.A. will have to handle the question.

Manager Short of the Saints, is not willing to play home and home games for the reason that he players cannot get away for the long trip to Kingston. He would prefer to play a neutral ground game at Port Hope or Peterborough. Kingston rather favors the home and home proposition, but failing this would like to play off at Belleville. They are opposed to Peterborough because it would mean that they would have to leave Kingston in the early morning to get there in time. Belleville is about half way, and the chances are that place will be selected. — Toronto News.

FOUND ASLEEP IN A CUTTER

It seems that the water supplied in front of the police station must be exceptionally good, as it was presumably the cause of an old man's horse waiting there till the wee sma' hours this morning. As a young man was returning from a party at 3 a.m. yesterday morning, he found an old man asleep in a cutter outside the station, and thought he was drunk. After awakening him the good Samaritan offered to take him into the police station. The old man said he had been asleep. He had hired the cutter on Thursday evening and drove out to the country on business and did not leave there until after one. At Auburn he allowed his horse to jog along, and feeling tired, leaned his head back to the seat and went to sleep. The horse had stopped in front of the station to take a drink, and no doubt would have remained there till morning had not the young man passed that way.

POLICE

To quote the words of our old school day friend, Virgil "Mirabile Dictu," yesterday morning, there was actually a small amount of grist for the police court mill to grind. It was not much, and did not bring any great revenue to the city coffers, still it was remarkable as being the first trial in this court for weeks.

Edward Marlborough, who was charged with vagrancy and having no visible means of support, save he had been working in Toronto and came here to spend a day. The prisoner was told to get out of town at once or the police would gather him up and he would get a nearly six months job in the Central Prison. Marlborough, who for several nights has lodged in the police station, thanked his worship and got out.

HARWOOD'S BIG BALL.

A Delightful Evening Spent at the Lakeview House.

A very enjoyable affair took place at the Lakeview House, Harwood, on Tuesday evening last, which was attended by about 75 couples, including many from Peterborough, Coburg, Leers Landing and surrounding country. Mr. Archie Moore, of this city, acted as floor manager, and gave general satisfaction. Music was supplied by Mr. Will Mabbett, pianist, with Bailey Bisnett, violinist.

Amongst those present from this city were: Messrs. M. Corkery, Jas. Keane, Robert Cougan, Mr. and Mrs. James Martin, Cobourg; Mr. Chisholm, and Misses Mc. Duncan Jamieson, a well known lover of the terpsichorean art, was also present from town, and was the centre of attraction when deserting his late adventure in choosing those ladies would be most apt. Louis Hendry did not get his car here, names and all, and with difficulty extricated themselves from their perch.

Supper was served at midnight, and we are safe in saying that the spread was a right royal one. Mr. and Mrs. Corkery had everything in their power to add to the enjoyment of those present. The party broke up as dawn was breaking, all delighted with their evening's function.

VALENTINES ARE OUT OF FASHION

Yesterday was St. Valentine's Day, and this ancient saint must have felt slighted over the greatly decreased number of missives sent this year. The custom of sending valentines is rapidly passing into what ex-President Cleveland would call "Innocuous Desuetude." Even the small boy did not save up his coppers for a week ahead to buy those gruesome looking parodies on pictures, 'cyclept "Comic" valentines to send to his "teacher dear," as he has, and then daddy, when a boy, has done. Even the gaily colored perfumed, silk and fancy art creations, displaying hearts pierced by cupid's darts, and loving verses containing two pounds of mawkish sentiment to each ounce of paper, have been relegated to the dust bin of obsolete custom. In these days of get up and hustle the young man can't waste time beating round the bush to ascertain the loved one's opinion of him and vice-versa with the fair sex. They simply get busy and write or speak up their opinions without wasting $1.15 or 11 cents worth of putty paper, sent anonymously in an envelope written in a disguised hand, but plainly written so that the best girl will know who has sent the missive. This applies to the $1.15 valentine, the "comic" valentine for teacher is always addressed in a handwriting that no expert could trace back to the writer.

—The Ladies' Aid Society of St. Andrew's Church will meet on Monday night next at the residence of Mrs. Robinson, 225 Charlotte street, for the purpose of winding up the details in connection with the "Olde Tyme Concerts."

C. P. R. TO PUT ON FINE NEW BOATS

They Will be Such Splendid Vessels as to "Put the Other Fellows to Sleep."

Montreal, Feb. 8.—In an interview with the Standard's representative Sir William Van Horne this week spoke encouragingly of the All-Red scheme.

"Why should millions of dollars in subsidies be asked for in the connection?" he asked. "The C.P.R. made the Pacific trade. It did not take it from anyone. It had to be created if it was created, and became influential and profitable. That trade is so large that other and larger boats will have to be put on the Pacific. I am not the spokesman of the C.P.R., understand. There can only be one spokesman, but there is no harm in saying that the Pacific fleet will be augmented.

"The Empresses which are now on the Atlantic will be transferred to the Pacific, the boats which are now on the Pacific may be used for the Australian trade, and the C. P. R. will put on new boats for the Atlantic which will put the other fellows to sleep.

"Not necessarily the fastest boats on record — but something new—comfortable new, amazing attractive, which will further popularize our own route. The latter, owing to the setting up of the Empresses, has become more and more desirable to travellers from all parts of the country. Berths have to be engaged months in advance. People have come from the far West, from the South, in order to use our boats on the St. Lawrence route. The C.P.R. has built up this trade off its own bat. It will still further increase it. Why should any new project be forced upon the public in the connection?"

PROPHETS OF YEARS AGO.

Sir William mentioned that years ago, when he made a proposition to public men in connection with the establishment of a certain character of boats for the Canadian trade, he was informed that the child was unborn that would see boats of 9,000 tons on our route.

The C.P.R. has put 16,000 ton boats on the route, which had been quite fully successful, and was contemplating a new departure which would afford further accommodation, and increase the prestige of the Canadian route.

"There is a kind of complaint that I like," said Sir William, "and that I frequently hear when I am travelling. The complaint is that the Pacific boats are full, that berths have to be obtained two and three months in advance, that our transcontinental trains are so full that people have to sit close to find room. I have heard that complaint in connection with certain gentlemen who desired to come across from China in our steamers, but who were told that they must order two months ahead, and who, when they did reach Vancouver on our boats, found that as they had not ordered their sleepers ahead, they could not be provided with the same. No doubt the gentlemen were angry, but it is a pretty good indication of the state of business. To try to set up a second All-Red route scheme, involving the paying of millions of dollars in subsidies, while the C. P. R. thoroughly covers the area of operations, would not only be a shame, but it would be nonsensical in the highest degree.

THE TARIFF QUESTION.

"An ounce of work is worth a ton of preference. The American is close. He is right at our elbow. He has his immediate representatives on the spot. British firms are not represented here in the close way in which the American manufacturers are. The consequence is that, in spite of the preference, the increase of British imports is slight."

Sir William spoke animatedly on the tariff question, as it affected our own manufactures. Tariff fluctuations prevented, in many cases, that monetary support which would otherwise be forthcoming and nipped in the bud many promising enterprises.

Sir William's idea was a graduated tariff. For instance, let the tariff be, say, 25 per cent. to start with.

Let it be gradually reduced until at the end of five years it would continue on a ten per cent. basis. There would stand to be such security as that a manufacturer could look and plan ahead for twenty years. He would thus know what he had to meet.

Last Night's Carnival Fairly Well Attended

Whilst Wet Weather Badly Handicapped the Foresters' Grand Event, They Made Good.

For the past week thousands of people have admired the beautiful array of valuable prizes for last night's carnival displayed in Mr. Wescott's hoist and shop-soon, a full list of which is given below. The Foresters, under whose auspices the carnival was held, spared neither trouble nor expense to have the event a success, the only but important drawback to an complete satisfaction being the wet weather and persistent downpour of rain yesterday afternoon and evening. Hundreds of people, many of whom had prepared costumes specially for the evening were compelled to stay by the family hearth instead of turning out to skate. In the matter of prizes it will easily be seen that for beauty and value never before were such premiums enrolled and very seldom equalled. The ice was, under the existing circumstances, in good shape. All morning long the snow or sleet fell but in the afternoon it was let in on the ice, thus preventing it from thawing, the rink only right adapted in the afternoon. For the first part of the evening it was good for skating, but naturally owing both to warm weather and the heat of the crowd, soon got pretty badly cut up. There in charge of last night's carnival were Messrs. Alex. Gibson, judge; for the races, H. S. Mellon, chairman, J. H. McDonald, treasurer; and J. H. Smith, secretary, and these gentlemen were filled duty well. Before the races were made most favorable use was made of the ice and was placed on the ice. Last was placed and greatly interested the proceedings by playing a selected number of selections suitable to the occasion. It was a pretty sight to see the many dresses skaters gaily round the rink to the strains of music, as [illegible] gracefully a knight or lady found time [illegible] arm in arm with, say, Miss Carrie Nelson or a grave and reverend engineer with an [illegible] gentleman. Taken as a whole, under the circumstances the carnival went off well, and on any case it was evident that the foresters had done their best, had done well and had kept faith with the public.

The list of prizes was as follows:

PRIZES.

Best dressed lady, fancy costume—Tam cot.

Best dressed gentleman, fancy costume—Leather suit case.

Best dressed girl, fancy costume — Card table.

Best dressed boy, fancy costume — Pair boots.

Best dressed lady, comic — Silver chafing dish.

Best dressed gentleman, comic — Eight day clock.

Best dressed girl, comic—Pair of snowshoes.

Best dressed boy, comic—Lemonade set.

Mile race—1st, Bee Duny; 2nd, A. Allen.

Boys' race—1st, Hugh Burritt; 2nd, Wilfrid Stratton.

Partner race—Ben Duny and Miss Craig.

Splendidly Managed Canadian Company

Toronto General Trusts Corporation Have Successful Year.

Prominent among the great financial institutions of Canada, and one of the strongest in the world, is the General Trusts Corporation, with headquarters at the corner of Yonge and Colborne streets, Toronto. The progressive concern held its twenty-sixth annual meeting on Wednesday, Feb. 5th, with President John Hoskin in the chair.

The financial statement of the directors was more than encouraging and demonstrated the progressive, though conservative, management of this company, and will no doubt be most satisfactory to the shareholders. The success of this institution is a source of congratulation not only to the citizens of Toronto, but to the citizens of [illegible] and many thousands of people throughout the Dominion, by the operations of which the financial support of the company is kept strengthened for the investments of its numerous private customers as well as to secure large protection to those whose estates and funds are so greatly managed by them. In view of the extensive operation given to the Dominion to those entrusting their affairs to them, it is interesting to note the comparatively low rate for which such business is transacted. Although the company has transacted many millions worth of business, their net profit last year was only $135,000, a clear proof of the economy, apart from safety, of placing such trust funds, estates, bond issues, wills, etc., as the company handles in their care. As noted by Manager Dinnor Langmuir, the profits of the Corporation consist in the compensation allowed it by the courts which pass their accounts for management of estates, trusts, etc., as well as by the amounts charged upon mutual agreement. During the past year the company assumed executorships, trusts and work of a kindred nature amounting to about $4,000,000. They paid a dividend of 7 1-2 per cent. during the year and $10,000 was written off the Ottawa assets, $20,000 was carried to reserve, making that fund now $400,000, and they carried $35,000 forward.

With such a splendid record Mr. J. W. Langmuir, managing director, will have the hearty support and approval of the shareholders, and the satisfaction of knowing that to his able direction management is due the fact that the Toronto General Trusts Corporation is now regarded as one of the pathworks of successful Canadian finance.

FAMILY KNOWN TO POLICE LEAVE

The Williamson family of gipsies, of which several members have given both the police and the public considerable trouble, have taken the broad hints given by his worship and shaken the dust, or snow-balls, of Peterborough from their feet and gone to honor Dentist, Middy, with their company. The police court has been very quiet lately, nothing doing.

Better Change

When you discover that the use of coffee as a beverage is undermining your health.

Many persons who suspect that palpitation of the heart with a "smothery" sensation is caused by coffee, don't seem to know how to break the fetters forced upon them by caffeine—the drug in coffee.

They want a hot beverage for breakfast and may have "tried Postum" (weakly made by simply steeping it in hot water or "letting it come to a boil") and did not relish it.

No wonder! Boil Postum 15 minutes as per directions on pkg., add good cream and then try it. In 10 days you may safely expect a decided change for the better. Keep it up and you will discouver

HOW CHILDREN ARE QUICKLY STRENGTHENED

Develop Them with Ferrozone, Which Makes Rich Blood, Hardy Muscle, Steady Nerves.

Children brought up on Ferrozone are known by their strong, ruggedframes their chubby cheeks and healthful appearance.

Mothers find it an indispensable tonic and body builder, and in thousands of homes no other remedy is used.

EVERY CHILD IMPROVES ON FERROZONE

Mrs. E. Montgomery, of Pittsburg, writes: "A little niece came to visit my and noticing her pale and haggard looks, I started her on a course of Ferrozone. The change that girl underwent in a few weeks was marvellous. Her appetite chirped up, she had more spirit and strength, and a rosy color came into her cheeks that I never saw there before. I weighed my niece about the time she started to pick up, and in seven weeks she gained almost eight pounds, and just looked the picture of health. I think this should be an example to many mothers, and I hope that others will try Ferrozone for their little boys and girls. I am thoroughly convinced that it's the most strengthening tonic it has my strongest endorsement."

The reason Ferrozone works so beneficially with Ferrozone is that it acts directly on the blood, freeing it of all unhealthy matter, at the same time giving it an additional supply of iron.

This at once results in more strength new spirit and renewed vitality. Just one tablet at meal time works wonders.

Refuse to accept any article the druggist may say is just as good. Get Ferrozone, and the result we guarantee will be satisfactory. Price 50c per box or six boxes for $2.50, at all dealers.

A JAPANESE VIEW

The Japan Weekly Gazette, published in Yokohama, discussing the relations of Japan and Canada gives what is apparently the views of an English observer on the ground. The Gazette tells us that the government of Japan has "proved unyielding in the matter of not suffering any discrimination at the hands of a treaty power." It points out that the powers in the past have insisted to the full upon the recognition of their treaty rights in Japan, and holds that as "Japan has entered the higher plane of political evolution," she is right in insisting that the same treatment shall be extended to her as is demanded of her, a proposition which cannot be successfully disputed. Teh cannot be successfully disputed. The Gazette admits that Japan ought to recognize the possibility of embarrassment arising out of a great influx of Japanese into Canada, but protests that her government cannot ente rinto any contract for their exclusion, because that would place her "on a different footing in regard to immigration from that occupied by any other Oriental power sending emigrants there." The Gazette protests against the surrender by Japan of any treaty rights.

It will be observed that the Gazette which is exceedingly pro-Japanese in its views, objects, not to the prevention of Japanese entering Canada, but to any discrimination against them. Any measure that might be adopted by Canada, applicable to the people of all nationalities alike, would, we imagine, not be open to the objections made by our Yokohama contemporary. In other words we do not believe that Japan would take any possible exception to the enactment of such a measure as the Initial Act, any more than the United States would.

REAL BANK INSPACTION

Last week Mr. Pringle declared in the Commons for a bank inspection law similar to that passed years ago by the Congress of the United States. He asked: "If we had in this country, as they have in the Republic to the South, a Controller who would have the right to step into the head office of any of our banks and look into the securities, do you mean to tell me that for sixty consecutive months the General Manager of the Ontario Bank would have been able to hoodwink and deceive the Government and the people of this country?" Any Canadian acquitted with the United States system knows that no National Bank in twenty years has been able to deceive the Controller of the Currency, whose inspectors inspect and tell the truth to the Government. No National Bank President in the United States knows when he will be called upon for a statement. Neither does he know when an Inspector will drop in to see the books of his institution. A hint from some person that all is not well brings on an investigation. In addition the Controller uses his own judgment in calling for statements, which must be published, and to which the President, directors and officials are held in the event of trouble, a term in prison being the penalty for all adjudged guilty of issuing false returns. The United States system of bank inspection has such merit that one wonders why the Federal Parliament has not introduced it here to safeguard both the interests of the depositors and shareholders. Our present system is an invitation to the Bank Wrecker to pursue his course unmolested until the smash comes.

EDUCATION AND CRIME

LEARNING RESPONSIBLE FOR INGENUITY OF CRIMINALS.

Clever Thefts Which Baffle the Police —New Species of Swindler—Crimes Against Property Are Increasing— Well-Educated "Crooks" Get Busy —Violence Gives Way to Softer Methods—Many Jewel Robberies.

The series of extremely clever thefts which have recently baffled the English police and astounded the public by their brilliant audacity has drawn attention to an unpleasant feature in the crime of the country—the growth of offences against property, and of offences which have been committed by persons who do not belong to the hereditary criminal class.

That the more serious offences are increasing while petty crime is decreasing is well known to those familiar with our criminal courts. Take for instance, the latest figures relating to indictable offences. In the latest statistical year they had reached 61,463, as against 59,980 in the previous year, and the annual average of 56,478 during the five years next preceding. Similarly, while the annual average number of persons convicted of serious crime in the five preceding years amounted to 184,987, during this latest year the number reached the high total of 196,861.

The great mass of all crime is now directed against property. Indeed, nine-tenths of the crime of the country consists of offences against people's property, and this proportion, high as it is, is steadily increasing, while crime against the person is rabbly diminishing. Violence, in fact, is giving place to cunning and educated effort, and striking evidence of this is shown in the fact that offences against property accompanied with violence are steadily decreasing. Out of a percentage of 179.06 offences against property per 100,000 of population, as many as 157.65 are now unaccompanied by violence.

Ingenuity, Not Violence.

Some of the chief police authorities attribute this diversion of the criminal habit to education. Education has converted the assaulting robber into an adroit thief, and many ingenious thieves into highly fraudulent persons. The weapon of offence is becoming more often a cunning trick, a clever stratagem, a lying prospectus, fraudulent imitation, adulteration, and the like. To give but one instance of the latter, in one police district some fewer than 47 per cent. of the trade samples taken for analysis were found to be adulterated. More serious crimes against property, however, are rampant; and in Liverpool alone, in the latest statistical year, there were 1,171.28 per 100,000 of population, as against 570.27 per 100,000 ten years ago. They have practically doubled in ten years.

Nor is this a mere sudden leap upward which may be followed immediately by a sudden decline. Here are the figures of the last four years of persons tried for offences against property without violence: 47,783, 49,094, 51,009, and 53,544. That reveals a steady crescendo in crime. So, too, with thefts which have been reported to the police. I take the period of the last six years, and I obtain 57,000, 60,000, 65,000, 62,000, 68,000, 70,000. These figures show a steady but terribly rapid advance in dishonesty and theft.

The New Educated Criminal.

An itching greed seems to lie at the bottom of these crimes, especially when one considers the great increase in cases of obtaining money by false pretences and in betting and gambling offences. A remarkable feature, too, of the burglaries and shop thefts is the large number of persons concerned in them who are not professional or habitual criminals. In Leeds alone there were in the last year no fewer than 354 persons concerned in breaking into houses and shops who belonged to the noncriminal class and had no conviction or charge of any kind against their names. In five years, such offences—so far, that is as they have been tried at quarter sessions and assizes—have risen from 1,765 to 2,570.

It would be dangerous to attribute this growth of theft and larceny to one cause, but the head constable of Liverpool is undoubtedly on the right track when he ascribes a great deal of it to the spread of education. It is the widespread penetration of education which has sharpened the wits, enlarged the outlook, heightened the imagination and fashioned the instrument with which ingenious and daring and wholesale theft may be carried on. It is safer and more profitable nowadays to eschew violence and to substitute "finished manners" in perpetrating crime.

And this is why so many jewel robberies are so cunningly planned and perfectly executed that their prevention seems impossible, and the discovery of the criminals concerned has become so difficult.

At any rate, this form of crime is now so prevalent and is increasing so rapidly that it calls for immediate inquiry, while it suggests painfully that this greedy rage for other people's goods may be a reflection of the "social rich" impulse which is so character istic of the present day.

The reported recall of Prince Durnovoff, Russian Ambassador to Austria-Hungary, is said to have some bearing upon the probability of war.

Any person whose tender is accepted shall within ten days after the acceptance thereof furnish such additional approved security as may be required by the Commissioners; sign the contract, specifications, and other documents required to be signed by the said Commissioners; and, in any case of refusal or failure on the part of the party whose tender is accepted to complete the whose tender is accepted to complete and execute a contract with the said Commissioners, and to furnish the additional approved security within ten days after the acceptance of the tender, the said cheque shall be forfeited to the Commissioners as liquidated damages for such refusal or failure and all contracts rights acquired by the acceptance of the tender shall be forfeited. The cheques deposited by parties whose tenders are accepted will be deposited to the credit of the Receiver General of Canada as part of the security for the due and faithful performance of the contract according to its terms. Cheques deposited by parties whose tender are rejected will be returned within ten days after the signing of the contract.

'All mechanics, labourers, or other persons who perform labour for the purposes of the construction of the works hereby contracted for, shall be paid such wages as are generally accepted as current for competent workmen in the district in which the work is being performed, and if there is no current rate in such district, then a fair and reasonable rate; and, in the event of a dispute arising as to what is the current or a fair and reasonable rate, it shall be determined by the Commissioners, whose decision shall be final.'

'This agreement is subject to the regulations now in force, or which may at any time hereafter be in force during the construction of the works hereby contracted for, made under the authority of the Department of Labour, and which are, or shall be, applicable to such works.' (The schedule of minimum wages determined upon by said Department will form part of the contract).

The contractor shall in connection with the whole of the said work, as far as practicable, use only material, machinery, plant, supplies, and rolling stock manufactured or produced in Canada, provided the same can be obtained as cheaply, and upon as good terms, in Canada as elsewhere, having regard to quality and price.'

The contractor shall conform to the fire regulations adopted by the Commissioners, and also to the laws and regulations respecting fires in the different provinces wherein the work is being performed.

The right is reserved to reject any or all tenders.

SECTION NO. 3

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

Sealed Tenders addressed to the undersigned and endorsed "Tender for Trent Canal," will be received until 16 o'clock on Thursday, 12th March, 1908, for the works connected with the construction of Section No. 3, Ontario-Rice Lake Division of the Canal.

Plans, specifications, and the form of the contract to be entered into, can be seen on an after the 5th February, 1908, at the office of the Chief Engineer of the Department of Railways and Canals, Ottawa, at the office of the Superintending Engineer, Trent Canal, Peterborough, Ont., and at the office of Mr. J. B. Brophy, Division Engineer, Trenton, Ont., at which places forms of tender may be obtained.

Parties tendering will be required to accept the fair wages Schedule prepared or to be prepared by the Department of Labor, which Schedule will form part of the contract.

Contractors are requested to bear in mind that tenders will not be considered, unless made strictly in accordance with the printed forms, and in the case of firms, unless there are attached the actual signatures, the nature of the occupation, and place of residence of each member of the firm.

An accepted bank cheque for the sum of $14,000 must accompany each tender, which sum will be forfeited, if the party tendering declines entering into contract for the work, at the rates stated in the offer submitted.

The cheque thus sent in will be returned to the respective contractors whose tenders are not accepted.

The advertisement dated the 16th January, 1908, is hereby cancelled.

The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

By order,
L. K. JONES,
Secretary.

The Toronto General Trusts Corporation

Report of Proceedings of the Twenty-Sixth Annual General Meeting

The Twenty-sixty Annual Meeting of the Shareholders of the Toronto General Trusts Corporation was held in the Board room of the Corporation, on the corner of Yonge and Colborne streets, Toronto, on Wednesday, the 6th February, 1908.

There were present:—

John Hoskin, K. C., Hon. S. C. Wood, W. B. Couch, W. J. Jones, D'Arcy Martin, John L. Blaikie, G. S. May, Sir Aemilius Irving, W. D. Matthews, W. M. Brock, J. W. Langmuir, A. T. Malone, James Henderson, Frederick Wyld, Thomas Long, Edward Gailey, Hon. Senator Jaffray, A. D. Langmuir, W. G. Watson, Samuel Nordheimer, A. L. Malone, Harry Caldwell, Geo. A. Stimson, Edward Greig, J. G. Scott, K. C., Alexander Nairn, M. Fleming, Hon. J. J. Foy, J. Bruce Macdonald, Alexander Smith.

The President, Dr. Hoskin, took the chair, and Mr. A. D. Langmuir, the Assistant Manager, was appointed to act as Secretary.

The various financial statements showing the operations of the Corporation for the year ended 31st December, 1907, were submitted by the Managing Director, Mr. J. W. Langmuir, and commented upon by him.

The report to the Shareholders was then read, as follows:—

To the Shareholders:—

Your Directors have pleasure in submitting the Twenty-sixty Annual Report of the Corporation, accompanied by the usual statements, showing its operations for the year 1907, and the financial results of the same.

During the year new business has been accepted by the Corporation to the amount of $3,563,231.73, as follows:—

Executorships	$ 334,468 50
Administrations	264,118 40
Trusteeships	2,699,236 05
Guardianships	20,546 05
Agencies	174,861 14
Guaranteed Investments	264,000 05
Ordinary Investment Agencies	15,522 30
Lunatic Estates	24,457 40
	$3,563,231 73

In addition to this new work, the Corporation has been appointed Trustee for Bond issues for a considerable amount.

The gross profits derived from the various branches of the Corporation's business are clearly set out in the Profit and Loss Statement herewith submitted, amounting to $263,726.54. After deducting the entire cost of management of the Head Office and the Winnipeg and Ottawa Branches, amounting to $127,599.27, the net profits, including the balance brought forward from 1906, are shown to be $135,998.78.

Your Directors have declared and paid two semi-annual dividends at the rate of seven and one-half per cent. (7 1-2 p. c.) per annum, amounting to $75,000; have written off balance of amount paid for the good-will and assets of the Ottawa Trust Company, viz.: $10,000; have carried $25,000 to Rest Account, bringing that fund up to $600,000, and have carried forward to the credit of Profit and Loss Account, the sum of $25,998.78.

The By-law fixing the number of Directors of the Corporation at twenty-five, instead of a number varying from fifteen to thirty, was passed by the Board, and will be submitted for your sanction. The Board of Directors have appointed the following gentlemen to make up the number of directors to twenty-five for the unexpired portion of the year, namely:—

The Hon. J. M. Gibson, K. C., Mr. Hamilton Cassels, K. C., and Mr. J. Bruce Macdonald,

All of which is respectfully submitted.

J. W. LANGMUIR, Managing Director.

JOHN HOSKIN, President.

AUDITORS' CERTIFICATE

We, the undersigned, beg to report that we have made a full examination of the books, accounts, and vouchers of the Toronto General Trusts Corporation to the 31st December, 1907, and find the same to be correct and properly set forth in the above statement of Profit and Loss and Assets and Liabilities. We have examined and find in order all the mortgages, debentures, bonds, and scrip of the Corporation as well as those negotiated for the Supreme Court of Judicature for Ontario, and Trusts, Estates and Agencies in the Corporation's hands, and have checked same with the Mortgage and Debenture Ledgers and Registers. The Bankers' balances, after deducting outstanding cheques, agree with the books of the Corporation.

We have also examined the Reports of the Auditors of the Winnipeg and Ottawa Branches, and find that they agree with the Head Office books.

R. F. SPENCE, F.C.A., Can.
GEORGE MacBETH,
Auditors.

Toronto, January 29th, 1908.

PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS.

The President, Dr. John Hoskin, K. C., in moving the adoption of the report, said:—

I think you will agree with me that I am warranted in congratulating the Shareholders, and not only the Shareholders, but the many thousand persons who are directly interested in the operations of this Corporation, on the excellent showing as exhibited in the statements which have just been read by the Managing Director.

We do not pretend to be a great money-making Corporation for our Shareholders, although we have always paid them a good dividend, and have built up almost entirely out of surplus profits, a Reserve of $600,000. We do claim, however, that by strictly and exclusively confining ourselves, as we have done for the past quarter of a century, to a trust and agency business, and by avoiding every species of speculation, we have laid the foundation broad and deep of a great and much needed monetary institution that now occupies an important place in the financial community.

That a corporate executor and trustee has distinct and well defined advantages over individuals acting in trade capacities does not in this age admit of a doubt, and when these advantages can be availed of by persons desiring to make their Wills, or to create trusts, without increased cost, placed at considerable less cost than by appointing an individual executor and trustee, it is not to be wondered at that this Corporation should have already assumed enormous proportions. That our charges are most reasonable is conclusively shown from the fact that out of nearly thirty-three millions of business on our books at the end of the year, our net profits were only $135,000.

The Board of Directors are firmly convinced that the Corporation's business should continue to be strictly confined to the management of estates and trusts, and that even in the investment of our own capital we should entirely avoid speculation, and I am convinced that by the continuance of the principles and methods which we have adopted in the past this Corporation will grow and flourish long after we are all gone. I move the adoption of the Report, seconded by Vice-President Wood.

I will now call upon the Managing Director to address you.

MANAGING DIRECTOR'S ADDRESS.

Mr. J. W. Langmuir, the Managing Director, said:—

The financial statements which we have just submitted, should, I think, be satisfactory to all concerned. These statements very clearly show the general operations of the Corporation for the past year. It will be seen that our profits are derived from two main sources: First, compensation for the management of estates, trusts, and work of a kindred character, including trusteeships for bond issues, as well as for acting as Registrar and Transfer Agent. This class of work is known as our "Trust and Agency" business. Second, from interest on our invested capital and reserve, and surplus interest over and above the rate we pay under the Guaranteed Investment System, as well as from rents of our office buildings in Toronto and Ottawa and the Safe Deposit Vaults therein. This we designate our "Investment" business.

The profits of the trust and agency business consist of the compensation allowed to us by the courts on passing our accounts for the management of estates, trusts, etc., and what we call compensation arrived at by the mutual arrangement of the parties interested. The rule of the Corporation is first to take any compensation into its profits, unless an agreement exists, until the Courts have passed the accounts and awarded the remuneration, although in many instances a large proportion of the compensation for the management of the estate may have been earned. It will be obvious, therefore, that there will always be a very considerable amount of unearned profits that have been taken into our statement at the end of the year, and that the income from this source of the business largely depends upon the number of estates in which the accounts have been passed and the commission fixed during the year.

The revenue derived from our investment business is, of course, of a more fixed character, but also depends on the rate of interest that obtains during the year and the rents received from our buildings and vaults.

Respecting the expense of management, there is, perhaps, no branch of financial work requiring greater care and experience than the management of a large mass of estates, trusts and administrations. The variety of the work, as well as its great importance, demands capable and experienced service, which can only be obtained by payment of proper salaries. And yet in the matter of economical administration the Corporation compares favourably with other financial institutions, not excepting loan companies where, it will be admitted, the business is far less complex and exacting than is that of a trust company.

Our total expenses of administration for the year amount to $127,599.37, which sum represents approximately only two-fifths of one per cent. of the volume of assets under the Corporation's control, which percentage may be interesting for comparative purposes.

The Profit and Loss Statement shows that, including the small balance brought forward from the previous year, and after deducting all charges and expenses for the management of the business both at the Head Office and its Branches, as well as making provision for every ascertained loss the net profits for the year amounted to $135,998.78. These profits have been dealt with by the Board of Directors as follows:—(First) By payment of two semi-annual dividends at the rate of seven and one-half per cent. per annum, amounting to $75,000.00; (second) the writing off of $10,000.00 which stood at the debit of the purchase of the good-will and assets of the Ottawa business; (Third) Placing to the Rest Account $25,000.00, making that fund $600,000.00, and (fourth) carrying forward to the credit of Profit and Loss $25,998.78.

The Assets and Liabilities Statement for the year shows a very satisfactory increase in the total volume of business in the hands of the Corporation, the total assets at December 31st, 1907, being $32,850,802.63, an increase of over one and one-half million dollars during the year. While on the subject of assets let me again repeat that the Corporation's system provides for the keeping of Trust Investments made by the Corporation and all other Trust Assets strictly separate and apart from its own funds. Not only is this the case, but every investment is specially allocated and earmarked in the books of the Corporation as the property of the particular estate or trust for which it is taken.

It may also be of interest to know that our office is so departmentalized that whatever the nature of the assets coming into the hands of the corporation, whether real estate, mortgages, stocks and bonds, insurance policies, or going concerns, expert administration of such assets is provided in a manner that could not be procured by individual executors except at great cost to the estate.

The trust company is one of the few business institutions whose services may be secured to-day at no greater cost than obtained ten years ago, when salaries, values of real estate, and all mercantile commodities were at least one-third less than they are now. The proprietors of most businesses have very justly advanced the prices of their services or goods, as the cost of production has increased, but the trust company is being allowed by the Courts no such compensation to-day, if, indeed, as much, as was allowed when the cost of administration was very considerably less. While this is, perhaps, not an encouraging feature from a shareholder's standpoint, it must surely appeal to one seeking the services of a Corporate Executor or Trustee.

I avail myself of this meeting with the shareholders to ask them to do a little missionary work for the Corporation. You are not only interested in the Corporation as shareholders, but, may I be permitted to say, that you are also interested in giving effect to the principles and methods of the Corporation.

As a text for basing an argument in favor of using the Corporation as executor and trustee instead of an individual, I submit that if a trust is committed to an individual there is no assurance that he will live to execute it, or that he will keep in such health as will enable him to give the trust proper attention; accident or unexpected circumstances may come to him; he may be absent or other business require his attention at a time when the interests of the estate demand his presence. The court records are replete with instances where men of the highest standing have gone wrong. A bond may have been given for the faithful execution of the trust, but close supervision is not assumed by the appointing power over the dealings of either principal or surety. The individual Trustee is usually selected by reason of his success in his own business—a success achieved by giving his undivided time to that business, and just the man who cannot give full attention to the execution of an outside trust without neglecting his own business; this cannot be expected for the small compensation that is usually allowed in trust matters. Again, while the individual selected may be ever so faithful, he may have never before, or but seldom, discharged such a trust, while the special trust committed to him may require for its proper execution the most experienced ability.

In closing, I have pleasure in stating that the staff of the Corporation, both at Head Office and its Branches, have performed their executive duties with much zeal and efficiency during the year.

The Report of the Directors was adopted, as well as the Report of the Inspection Committee, as presented by Sir Aemilius Irving.

Certain by-laws and amendments were confirmed.

The resolution for the election of Directors for the ensuing year was then moved by Mr. D'Arcy Martin, and seconded by Mr. Alexander Nairn. Mr. Nairn, in seconding the resolution, said:—

I am sure the reports we have heard read to-day and the statements submitted will be most gratifying to all concerned. The Corporation, with its large experience in the management of estates, and its marked success in this important field, has so won its way into the confidence of the public that to-day the name of The Toronto General Trusts Corporation is a household word throughout the Province. This is not to be wondered at when one thinks of the great benefits of such an institution to the public generally in providing competent and responsible administration of estates and trusts, both great and small. I very heartily endorse what the Managing Director has stated in his address as to the advantages of the Corporate Executor and Trustee over the individual, and feel sure that the Shareholders will follow out his suggestion during the year by recommending to their friends the good services of this Corporation.

I have much pleasure in seconding the motion that the following Shareholders be elected Directors for the ensuing year:—

John Hoskin, K.C., LL.D., Hon. S. C. Wood, W. H. Beatty, John L. Blaikie, W. R. Brock, Hamilton Cassels, K.C., Hon. W. C. Edwards, Hon. J. J. Foy, K.C., M.P.P., A. E. Gooderham, Hon. J. M. Gibson, K. C., A. C., A. C. Hardy, Sir Aemilius Irving, K. C., Hon. Robert Jaffray, J. W. Langmuir, Thomas Long, W. D. Matthews, J. Bruce Macdonald, Hon. Peter McLean, Hon. Sir Daniel H. McMillan, K. C., M. G., Samuel Nordheimer, E. B. Osler, M. P., J. G. Scott, K. C., B E Walker, D R. Wilkie, and Frederick Wyld. Carried.

At a subsequent meeting of the Board of Directors Dr. Hoskins was re-elected President, and Hon. S. C. Wood and W. H. Beatty Vice-Presidents.

"I tell you," said Callander, "she thinks you are too formal, too cut and dried, too wrapped up in your profession. To her you're a fossil."

"If I were you I'd kick him for saying that," said Gaitley. "Go ahead, Abbett, old man; you're far enough away from the village so that your unbending from dignity will never be seen."

"Oh, I'll do worse than that to him some time!" returned young Dr. Abbett, glaring with comic malevolence at Callander. "I'll wait until he is injured in some of his schoolboy escapades, and then I'll operate on him. Don't you feel the approach of another foolish attack, Georgie?"

The three young men sat in the shade of a huge mass of rock that marked the end of a long, irregular ridge of hills which jutted out from the main range to the west. At the mouth of a tiny canyon just visible from the rocks a cluster of summer cottages showed white against the brown and gray of their surroundings.

Georgie Callander grunted, stretched his hulking body and took out a pair of fieldglasses from a case at his side.

"No, Folsom," he replied at length; "I don't feel unusually foolish at present. But this grand air and this sunshine and—well, life in general greatly appeals to me today, and so there's no telling when I shall find it necessary to break out again. By Jove," he went on, pointing the glasses at the faraway cottages, "there's my dear wife and the dear wife of our friend Hiram here, and—yes, the dear sister of my dear wife aforementioned, all laden with baskets and making for Flagstaff hill."

"Dear, dear," said Hiram Gaitley; "anybody else in the party?"

"N-no, none that I can make out. Hold on, though; yes, there is. They're passing Evergreen inn now, and that discreditable simian Ramage has joined them. I believe, Abbett, that's what you called him, wasn't it—a discreditable simian?"

"Callander," demanded Abbett sternly, "does Miss Alice know that you two ungainly wretches enticed me away with you this morning without letting me know that she and other ladies were bent upon a picnic today?"

"Miss Alice?" queried Callander. "Oh, you mean little Allie, my wife's sister. Now that I think of it, Folsom, I believe she did say something about asking you to have lunch with them on Flagstaff hill today. She asked if I thought you would care to leave your bug hunting and whether you would make one of so informal a party. I believe I told her"—

He broke off and leveled his glass at the distant hills.

"Well, well," cried Abbett impatiently, "what reply did you make? Something absurd, I suppose. Give me those glasses."

Callander adroitly moved out of reach of Abbett's arm and continued:

"I forgot just what I did say, but it must have been something worthy of so ungainly a wretch. They're up on the hill now, Folsom, and Ramage has taken his place beside Allie and is carrying her basket."

"That's a bad sign," Gaitley put in. "That's the way I began on the day I asked Ella to be my wife. You remember that picnic, Georgie?"

"Certainly. Picnics are fatal affairs. I have no doubt that if Folsom were on Flagstaff hill today he'd be the happy man instead of Ramage. By Jove! He and Allie have strolled away from the rest and are picking wild flowers."

Abbett groaned.

"And I thought you were my friends—my boyhood friends. Here, give me those glasses, I say!"

Again Callander eluded his grasp and lightly sprang across a tree trunk which spanned the creek that rattled down from the range of hills and into the plain. Once safely across, he pulled away the log and set it floating downstream.

"We are your friends, Folsom," he declared from the opposite bank. "Haven't we patiently listened to your ravings about Allie for the past six months? Didn't we bring you out with us today on purpose to talk about her?"

"And you," cried the young doctor, turning to Gaitley, "I suppose you're in this attempt to keep me away from Miss—from the picnic?"

"Don't speak so harshly, Folsom," Gaitley returned. "Let's go leave George and hunt fossils or something."

"I've a notion to hunt you," Abbett answered, and he stepped toward Gaitley.

"Oh, don't, doctor; don't, doctor!" Gaitley screamed in a high falsetto as he sprang down the hill, with Abbett at his heels.

At the creek bank Gaitley paused to look back, and, seeing the doctor still coming, he leaped into the stream and floundered across it.

Abbett stopped at the bank and began to throw stones at his tormentors. They moved out of range of the missiles and walked downstream until the settlement of cottages came into view from behind the rocks where they had been sitting on the other side of the creek.

Abbett followed them downstream on his side and bawled out half angry epithets at them. Callander, after a prolonged look through the glasses at Flagstaff hill, called out:

"Oh, horrors, Folsom, Ramage has taken Allie for a stroll to the top of Flagstaff! They're at the top now. I did so want you for a brother-in-law, and now I'll never have a doctor in the family."

"Stop them; stop them!" cried Folsom, dancing up and down. "Do, please, Georgie, toss over those glasses!"

"Couldn't do it. This is a sight one doesn't see every day. There he goes, stooping down on his knees before her. Farewell, Brother-in-law Folsom; farewell forever!"

Desperately Abbett went to the bank, removed his coat and shoes and rolled up his trousers.

"Look out," cried Gaitley; "he's going to swim for it!"

Abbett plunged in and had hardly taken two steps when he slipped and fell. Immediately he arose again, splashed across the stream and clambered up on the opposite bank.

"Now," he grated, "I'll show you what it means to torment a peaceable man."

"Wait," called Georgie from a safe distance; "he wasn't flopping on his knees, after all, so don't be angry. You wouldn't raise black and blue lumps all over our pure, white bodies, would you, Folsom?"

"You'll see," retorted the angry young man as he took up the chase.

The two led him along a devious path, through thickets and over rough prairie grass and rocky stretches of plain. But his blood was up, and he doggedly kept on. They easily continued in the lead and frequently stopped to shout back mocking comments and to report what could be seen by looking through the glasses.

"Say," cried Georgie after one such look at Flagstaff hill, "I wish we were nearer, so we could distract Allie's attention from what Ramage is saying to her. I know she'd be pleased to see you unbending a little."

"That's all she's afraid of," Gaitley took up. "She's told my wife as much lots of times. She thinks you're a born stiff—or—were born stiff, I mean."

"No," bawled Callander; "he means she thinks you're so wrapped up in your profession that you look upon even her love as a secondary affair, and she wants you to consider it the whole thing."

"She thinks," began Gaitley as he dodged a piece of granite which Abbett hurled at him, "that you can't enthuse over anything but strange bugs or fossils or a new disease. We've often told her that she's wrong"—he ducked to avoid another stone—"but we couldn't convince her, and this is our reward—to be—stoned—to be chased across country like innocent rabbits.

They were obliged to take up the cross country again, for Abbett was well upon them. Down the creek was another log from bank to bank, and they darted across toward the cottages, with Albert in full cry at their heels.

There was no more opportunity for extended banter, although Gaitley now and then flung back a stentorian wish that Alice might see them at the present moment.

When they drew near the cottages, he bares endeavored to shape their course so that the hound must cross be foot of Flagstaff hill, but he gave up and ran to kennel at the Evergreen inn.

He came out an hour later with all marks of the chase removed from his clothing. But the banter of his friends still rankled, and he determined to see Miss Alice at once, then if he had been refused to go back to the city. So he bravely charged up Flagstaff hill to meet his fate.

He found Alice, and at the first opportunity he told her of his love. When, to his unspeakable joy, he found himself accepted he demanded to know whether or not he had heard the truth from his friends in regard to her estimation of his character.

"Yes, I did think that until this morning," answered the young lady. "But I know now that I was wrong, Folsom, dear. Mr. Ramage had a pair of powerful binoculars with him this morning, and I watched you every minute from the top of Flagstaff hill."

A Congenial Occupation.

"It isn't everybody that gets a place in life that's just suited to him," said Mr. Hobart thoughtfully, "but I declare it seems as if Jed Loring had landed in the very spot he'd choose above every other."

"I didn't suppose anything would ever suit Jed," remarked Mrs. Hobart, "a man that always thought everybody was better off than he and never appeared to enjoy anything except other folks' misfortune. Where in the world is he?"

"While I was visiting Henry's folks," said Mr. Hobart, "they took me across the ferry to the island one day. I thought the face of the man that worked the gates looked kind of familiar, and he gazed at me real searching as Henry and I stood there.

"'Aren't you Jim Hobart that used to live in Bushby?' he asked me at last.

"'I am and still do,' says I, 'and it's just come to me who you are. You're Jed Loring.'

"He nodded that I was right.

"'Got a job that suits you here, I guess,' I said, for he's grown stouter and looks considerable cheerfuler than he used to when he was here in Bushby.

"'Yes, I have,' says he, real hearty. 'Why, this ferryboat runs back and forth every half hour all day long, and there's hardly a trip but what somebody misses it and gets as mad as fury!'"

Wedding Gowns No Longer Saved.

Among the old fashioned ideas that are disappearing in this intensely practical age is the desire to preserve the wedding gown for future generations.

For one thing, there is a superstition that there can be no luck about a house while the wedding gown is in it, and, besides, there is not much room in the modern house for storing away old gowns, and there is not much room in modern life for preserving sentiment.

The woman of today has too many duties, active and pressing, to enable

EVENING IN THE WEST

TWILIGHT SCENE IN STREETS OF PRAIRIE TOWN IN SUMMER.

Spirit of Good Comradeship Prevails —Townspeople Gather in the Main Thoroughfare to Discuss Civic Problems — Women Compare Babies and Bonnets—Evenings Devoted to Innocent Recreations.

As odd a thing as one can see in the west is the main street of a prairie town, or rather village, on a summer evening, and it is indeed a unique sight.

The street is invariably very wide, space not being of as much consideration as in the more crowded parts of the Dominion. It is fortunate that such is the case, for the main street in summer, in addition to its more ordinary functions, is used as a sort of drawing-room, or perhaps play-room, where the townspeople, like one big family, amuse themselves.

The work and stress and heat of the day are over, and the evening is long as well as lovely. The tension of buying and selling, plowing and harrowing, churning and washing, is suspended, and the workers are relaxed. A spirit of good comradeship prevails in the west, and it is collectively rather than individually that the people like to take their relaxation.

Hence the saddler drops in to talk over the stirring events of the day with the postmaster, until perhaps a barefooted urchin pokes his head in the door and proclaims that "there's a cove in the saddler-shop," whereupon the vendor in leather composedly strolls over to wait upon his customer. The postmaster, thus left to himself, reads the postcards of the community at his leisure, and distributes them together with the news gleaned therefrom, to the owners, or to others, as the case may be.

The bank clerk, the teacher and others play a spirited game of baseball, together with the butcher's assistant (who is probably a college student), right in the middle of the street until such time as the "preacher" wants a pound and a half of chops, when the game is suspended while the appetite of the minister's family is furnished with an antidote.

A row of men in their shirt-sleeves, seated upon the edge of the plank sidewalk, discuss the political situation. Other men on their doorsteps read the Winnipeg dailies, and shout out to the neighbors comments—usually very spicy and pointed—upon the editorials, etc.

The new "bread-mixer," the latest patented washing machine, and the merits of "canning" over and above the old method of "preserving" "down east" all receive their share of discussion, and sociability reigns. And should there be a lady so unfortunate as to be belated with her ironing she refuses to be done out of her social evening by stress of circumstances, but brings out her ironing board to the side door, places it across the backs of two kitchen chairs or on the top of the rain barrel.

Children bicycle up and down at will, and vary the proceedings with "prisoners' base" until they are hot and tired, when they repair to the "ice cream parlor," purchase five-cent ices and bring them out to enjoy them more fully on the doorsteps, while up and down the boardwalk stroll the young people—"children of a larger growth"—brandishing their racquets and awaiting their "turn" at the club tennis ground.

Chinamen issue forth from the restaurant, and with the greatest complacency empty their dishwater on a vacant lot nearby, while at the same time they exchange Oriental signals with the laundryman, Tong Yeck, across the way.

In from a twenty-mile drive, covered with dust and glory, comes the doctor, deposits his horse at the livery and vanishes into his drug store. He is the only secretive member of western society, and that only for conscience sake. Endowed with true western loquacity, he is dying to give the leading symptoms of his latest country case, if only professional etiquette did not forbid! However, he mentions casually to his clerk that "Mrs. Tom Gorham of Grove Farm will pull through alright this time!" whereupon the clerk slips out for a minute, and in no time the good news spreads far and wide.

Presently down the street comes the telegraph operator, flapping an ominous looking yellow envelope, and inquiring in loud, cheery tones if there is anybody "in" from the "east trail." A score of voices answer, "Yes! Bill Anstruther, the young Englishman who is hired with Jack Sinclair, is in town somewhere," A single shrill voice announces that "he is in the barber's shop," whereupon the said "Bill," hearing his name bandied about from mouth to mouth, appears, towelled and lathered, at the door of the barber's shop (attended, razor in hand, by the no less interested tonsorial artist) and demands to know "What's the row?" The telegraph message is forthwith confided to his care, to be delivered to a neighbor two miles or so south of him on the "Smith trail," and after the telegraph operator assures the public that the message contains "no bad news of Smith's boy at the Klondike," but is only "a matter of wheat," society subsides to its former happy state, and Bill's shaving proceeds.

Thus, with various innocent interests and recreations the evening spreads away. Perfect unanimity prevails—all know each other's business, pleasures, losses, gains, happiness and grief. A bond of sympathy and good-fellowship binds all together.

Instead of that, however, after the "kids" are captured and put to bed, and the grown-ups have a farewell gossip, untrammelled by the "little pitchers," the young farmers "hitch up" and "hit the trail"—cries of "Good-night," "Ta-ta," "See you tomorrow" and "So long" sound across and over, in and out; one door after another closes upon the only privacy the family knows, lights twinkle awhile and then go out, and the whole busy, happy, social "town" is wrapped in deep, dreamless sleep — the sleep of those who work.

SEA WATER CURE THE NEW WONDER

TITLED WOMEN NURSES.

Thousands Flock to Institution; Marvelous Cures Effected by Subcutaneous Injections.

PARIS, —For the latest and most exceptionally interesting addition to its free dispensaries Paris is indebted to a leading member of the aristocracy, the marquise de MacMahon. With a beautiful baroness as her chief assistant, the marquise, who already is known for her royalist sympathies and inexhaustible charity, has thrown her gold heart and soul into the work of bringing the new Quinton sea water treatment within reach of the poorer classes.

Mainly at her own expense she has caused a commodious dispensary to be built in the Rue d'Ouessant, the center of the industrial Grenelle quarter, where 500 patients can be treated in the course of a morning. The opening ceremony took place without any pomp last week, there being present the marquise de MacMahon, the baroness de la Pinsonnie, who is famous for her good looks, a dozen young society women who are giving their services gratuitously as nurses, and M. Rene Quinton, with the doctors of the staff. The wonders worked by the Quinton treatment had already been passed from mouth to mouth and an eager crowd of mothers with their sick babies stood waiting for the signal to enter.

A Bonapart's Royalist Dispensary.

The marquise de MacMahon is one of the best known figures among the French aristocracy. The late marquis, her husband, was the nephew of the famous Marshal MacMahon, duke of Magenta, and second president of the republic. The marshal remained at heart a monarchist, although his patriotism caused him to accept the new order of things and loyally and faithfully to serve the republic.

Not so the marquise. Her family—she is the sister of Vicomte Melchior de Vogue, the French ambassador—is frankly royalist, as is proved by the fact that she is the official almoner in France of the duchess of Orleans, and as such presides over more than seventy benevolent societies which are maintained by the money of the duchess and women of the royalist party.

As president of the league of French Women, a militant royalist league, the marquise MacMahon may be said to have played a political rôle. She is, of course, a fervent Catholic and during the bitter struggle over the separation of church and state which marked the ministry of M. Emile Combes was not afraid to "demean into the streets" at the head of the members of the French Women's league against the politico-religious enemy. One of these manifestations, on the Place de la Concorde, resulted in a hand to hand struggle with the police, in the course of which many women were arrested.

Beloved of the People.

The militant marquise was the recipient of a signal honor not long ago. In recognition of her benevolence the municipal chore of the ancient town of Limoges made her an honorary member of this guild. This guild still preserves its mystical character. Its members live in the Rue de la Boucherie, and jealously cling to the traditional costume which has been handed down to them from their forefathers. The marquise's official designation when she visits Limoges is, therefore, "grenadine bouchere de Limoges."

Such is the woman to whom M. Rene Quinton, the creator of the sea water treatment, was introduced a month or two ago by Ernest Judet, editor of the Paris Matin. With her customary thoroughness the marquise interested herself in Quinton's work and soon grew enthusiastic over it. True to her principle that it is the duty of the French aristocracy to devote itself to the welfare of the people, she decided to bring the treatment within the reach of the most indigent purse and make it gratuitous for the indigent.

Marvel at the Cures.

All Paris, indeed, is talking of the marvelous cures effected by the discovery of the learned biologist. M. Rene Quinton, whose scientific labors applied to therapeutics have at last, after obstinate opposition, forced their way to the front by the sheer weight of incontrovertible fact. In a lecture delivered at the Sorbonne the other day under the auspices of the Oceanographic Institute, where the vast Biological amphitheater was filled to overflowing and fully 1,000 persons were unable to obtain admission, M. Quinton may be said to have achieved the final and definite triumph of his theories on the saving virtues of the sea water treatment.

Reduced to its simplest expression, the sea water cure which M. Quinton has deduced from his analytical research consists in introducing by subcutaneous injections into the cellular organisms a serum of plasma which is nothing but perfectly pure sea water, sterilized and diluted in a fixed proportion.

It would take me far beyond the scope of the present article were I to attempt to follow the savant through the various stages of theory. Suffice it to say that in 1904 M. Quinton demonstrated before the Academy of Science the fact that living beings appeared on the globe at an epoch when the temperature was higher than it is now, and that they tend to maintain the original temperature in the face of the constant cooling down of the earth.

Marine Origin of Man.

Pursuing the same line of research, M. Quinton asked himself whether animal life had not tended to maintain other original conditions over and above that of temperature. By a chain of irrefutable proofs he next demonstrated the marine origin of all living beings, or, in other words, that living beings made their first appearance in the lap of the ocean. This theory is now accepted without question by scientists.

"Now," said M. Quinton, "is there not a tendency in all animal organism to maintain their sea origin for the inner life of their cellular organisms, just as they tend to maintain the original temperature?" Again the savant was able to prove by a series of experiments and analyses that this was true of all animal organisms from the lowest of the scale, such as sponges, to the highest, man himself, through the whole series of living forms: worms, molluscs, crustaceans, insects, reptiles, birds and mammalians.

After seven years of patient and arduous research in his laboratory, M. Quinton came forth with the startling statement that man is a veritable sea aquarium, that his blood is really an oceanic liquid, in which red globules bathe. All parts of our bodies are bathed in sea water, the remains of the medium in which our ancestors lived. Every animal organism, whether worm, dog, horse, or man is composed of sea water to one-third of its weight, of real sea water, in which all the living cells bathe and breathe secrete and excrete. A man of 165 pounds contains fifty-six pounds of sea water. This sea water is the vital liquid of the organic cells the liquid without which life would be literally impossible. The cells constituting the organism continue to live under the aquatic conditions of their first origin, and just as in an aquarium fish life is impossible without sea water, so the life of our organic cells is impossible without this sea water of which we are constituted.

Sea Water Takes Place of Blood.

M. Quinton proved his theory by an experiment which now has become historic. He took a dog and bled it to the last drop of blood in its veins. The animal lay on the operating table to all appearance dead. Then the operator injected a quantity of sea water equal to that of the blood lost, whereupon the dog gurgled and was soon running about to though the operation had never taken place. In his conference at the Sorbonne, M. Quinton projected on the limelight screen a photograph of the dog in question, taken four years after the above experiment was performed. Needless to say, similar experiments were repeated a great number of times, and not only were the "subjects" completely restored to health five days later, but it was noted that they had gained in vigor and were all alive some years afterwards.

The importance of this discovery cannot be overestimated, for it brought to light one of the primordial elements of life. M. Quinton has thus shown us what is the liquid indispensable to the life of the organic cells. We now possess the "culture broth" of the organic cell. Our existence is bound up in the purity and integrity of the broth of marine culture. Normal life is only possible in so far as nothing pollutes or changes this inner oceanic medium, and it is this fact which forms the point of departure for the application in medicine of Quinton's method.

Purifying the Blood.

Every malady is a poisoning of the blood due to the waste formed. The organism suffers from this modification of its natural medium. The injection of sea water purifies this polluted medium just as fresh air renovates the vitiated atmosphere of a room. It is a therapeutic agent of a general kind, the plasma itself of the organic cell.

To sum up, the subcutaneous injection of sea water rejuvenates and renovates our corrupted vital medium. The fatigued and poisoned cells at once resume a normal existence, being restored to their natural medium. This explains the marvelous rapidity of the results obtained in certain cases by the injection of marine plasma.

In his Sorbonne lecture M. Quinton dealt solely with the cases where the results are, so to speak, instantaneous. First and foremost on the list came algo-pathic—sea born babes suffering from the deadly green diarrhea, unable to digest any food, vomiting everything, not only milk but even water. One hour after the first injection the baby is able to take the feeding bottle, the vomiting and diarrhea cease and it is saved. Such results are not the exception but the rule, for they are true of 98 per cent of the cases. If one reflects that 70,000 children die annually in France of gastro-enteritis the value of the Quinton treatment is evident.

Wonderful Cure of a Baby.

Perhaps one of the most remarkable cures of gastro-enteritis was that of a baby which was brought to the dispensary when it was practically beyond human aid. It was unable to digest even water. The age of the baby was four and a half months, and it weighed less than at its birth. Two hours after the first injection it was able to retain two ounces of milk. Two days afterwards its weight had increased by half a pound.

M. Quinton showed his Sorbonne audience photographs of babies whose faces were covered with eczema on their arrival at the dispensary. A few injections sufficed to restore the face to its normal condition. In treating eczema it is necessary to employ only weak doses, at most thirty cubic centimeters in the case of an adult, and ten in that of children.

In the case of patients afflicted with varicose ulcers, the suffering diminishes with the first injection and in some cases the ulcer cicatrizes with marvelous rapidity. Excellent results have also attended the treatment applied to pulmonary tuberculosis. Not less surprising from the point of view of rapidity are the results obtained in treating adults for the different maladies of the stomach and intestines as well as in every kind of muco-membranous enteritis and chronic constipation. M. Quinton tells me that fifteen per cent of the cases of muco-membranous enteritis and the most obstinate intestinal sluggishness, which have resisted every treatment and years of dieting, are transformed in the space of twenty-four hours. In other words, the cure is apparent after the fifth or sixth injection. Only fifteen per cent of the cases prove refractory.

Patients Crowd the Dispensary.

M. Quinton has opened a popular dispensary close to the Montparnasse station in the midst of a crowded district. Every day for some months past you might have seen in the Rue de l'Arrivée, where the dispensary is situated, over 200 patients cross the threshold. The indigent are treated gratuitously, the others are charged fees varying from 50 centimes (10 cents) to 2 francs (40 cents). The dispensary consists of a vast waiting room, four private rooms, where the injections are made, a laboratory, a weighing room, and two consulting rooms. The doctors, generous and devoted propagandists of the new treatment, are Robert Simon, Pierre Lafitte Arlès Bourgunel, Chauvain, and De Lambert. The nurses who hold the diplomas of the Red Cross, the Leagues of the Children of France, etc., are all society women who give their services gratuitously.

One of the most interested recent visitors to the dispensary in the Rue de l'Arrivée was the duchess of Sutherland. Her grace, who was initiated into the mode of performing an injection, inquired minutely into the methods and general working of the institution and took away with her an armful of books and pamphlets. M. Quinton tells me that the duchess declared her intention of opening a similar dispensary in Scotland.

"I do not conceal from myself the difficulty of the undertaking," she remarked, "for our doctors are even more conservative than yours, but I hope to succeed."

Decision Gives Way to Wonder.

M. Quinton has indeed had to fight a hard battle. For years his theories provoked nothing more than a smile of contempt. Results are, however, like facts, stubborn things, and the efficacy of the sea water treatment is now admitted by fully 70 per cent of doctors in the towns of France.

In justice to M. Quinton it should be stated that his labors are purely philanthropic.

It may be added in conclusion that the dose of isotonic sea water, or Quinton plasma, employed in each injection varies from fifty to a hundred cubic centimeters. In the generality of maladies the injection is made once every three days. The dispensary in the Rue de l'Arrivée opened last April with 288 patients. In August this number had increased to 1,674 and in October to 4,083.

CATS' HEADS IN CATACOMBS; MYSTERY IS SOLVED SOON

Underground Passage Is Connected with Popular Paris Restaurant Which Makes Specialty of Jugged Hare.

PARIS, —A discovery that has been made in the Paris catacombs is puzzling a number of scientists.

The whole south of Paris is honeycombed with catacombs, of which a small portion is used as a receptacle for the bones from old Paris cemeteries. A professor from the Natural History museum entered the catacombs beneath the Jardin des Plants, accompanied by three laboratory assistants, an engineer, and an attendant.

After a time he came upon a large pyramid shaped mound which obstructed the passage. Holding torches close to the mound the party discovered that the pyramid was composed entirely of cats' heads, numbering many thousands. Those on the top were freshly cut. The mound evidently had been accumulating for years. It seemed entirely inexplicable how the heads came to be in an unfrequented passage underground.

While the scientists were puzzling their brains and trying to imagine the existence of a secret sect of religious fanatics, the engineer unfolded a plan of the catacombs. From this document they discovered that they were under the premises of a well known cheap restaurant which makes a special feature of jugged hare at popular prices. Close by an air shaft passed through the cellars of the restaurant in question.

KING'S DINNER RULES STRICT

Invitations to Public Feast Must Be Sent Weeks in Advance.

CARE IN SELECTING FOODS.

Royal Family Provides Its Own Wines for Edward VII to Drink.

LONDON, —When his majesty is to preside at a public dinner a variety of formalities have to be rigidly observed. In the first place the invitation—including a list of the committee, the toast list, and the speakers—must be received at Buckingham palace at least a month or six weeks ahead of the date proposed for the function. It is then submitted to the king by his private secretary and if the date does not clash with arrangements made previously and all other details being in order, the invitation is graciously accepted.

A statement must also be sent announcing the hour at which the function is to begin and, when it is expected to end. These two points are most essential, as royalty and punctuality are synonymous terms. Moreover, the king does not care to spend more than a certain number of hours at any public dinner, therefore speeches and other matters have to be arranged accordingly. After these necessary preliminaries have been satisfactorily arranged the day on which the banquet is to take place awaited.

Care in Placing King's Chair.

An hour or so before the commencement of the dinner an official arrives at the banqueting hall. It is his duty to examine the plan of the tables and to see that the chair of the king is suitably placed so as to be free from draft, noises, and other disturbing influences. This official is exceedingly fastidious and his word is law. On not a few occasions he has thrown every one into a state of consternation by demanding a change in the arrangements of a dinner at the eleventh hour. The requirements of his majesty in these and other matters, however, are now so well known that mistakes are of rare occurrance.

As soon as the seating arrangements have been "passed" the special wine which the illustrious guest is to drink arrives in charge of a royal servant. Members of the royal family always send their own wine to public dinners and in many cases their own special brands of cigars also. The wine is in the charge of a responsible servant in the employ of the royal household, whose duty it is to stand behind the chair of his master and wait upon him.

Menu Generally Is Short.

Special attention has to be paid to the menu, care being taken that the card contains an assortment of dishes for which the more important members of the royal family have a predilection. The menu is usually short and rarely exceeds four or five courses. Private hot plates always attend exclusively to the requirements of the royal guests.

Like most of his subjects, his majesty has during whims. He will on no account, for instance, allow two knives to be on the table before him together. It is believed that the king puts some faith in the well known superstition that ill comes from the crossing of knives. Let this be as it may, at all dinners held at Buckingham palace a clean knife is placed beside each guest with every course, and this rule must be rigidly observed at all public as well as private dinners attended by his majesty. And his servants take special pains to see that it is so.

Dinner must be served as soon as his majesty is seated. None save members of the royal family are expected to converse with the king until addressed by him, and a stranger must on no account attempt conversation without a formal introduction. The royal visitor is exceedingly particular on this point and is most precise in indicating those to whom he wishes to be introduced.

No one is permitted to leave the table at a public dinner until all the members of the royal family have first risen and retired. The king rarely smokes at public functions, but a special room usually is set aside for his majesty's accommodation should he wish to.

WALKS FORTY MILES TO COURT.

Irish Cart Driver Makes Long Journey Afoot and Is Discharged with Fare Back Home.

LONDON, —Stephen O'Neill, 76 years old, walked forty miles to answer a police court summons at the Belfast summons court. The charge against O'Neill is that of driving a farm cart on the wrong side of the road at Belfast on Christmas eve.

O'Neill started Wednesday night at 7 o'clock from Ballygola, near Portaferry, County Down, to walk to Belfast. He arrived Friday morning about 8 o'clock, after walking a distance of almost forty miles, and had been hanging about for three hours more until the court opened.

In court O'Neill said he was only crossing the tram lines to give the horse a drink at a watering trough. He was discharged, and the magistrates directed that something be given him from the poor box to enable him to pay his way back home.

Constable Berke took charge of the old man, as he seemed to be weak from hunger and exhaustion, and procured refreshments for him, afterwards seeing him to the railway station and procuring him a ticket.

SINGER, HISSED, A SUICIDE.

Told He Had a Treasure in His Throat, He Uses a Knife to Get It and Mother Finds Body.

PARIS, —Maurice Fillaux, a locksmith's apprentice, aged 19, sang in the work shop from morning till night, till one day a comrade said to him: "With such a treasure in your throat, why remain apprentice?"

Maurice soon persuaded himself that he had the makings of a great artist. He made his début in a little café concert, but was hooted down, and, puzzle with shame, fled.

On the morrow he said to his mother, "I have a treasure in my throat. We are to be rich." For days after he rambled in glowing phrases about his future. Last night his mother found him on the floor in a great pool of blood with a kitchen knife by his side. In his madness he had cut his throat to get out the hidden treasure.

WOULD CROSS ALPS BY CANAL

Italian Invents Scheme for Carrying Boats Over Mountains.

LOCK SYSTEM IS MODIFIED.

Comparatively Small Amount of Water, He Says, Is Necessary.

LONDON, —A short time ago the Chronicle announced that an Italian inventor had devised a scheme for crossing the Alps by means of a canal. The Times' Rome correspondent furnishes details of this extraordinary proposal.

Were it to be says, for the marvelous feats already performed by Italian engineers the idea of connecting Genoa and Lake Constance by water and floating a barge over the Apennines and Alps themselves would sound too like an idle fairy tale to be worth consideration. But the plan, or, rather, the invention of Sig. Caminada has apparently won the support of Senator Colombo, a famous engineer himself and the president of the Polytechnic of Lombardy, and has already attracted the notice of King Victor Emmanuel and the Italian public.

Without attempting an exact description of Sig Caminada's invention, it may yet be possible to give a rough idea of the principle underlying it. As every one knows, the ordinary method of floating shipping over an ascensence is by a series of locks, one higher than the other. Sig. Caminada's locks, or rather, the spaces between the gate of ingress and gate of egress, will be inclined tubular canals. For example, the waterway will reach its highest point at Isolate in the Spligen pass; the distance between Isolate and San Vittore, near Chiavenna, involves a rise of 900 metres.

This distance of some sixteen kilometers will be traversed by a double line of parallel tubular canals, each divided into 127 sections. The water descends through both, but crosses to each line alternately, so that, while a vessel descends with the sinking water in a section on one line, another vessel is rising with the rising water in a lower section of the other. These inclined tubular canals will be constructed of masonry, closed with iron gates.

Sig. Caminada claims that his system will need a far smaller water supply than would be needed for the ordinary rising lock system, that it will be naturally more expeditious, and that it will be less subject to obstruction by ice, as the water will never be sufficiently stagnant to be frozen over in winter. He also says that he has assured himself of the sufficiency of the water supply as far as crossing the Alps is concerned, and that the supply of the Apennines, though less certain, can be assured by reservoirs at no great expense.

His plan seems to have gained the attention of competent judges of its feasibility, so that a journey from Genoa to Basel by water may really be some day made possible.

GRAND OLD CASTLE A HOLLOW SHAM.

ERECTED BY A TRADESMAN

Titled Family Gets It by Marriage, and Secret Is Revealed at a "Coming of Age" Party.

LONDON, —That "all is not gold that glitters" is forcibly illustrated by Gwrych castle, Lord Dundonald's country seat in Abergele, north Wales, where the coming of age of his eldest son, Lord Cochrane, has just been celebrated.

It is not generally known that the castle, which makes such a brave show from the valley below the hill on which it stands, is nearly all of it a sham, a hollow mockery. There is a residence, and a spacious one, it is true, but all the towers and many of the terraces which look so picturesque among the trees are nothing more than a pretense. They are not even whole towers and turrets, but are merely all "fronts" and no "backs."

All this was constructed by the grandfather of the present countess of Dundonald, Thomas Hesketh by name. He made his pile in Manchester and retired some time after middle age to Gwrych castle, which he determined to make into a noble looking palace. So he altered the place and put on the huge terraces and towers. Gwrych castle has naturally a fine position. It stands to the side of a hill looking over a narrow valley on to the sea, and is seen for many miles round. The old man waited to make his house look more imposing. He succeeded in that, but it nearly ruined him. His son was obliged to live carefully when it came to his turn to reign at Gwrych castle, but by buying his relatives was able to hand on a goodly sum to his daughter, when she became countess of Dundonald, for it is her property and not the earl's.

Married Into the Sham Castle.

In fact, until his marriage the earl of Dundonald was a poor man, glad to receive his salary as an officer in the British army. The earl is only in the house of lords as a representative peer of Scotland. His family is a distinguished one, yet landless. His union with Miss Winifred Hesketh, the Welsh heiress, brought not only the Welsh castle and a big rent roll into the family, but also a superb town residence in fashionable Portman Square.

Lord Dundonald has not been much at home. For a quarter of a century or more he has been doing active soldiering. He has commanded the Second Life guards, one of the King's pet regiments. In Egyptian campaigns and in the Boer war he was a noted figure. The earl was the man who volunteering for the hazardous work, who rode flagly across the desert bearing the dispatches announcing the death of Gordon and the fall of Khartum.

Lord Dundonald got his rank of major general in South Africa while commanding a mounted brigade. His troops were the first to enter Ladysmith after its relief. He has been much in the United States, as Ottawa was his residence for the last few years while he was commander in chief of the Canadian militia.

Lord Cochrane, like his father, is a soldier. The eldest daughter, Lady Grisel, made a girl and boy marriage three years ago. Her husband is the master of Belhaven, heir to the barony of that name, and is a subaltern in the Third Hussars. The marriage was in Westminster Abbey, but strange to say, the earl was not present.

Cochranes as Scientists.

The family of the Cochranes figures largely in English history. The old earls were far above living in sham castles. The present earl's great grandfather was a scientist, the first to discover the connection between chemistry and agriculture, which only this year has reached the apex of knowledge. He was also the discoverer of coal tar and invented the method of extracting salts from sea water. His son, also a "scientist," was among other things the "inventor of" tunnelling under water by compressed air. Later, joining the navy, he destroyed Napoleon's fleet, and fought for the independence of Chile, Peru, and Brazil.

In the family today there are also distinguished men. The earl's uncle is the famous admiral Cochrane, his cousin is the right hon. Clarence Henry of Hatchenery, mother-in-law of Spain's queen, being deputy governor of the Isle of Wight, with residence at the historic Carisbrooke castle. Where the turrets are by no means shams. Last, but not least, his brother is private secretary to Joe Chamberlain, and in the conservative regime was a junior member of the government.

OPERATORS "TAP" WIRELESS.

Secret News Overheard by Aerial Eavesdroppers in the Swiss Mountains.

LONDON, —A snow storm having destroyed the Marconi wireless stations on the St. Gothard mountains, experiments were made between another station in the Rigihi and a movable receiving apparatus, which was placed in a small valley in the canton of Valais, at the foot of the Dent de Morcles.

Instead of fixing the wire of the receiving apparatus on the usual long poles, it was fixed on the summits of two high peaks. Attempts were made to communicate with the Rigihi station were frustrated, but the movable apparatus received many other telegrams from different places in the English, French, German, and Russian languages.

Among the messages received was some secret news on the sittings of the duma, telegrams on the health of Kaiser Wilhelm, and the departure and arrival of travelers and merchantmen. Nobody can explain this strange dispersal of foreign news through the Swiss mountains.

HUMAN PLAYMATE FOR APES.

Boy Is Placed in Cage with a Pair to Keep Them in Good Spirits and Health.

COPENHAGEN, —The zoological gardens have recently acquired two expensive apes, and to keep them in good spirits a small boy, whose sole duty is to play with them and keep them amused, has been placed in the cage.

"It is curious," said a zoological expert yesterday, "how the mood of chimpanzees influences his health. Keep him cheerful and interested and his innate disposition to die of consumption may be checked. Let him get bored, and he will turn his thoughts to the tomb.

"The chimpanzee knows he is delicate and expensive, and that a cough from him will send a whole zoological society into an ecstasy of apprehension. From my own observation I know that assiduously use of imitation cough to attract attention and sympathy. If they can keep an attendant at their beck and call day and night they are happy."

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTHWEST HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an Agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each on and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of a homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father or mother.

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing must be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa, of intention to apply for patent.

Tobacco Tongs.

The tongs, the size of a whalebone, were of rough gold, studded here and there with turquoises.

"They are tobacco tongs," said the antiquary. "They date back to Elizabeth's time. This pair belonged to Raleigh—at least I have been told so, and who is there to contradict me? In Elizabeth's time they had no match es. When a man wanted a light, therefore, he took his tobacco tongs from his girdle and nipped out of the fire a redhot chunk of wood. This glowing coal, held in the tongs, gave a beautiful light. Tobacco tongs, as my pair witnesses, were often very costly and ornate. Of gold, of silver, of ivory and decorated with diamonds, rubies, emeralds and so forth, they were pretty trinkets to dangle upon silken cords They are being revived now. Cigarette holders are being made in their shape. That is why I keep this old pair in my window."—Los Angeles Times.

ELLEN TERRY'S COOKING.

How She Learned to Be a Good Housekeeper.

At twenty-one years of age Ellen Terry had been on the stage long enough to feel the necessity of a long vacation. In a little sketch of her life she goes to those six years of the simple life with much delight:

"Actors must take care of themselves and their voices, husband their strength for the evening's work, and when it is over they are too tired to do anything. For the first time I was able to put all my energies into a living. Charles Lamb says, I think, that when he left the East India House he felt embarrassed by the vast estates of time at his disposal and wished that he had a bailiff to manage them, but I knew no such embarrassment. I began gardening, 'the purest of human pleasures.' I learned to work and in time cooked very well, though my first essay in the difficult art was rewarded with dire and complete failure.

"It was a chicken. Now, as all the chickens had names—Sultan, Duke, Lord Tom Noddy, Lady Teazle and so forth—and as I was very proud of them as living birds, it was a great wrench to kill one at all, to start with. It was the murder of Sultan, not the killing of a chicken. However, at last it was done and Sultan deprived of his feathers, floured and trussed. I had no idea how this was all done, but I tried to make him sit up nicely like the chickens in the shops.

"He came up to the table looking magnificent—as large as any turkey.

"'Hasn't this chicken rather an odd smell?' said our visitor.

"'How can you?' I answered. 'It must be quite fresh—it's Sultan!'

"However, when we began to carve the smell grew more and more potent.

"I had cooked Sultan without taking out his in'ards!

"There was no dinner that day except bread sauce, beautifully made; well cooked vegetables and pastry like the foam of the sea. I had a wonderful hand for pastry."

SAVE BROKEN CHINA.

Order Brought Out of the Chaos of Bits of China.

Here is what a thrifty housewife has to say about utilizing broken bits of china:

"I was always averse to throwing any china away and so one day found I had quite a collection. What could I do with them? A happy thought struck me. Why not place all together in a crazy pattern and so form a surface for a table?

"I bought one of those inexpensive bamboo tables you can get for 50 or 75 cents and found it answered very well. A bamboo table has the edge raised all around and so forms a bed for the china, bringing it level with the edges.

"Now for commencing the work.

"Take some putty and mold it well, leaving no hard lumps. To do this moisten with linseed oil. Then pull a small piece and cover a small portion of the table, beginning at the corners and working toward the middle. Next press the pieces of china close together, leaving a small ridge of putty between, which must be leveled with a knife.

"As old table knife is the best. Select five of the best pieces for the corners and the center, matching them if possible.

"Keep the table level. Thicker pieces of china will have to be pressed down harder. When finished, leave to harden and fill up all cracks with more putty. When this is done, gild the putty with Judson gold.

"The success of the table depends a great deal on what kind of china you use. The better the china the better the table.

"I found some of my best pieces in all sorts of odd places. One very pretty piece showing an old fashioned garden I found on the bench at the mechanic. If you can manage to get any of your friends in the service to give you a piece of the 'mess' china, which often gets broken, it will greatly add to your collection."

Gypsy Musicians.

Though there are many gypsies in England, the United States and other nations, it is in Roumania, Hungary and Russia that they are chiefly found, their numbers in that part of Europe being placed at 500,000. Many of them are capable musicians. The gypsy players of Hungary are famous. In that country gypsies are called "Tsiganes." The French call them "Bohemiens," from which fact comes the use of that word to describe the easy

CATTLE SHIPPING.

How Animals Are Loaded on Board Vessels in Hawaii.

Afterward I was taken to Kawaihae, where I saw cattle loaded in a most cruel manner. It was a little after 6 o'clock when I landed on the beach among a lot of cowboys and half naked natives. The cattle were corralled under the trees, and when one was ready to be taken aboard a rope was tied about its horns. A cowboy on horseback then rode into the surf, dragging the frightened steer into the water. The rope was tossed to a half naked native who was swimming, and he in turn carried it to the men waiting in a small boat. These men pulled the animal, which must now swim or drown, to the boat and tied him by the horns to its side. After eight steers had been tied up in this manner the engine on the steamer was set to work and the boat pulled alongside by means of a rope. The cattle were then hoisted on board by the use of a bellyband. The method of handling these dumb animals is brutal, and, while the men seem to use as much care as possible in moving them about, their piteous bellowing caused by fear made as pathetic a scene as I have ever witnessed. Thousands are shipped every year, and it seems that some more humane method of putting them aboard might be adopted.

The Japanese sailor on these ships is said to be the best for keeping the ship clean, while the native excels in handling the boats, especially in rough water. The Hawaiian is a born swimmer, and native boys will follow these vessels for several hundred yards as they are leaving Honolulu, swimming alongside and diving for coins thrown overboard by the travelers. The passage on these boats is always rough, and on the Kwalani, as the ship lay at anchor out in the channel, the nights were intensely warm. Freighting in this way is necessarily expensive, but those in authority say that it is the only way practical, as no wharf could withstand the lashing of the waves caused by the mad fury of the winds during the winter. At that season it is often impossible to make landings along the rocky coast of Molokai.—Leslie's Weekly.

The Electro Magnet.

In engineering works the electro magnet is taking a very prominent place. This device dispenses with hooks, slings and other lifting apparatus. By throwing a switch controlling the current the magnet is energized and thereby attaches itself to the bars, castings, scrap or pig iron which it is desired to lift. The magnet poles are shaped according to the nature of the material to be raised. For heavy rails they are oblong and are slung from the crane hook by a short chain. Castings weighing over two tons are successfully handled by electro magnets. Another use to which the electro magnet is put is in breaking old castings so that they may be melted and utilized. To accomplish this the magnet is made to lift and drop a steel ball weighing from one to six tons.

Passing of a Famous Bridge.

At last the old bridge over the Golden Horn at Constantinople is about to be done away with and replaced by a new structure. An amusing tale is told in connection with the efforts of an American firm to secure the order. With a view to impressing the sultan with the quality of its work an elaborate painting was prepared for presentation to his majesty showing the bridge as it would appear during a storm which would have done credit to the Atlantic. However, the firm was informed that the sultan would be so horrified by this view that it at once prepared a picture showing the bridge as it would appear on a beautiful summer's day. Even this, however, Reuter says, failed to effect its purpose.

Sentiment in a Pawnshop.

A watch had just passed from the hands of a seedy young man into those of a pawnbroker. Before the young man got out of the shop the broker called him back.

"Here's a picture—a woman's picture—in the back of this watch," he said. "You'd better take it out."

The young man blushed.

"It isn't worth while," he said. "I'll redeem the thing in a week or two."

"Maybe you will and maybe you won't," retorted the broker. "You never can tell about these things. I may not be strong on sentiment, but one thing I insist on is that no man shall leave a woman's picture in a watch that he pawns here."

Ageless Love.

It is a splendid thing to think that the woman you really love will never grow old to you. Through the wrinkles of time, through the mask of years, if you really love her, you will always see the face you loved and won. And a woman who really loves a man does not see that he grows old. He is not decrepit to her. He does not tremble. He is not old. She always sees the same gallant gentleman who won her hand and heart.—Robert G. Ingersoll.

The Great Provincial Charity, The Hospital for Sick Children, Calls On You For Aid.

Remember that this Hospital is not a local institution, but Provincial.

It cares for every sick child in the Province of Ontario whose parents cannot afford to pay for treatment.

Busy dollars are better than idle tears. The sympathy that Weeps is good, but the Hospital has to have the sympathy that Works.

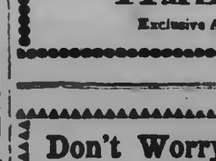
"I LIKE PICTURES"

Last year there were 1062 patients admitted. Of these 876 came from 284 places outside of Toronto—all were children of poor people who could not afford to pay for treatment of their little ones.

Each child was in the Hospital 47½ days at a cost of $1.31 each per day, or $62.22 for the 47½ days stay.

If your dollar could straighten the feet of a little boy or girl with club feet, you would gladly give it, and your dollar will do that. There were 79 cases of club feet treated last year. Out of the 79, about 50 were from the country.

BEFORE.



AFTER.

If you know of any child in your county who is sick or has club feet, and whose parents can not afford to pay, send the name to the Hospital Secretary.

The stock books are open. Won't you let the Hospital write your name down for a few shares in Heaven's own work of healing little children?

A great mine of Mercy—the mining stock that always pays dividends—is bought with the money that helps The Hospital for Sick Children to extract the Gold of Life from the Quartz of Death.

Please send contributions to J. Ross Robertson, Chairman, or to Douglas David son, Hon.-Treas., of the Hospital for Sick Children, College Street, Toronto.

With my remedy, I guarantee to cure constipation.

I also guarantee to prevent it; others do not.

My preparation, which is in pill form, gives tone and vigorousness to the bowels that quickly rids the system of effete matter, accumulations of bile and other injurious results of constipation.

I call my pills Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

I can cure daily and safely because composed of such health-giving vegetable extracts as Mandrake, Butternut, Hymenamus and Dandelion.

My pills are not harsh or drastic. They never gripe or pain, no distress; they are recommended by physicians because of their mildness and certainty to cure.

For women and children I know of no better medicine for keeping the system healthy. For men they are perfect.

I have proved their merit in biliousness, constipation and headache, and can strongly recommend them in these troubles.

My personal guarantee stands behind every box of Dr. Hamilton's Pills and every box of Dr. Hamilton's Pills; and this means much to you in selecting your remedy.

Every dealer sells Dr. Hamilton's Pills of MacDrake and Butternut, 25c. per box or five boxes for $1.00, and the result I guarantee in sick, bilious or constipated headache, sick stomach and other complaints that arise when the system is clogged and constipated.

Trimmed Hedge Causes Trouble.

A well known farmer in the 7th concession of Smith is now regretting that he grubbed a fine cedar hedge fortwen the house and the barns. It seems that this ornamental hedge had grown to a good height, and the owner of the place undertook to aid nature by cut and clipped the lower branches to a considerable distance from the ground, instead of, as is generally done, clipping from the tops of the trees. The result was that during the last blizzard snow, came blown through the artificial draft-way or tunnel under the cedars until a drift over fifteen feet in height was formed in the lane running to the barn. This necessitates a detour of nearly half a mile in order to cross from the house to the barns. This is a tip to those waiting to trim their hedges, but do not relish 15-foot snowbanks. It might be added that the drifted snow referred to by this story completely shuts the barns from view of those standing at the house, only a short distance away.

If you have Catarrh, rid yourself of this repulsive disease. Ask Dr. Shoop, of Racine, Wis., to mail you free a trial box of his Dr. Shoop's Catarrh Remedy. A simple, single dose, will surely tell you a Catarrh truth well worth your knowing. Write to-day. Don't suffer longer. All dealers.

IN SHORT FORM FOR BUSY READERS

—Quite a large number of hogs arrived at the market yesterday.

—The annual Sunday school tea of St. Paul's Church was held yesterday.

—Mr. Thos. McGillicudy will speak this evening at the Y.M.C.A. at the Strangers' Fellowship Club meeting.

—A miniature lake in front of Brock street rink last night caused more than one lady to show the "clocks."

—The Boys' Club of Knox Church last night heard an instructive lecture on "First Aid" by Dr. Malcolm McCulloch.

—Messrs. Morris & Brown, the local cattle dealers, yesterday shipped a car of fat cattle and one of prime hogs to Montreal.

—The tea and concert in connection with St. Aidan's Anglican Church, Young's Point, was held on Wednesday and was very successful.

—When the Foresters of Peterborough goes up a carnival it takes more than a day or, two of rainy weather to keep the crowds away from Brock street rink.

—Mr. Rudyard, of the C. G. E. Co. has a copy of the first issue of the Liverpool Courier and Commercial which is dated January 5th, 1808, or over a century old.

Germany is having great trouble over curbing over-zealous automobile drivers. Peterborough folks have just about as much trouble raising the price to buy one auto.

—The Ottawa Journal shows the elevation of the projected G. T. R. Central Depot and Hotel to be built in that city. The buildings are very handsome and swift do a credit to the Capital.

—Yesterday a gang of men was busy opening up the entrance to the George street sewer. This was made necessary by the rain and rapidly melting snow which created a miniature river down on our principal thoroughfare.

—Notwithstanding the comparatively warm weather of yesterday and Thursday, the ice at Brock street rink was in fairly good shape. Those in charge left the snow on until the afternoon, thus saving the surface of the ice from melting.

Stop that tickling Cough! Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure will surely stop it, and with perfect safety. It is so thoroughly harmless Dr. Shoop tells mothers to use nothing else even with very young babies. The wholesome green leaves and tender stems of a lung healing mountainous shrub furnish the curative properties of Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. It calms the cough, and heals the sensitive bronchial membranes. No opium, no chloroform, nothing harsh used to injure or suppress. Demand Dr. Shoop's. Take no other. All Dealers.

Personal

Mr. Roy Turner left yesterday for Montreal.

FAIR DIRECTORS GETTING BUSY

Already the energetic directors of the Peterborough Industrial Fair are considering next fall's exhibition. A meeting will be held in connection with the exhibition on March 4, when the various committees will meet to make the usual revisions of the prize list. The directors will have the co-operation of the Turf Club this year, and are decided upon making the exhibition a grand success. Any practical suggestions or advice will be welcomed.

MR. ROGERS, P.L.S., MAKES REPORT

The Havelock Standard says: Mr. Rogers, a Provincial Government surveyor, who has been employed in making a survey of the Belmont and Crow Lake districts for a new geological map to be issued by the province, called on the Standard last week and complained of the very dangerous condition of the bridge at Burnt Dam, Belmont. Mr. Rogers thinks, and rightly too, that the bridge at that place should be equipped with substantial railing at each side.

Words of Praise

For the several ingredients of which Dr. Pierce's medicines are composed, as given by leaders in all the several schools of medicine, should have far more weight than any amount of non-professional testimonials. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has THE BADGE OF HONESTY on every bottle-wrapper, in a full list of all its ingredients printed in plain English.

If you are an invalid woman and suffer from frequent headache, backache, gnawing distress in stomach, periodical pains, disagreeable, catarrhal, pelvic drain, dragging-down distress in lower abdomen or pelvis, perhaps dark spots or specks dancing before the eyes, faint spells and kindred symptoms caused by female weakness, or other derangement of the feminine organs, you can not do better than take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

The hospital, surgeon's knife and operating table may be avoided by the timely use of "Favorite Prescription" in such cases. Thereby the obnoxious examinations and local treatments of the family physician can be avoided and a thorough course of successful treatment carried out in the privacy of the home. "Favorite Prescription" is composed of the very best native medicinal roots known to medical science for the cure of woman's peculiar ailments, contains no alcohol and no harmful or habit-forming drugs.

Do not expect too much from "Favorite Prescription;" it will not perform miracles; it will not dissolve or cure tumors. No medicine will. It will do as much to establish vigorous health in most weaknesses and ailments peculiarly incident to women as any medicine can. It must be given a fair chance by perseverance in its use for a reasonable length of time.

Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, free. All correspondence is guarded as sacredly secret and womanly confidences are protected by professional privacy. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets the best laxative and regulator of the bowels. They invigorate stomach, liver and bowels. One a laxative; two or three a cathartic. Easy to take as candy.

INS AND OUTS.

If the fight between the Dominion Coal and Steel Companies is not settled pretty soon, one of those concerns will be making a nose like a shovel.

We don't know about the pen being mightier than the sword, but this great family journal has no doubt about the high standing of the snow shovel.

One of our city fathers was heard to remark that he believed in Providence. The g. t. j. is of opinion that he must have been thinking of Providence, Rhode Island.

The Globe says that a man named Playmus sailed with a message to escape from an asylum a few days ago. He probably hung his name out of the window and slid down.

A man called at the office yesterday and said that he was out of work. He was a chimney sweep in the old country. The g. t. j. was sorry, that it had no job that would suit him.

A Hungarian pianist, named Z. de T. Gyongyossbalassy is coming to America. The alphabet is a long suffering affair. This is the worst toss up it has had since the Jap-Russian war.

Germany is said to be greatly excited over the British navy plans. Germany should slow down and try to think how excited she might get if the navy started to paint its guns in that direction.

Mr. J. W. Burnham, the Conservative standard-bearer, is said to be in training for the coming contest. All that will be necessary for him to do when the time comes is to get another grip on his reputation.

While not unduly optimistic this g. t. j. is fondling the hope that the new assessors may be struck with the idea that the old assessment roll should be consigned to the flames and a new one started, in which some system of equality will be observed.

STREET RAILWAY

East City Wants Street Railway Connection.

To the Editor of The Times:

Sir,—I think, Mr. Editor, that we should have some consideration shown us in East City by the Street Railway Company. We might as well be living in the jungles of India, so far as the electric road is concerned, as in Peterborough. I hope the Council will see to it that the company be compelled to give us relief at once.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, I am, etc.,

MR. HARRY MALES FOR TORONTO

Mr. Harry Mayles, who for the last year has been connected with the local branch of the Bank of Commerce, has received word that he had been transferred to the west end branch of the bank at Montreal, and left for the east yesterday morning. Mr. Mayles during his year's residence in Peterborough has made many friends in the city and his departure will be much regretted.

NORMAL SCHOOL BEING PUSHED

Mr. S. F. Whitham, of Brantford, contractor of the Normal School in Peterborough, has returned home after a short visit to the city in regard to the operations on the new building. The work is being steadily pushed forward and Mr. Whitham expressed himself as satisfied with the progress that had been made.

The uncertainty is that the Normal School will be ready for the autumn term.

LOCAL POST OFFICE INSPECTED

Post Office Inspector H. Merrick, of Kingston, was yesterday a guest at the Oriental Hotel. Mr. Merrick's visit to Peterborough is to inspect the local Post Office, which he commenced in the afternoon. The new postal delivery was given special attention, this being the inaugural trial there. It is expected the new system will meet with Mr. Merrick's approval, and his report should be of interest.

His Worship Mayor Rush should organize an aldermanic union, with strict rules against talking overtime.

I wish that I might talk with all sick ones about the actual cause of Stomach, Heart, and Kidney ailments. To explain in person how weak Stomach nerves leads to Stomach weakness, I am sure would interest all. And it is the same with weak Hearts or Weak Kidneys. This is why my prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative—so promptly reaches ailments of the Stomach, Heart, and Kidneys. It is wrong to drug the Stomach or stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. These weak inside nerves simply need more strength. My Restorative is the only prescription made exclusively for these nerves. Next to seeing you personally, will be to mail you free, my new booklet entitled, "What To Do." I will also send samples of my Restorative as well. Write for the book to-day. It will surely interest you. Address Dr. Shoop, Box 8, Racine, Wis. All Dealers.

Notice

Notice is hereby given that a by-law was passed by the Council of the City of Peterborough on the twentieth day of January, 1908, providing for the issue of debentures to the amount of $35,000.00 for the purpose of paying for an addition to the Queen Alexandra Public School in the City of Peterborough and that such By-law was registered in the Registry Office of Peterborough in the County of Peterborough on the twenty-third day of January, A. D., 1908.

Any motion to quash or set aside the same or any part thereof must be made within three months from the date of registration, and cannot be made thereafter.

MONEY IN A SAFE DEPOSIT BOX OR AN OLD STOCKINGS DOES NOT INCREAE YOUR WEALTH

February, 1908, is here and so is

The Pacific Fruit Cooling and Vaporizing Company, Incorporated for the purpose of cooling deciduous fruits and removing moisture from citrus fruits and keeping under cold storage such fruits and other food products from the time of receiving them from the fruit growers until loaded on car and taken away by the Railroad Company for Eastern shipment.

STUBBORN FACTS UNIMPEACHABLE

The loss in shipping deciduous and citrus fruits is enormous. The orange crop of Southern California alone is valued at $30,000,000. The government experts estimate that about 25 per cent. or $7,500,000, is lost every year by rough handling in picking and decay of fruit in transit to the Eastern markets. What a revenue of profit this loss would be to the shipper if it could be saved. Our process will save it. The same is true of the deciduous fruits of Northern California.

GREAT FORTUNES ARE MADE BY INVESTING IN NECESSITIES

Fruit is one of the necessities of our civilized life, and the company that can place the fruit in the markets of the world in the best shape, in the quickest time, at the lowest rate, has a fortune within its grasp. The Armour Company in ten years made $6,000,000 net handling California fruit in refrigerator cars. Our process is as necessary to the fruit grower as the refrigerator car. Therefore we ought to receive as large a revenue for handling the same commodity.

GET IN WHILE THE ENTERPRISE IS NEW

No wiser words were ever spoken than these: "The chief point about getting rich is to invest in a new enterprise that is being managed by successful men, who have some of their own money in the deal." "One good investment is worth a lifetime of labor". Think over this sentence. A man's daily labor will never make him rich. He must have some money at work for him. Money invested never gets sick, keeps no holidays, never goes on strike. There are three things that ought to guide you: First, invest with honest men; second, invest with men of sound judgment; third, invest under conditions where you get your full share of profits the business yields. Get into a company whose destiny is guided by men of this stamp when its future is before and not behind it. Here is the secret of fortune. Plant the seed of your investment in the soil of opportunity, at the season of greatest promise when the enterprise is new. Every ounce of energy in the hearts of the men managing this company is pledged to give

A SQUARE DEAL FOR EVERY INVESTOR

There will be no preferred stock. Every dollar invested will be worth 100 cents on the dollar. Our Directors, as honourable business men, will not allow any tricks of trade by which the small investor can be frozen out. Their commercial standing proves they are not "grafters". The poor man's 50 or 100 shares will have the same standing in court as the rich man's, 10,000, and they will draw the same proportionate dividend. We court investigation.

EVERY RICH MAN IN THE WORLD WAS ONCE POOR, OR HIS GRANDFATHER WAS.

THE OPPORTUNITY OF A LIFETIME

To get into a company that has the certainty of growth, the assurance of large and quick returns, a rapid advance in the price of stock, to make it an exceptional chance for big profits on a small investment. This is an ideal investment for the wage earner as well as the rich man. Moderate sums invested now will bring splendid returns in the near future. The logic of all this is

DON'T WAIT

Time is the essence of this proposition. The stock will certainly double in a short time. Jay Gould once said: "When you see a good investment don't wait to see if it pans out well, for by that time other people see it, too, and you have lost your opportunity."

WOMEN AS INVESTORS

Some of the heaviest stockholders in our company are women of keen business instincts. One lady in Los Angeles bought 5,000 shares. In a few days she returned and bought 5,000 more. This lady has never made a mistake in her business ventures. Women are good investors because they have courage to follow their convictions. Their intuitions are keener and truer than man's logic. Men may prevent her voting, but they can't prevent her drawing dividends on her investments. This is one branch of trade where sex, culture, or color does not count.

MANAGEMENT

The affairs of this company are in the hands of men of honesty, ability, courage and good business judgment—men who have made a success of their own business—men whose business reputation is A1 in the commercial circles in which they move.

These men are "square" and "shrewd". They will not deceive you nor will they be deceived themselves. Because of the promise of growth, permanency and profit this business offers they have united their money, energy, time and business experience to make this enterprise a grand success.

Notwithstanding the Financial Crisis, Investments made Six Months ago have Advanced

150 PER CENT

The next six months promises to far exceed the past six months
If you investigate this proposition you will surely invest.

THE WAR CLOUD IN THE FAR EAST

That old acquaintance, the war cloud in Eastern Europe, has unexpectedly reappeared. It gives evidence of hostilities, which are interpreted to mean that Russia and Turkey may take up arms.

A war between these two nations would mean, as one of our Toronto editors has said, a choice between varying degrees of misgovernment, so far as the inhabitants of the disputed territory are concerned. These two old countries which should set an example to young nations have little else than shameful records opposite their names.—Toronto World.

Teacher and 60 Pupils Fell Into Basement

Many Children Taken from Wreckage at Adrian Unconscious

Some Severely Scalded

Adrian, Mich., Feb. 15.—An explosion of a boiler in the basement of the Public School to-day tore away the floor of the primary department and precipitated a teacher and 60 pupils into the basement, burning and scalding many of them frightfully. The teacher and half of the pupils sustained severe injuries. Many of the children were taken out in an unconscious condition, and some of the larger boys engaged in the work of rescue were overcome by smoke.

A son of M. D. Spangler suffered the most serious injuries, his hands being blown almost off and his body scalded. Miss Maud Morgan, the teacher, was found under a pile of hot cinders and other rubbish. She was severely burned. The son of William Bullock was thrown through a window and severely cut. The older boys of the school jumped into the basement at the risk of their lives and continued their efforts at rescue until every child was found.

The cause of the explosion is unknown. The building is a two-story brick, containing ten rooms. The property damage was $2,000.

Tomorrow's Great Skating Race

The skating races at Brock street rink to-morrow night between F. J. Robson, the Canadian champion, and C. D. Hefferman, of Toronto, the holder of the Canadian two-mile record, will consist of a series of three events, of which the winner must take two. The events are the half-mile, one mile and two mile races for the championship of Ontario, and some great racing should be seen. In addition there will be a mile race for boys under 18 years of age, for a gold medal, and a mile race for the championship of the county of Peterborough.

Cheese Board Elects Officers

The thirty-first annual meeting of the Peterborough Cheese Board was held on Saturday afternoon in the Bank of Montreal Chambers. President John Riddell presiding. The president referred to the death of Mr. Wrighton, a former member. The Board decided to send a letter of condolence to the wife of their former friend.

The balance on hand as shown by the treasurer's report was $24.06.

The election of officers resulted as follows.

President—John Riddell.
1st Vice-President—John Coughlin.
2nd Vice-President—Wm. Switzer.
Sec.-Treas.—Edward Hawthorne.
Auditors—W. A. Anderson and W. J. Bullock.
Arbitrator—Geo. A. Gillespie.

The Inspector was appointed substitute to Mr. Gillespie to act in the event of any dispute arising between the arbitrator and any of the factories.

Those present at the meeting were Messrs. John Riddell, E. Hawthorne, Wm. Switzer, Ald. Geo. A. Gillespie, A. Fairbairn, John Miller, G. W. Mann, George Johnston and William Hannah.

Candian Club Meets Feb. 20th

The next meeting of the Canadian Club will be held at the National Hotel on Thursday, Feb. 20th. The speaker of the evening will be the Hon. A. B. Morine, late Attorney-General of Newfoundland. The subject of the address will be "The Ancient Colony." A large attendance is looked for. Dinner will be served at 8.30 p.m.

HAYS AND GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY MAY BE THE REAL FORCE BEHIND LATEST NIAGARA POWER SCHEME

Plan to Electrify Grand Trunk Railway System and to Control Niagara Energy

William MacKenzie and Hon. Col. Gibson Possibly Assisting Him in Completion of Gigantic Electric and Transportation Merger

Toronto, Feb. 16.—Who has secured control of the Electrical Development Company?

Nominally, according to the best sources of available information, William Mackenzie, president of the Toronto Railway Company, has obtained control, and is busy upon plans of reorganization, which may or may not have the approval of the Whitney Government.

But is there not some bigger man, some larger corporation, back of William Mackenzie, and putting William Mackenzie forward only as the show-piece of the scheme?

One story told on the street on Saturday was that the Grand Trunk Railway was really the new controlling force of the Electrical Development Company, and also of William Mackenzie and the Canadian Northern Railway. Is this true? Does this explanation of the situation appear possible?

A gentleman who has been intimate with Charles M. Hays ever since he came to Canada, told a reporter on Saturday that Mr. Hays always had had in his mind the obtaining control of all the local traction companies in the Province of Ontario, and of getting possession of an electrical development, plant and electrifying the Grand Trunk Railway and all its subsidiary traction companies.

Mr. Hays looms before him, as a man whom the spirit of ambition knows no bounds.

The promise of his student days, which were markedly brilliant, found little play while he was Attorney-General of this Province, but those who know him well declare that whatever the scope of his present endeavors is, it will be found to be in consonance with the ambition of a man who is the superior of most of his fellows by reason of intellect, and whose desire to occupy a commanding place in the life of his country is second to none.

As one gentleman said on Saturday: "Whatever may be the real meaning of the reorganization of the Electrical Development Company, you will be sure to find Hon. J. M. Gibson figuring as one of the capitalist aristocrats."

Is it true that Chas. M. Hays has brought William Mackenzie and Hon. J. M. Gibson and their battery of railway propositions into camp, and is using them to assist him in bringing into existence the big great electric and transportation merger this country has ever seen?

The present visit of Mr. Hays to London, for which place he sailed yesterday, conforms to the story heard in usually well-informed sources. This visit, it is asserted, is for the purpose of completing satisfactory arrangements with the British bondholders of the Electrical Development Company.

The World is not in a position to say that this story is correct in every detail, but, to date, it seems to be the best guess at the real meaning of the announcement that William Mackenzie has obtained control of the Electrical Development Company.

Then there was another story given a hearing on Saturday to the effect that Hon. J. M. Gibson, with his Hamilton Radial Railway, is a much larger factor in the present electrical situation than is supposed. Mr. Gibson is given credit for being a man of unusual mental attainments, and one

WILL BRITAIN, LIKE ROME, FADE AWAY? EX-PREMIER'S VIEWS

"What Grounds were There for Supposing that We Could Escape the Fate to Which Other Races Had Had to Submit?" Asks Mr. Balfour

London, Feb. 14.—Decadence was the subject of the Hery Sidgwick memorial lecture delivered by Mr. Balfour at Newnham College, Cambridge, and on which the ex-Premier made some significant remarks.

"Why should civilization wear out and great communities decay, and what evidence was there that in fact they did?" he asked. The antiquity, pagan and Christian, took a different view, it seemed easier to understand progress than decadence.

Decadence was always complicated with and often acted through other more obvious causes. It was in vain that historians enumerated the public calamities which preceded and no doubt contributed to final catastrophies.

NO LESSON IN HISTORY.

We felt that some of those diseases were of a kind which a vigorous body politic should easily be able to survive, that others were secondary symptoms of some obscurer malady, and that in neither case did they supply us with the fullest explanations of which we were in search.

"Consider, for instance," he went on, "the long agony and final destruction of Roman imperialism in the west, the most momentous catastrophe of which we had historic record."

Rome fell, and great was the fall of it. But why it fell, by what surest means its defences were breached, and what made as garrison so learned and intellectual — that was not so clear. What grounds were there for supposing that we could escape the fate to which other races had had to submit? If civilizations were cut and races became effete, why should we expect to progress indefinitely? Why for us alone, was the doom of man to be reversed? To these questions he had no very satisfactory answers to give.

A new social force had come into being. If in the last hundred years the whole material setting of civilized life had altered, we owed it neither to politicians nor to political institutions; we owed it to the combined efforts of those who had advanced science and those who had applied it.

DEMOCRACY NOT PROGRESSIVE.

If betting to democracy, he said it was an excellent thing, but that in no wise connected with progress, it was not progressive. Its value was regulative, not dynamic; and if it meant, as it never did, social uniformity, instead of legal equality, we should become fossilised at once. Movement might be controlled or checked by the many; it was initiated and made effective by the few.

"The conclusions at which I provisionally arrive," added Mr. Balfour, "are that we cannot regard decadence and arrested development as less normal in human communities than progress; that the internal causes by which progress is encouraged, hindered or reversed lie to a great extent beyond the field of ordinary political discussion, and are not easily expressed in current political terminology; that the influence which a superior civilization, whether acting by example or imposed by force, may have in advancing any inferior one, though often beneficient, is not likely to be self-supporting—its withdrawal will be followed by decadence, unless the character of the civilization be in harmony both with the acquired temperament and the innate capacities of those who have been induced to accept it; that as regards those means which still advance in virtue of their own inherent energies, though time has brought perhaps new causes of disquiet, it has brought also new grounds of hope; and that whatever be the perils in front of us there are so far no symptoms either of pause or of regression in the onward movement which for more than a thousand years has been characteristic of western civilization."

Rev. Dr. Langfeldt Preaches Eloquent Sermon at St. John's

The Rector of St. Luke's Takes Services at St. John's Yesterday

Necessity of Work

Rev. Dr. Langfeldt, rector of St. Luke's Church, took the services at St. John's Church yesterday. His sermon in the morning was of a most eloquent and argumentative nature, and was listened to with evident close attention by the large congregation present. The reverend gentleman took for his text Matthews xxiv. 34, "For the Son of Man is as a man taking a far journey, who left his house, and gave authority to his servants, and to every man his work, and commanded the porter to watch." In commenting on this text, Mr. Langfeldt said, in part, that St. Mark does not record many texts not recorded in St. Matthew's gospel, but gives greater light and beauty to the picture of the men going on the long journey, illustrative of Christ as a traveller on a far country. The illustration is very simple. Christ has only gone away as a man may leave his own house. While that human traveller in his journey may reach we know not. He is perhaps travelling on some mission of love, and whatever home we may have on other planets he has left his own work to be done here. Whilst he is away, he has sent us messengers and he is sure to come back again. We have all had friends go to sojourn in a far land, and it is pleasant to receive their letters. We know how sweet it is when they return, and so will Christ return a second time from his far journey, so we should prepare for his arrival. Thus he has commanded the porter to watch that we do his work. Christ's house is his church, and Christ did not leave without express instructions for our guidance whilst he is away. There is a doubtful state of affairs. If Christ were to return to-day, would he find his church as he left it? Would each one be doing his duty as he should? It was the intention of the text to point out that Christ left some one to watch and some one to work. It is made clear that each one should take his part and watch. We have to look at the church's authority and see that this authority is given to God's service. The lowlier the member, the more authority is possible. There is the power of true affection delegated to the members of the church. The speaker went on to say he had no respect for the man who holds his faith doubtingly. Such a man will never carry much weight in the world. Let a man really be a member of the household of faith and he has a distinct mission. The power is the Holy Ghost, given for this very end. There are no doubt degrees of power in the church. Real power does not depend upon extraneous circumstances, but in the end that is attained. It is in the power of even a poor miserable sinner to act under the ægis of the King of Kings. Authority is never given in the church except to the end of work to be accomplished. Christians should not rest until they find what work God has given them to do. They should not try to do other men's work, but should find their own work to do. It was kind of the Master to give us work to do during his absence. Christ says, "My Father works and I must work." Woe to the man who tries to feed on the promises made without doing the work commanded him to do. We should not let our minds be influenced by metaphysical and philosophical arguments of the world. There is work to be done. In the family of love there is work to be done in the school room, in social circles, work to be done all over the whole world as long as life is spared us. In the vineyard, every one must do this work. There can be no wages until the work has been done. The idle man cannot go to heaven. Every one has his work sweetened by looking through the windows of hope. Watch for the second advent. It is pleasant to go to bed and think it is one day nearer Christ's Kingdom. The good and the blessed will be with God, there will be no more parting. It shall be said on that day, "Lo we have waited for him, and the troubles of the world will cease. Then the work of the Lord shall be done and sorrow and sickness shall fly away. Mr. Langfeldt's peroration was as fine a flight of eloquence, coupled with concise argument as has ever been heard in that grand old edifice.

Buffalo, N.Y., Feb. 15.—The waters of Buffalo and Scarsquada Creeks in the southern and northern sections of this city, respectively, overflowed their banks early to-day, and at 10 o'clock there is from two to three feet of water in the streets. Street car traffic in those sections has been practically abandoned.

Many cellars are flooded, fires in furnaces extinguished and thousands of dollars damage has been done to property.

ONE FATALITY.

Utica, N.Y., Feb. 15.—Harry Rankin, 20 years old, engineer at Remington Arms Company plant, Ilion, was swept away in a stream at that village this afternoon and drowned. He attempted to open a floodgate to a sluice way when a chunk of ice was dashed against the gate and Rankin was thrown headlong into the stream. The body has not been recovered.

DANGER MARK PASSED AT PITTSBURG.

Pittsburg, Pa., Feb. 15. — The Allegheny, Monongahela, Ohio, Youghiogheny and Kiskiminetas Rivers are slowly spreading over the low lands of Pittsburg and Western Pennsylvania points to-day. The danger mark of 22 feet will be reached by noon, and the local U. S. weather bureau predicts a stage of thirty feet by nightfall. Nineteen feet was reached at nine o'clock. It is raining heavily.

The damage to river craft and property located near the rivers is already great. Large ice gorges in the Allegheny and Youghiogheny Rivers above this city are momentarily expected to break, wrecking and demolishing craft in their path. Some alarm is also felt for a number of bridges.

At Wheeling, W. Va., and Steubenville, Ohio, a serious flood is expected to occur. Word from Steubenville to-day says that a stage of 40 feet will be reached there by Monday morning or sooner.

At points here the high water has risen to the ground floor of business houses and dwellings. Throughout the night hundreds of people were actively engaged removing their household goods to places of safety.

IN NEW YORK STATE.

Utica, N.Y., Feb. 15.—A thaw that has continued since Wednesday followed by warm rain last night, has melted a considerable portion of the great body of snow covering Central and Northern New York, and the tracts of land that are unprotected by forests are discharging quantities of water into the valleys.

The business section of Ilion is under water, which is in some places three feet deep. Dynamite is being used on ice jams, but the water is still rising.

A special from Groton, N.Y., says the town is almost entirely flooded, and many houses have been rendered uninhabitable. The river continues to rise and a serious situation is threatened. A freshet is sweeping through the valleys in Allegheny county.

SPRINGFIELD, OHIO, FLOODED.

Springfield, Ohio, Feb. 15. — Buck Creek is higher than since 1898 and fully 150 houses in this city are flooded. No lives have been lost, but boats were kept busy all night carrying people out of their submerged homes. All suburban traction lines entering the city have been out of commission since nine o'clock last night.

The Sandusky division of the Big Four railroad has no trains running, there being one or two bad washouts between this city and Urbana.

Ashtabula, Feb. 15. — Mill Creek is flooded to the highest point in years. Country roads are under five feet of water and an electric railway is submerged.

Homes are flooded in some instances to the second story.

Tuscaloosa, Ala., Feb. 15. — Heavy rains have caused the Warrior River to rise rapidly since Friday. It is now 53 feet on the government guage and rising six inches per hour.

Montreal, Feb. 15. — Considerable damage has been caused throughout the city as the result of the remarkably long drawn out midwinter soft spell by the ingress of water to many cellars and basements. Barring short intervals, rain has been falling for the better part of three days, and in the down town district heavy sleighing has been rendered difficult by the bared car tracks and street crossings.

Manitoba Cuts Out Three-Fifths Clause

Habitual Drunkard

Winnipeg, Feb. 15.—The Provincial Government's liquor license bill, just distributed, proposes some radical changes in the law.

Of these the most important is one which the Liberals urged strongly during the last election campaign, and which formed part of their platform.

A majority, instead of a three fifths vote, will, hereafter, if the bill be passed, be sufficient to carry a local option by-law, and in case of the repeal of such a by-law two years are required to elapse before it can be re-submitted.

The provisions concerning habitual drunkards are very much elaborated. There is a clause proposing that "Any person who has been convicted of drunkenness five times in any one year may, upon his next conviction for a similar offence before any magistrate or justice of the peace, be declared to be an incorrigible and an habitual drunkard, and such magistrate or justice of the peace shall have power to commit such person to jail or other place of confinement for a period not exceeding one year, with or without hard labor."

—Mr. Andrew Blain, of Peterborough, has taken up the valuable timber limit for the late Hon. Thos. Ryan, of Peterborough County.

The reported recall of Prince Ouroosoff, Russian Ambassador to Austria-Hungary, is said to have some bearing upon the probability of war.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

Stopped Short

Taking Tonics, and Built Up on Right Food

The mistake is frequently made of trying to build up a worn-out nervous system on so-called tonics—drugs.

New material from which to rebuild wasted nerve cells, is what should be supplied, and this can be obtained only from proper food.

"Two years ago I found myself on the verge of a complete nervous collapse, due to overwork and study, and to illness in the family," writes a Wis. young mother.

"My friends became alarmed because I grew pale and thin and could not sleep nights. I took various tonics prescribed by physicians, but their effects were off shortly after I stopped taking them. My food did not seem to nourish me and I gained no flesh nor blood.

"Reading of Grape-Nuts, I determined to stop the tonics and see what a change of diet would do. I ate Grape-Nuts four times a day with cream and drank milk also, went to bed early after eating a dish of Grape-Nuts before retiring.

"In about two weeks I was sleeping soundly. In a short time I gained 20 lbs. in weight and felt like a different woman. My little daughter whom I was obliged to keep out of school last spring on account of chronic catarrh, has changed from a thin, pale, nervous child to a rosy, healthy girl, and has gone back to school this fall.

"Grape-Nuts and fresh air were the only agents used to accomplish the happy results." "There's a Reason."

The London Daily News contains the following editorial on the navy of Great Britain, which, while politically colored, it is obvious, is nevertheless interesting. It reads:

Liberalism has always understood that peace and retrenchment are the indispensable conditions of reform. Never in the history of the party had it realised the meaning of their connection so clearly as it did under the late Unionist administrations. A costly war left behind it an appalling heritage of taxation and debt; the increase of the army and navy mortgaged the whole future of reform. If there was one purpose more firmly stated than another when Liberalism appealed to the country, it was the determination to reduce expenditure on armaments, and to apply the saving to social reform. Our best hope, indeed, was wrecked at The Hague. The feud with Germany, and the refusal of the government to reconsider its traditional policy in the matter of commerce destruction, were, no doubt, in part to blame. But there, at least, the responsibility was shared with others. The Anglo-Russian agreement ought to have led to a reduction of the Indian army. That hope is still in the future. But at least, if retrenchment was difficult, few of us had realised that there was the danger of an equal increase in armaments.

The Cabinet, after long and anxious discussion, has decided to increase the navy estimates by a very substantial figure. There will be a small reduction on the army, for which Mr. Haldane deserves the gratitude of the party, but this reduction will be swallowed up four times over by the increase on the fleet. Serious as this prospect is for the present year, we have every reason to fear that a still larger increase is contemplated in the programme for 1909. The party will learn this decision, we believe, with the utmost surprise. Sir John Fisher, speaking in the city, had poured out contempt on "the special correspondents of Punch," who engineered the scare, said Mr. Stead that he might sleep safely in his bed, and joined in the resonant assurances of a rival authority that our fleet was equal to any task which might be put upon it. Even more explicit were the declarations of Sir Edward Grey, who dismissed very firmly the idea that any increase could be necessary this year, though with his habitual caution he declined to pledge himself for the more distant future. If the party as a whole has regarded the agitation for a stronger navy, of which Mr. Stead was the most conspicuous

COBALT CLERK TAKES HIS LIFE

Cobalt, Feb. 15.—Fred Anders, a clerk in the Cobalt freight office of the T. & N. O. Railway, shot and killed himself at 12.30 p.m. to-day.

Anders sent a bullet from a 38-calibre Smith & Wesson revolver into his head and died within half an hour. The remaining five chambers were loaded.

He was found about a quarter to one by W. H. Hickey, the local manager of the freight department, and Charles Rankin.

He left a note directing that his body be forwarded to E. B. White, Grand Rapids, Mich.

He was thirty-three years of age and a widower.

No cause is known for his act.

HOW CHILDREN ARE QUICKLY STRENGTHENED

Develop Them with Ferrozone, Which Makes Rich Blood, Hardy Muscle, Steady Nerves.

Children brought up on Ferrozone are known by their strong, rugged frames their chubby cheeks and healthful appearance.

Mothers find it an indispensable tonic and body builder, and in thousands of homes no other remedy is used.

EVERY CHILD IMPROVES ON FERROZONE

Mrs. E. Montgomery, of Pittsburg, writes: "A little niece came to visit me and noticing her pale and haggard looks, I started her on a course of Ferrozone. The change that girl underwent in a few weeks was marvellous. Her appetite chirped up, she had more spirit and strength, and a rosy color came into her cheeks that I never saw there before. I weighed my niece at out the time she started to pick up, and in seven weeks she gained almost eight pounds, and just looked the picture of health. I think this should be an example to many mothers, and I hope that others will try Ferrozone for their little boys and girls. I am thoroughly convinced that it's the most strengthening tonic it has my strongest endorsement."

The reason Ferrozone works so beneficially with Ferrozone is that it acts directly on the blood, freeing it of all unhealthy matter, at the same time giving it an additional supply of iron.

This at once results in more strength new spirit and renewed vitality. Just one tablet at meal time works wonders.

Refuse to accept any article the druggist may say is just as good. Get Ferrozone, and the result we guarantee will be satisfactory. Price 50c per box or six boxes for $2.50, at all dealers.

A Good Work

Work is being energetically pushed forward on filling up the pitch holes on the Chemong Lake road. As noted before in the Times, this road has given probably more trouble than any other leading to the city, and has torn in pieces absolutely impassible to farmers and others driving into town. Drivers have had to break roads through the adjoining fields. Now, two sleighs heavily loaded with ballast, each drawn by two spans of horses, with large blades, like scythe blades, but made specially for the purpose attached to the front "hobs," and pulled along the roadways. The blades cut and loosen the higher part of the snow which is then by horse scrapers shovelled into the deep pitch holes until they are filled. The snow artificially filled in is packed hard. It is hoped that this road will be levelled and ready for to-day's traffic.

A Weather Forecast

Who can measure the joy swelling up in the bosom of Mr. Rudyard Kipling, the esteemed author of "Our Lady of the Snows" as he reads that the Canadian climate is justifying his historic assault upon it; four just at a time when the straw hat of fashion should be fanning the eye, the snow-shovel is heard in the land and some prominent citizen gets his ears frozen.

Having eclipsed all records for 20 years or more, and having broken the heart of the oldest inhabitant because he could find nothing in his store of pre-historic romance to do justice to the occasion, the weather man still has some glorious possibilities before him.

Suppose we clip, in advance, a few extracts from the newspapers of August 8, 1908:

"Medicine Hat, August 8.—Send us more coal or we will freeze to death. Trains 20 hours late."

"Winnipeg, August 8. — Sixty-five thousand more snow shovels are needed to dig out the Manitoba wheat crop. Thermometer rising. Now only 27 below."

"Kenora, August 8. — The Kenora hockey team has left here and is in fine trim to play Wanderers for the Stanley Cup in Montreal on August 14th."

"Ottawa, August 8. — Parliament adjourned for the whalemen out of sympathy for the Minister of Militia, who had his left ear frozen while testing the Ross rifle."

THE FAY'S INJUNCTION QUASHED

"The Fays," who "faced" hundreds of people in Peterborough, and gave a really excellent exhibition of slight of hand work here, have secured an injunction in the Appelate division of the Supreme Court against other persons using the title "The Fays." This, however, was recently quashed and reasons are given herewith:

"Equity does not bind rogues," says Justice Houghton, referring to fortune tellers and other persons deceiving the public with pretensions of occult powers, who came in for a scorching yesterday in a decision rendered by the Appelate division of the Supreme Court.

WHEN OREGON HAD CAMELS.

In Days of Old, When the State Had a Tropical Climate.

That the whole of interior Oregon was once the bed of the Pacific ocean has been proved beyond question by the investigations of Professor Thomas Condon, Dr. Diller and other noted geologists. That the region was later a tropical country has been equally well-established.

Numerous discoveries of the bones of animals and rocks containing the perfect imprint of the plants of the tropics have been made, and it is no longer an occasion for surprise when well diggers or irrigation excavators unearth the fossil remains of a camel or a broad faced ox.

Within recent years many fossil beds of beautiful palm leaves have been found in eastern Oregon.

The Cascade hills, Blue mountains and Owyhees, once islands surrounded by tropical lakes, were covered with luxuriant growth, forests and flowering shrubs, for Knowlton tells us the magnolia and cinnamon and fig trees were there.

Today the soil presents a finely ground mixture of basalt and volcanic ash, containing the elements of most fertile soil, and when properly watered producing enormous crops of vegetables, fruits and grains common to temperate zones.

The climate has been changed, says Professor Condon, by the upfolding of the Cascade range, shutting off from the interior the softening influence of the Japan current and the drift of ocean fogs and clouds.—Sunset Magazine.

Camera Made Bas Reliefs.

Carlos Basse, an Italian civil engineer, has originated a method by which bas-reliefs of the face may be obtained through the camera which look as though they were photographs of sculptures. The basic idea behind the photosculpture is that fact well known to photographers that a plate of gelatin, sensitized with bichromate, will swell in water and that it loses this property in proportion to the amount of light which is permitted to strike it. Signor Basse therefore projects the photograph upon such a film through two other plates, which are necessary to secure the proper illumination of the face. First he throws a powerful light upon the salient parts of the face and procures a negative. Then he casts the light upon the remoter parts of the countenance and obtains a positive. These plates, positive and negative, are placed together, and the light passing through them strikes the sensitized gelatin plate, and the bas-relief is the result.

Magazine For the Deaf.

Although the Albion, a twenty-four page magazine for the deaf, is now on the streets of London, no newsboys are crying its merits. The magazine is owned by deaf men and women, conducted by a deaf mute editor, written by deaf writers, illustrated by deaf artists and sold by deaf canvassers in the interests of the deaf community. Its editor is Evan Yellon, who was a factory hand and who is self educated. "The idea of a new venture," Mr. Yellon said, "is to provide a special magazine for a special public hitherto neglected by the general press, so far as its particular needs go, to bring into touch and fellowship the scattered units of the 120,000 or more deaf men and women in England and Wales, to protect them by means of co-operation against quacks and frauds and to assist them in obtaining suitable employment and remedies for deafness."

Hoarding Gold in Egypt.

Lord Cromer in a recent speech in London dealt with the question of the imports of gold into Egypt, some £2,000,000 of which was annually converted into jewelry. He illustrated the practice of hoarding which prevails in Egypt by a curious anecdote of a substantial yeoman who recently bought an estate for £25,000 ($125,000) and half an hour after signing the contract brought a train of donkeys bearing on their backs the entire sum in coin, which had been buried in his garden.

News in Brief

Our contemporary, the Review, points an item to the effect that one needs cheek to kiss a girl. That may be so, but the junior reporter on this e. f. j. when he tackles a job of this kind, always has the girl supply the cheek.

Yesterday a leading professional man, whilst purchasing a box of cigars in a Georges Street tobacco store, told at tale on himself worth repeating. He took, of late, noticed after getting into smoking jacket and easy lounging slippers, that the cigars, taken from the box which his wife is in the habit of bringing him, were very dry and brittle. On making a complaint to his dealer, the latter showed him other boxes of the same brand and shapes, which were good and moist. The dealer asked him, Where do you keep your cigars?" "Well, I don't know so tell you the truth, my wife always puts that box away at night after I have filled my pocket case." On arrival home that night he inquired of his better half, "Where do you put my box of cigars, usually?" "Why," she replied, "I have the cutest place to keep your cigars; just where they are handy, and still nice in this way. I keep them on top of the hot air register." !!! Thereafter the cigars will be kept down cellar or in a cooler place.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

Sealed Tenders addressed to the undersigned, marked, on the envelope 'Tender for Construction,' will be received at the office of the Commissioners of the Transcontinental Railway, at Ottawa, until twelve o'clock, noon, of Tuesday, the 10th day of March, 1908, for the work required for the construction, in accordance with the plans, profiles and specifications of the Commissioners, of the following sections of the Transcontinental Railway, viz:—

(1) District 'A'.—From a point designated on the plans of the Commissioners, about the 68th mile west of Moncton, to the crossing of the Intercolonial Railway at or about mile 97.7, a distance of about 29.7 miles.

(2) District 'A'.—From a point designated on the plans of the Commissioners, at or about the crossing of the Intercolonial Railway by the Transcontinental Railway at mile 97.7 west of Moncton to the Tobique River, at or about mile 105.7 less one mile, a distance of about 67 miles.

(3) District 'A'.—From a point designated on the plans of the Commissioners, at or near the Tobique River, to a point shown on the said plans about 2 1-2 miles west of the Town of Grand Falls, in the Province of New Brunswick, a distance of about 31.5 miles.

(4) District 'B'.—From a point designated on the plans of the Commissioners, at or near the boundary line between the Provinces of Quebec and New Brunswick, westerly a distance of about 52.4 miles.

(5) District 'D'.—From a point designated on the plans of the Commissioners, about eight miles west of the Abitibi River crossing, in the Province of Ontario, westerly for a distance of about 100 miles.

(6) District 'E'.—From a point designated on the plans of the Commissioners, about 19 1-2 miles west of the crossing of Mud River, near Lake Nepigon, in the Province of Ontario, easterly for a distance of about 75 miles.

Plans, profiles and specifications may be seen in the office of the Chief Engineer of the Commissioners at Ottawa; also in the offices of the District Engineers concerned, viz:—Guy C. Dunn, St. John, N. B.; A. E. Doucet, Quebec, P. Q.; John Ayles, Acting District Engineer, North Bay, Ont.; and T. S. Armstrong, Nepigon, Ont.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made in duplicate, and on the printed forms supplied by the Commissioners. A separate tender must be submitted for each section.

Tenderers shall not be in any way entitled to rely upon the classification, or any other information given by any person on behalf of the Commissioners; and before submitting any tender, bidders should make a careful examination of the plans, profiles, drawings and specifications and read the forms to be executed, and fully inform themselves as to the quantity and quality of materials, and character of workmanship required; and are understood to accept, and agree to be bound by, the terms and conditions in the form of contract, specifications, etc., annexed to the form of tender.

Each tender must be signed and sealed by all the parties to the tender, and witnessed, and be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered bank of the Dominion of Canada, payable to the order of the Commissioners, of the Transcontinental Railway, as follows:—

For Section No. 2, District 'A'...	100,000
For Section No. 3, District 'A'...	75,000
For Section No. 4, District 'B'...	100,000

Any person whose tender is accepted shall within ten days after the acceptance thereof furnish such additional approved security as may be required by the Commissioners; sign the contract, specifications, and other documents required to be signed by the said Commissioners; and, in any case of refusal or failure on the part of the party whose tender is accepted to complete the whose tender is accepted to complete and execute a contract with the said Commissioners, and to furnish the additional approved security within ten days after the acceptance of the tender, the said cheque shall be forfeited to the Commissioners as liquidated damages for such refusal or failure and all contracts rights acquired by the acceptance of the tender shall be forfeited. The cheques deposited by parties whose tenders are accepted will be deposited to the credit of the Receiver General of Canada as part of the security for the due and faithful performance of the contract according to its terms. Cheques deposited by parties whose tender are rejected will be returned within ten days after the signing of the contract.

"All mechanics, labourers, or other persons who perform labour for the purposes of the construction of the works hereby contracted for, shall be paid such wages as are generally accepted as current for competent workmen in the district in which the work is being performed, and if there is no current rate in such district, then a fair and reasonable rate; and, in the event of a dispute arising as to what is the current or a fair and reasonable rate, it shall be determined by the Commissioners, whose decision shall be final.'

'This agreement is subject to the regulations now in force, or which may at any time hereafter be in force during the construction of the works hereby contracted for, made under the authority of the Department of Labour, and which are, or shall be, applicable to such works.' (The schedule of minimum wages determined upon by said Department will form part of the contract).

The contractor shall in connection with the whole of the said work, as far as practicable, use only material, machinery, plant, supplies, and rolling stock manufactured or produced in Canada, provided the same can be obtained as cheaply and upon as good terms, in Canada as elsewhere, having regard to quality and price.'

The contractor shall conform to the fire regulations adopted by the Commissioners, and also to the laws and regulations respecting fires in the different provinces wherein the work is being performed.

The right is reserved to reject any or all tenders.

TRENT CANAL
ONTARIO-RICE LAKE DIVISION
SECTION NO. 3

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

Sealed Tenders addressed to the undersigned and endorsed "Tender for Trent Canal," will be received until 16 o'clock on Thursday, 12th March, 1908, for the works connected with the construction of Section No. 3, Ontario-Rice Lake Division of the Canal.

Plans, specifications, and the form of the contract to be entered into, can be seen on an after the 5th February, 1908, at the office of the Chief Engineer of the Department of Railways and Canals, Ottawa, at the office of the Superintending Engineer, Trent Canal, Peterborough, Ont., and at the office of Mr. J. B. Brophy, Division Engineer, Trenton, Ont., at which places forms of tender may be obtained.

Parties tendering will be required to accept the fair wages Schedule prepared or to be prepared by the Department of Labor, which Schedule will form part of the contract.

Contractors are requested to bear in mind that tenders will not be considered, unless made strictly in accordance with the printed forms, and in the case of firms, unless there are attached the actual signatures, the nature of the occupation, and place of residence of each member of the firm.

An accepted bank cheque for the sum of $10,000 must accompany each tender, which sum will be forfeited, if the party tendering declines entering into contract for the work, at the rates stated in the offer submitted.

The cheque thus sent in will be returned to the respective contractors whose tenders are not accepted.

The advertisement dated the 16th January, 1908, is hereby cancelled.

The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

By order,

A Business Proposition!

FOR BUSINESS MEN AND WOMEN

I want business men and women who have money to invest to write me for particulars.

I have an absolutely clean and safe deal that has been tested and proved by actual experience.

It will pay over $600 yearly income on every $1,000 invested, (over $100 yearly on each $200 invested) yet is not a lacing or gambling scheme, but a straight, legitimate, profitable, honest business you would be proud to be identified with.

It needs more money to run it on a large scale, hence this offer to you who have money and the business sense and acumen to share in this good thing.

I have submitted particulars of this deal to the proprietors and editors of this paper; they are business men and have approved it because it is safe, sound and clean, and the promises made are straight and reasonable.

When you read these particulars I believe you will approve and be glad you investigated. No matter if you have $5,000 or $10,000 to invest or only $100 or $200, it applies equally to all. It is a

for Business Men and Women of sense and discrimination. THIS MEANS YOU.

Write at once; write now, before you forget, stating about the amount you have for investment, and I will promptly send you a personal reply with the clearest and most concise facts and particulars.

Capital, $250,000.00 1,000,000 Shares 25c. each.

Good coal stock is a safe and sure investment. Galbraith shares are especially attractive.

Modest Capitalization Large Coal Reserves

This Company organized under the laws of the Northwest Territories of Canada, owns and operates the Galbraith mine located at Lind-brook, Alta. They have four vertical seams of coal traversing their property, aggregating over 40 feet in thickness. Three of these seams are developed to a depth of 350 feet, and as they pass through the Company's lands for nearly a mile, some idea of the amount of coal may be had.

Shipping Steadily

The present output of the mine is about 200 tons per day. These shipments will be rapidly increased, as the C.P.R. allows its cars to be loaded with coal for points in the U. S.

We are selling a limited number of these shares at the extremely low price of

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTHWEST HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an Agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of a homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father or mother.

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing must be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa, of intention to apply for patent.

LOCAL HOTEL BUS HAS AN UPSET

Yesterday afternoon about 4.30 as the Oriental 'bus was making its way south along George street to meet the C. P. R. western express, loaded, as usual, with travellers, the latter had a hugging match not on the programme. This was seen just as the 'bus got in front of Bank's bicycle store, when the commercial men sitting on the right hand side suddenly threw their arms about the necks of those sitting opposite. The cause for this sympathy, akin of endearment was the breaking of the runners of both bob-sleighs on the hill facing same. The 'bus driven on this west side of the street, as was correct, had to turn to the east side to avoid a car at the corner of Charlotte street and the runners catching on a car track broke off just where they join the axle. The heavy loaded 'bus at once came over, but fortunately did not go completely over on its side. This accounted for the embracing as noted. Fortunately no one was hurt. The driver at once pulled the horses up and saved what might have been a serious accident. As the startled travellers poured out of the 'bus door, one of them, carrying a heavy grip, remarked, "Great Cæsar, I'll miss that train," and started on the run towards the C. P. R. station. The Snowdon House 'bus, happening along just after the trouble, picked up the rest of the Oriental's guests and took them to the station.

IMPROVING THE VIOLIN.

"G String Prop" Makes New Harmonies a Possibility.

An innovation in violin making that is attracting considerable attention has been brought about through the ingenuity of Lester L. Sargent of Washington, who has contrived a simple but distinctly useful "G string prop" to enable the violinist to play simultaneously on three strings of his instrument, whereas heretofore it has been possible for him to play sustained chords of two notes only at a time. Thus the dominion of the "king of instruments" will be extended into the realm of harmony as well as of melody.

The new device itself is a small wedge shaped piece of bridge wood inserted on the violin bridge under the G string. Its dimensions, while dependent to some extent on the height of the bridge on the particular violin on which it is to be used and the character of the music to be played, are ordinarily as follows: Thickness, three sixty-fourths of an inch; length, five-eighths of an inch; width, three-sixteenths of an inch or slightly less. The hypotenuse of the prop is carved to fit smoothly on the bridge of the violin, and a notch for the G string is also made. To erect the device on the violin is an easy matter, it being only necessary to turn down the G string about a tone, to insert the prop underneath and then to turn up the string with care. In effect it becomes a component part of the bridge itself, but it can always be easily removed.

This method of elevating the G just enough to be sounded simultaneously with the D and A strings takes away the mechanical obstacle that Ole Bull managed to overcome by means of a flat bridge and his remarkable tours de force, but which no other violinist has attempted to cope with.

That this method of playing is entirely novel is evidenced by the fact that all works on orchestration have stated that sustained chords on the violin are restricted to two notes and that three and four voiced chords must be played as arpeggios. But a new and beautiful effect is now placed at the command of the violinist, although it is true that there are few compositions in which use has been made of the possibilities of writing beautiful chords on the three lower strings of the violin. De Beriot has a notable passage in his Fifth Concerto, but it remains chiefly for future composers of music for the violin to enlarge the present excellent repertory of the violin with compositions containing violin harmony.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Wind Plucked Turkeys.

Six turkeys slain that morning revolved slowly on a kind of spit in a small room on the ground floor of a great poultry farm, and as they revolved they were miraculously plucked. Invisible hands stripped off their plumage. The air was gray with falling feathers.

"Wind plucked turkeys—it is an experiment," said the foreman. "These birds are being plucked by cross currents of electrically driven air. But the feathers come off very slowly. The experiment is not a commercial success.

"For many years we have tried to invent a poultry plucking machine. We have not succeeded well. Air plucking seems to be the idea that offers most promise, but it still wants a lot of working out. Yet eventually I have no doubt these turkeys that now take a half hour and cost 10 cents apiece to pluck by air will be air plucked in a few seconds and at no more cost than 10 cents a thousand."—New York Press.

A Photograph of Mars.

Of the photographs taken of the canals on the planet Mars a writer says: "Professor Lowell was good enough to send me three of his wonderful direct photographs of Mars taken last July, which are only four millimeters (nearly one-sixth of an inch) in diameter, and most wonderful photos they are. They show the snow caps and the darker and lighter shading, but with normal sight I can see a number of most beautiful lines—the canals—and, with the aid of a very low power hand glass not strong enough to show the fiber of the paper, I can count thirty-six of these perfectly straight lines, one of them double."

A School For Nobles.

Evidence that China is moving along toward a constitutional government is contained in the following item from a Shanghai daily newspaper: "Tao Hsi, vice president of the ministry of education, has recommended to the throne the establishment of a peerage school for the study of political economy and civil laws. Only sons of princes and dukes and other nobles shall be admitted into this school, which is to prepare its students for membership in the future Chinese house of lords."

The Caspian Sink.

It appears from the careful measurements of level recently made by Lieutenant Colonel Parilsky along the line of the Transcaspian railway that the level of the Caspian sea is eighty-three feet below the level of the oceans. If the Caspian sea were filled with water up to ocean level the town of Krasnovodsk, which stands on its shore, would be submerged, for the mean elevation of that town is between sixty-three and sixty-four feet below ocean level.

Fencing a Continent.

After five years' work the great transcontinental rabbit proof fence has been completed in West Australia. Its length is 2,026 miles, and the cost of its erection has been very nearly $1,250,000. It is furnished at intervals of five miles with systems of traps in which hundreds of rabbits are captured and destroyed daily.—Lloyd's Weekly.

The Williamson family of gipsies, of which several members have given both the police and the public considerable trouble, have taken the broad hints given by his worship and shaken the dust, or snow-balls, of Peterborough from their feet and gone to honor Detroit, Mich., with their company. The police court has been very quiet lately, nothing doing.

SIRES AND SONS.

James R. Keene's race horses have won the past year $402,691.

Midshipman Raleigh C. Williams of Wichita, Kas., is the strongest man in the Naval academy.

A St. Petersburg newspaper says that John D. Rockefeller asked Count Tolstoi for his advice as to how great wealth might best be employed to benefit humanity.

John J. Murphy, one of the largest paper manufacturers of New York, who died recently, left an estate valued at $10,000,000. He was so unostentatious that few knew of his wealth.

Amos Brundage, known in Kansas City for twenty years as "the Salvation Army drummer boy," and his brother Henry are heirs to a fortune valued at from $5,000,000 to $8,000,000.

Hugh J. Chisholm, head of the International Paper company, when thirteen years old became a railway newsboy. Thomas A. Edison was associated with him, and the two became fast friends.

For more than fifty years the control and direction of the postoffice at Adamsville, R. I., have been centered in one family. The present postmaster is Abraham Manchester, who has been in office continuously since 1878. Previously his father, Philip Manchester, with the exception of one year, held the office from 1850.

Lord Clifton, whose coming of age has just been celebrated at Cobham Hall, Kent, England, is six feet seven inches high. His father, the Earl of Darnley, is six feet four inches, while the earl, Lord Clifton, and their relatives, the Hon. Noel Bligh, Hon. Arthur Bligh and Hon. E. V. Bligh, average six feet two and a half inches.

Sir William Purdie Treloar, who recently retired as lord mayor of London, is known in the English capital for his love of children and his work for the destitute cripples of the metropolis. He is loved by the poor children of the east end. His last effort in their behalf was the collecting of $300,000 for the building of a big home in Hampshire for crippled children.

SCIENCE SIFTINGS.

A drop of blood that might be suspended from the point of a needle contains about a million of red flattened corpuscles.

The French telephone authorities have invented a new apparatus which is to be called the "howler." It is to prevent any one from forgetting to replace his receiver at the end of a call and emits a sound resembling that of a dog in pain.

Why animal charcoal removes the color from colored liquids, while wood charcoal has no effect, has not been understood. A European chemist now finds that the action of the former is due to the presence of 5 to 7 per cent of nitrogen.

A new directory by the Royal observatory of Belgium shows that there are 1,556 astronomers and somewhat over 550 observatories in the world. Of the observatories more than 100 are in the British isles, with nearly as many in the United States, the number in other countries being much smaller.

ODD HAPPENINGS.

Charles Deecrost of Philadelphia yawned just as a collision of a street car occurred, and a piece of glass went down his throat. Physicians say he may lose his speech.

By the explosion of a boiler in a hotel in Cripple Creek, Colo., the building was completely wrecked, but Henry Morgan, sleeping within six feet of the boiler, was not injured.

A charge of 13,000 volts passed through the body of Henry Tyson, aged thirty-six, at Germantown, Pa., and when examined at a hospital the physicians said he was uninjured.

Since June the beard of John B. Roberts, a grocer of Wichita, Kan., has been growing on the left side of his face inward instead of outward, notwithstanding efforts to check it. Surgeons say it is the strangest case they have ever seen.

CHURCH AND CLERGY.

The three minor denominations of Methodists who have just consolidated in England make a church of 180,000 members.

Moving pictures and songs, with social science class, is a part of the Sunday services of the Theodore Parker Memorial church at Boston.

During the past year 581 men were admitted to the ministry of the Church of England where a dozen years ago the number was over 800 annually.

The Methodist Episcopal ministers at Boston are to send delegates to the Central Labor union who will have a voice in the proceedings, but no vote.

The canton of Geneva, Switzerland, following in the footsteps of France, will divorce state and church on Jan. 1, 1909, when a law recently passed to that effect will become operative.

Rheumatism

I have found a tried and tested cure for Rheumatism! Not a remedy that will straighten the distorted limbs of chronic cripples, nor turn bony growths back to flesh again. That is impossible. But I can now surely kill the pains and pangs of this deplorable disease.

In Germany—with a Chemist in the City of Darmstadt—I found the last ingredient with which Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy was made a perfected, dependable prescription. Without that last ingredient, I successfully treated many, many cases of Rheumatism; but now, at last, it uniformly cures all curable cases of this heretofore much dreaded disease. These mad-like granules wanted, found in Rheumatic Blood seem to dissolve and pass away under the action of this remedy as freely as does sugar when added to pure water. And then, when dissolved, these poisonous wastes freely pass from the system, and the cause of Rheumatism is gone forever. There is now no real need—no actual excuse to suffer longer without help. We sell, and in confidence recommend

The Great Provincial Charity, The Hospital for Sick Children, Calls On You For Aid.

Remember that this Hospital is not a local institution, but Provincial.

"I LIKE PICTURES"

It cares for every sick child in the Province of Ontario whose parents cannot afford to pay for treatment.

Busy dollars are better than idle tears. The sympathy that Weeps is good, but the Hospital has to have the sympathy that Works.

Last year there were 1083 patients admitted. Of these 378 came from 284 places outside of Toronto—all were children of poor people who could not afford to pay for treatment of their little ones.

Each child was in the Hospital 47½ days at a cost of $1.31 each per day, or $62.22 for the 47½ days stay.

MASSAGE

If your dollar could straighten the feet of a little boy or girl with club feet, you would gladly give it, and your dollar will do that. There were 79 cases of club feet treated last year. Out of the 79, about 60 were from the country.

BEFORE. AFTER.

If you know of any child in your county who is sick or has club feet, and whose parents can not afford to pay, send the name to the Hospital Secretary.

The stock books are open. Won't you let the Hospital write your name down for a few shares in Heaven's own work of healing little children?

"A great mine of Mercy—the mining stock that always pays dividends—is bought with the money that helps The Hospital for Sick Children to entrust the Gold of Life from the Quartz of Death."

Very Special

Parties wishing their Piano or Organ cleaned or repaired at own home can have services of an expert at reasonable cost. Also orders taken for making special articles such as screens, brackets, etc., or repairing furniture. Apply to C. N. in care of 84 George street.

Brer. Sawle After Information

Mr. A. H. Sawle, editor of the Preston Progress, and recently city editor of the Review, spent Sunday in the city. Mr. Sawle is here for the purpose of securing some information concerning the operations of the Water Commissioners. Preston has started to carry on municipal waterworks and elected commissioners in January last.

Delegates to Synod Return

Rev. Canon Davidson and Mr. Jos. Beal, who have been attending the annual meeting of the Mission Board of the Diocese of Toronto, have returned. The meeting was held in the Anglican Church Synod office, Merchants' Bank Chambers, and all the members of the Board were present. The two Peterborough representatives took an active part in the discussion on reports and other business.

More Gifts to Relief Fund

Mr. Finch Miller, the local relief officer, wishes to acknowledge the receipt of the following:
Mrs. L. K. Dean, $5.00.
Mr. R. Baker, one bag potatoes.
The total amount subscribed to date is $346.50, and many donations of clothing, groceries, etc., have also been received. Another distribution took place on Saturday night at Mr. Miller's store at five o'clock.

Lieut.-Col. and Mrs. Gaskin Here

Lieut.-Col. and Mrs. Gaskin, general secretaries for the Salvation Army for Canada, with headquarters at Toronto, spent Sunday in the city and spoke at the local barracks at the three services yesterday. Mrs. Gaskin commissioned the ten women members of the League of Mercy, a very interesting ceremony. The women were presented with certificates, and in future will be able to conduct services at the jail and other branches of the league's work.

A Narrow Escape

About 8 a.m. Saturday, just after Mr. John Spiers, conductor of a C. G. R. car, got off at the Charlotte street G. T. R. crossing, he had a close shave from at least mutilation, if not death. It seems that he walked across the tracks and in getting on the steps at the front of the car, fell on his back on the road and narrowly escaped being run over. He was dazed but continued with his work for an hour when he was relieved and went home.

Commodore Young as a Hockeyist

Commodore P. P. Young, the genial steamboat man of Young's Point, was in town Saturday. For some days Mr. Young has been nursing an eye, that was bearing the deepest of mourning the result of a game of hockey in which he participated. When boys of Mr. Young's tender years indulge in such strenuous pastimes, something will surely drop. We are glad to note, however, that the injured optic has regained its normal color. The Commodore will hereafter quit such dangerous games as hockey, and content himself with the comparatively safe occupation of looking after women toilers, steering boats on a dark night between rocks or monkeying with the buzz saw of a saw-mill.

City Topics

IN SHORT FORM FOR BUSY READERS

—Yesterday's bright weather brought out large congregations to the various churches.

—Mr. Jos. Crowe, the well known Warsaw stage driver, said on Saturday that the roads are the worst on record.

—The City Council held a special meeting on Saturday afternoon, as did also the Fire, Water and Light Committee.

—No skating on Brock street rink Saturday night owing to the warm weather which prevailed during the day.

—The following donations have been added to the Children's Aid Society relief fund: A friend, $5; Peterborough Typographical Union, No 248, $5.00.

—Farmers who stood for hours in the rain on Saturday morning at the Market Square, selling their goods, were loud in their desire for a covered walk way, to protect both sellers and buyers.

—A Buckhorn despatch says: The bays on the lake are all open again and there are lots of wild duck and wild geese here. A number of robins have also been seen around the village during the past few days.

—A number of young ladies will give a social tea from 4 to 6 and from 7 to 10 p.m. to-morrow, at the residence of Mr. Jobbitt, corner King and Stewart streets. Musical programme and refreshments. Silver collection. Proceeds in aid of the funds of the Children's Aid Society.

—Thanks to the cold snap of Saturday night, church-goers, who attend via Water street, did not have to use canvas to pass along that underground west side pavement.

—Mr. W. H. Cavanah, formerly left wing of the local hockey team, but now living at Rockford, Ill., recently had his first game there and scored five out of seven goals made.

Stop that tickling Cough! Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure will surely stop it, and with perfect safety. It is so thoroughly harmless Dr. Shoop tells mothers to use nothing else even with very young babies. The wholesome green leaves and tender stems of a lung healing mountainous shrub furnish the curative properties of Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. It calms the cough, and heals the sensitive bronchial membranes. No opium, no chloroform, nothing harsh used to injure or suppress. Demand Dr. Shoop's. Take no other. All Dealers.

Personal

Mr. M. W. Matchett, of Toronto, was home over Sunday.

Mr. Bert Neubercut, of Dundalk, is visiting friends in the city.

Messrs. J. S. Carstairs and W. K. Snider, Conservative organizers, were at the Oriental on Saturday.

Mr. Thos. Whylott, Fenelon Falls, was a guest at the Snowden House on Saturday.

Mr. C. L. Owen, M.P., Campbellford, was in the city on Saturday morning.

Mr. W. D. Parker, formerly of this city, but now of Montreal, spent Sunday here.

Miss Lundy, Verulam House, East Ward, leaves to-morrow for Florida, where she intends spending the spring months.

Mr. Fred Peake, the well known horseman of Campbellford, was in the city on Saturday on business.

Mr. and Mrs. Egerton Perry, of Rochester, N.Y., are in the city visiting friends and relatives. Mr. Perry is an old Peterborough boy.

Mr. D. Fraser, proprietor of the Snowden House, was confined to his bed with an attack of the grippe yesterday and Saturday.

Grippe is sweeping the country. Stop it with Preventics, before it gets deeply seated. To check early colds with these little Candy Cold Cure Tablets is surely sensible and safe. Preventics contain no Quinine, no laxative, nothing harsh or sickening. Pneumonia would never appear if early colds were promptly broken. Also good for feverish children. Large box, 48 tablets, 25 cents. Vest pocket boxes, 5 cents. Sold by all dealers.

Mr. W. T. C. Boyd, of Bobcaygeon, was in the city on Saturday, a guest at the Snowden House. Mr Boyd gave The Times a friendly call.

Miss May Mulvaney, of the Post Office staff, Lindsay, is spending her vacation, the guest of Miss Bertha Jones, city.

Mrs. Julia Higgins and daughter, Kathleen, of New York city, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Bob. Weatherstone, Water street.

Mr. Thos. McGillicuddy of the Bureau of Agriculture, who lectured at the Y. M. C. A. Saturday night, was the guest of Mr. J. W. Brewett, optical specialists.

Mrs. R. L. Sutcliffe and baby Sutcliffe left Saturday for a few weeks' visit to her home in Brighton. She was accompanied by her sister, Miss Fife, trained nurse, who returns home after spending some weeks visiting her sister.

New Planing Mill for Warsaw

It seems that the village of Warsaw is not influenced by the cries of hard times, as a carload of machinery has gone to that burg for installation in a new planing mill. Mr. John Selkirk, formerly of Essex county, who recently moved to Warsaw, and who is a practical man at the business, intends erecting a new planing mill there, and the new industry is one that is needed in Warsaw. At the present time farmers and others who require lumber dressed have to drive a considerable distance with it.

Words of Praise

For the several ingredients of which Dr. Pierce's medicines are composed, as given by leaders in all the several schools of medicine, should have far more weight than any amount of non-professional testimonials. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has THE BADGE OF HONESTY on every bottle-wrapper, in a full list of all its ingredients printed in plain English.
If you are an invalid woman and suffer from frequent headache, backache, gnawing distress in stomach, periodical pains, disagreeable, catarrhal, pelvic drain, dragging-down distress in lower abdomen or pelvis, perhaps dark spots or specks dancing before the eyes, faint spells and kindred symptoms caused by female weakness, or other derangement of the feminine organs, you can not do better than take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.
The hospital, surgeon's knife and operating table may be avoided by the timely use of "Favorite Prescription" in such cases. Thereby the obnoxious examinations and local treatments of the family physician can be avoided and a thorough course of successful treatment carried out in the privacy of the home. "Favorite Prescription" is composed of the very best native medicinal roots known to medical science for the cure of woman's peculiar ailments, contains no alcohol and no harmful or habit-forming drugs.
Do not expect too much from "Favorite Prescription;" it will not perform miracles; it will not disolve or cure tumors. No medicine will. It will do as much to establish vigorous health in most weaknesses and ailments peculiarly incident to women as any medicine can. It must be given a fair chance by perseverance in its use for a reasonable length of time.
You can't afford to accept a secret nostrum as a substitute for this remedy of known composition.
Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, free. All correspondence is guarded as sacredly secret and womanly confidences are protected by professional privacy. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.
Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets the best laxative and regulator of the bowels. They invigorate stomach, liver and bowels. One a laxative; two or three a cathartic. Easy to take as candy.

S. A. Barracks to be Renovated

Those who recently heard the eloquent address given by Commissioner Coombes of the Salvation Army will regret to learn that his lecture on the 28th has been postponed until next fall. Staff-Captain Goodwin and Mr. R. C. Hruund, of the local Army corps, have been in Toronto interviewing the commissioner, and it is impossible to have the lecture on the 28th, as first proposed owing to another engagement for that date, and the commissioner expressed his willingness to come here in the fall instead. The building scheme, as per plans drawn by Staff-Capt. Miller, was also discussed, and it was decided to begin the work of renovating the barracks in the course of a few months.

E. V. Moore Confident as to Peat's Future

It now looks as though the excitement of a few years ago over the probability of universal use of peat as a fuel will be revived. It is no secret that for the past year or two pelt has fallen not so much into disfavor but into "unpleasant odour de" for lack of production or place on the market. However, Mr. Ernest V. Moore, manager of the Condensed Peat Fuel Co., of this city, who has just returned from a trip to Montreal and Ottawa in the interests of his work, reports that confidence in the success of peat as a fuel is gaining rapidly. Whilst in Ottawa Mr. Moore had an interview with the Director of Mines, Dr. Eugene Haanel, who is at present making extensive preparations for research as to the possibilities of peat fuel, for which it is expected an appropriation will shortly be granted by the Government. The Director of Mines expressed himself as convinced that the fuel cannot be gotten on the market too soon.

Last Milk Tests Below the Average

Notwithstanding the recent cold spell, the wells of this county could not all have frozen up. The milk tests of last month, now to hand, are not as satisfactory as those presented before. Coffee Drinking

A Doctor Says It Weakens the Heart

"In my opinion," says a well known German physician, "no one can truthfully say that coffee agrees with him, as it has long since been proven that caffeine, contained in coffee, is an injurious, poisonous substance which weakens and degenerates the heart muscles.
"For this reason the regular use of coffee, soon or late, causes a condition of undernourishment, which leads to various kinds of organic disease.
"Convinced of this fact, I have often sought for some healthful beverage to use instead of coffee. At last I found the thing desired in Postum. Having had occasion to forbid people using coffee, whose hearts were affected, I have recommended Postum as a beverage, since it is free from all injurious or exciting substances. I know this from results in my own family, and among patients.
"Hundreds of persons who now use Postum in place of coffee, are greatly benefited thereby." "There's a Reason."

Local Poultrymen Meet Tonight

The following card has been sent to all those known to be interested in the organization of a Poultry Association:
Your attendance is requested at a meeting to be held on Tuesday, Feb. 18th, at eight o'clock p.m., in the City Council Chambers, when the proposal to organize a Poultry Association in Peterborough, will be discussed by the poultry men of the city. You are urged to come yourself, and to bring any of your friends interested in the proposed scheme, to assist in the carrying out of the project.
It has been thought by many that an Association formed along the lines prevailing in other places would have a tendency to bring together persons having a love for pure-bred fowl, and also be conducive to producing a better type of pure-bred poultry in this district.
You are, therefore, asked to be present on the occasion of the first meeting to lend your assistance.

I wish that I might talk with all sick ones about the actual cause of Stomach, Heart, and Kidney ailments. To explain in person how weak Stomach nerves leads to Stomach weakness, I am sure would interest all. And it is the same with weak Hearts or Weak Kidneys. This is why my prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative—so promptly reaches ailments of the Stomach, Heart, and Kidneys. It is wrong to drug the Stomach or stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. These weak inside nerves simply need more strength. My Restorative is the only prescription made exclusively for these nerves. Next to seeing you personally, will be to mail you free, my new booklet entitled, "What To Do." I will also send samples of my Restorative as well. Write for the book to-day. It will surely interest you. Address Dr. Shoop, Box 8, Racine, Wis. All Dealers.

BRITAIN'S NAVY

spokesman, with placid indifference, it was because he relied on these assurances, and hardly supposed that the natural inclinations of the Cabinet towards economy stood in any need of reinforcement.
We are not disposed to question that the challenge which Prince Buelow threw down, when he revised his programme of building construction, is a grave element in the political situation. But it is not so serious as it sounds. Germany has yet to find the means of financing that programme, and her finances were never less buoyant. Prince Buelow has also to buy at every turn the support of the loosely knit elements of his "bloc," and that task may soon become impossible. Even were these obstacles overcome, it is still a fact that the resources of his shipyards are unequal to such a scheme as this. The fleet which he has sketched cannot be completed when the appointed date arrives, and even if it could, our resources for building and our speed in building are so immeasurably superior that we cannot afford to do nothing for more than a year, and yet to complete additional Dreadnoughts before the German vessels could be ready. Our strength is at present four times that of Germany, and even if the present paper scheme could be realized, it would still be twice as great as hers. If two British Dreadnoughts cannot face one German vessel of the same class, we labor in vain. If Germany can compel us to waste our resources in this futile have done us, by our own fault, the gravest injury that could happen, short of war. We are spending on Dreadnoughts the money that we need and needless competition. she will for the pensions of the aged. When the proposals of the government are set before the house they must inevitably produce the severest strain that could be put upon the loyalty of a party of reform. The time for protest is now, before any irrevocable decision has been published.

February, 1908, is here and so is

The Pacific Fruit Cooling and Vaporizing Company, Incorporated for the purpose of cooling deciduous fruits and removing moisture from citrus fruits and keeping unde cold storage such fruits and other food products from the time of receiving them from the fruit growers until loaded on car and taken away by the Railroad Company for Eastern shipment.

STUBBORN FACTS UNIMPEACHABLE
The loss in shipping deciduous and citrus fruits is enormous. The orange crop of Southern California alone is valued at $20,000,000. The government experts estimate that about 25 per cent. or $7,500,000, is lost every year by rough handling in packing and decay of fruit in transit to the Eastern markets. What a revenue of profit this loss would be to the shipper if it could be saved. Our process will save it. The same is true of the deciduous fruits of Northern California.

GREAT FORTUNES ARE MADE BY INVESTING IN NECESSITIES
Fruit is one of the necessities of our civilized life, and the company that can place the fruit in the markets of the world in the best shape, in the quickest time, at the lowest rate, has a fortune within its grasp. The Armour Company in ten years made $6,000,000 net handling California fruit in refrigerator cars. Our process is as necessary to the fruit grower as the refrigerator car. Therefore we ought to receive as large a revenue for handling the same commodity.

GET IN WHILE THE ENTERPRISE IS NEW
No wiser words were ever spoken than these: "The chief point about getting rich is to invest in a new enterprise that is being managed by successful men, who have some of their own money in the deal." "One good investment is worth a lifetime of labor". Think over this sentence. A man's daily labor will never make him rich. He must have some money at work for him. Money invested never gets sick, keeps no holidays, never goes on strike. There are three things that ought to guide you: First, invest with honest men; Second, invest with men of sound judgment; third, invest under conditions where you get your full share of profits the business yields. Get into a company whose destiny is guided by men of this stamp when its future is before and not behind it. Here is the secret of fortune. Plant the seed of your investment in the soil of opportunity, at the season of greatest promise when the enterprise is new. Every ounce of donor in the hearts of the men managing this company is pledged to give

A SQUARE DEAL FOR EVERY INVESTO
There will be no preferred stock. Every dollar invested will be worth 100 cents on the dollar. Our Directors, as honourable business men, will not allow any tricks of trade by which the small investor can be frozen out. Their commercial standing proves they are not "grafters". The poor man's 640 of 100 shares will have the same standing in court as the rich man's. 10,000, and they will draw the same proportionate dividend. We court investigation.

EVERY RICH MAN IN THE WORLD WAS ONCE POOR, OR HIS GRANDFATHER WAS.

THE OPPORTUNITY OF A LIFETIME
To get into a company that has the certainty of growth, the assurance of large and quick returns, a rapid advance in the price of stock, to make it an exceptional chance for big profits on a small investment. This is an ideal investment for the wage earner as well as the rich man. Moderate sums invested now will bring splendid returns in the near future. The logic of all this is

DON'T WAIT
Time is the essence of this proposition. The stock will certainly double in a short time. Jay Gould once said: "When you see a good investment don't wait to see if it pans out well, for by that time other people are in, too, and you have lost your opportunity."

WOMEN AS INVESTORS
Some of the heaviest stockholders in our company are women of keen business instincts. One lady in Los Angeles bought 5,000 shares. In a few days she returned and bought 5,000 more. This lady has never made a mistake in her business ventures. Women are good investors because they have courage to follow their convictions. Their intuitions are keener and truer than men's logic. Men may prevent her voting, but they can't prevent her drawing dividends on her investments. This is one branch of trade where sex, culture, or color does not count.

MANAGEMENT
The affairs of this company are in the hands of men of honesty, ability, courage and good business judgment—men who have made a success of their own business—men whose business reputation is all in the commercial circles in which they move.
These men are "square" and "shrewd". They will not deceive you nor will they be deceived themselves. Because of the promise of growth, permanency and profit this business offers they have united their money, energy, time and business experience to make this enterprise a grand success.

Notwithstanding the Financial Crisis, Investments made Six Months ago have Advanced
150 PER CENT
The next six months promises to far exceed the past six months
If you investigate this proposition you will surely invest.

RUSSIANS IN TIFLIS ARE FEARFUL THAT WAR WILL BREAK OUT

Turkish Army Reserves March to the Frontier--Doctors Volunteer Their Services to Country

Tiflis, Feb. 17. — Reports received here from Armenia declare that all the redifs, or Turkish army reserve forces, in Van, Mush and the other Vilayets of Asia Minor, have been called to the colors and are proceeding rapidly for the frontier. At the same time a league of all the Turkish revolutionary parties is increasing the revolutionary agitation. Appeals and proclamations are being issued exhorting the population to protest in every way possible against the warlike plans of the Sultan. The league holds that war would be especially disastrous at the present time, as there is a famine in Asia Minor.

At Tiflis the apprehension of hostilities has not abated. The Russian military authorities have ordered that that all horses in the Caucasus suitable for military purposes be registered. The doctors of Tiflis held a meeting recently and volunteered their services in case of war.

The concentration of Turkish reserves on the Persian and Russian frontiers in Asia Minor, if correct, is an outcome of the border difficulty with Persia. Turkey troops crossed the Persian frontier in the vicinity of Urumiah and committed depredations. Russia, under her treaty obligations to Persia, objected to this, and commenced the concentration of a strong force on the frontier of the Caucasus. This show of military activity was thought to have been sufficient to put a stop to the Turkish aggression, and the Russian movements was said to have been discontinued.

If the reports from Armenia are true the difficulty in Asia Minor, which is closely connected with the railroad aspirations of the powers in the Balkans, may assume serious importance.

No Reduction in Naval Power--The Probable Program

London, Feb. 17.—In view of the threatening attitude of that section of the Radical party which advocates reduction in armaments, there has been much speculation as to whether the Government will persist in the determination, reached on the advice of the Lords of the Admiralty, to submit increased naval estimates to parliament. Those in position to know say they will, and backed by strong public opinion can carry them through without difficulty.

THE PROBABLE PROGRAMME.

What these estimates provide for in the way of new construction is another question that has been much discussed. A naval officer gives the following as the probable programme:

Three armored vessels of the improved Dreadnaught type; two cruisers, improvements on the old Edgar class, heavily armed and well protected. Six smaller cruisers of the Boudicea class, 3,500 tons, with a great radius of action. At least twelve torpedo craft, the majority of them of the Tribe class. There will also be provision for additional submarines, but of these the Admiralty maintain the greatest secrecy.

ONLY A PARTIAL ANSWER.

This is not looked upon as a complete answer to Germany's programme. That, naval men say, will come next year, even the critics of the policy of the Admiralty admitting that the start England has secured will enable her to maintain the two power standard without rushing work during the coming fiscal year. Besides, the delay of twelve months will allow her to learn something of what other powers are doing, and she can then "go them one better."

WAR IS FEARED BETWEEN SWEDEN AND RUSSIA OVER FINLAND

Forces of the Czar Have Established Themselves on an Island off the Swedish Coast

Stockholm, Feb. 17. — The relations between Sweden and Russia are decidedly strained at present. The tension has arisen because Russia insists upon being released from the agreement made when Sweden surrendered Finland that no naval stations or fortifications should be established on the Finnish shores adjacent to Sweden. The part taken by Russia in the Norwegian integrity treaty and their present attitude on the Baltic "closed sea" question also have greatly irritated Sweden. War is feared in Sweden, because Russia for some time past has been preparing to establish a naval station on the western shores of Aland Island, which is twenty-five miles from the Swedish coast, and only a few hours by steamer from Stockholm.

A large contingent of troops and several torpedo boats have had headquarters there for more than a year, and the Russian officers have spent their time in making elaborate surveys and soundings.

It is believed in some quarters here that Germany will adopt drastic measures against Denmark if this State refuses to join Germany and Russia against Sweden in the efforts to make the Baltic a "Mare Clausum."

THE PROSPECTS OF PEACE.

Christiania, Feb. 17.—Stories which have appeared in the newspapers lately have exaggerated the importance of the exchange of views going on since last November between the governments of States bordering on the Baltic Sea, as well as the States of Western Europe.

In addition to partial international agreements, there are alliances and ententes which assure general peace, and the balance of power, the effect of which has been strengthened by the happy understanding arrived at between Great Britain and Russia, and by the visit of the German Emperor to England.

Prominent Divine Has Passed Away

Last Friday one of Ottawa's most respected sons, and a gentleman well known in the city, in the person of Rev. Dr. Wilson, field superintendent of the Christian and Missionary Alliance of New York, passed away in Atlanta, Ga. The late Dr. Wilson was about 70 years of age and, after receiving his education at Trinity College, Toronto, was appointed curate of St. George's church, Kingston. He had been in New York for the past twenty years. He often visited Peterborough, the last time about two years ago when he spoke at Bethany Tabernacle. The cause of death was pneumonia.

Lindsay Dealers at Lager Heads

Lindsay Post:—Mr. Jones, who sells wood in town, went to his baker and asked for a loaf of bread, demanding that it be stamped for fullweight. After Jones had gone the baker went out to inspect two cords of wood for which he had paid Jones $12; on looking for the stamp indicating full measure he found none. On measuring it he found the wood forty-four inches instead of forty-eight inches long—just one-twelfth short, or $1 worth. Should not the police see that Mr. Jones stamps his wood full measure? The above is a true local incident.

Lakefield Man Victim to Spite

Lakefield News: On the night of January 12th Mr. Geo. G. Hendren's stable was entered by some party who nearly ruined one of his black horses by stabbing it with a knife. On Jan. 29th, while Mr. Hendren and his family were attending the Oddfellows' concert, some miscreant entered his furniture store and did considerable damage to a quantity of goods with a knife. It is to be hoped that the party who is guilty of such despicable conduct will be speedily caught and punished.

VARSITY TO CHALLENGE SENIOR O. H. A. CHAMPIONS.

Toronto, Feb. 17.—The Varsity hockey team, senior intercollegiate champions, will challenge the senior champions of the O. H. A., whoever they may be, for the amateur championship of Canada.

Home-and-home games will be requested, goals to count on the round.

A gentleman prominent in Provincial hockey circles is contemplating the donation of a cup emblematic of the amateur hockey championship of the Dominion, and these games may be the first struggle for possession of the trophy.

GAME AT QUEBEC BEGAN AT MIDNIGHT.

The Shamrock game at Quebec on Thursday night did not begin until five minutes to twelve, the Montrealers being delayed by a railway accident. It was 1.40 when the game ended, and this established a record in lateness not surpassed by any previous experience in the league. Players, officials and spectators were tired when it was all over, and while it was a novel and unusual experience it seemed that there were but few who possessed any desire for a repetition of the long wait, and the early morning hockey struggle. It is all very well to get out before breakfast and have a constitutional, but this business of getting the exercise the night before is not all that it seems to be.

FLAVELLE LOSES.

Winnipeg, Feb. 17. — Saturday was really spectators' day at the bonspiel, and until midnight the galleries of the rink were crowded, interest being aroused by the Blue Ribbon and International events.

In the latter four Canadian rinks met four from the United States for the Walker trophy, and were defeated by the narrow margin of two shots. Canada was represented by Flavelle, Ontario; Russell, Winnipeg; Chalmers, Deloraine; and McIver, Saskatchewan. Flavelle met defeat at the hands of the redoubtable Bob Dunbar of St. Paul by a score of 10 to 5, but the other games were close. Russell was cut down in the game with Labatt of Minneapolis. McIver tied Stocking of Duluth and Chalmers trimmed Orde of Minneapolis by four shots.

Play in the Blue Ribbon, in which the city curlers meet all comers, began at 9 p.m., eighteen rinks a side. The city champions easily disposed of the visitors, being 43 shots up at the close. Dunbar met his first defeat in the 'spiel at the hands of the Winnipeg Thistle "kid" rink, skipped by McFarlane. Flavelle also was defeated.

Play in the O'Grady Cup will begin as soon as possible. The regulations provide that two from any club may compete, but by mutual agreement among the curlers the Lindsay and Dawson City rinks will be allowed to play together in recognition of their sportsmanship in coming so far. The trophy is a beautiful challenge cup, and if this combination wins it Flavelle will permit Crisp of Dawson to take it north. In that event it is safe to say that it will stay there for some time.

Fairbanks, Alaska, is the latest curling club to affiliate with the Manitoba branch. They have 42 members up here, and intend to send a rink to next year's bonspiel.

BOWLING PROTEST THROWN OUT.

Cincinnati, Feb. 17.—Although they had appeared as substitutes for the National bowling championships, Smith and Dunbar of the Corinthians, Newark, N.J., have won the international two-man championship. They had defeated the champions of the Canadian, the American and the Western Bowling Associations, but their final victory depended on the decision of a protest that was filed against them on Saturday. The National Association champions were unable to compete, and had designated Smith and Dunbar, who were their team mates in five-men team contests, to take their places. Protest was filed against the entrance of any except the actual champions in the contest. President Herrmann, however, decided to-day that the protest against Smith and Dunbar does not stand. He declared that any congress of bowling associations had a right to be represented in this tournament, and could designate members of the organization to participate in the championship events of the tournament.

AUTO MANIACS WENT THROUGH BUFFALO.

Buffalo, N.Y., Feb. 17.—The Italian car in the New York-to-Paris race, driven by Siboria, arrived in Buffalo at 1.45 this a.m., and after a short time spent in a garage departed for Erie, Pa., its occupants being under the impression that the two cars preceding it had continued on their way westward. An effort was made to overtake the Italians but without avail. After a conference it was decided that the French car, driven by St. Chaffray, and the American car should proceed to-day, and the French car departed at 11 o'clock.

The American car left at three o'clock this afternoon.

After the freezing weather of yesterday and to-day it is expected that the roads will be found in fair condition.

Wages Award--Board of Investigation's Interesting Report

In the Telegraphers' Case--Employers Have Interests--Not to The Public's Advantage Properties Should be Made Unprofitable

The following, which will appear in the February "Labor Gazette," is from the Report of the Board of Investigation under the Lemieux Act, composed of Prof. A. Shortt, J. G. O'Donoghue and W. Nesbitt, K. C., which recently adjusted the dispute between the Grand Trunk Railway and the Telegraph operators:—

"The board were much impressed by the suggestions that the same board had recommended a higher rate of pay to the telegraphers in the service of the Canadian Pacific than they were prepared to recommend in the present instance. We are glad to be able to report that the parties appreciated the reasons why the members of the board could not in this instance see their way to the recommendation of any higher rate than that finally agreed upon between the parties, and we desire to put upon record some of the reasons why we came to this conclusion.

"We thought, under the present conditions, that the offer of the company in the matter of increase of wages was all that could be justified. There are many considerations entering into the question. In our view, there is the right of the men to receive a living wage, and that right is paramount. The workman is entitled to get a fair day's wage for a fair day's work. What, however, often seems to be ignored is that capital and labor are both necessary in order to produce a profit, whether it is in the operation of railways, in manufacturing, or in any other branch of trade. The aim of the worker should be to secure a fair share of this profit. But there is also to be considered the position of the man who advances the money to enable the undertaking to be carried on which gives employment. He, too, is entitled to receive a return for his money and his risk. A hundred millions of the capital stock of the Grand Trunk Railway receives no dividend whatever. If such dividends on the preferred stock as are now being paid are still further reduced by the wages bill being increased, what must necessarily follow? The company cannot obtain further money for expansion, for it can be more remuneratively employed in other undertakings. This certainly would be a disadvantage to the vast numbers who find employment on railways. Then there is the constant demand of the public for the betterment of the service and equipment, for increase of facilities, the bettering of the roadbed and general improvement in the accommodations. These can only be obtained where the parties asked to advance the money can see some possibility of return for the advance. Our experience on a number of these boards has led us to the conclusion that there seems to be an oversight on the part of the public of two things: First, that there is a continual demand for increase of expenditure upon the part of the company for facilities, and, second, a continual demand for a reduction of the tariffs which furnish the monies necessary to provide these facilities and accommodations. The growth of earnings is not keeping pace proportionately with the growth of expenses. If the operating expenses and the wages to employees must be increased from time to time, and the public so demand, very serious considerations must be given to the proposals for the reduction of freight and passenger rates, inasmuch as every reduction directly affects the ability of the railways to pay the wages asked by their employees. There is no doubt that the cost of living has greatly increased, and that the employees of a railway company are entitled to be better compensated to meet such increased cost, but surely they are not entitled to be compensated at the sole expense of people who have invested their money and who would in return be deprived of their means of livelihood. The public should bear their share. The railway employee spends his money for the benefit of every other member of the community from farmer to manufacturer, and if the employee has to obtain more money to meet his increased cost of living, other classes of the community who receive the benefit of the money he spends should contribute their share towards enabling him to get the money he has to spend; and it is for the foregoing reasons that, under the present conditions, and having in view all the surrounding circumstances, we thought that the offer of increase made by the officials of the Grand Trunk Railway Company had gone as far as could be justified though not necessarily to the limit which the telegraphers ought to receive under other circumstances. The deterring of the investment of capital in railway undertakings would certainly not be a benefit to the community at large, and if the property of lenders is to be practically confiscated between the demand of the public on the one side, and the demand of the employees on the other, it must lead to a general reduction in wages or a shrinkage in the number of employees, with a much greater ultimate loss to labor. It has been suggested that this state of affairs may be met by the state becoming sole owner of the railways. To accomplish this the capital necessary to make railways and work them would still have to be found. The mere fact of the state ownership does not bring capital down from the skies like the manna to the Israelites in the desert. If borrowed by the state, interest must be paid for it, and probably at a higher rate than the state now has to pay, for two reasons, first, because of being larger borrowers, second, because of the risk incidental to industrial undertakings. If raised by taxation, this would be nothing more than getting it from the collective resources of the country. The wages, other than the living wage before referred to, which are paid by railway companies to their employees must, therefore, disguise it as we may, depend upon what a company earns after the interest on capital employed is paid. This may equally be said of all industrial and commercial undertakings, and no amount of vague philanthropic talk can alter this fact any more than it can alter the fact that two and two make four.

The Olmpic Committee Asks Government for $35,000

Ottawa, Feb. 17.—After considerable delay, the Canadian Olympic Committee got down to business on Saturday, and made a splendid start in the huge task which confronts them in preparing an adequate representation for the games in England this year.

MET THE PREMIER.

By a rearrangement, Sir Wilfrid Laurier was waited upon in the morning, and the needs of the committee in their great national undertaking was presented by the Central Committee. In reply, the Premier declared that it was not necessary to urge on him the desirability of showing the world what Canada could do, as he was already a convert to that view. He told the deputation that, in the absence of the Finance Minister, and without consultation with his colleagues, they would not expect a definite and immediate reply, but he promised early consideration, at the same time reminding them that hon. Mr. Fielding, as the holder of the Government purse-strings, was inclined as a rule to draw them tight. The committee, however, were given every reason to hope for a very favorable action on the part of the Government, and there is but little doubt but that a grant will be forthcoming. The committee asked for the sum of $35,000, and are confident of securing it.

DECIDED BY MAY 30TH.

Taking up the Olympic programme as sent out from England, the committee arranged track and field athletic events in this manner:

Not later than May 30 try-out meets for elimination purposes will be held at Halifax, St. John, Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg, Calgary and Vancouver. The meets at St. John and Halifax will be conducted by the M. P. A. A., an affiliated body of the C. A. A. U. That at Montreal will be handled by the Federation, and in all the other cities by the C.A.A.U. In all cases the representatives of the Olympic Committee will co-operate. Following these, two final sets of games will be held at Montreal and Toronto.

All the events will be the same as on the Olympiad programme. For instance, instead of 100 yard race, the distance will be 100 metres or 109.3 yards.

At the former place, where the M. A.A.A. has a splendid track, will be decided the following events:

Running—100, 200, 400, 800 and 1,500 metres, flat; 110 and 400 metres, hurdles.

Jumping—Standing broad, standing high, running broad, running high and hop, step and jump.

MARATHON AT TORONTO.

At Toronto will be decided the finals for the following events:

Steeplechase, 3,200 metres; 5 mile run; 3,500 metres walk; 10 miles walk. Marathon race of 25 miles and 600 yards; pole vault; hammer, shot-putting; discus; javelin 3 miles team race and relay medley race of 1,600 metres.

All provincial governments and councils of large cities will be asked for grants. Mr. Sark was appointed convener for Ontario.

Toronto, Feb. 18.—President Stark, of the C. A. A. U., was in a very cheerful mood as regards the Olympic outlook, when seen by a reporter this morning.

$40,000 PLEDGED.

"The meeting at Ottawa on Saturday was a very great success and an excellent foundation was laid for the big undertaking. We were well received by the Premier and we expect to receive a very liberal grant from the Government. We have figured out that we will need at least $60,000 to finance the trip as from 75 to 100 athletes representing all branches of sport will be taken to England. With a large grant from the Dominion Government to start the ball rolling we intend to ask the Provincial Governments and most of the larger municipalities for grants. These with the returns from our test games should easily mount up to the sum required.

I think that Toronto was very well treated at the meeting as we secured the big event of all the trials, the 25 mile Marathon. While no definite arrangements have been made for this I think the big event will be held either at the Exhibition grounds or the Woodbine, with the preference given to the latter, as the race could be run over the Kingston road, finishing on the new track. The Kingston road route is an ideal one, as it is the nearest approach to the English course.

A meeting of the C.A.A.U. Board has been called for Saturday evening next when steps will be taken to arrange all these particulars in connection with the tests, etc. From all appearances the committee should make a success of the whole arrangement and the Canadian team an excellent showing.

Daring Holdup in Center of City

As it is understood that application will be made to the police commissioners soon for an augmentation of the force, the seeming necessity for more police was shown on Sunday night when a well known young man of the city was held up between nine and ten o'clock in the heart of the city. It seems that the victim of the two thugs was going home, and on arriving at the corner of Simcoe and Bethune streets was stopped by two men. One of them spoke to him and the other hit him. Not contented with a blow, one of the toughs drew a revolver and held it at the young man's head. Fortunately they did not actually rob or continue their assault, but ran away. Constables Mahaffy and Newhall watched the midnight trains on the C. P. R., but no traces of the hold-up man were found.

Backache is Nature's Danger Signal

Prescription If Taken in Time Prevents Kidney Disease

More people succumb each year to some form of kidney trouble than any other cause. The slightest form of kidney derangement often develops into Bright's kidney disease, diabetes or dropsy. When either of these diseases are suspected the sufferer should at once seek the best medical attention possible. Consult only a good, first-class physician, have patent medicines alone.

There are many of the lesser symptoms of kidney trouble which can be treated at home as stated by a well-known authority. For some of these, such as backache, pain in the region of the kidneys, weak bladder, frequency, (especially at night) painful scalding and other urinary troubles, try the following simple home remedy: Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. These simple ingredients are harmless and can be obtained at any good prescription pharmacy, and anyone can mix them by shaking them well in a bottle. The dose for adults is a teaspoonful after each meal and again at bedtime.

There is no better general remedy known to relieve all forms of rheumatism, either because it acts directly upon the kidneys and blood. It cleans the clogged up pours in the kidneys so they can filter and strain from the blood the poisonous uric acid and waste matter which if not eliminated remain in the blood, decompose and pile about the joints and muscular tissues, causing the untold suffering and deformity of rheumatism.

Backache is nature's signal, notifying the sufferer that the kidneys are not acting properly. "Take care of your kidneys," is now the physician's advice to his patients.

Lindsay's Progressive Collegiate Institute

Two Months' Course in Agriculture a New Feature

The Lindsay Post of Thursday says:—To-day at the Collegiate Institute, the Two Months' Course in Agriculture opened with several in attendance. However, not all who handed in applications have yet arrived, and there must still be many young men who could, with great profit to themselves, find time to take the course, and with many others start in on Monday next, February 17th.

This is a special course arranged for farmers and farmers' sons who cannot be spared for a longer period from the farm. The course opened on Wednesday, February 12th, and will continue until April 10th, or until those taking the course are required for "spring work."

The course will be made as practical as possible and will comprise animal husbandry or stock raising; dairying, or the formation, care, and management of a dairy herd; field husbandry, or the growing of farm crops; horticulture, or the growing of fruits and vegetables; agricultural botany, a study of plants, of grains, grasses and weeds; farm bookkeeping and farm management. Instruction in these subjects will be given during regular school hours, 9 to 4 o'clock, and the classes will be conducted in much the same manner as other Collegiate classes.

The expenses of this course will be; Tuition fees (the same as for all courses at the Collegiate), $1 per month; books, $"Judging Live Stock," $1.50; "Canadian Dairying", 90c., "Soils and Crops of the Farm," 90c., "Veterinary Elements," $1.40. These together with board and travelling expenses will probably total about $30.

This course is open to men of all ages. The lectures will be of a practical nature, and the course will prove very helpful to farmers, and farmers' sons.

Trouble Where Dr. Hatton Lives

It will be remembered by our readers, as well as known personally by Dr. E. F. Hatton's many friends here, that this former local man holds a prominent government position in Grenada, W. I. I. Dr. Hatton has sent to friends here a copy of the St. George's (Grenada) Chronicle, containing an account of the attempted murder of Grenada public officers by a colored servant. It seems that the policy of developing education amongst the negroes has carried its penalty with it. The unexpected nature of the attack and the sympathy of the crowd with their fellow negro has caused profound alarm. The alleged agent was wholly unimportant. Agitators gradually fanned this order into a slight upon the negro. We sincerely hope that the genial doctor will come to no harm during the troublesome times there.

A pair of spectacles, picked up on George street on Sunday afternoon, awaits an owner at the police station.

RACQUET CHAMPIONSHIPS.

Boston, Mass., Feb. 17. — A well fought match, in which R. Fincke of New York, defeated G. A. Thorn, of Chicago, opened the National Racquet Championship at the Tennis and Racquet Club to-day. The tournament will extend through the week.

Fincke, who is the present title holder, found Thorn a strong player, and four sets, two of which went to double figures, were necessary to decide the contest. The score was, 11—15, 15—6, 15—11,

New York, Feb. 17. — Charles W. Morse, the former banker and financial promoter, who was arrested on landing here on Sunday, was arraigned before Justice Dowling to-day on two charges of grand larceny and misappropriation of funds of the Mercantile National Bank.

Through his counsel he pleaded not guilty, and asked for a postponement of two weeks, with permission to change his plea if desired.

The court fixed the hearing for next Monday.

For the Woman That's Fat

A Detroit physician says that the strongest and safest mixture a fat woman who wants to get thin can use is one-half ounce Marmola (get it in the original half ounce package), 3-4 ounce Fluid Extract Cascara Aromatic, and 4 3-4 ounces Syrup Simplex. The proper amount to take is a teaspoonful after meals and at bedtime.

These ingredients may be obtained from any druggist at small cost and make a combination that is not only excellent as a fat reducer, being able, it is claimed, to take off a pound a day without causing wrinkles, but is also a splendid help to the system as a whole, regulating the stomach and bowels (where the fat person's troubles begin), and clearing the skin of pimples and blotches. No exercise is required to help the remedy in its work, and, best of all, no dieting is necessary while taking it—you can eat what you like.

Awful conditions

London, Feb. 17.—Father Bernard Vaughan, a brother of the late Cardinal Vaughan, preaching in the Jesuit Church here yesterday, during the course of a powerful plea in behalf of the bill which will come before the House of Commons this week against "Sweat Shops," gave a graphic illustration of the manner in which the poor workers in the east end of London are compelled to live.

In a small room, he said, that ought to be occupied by no more than two persons, there were twelve machines working all day and late in the evening. Then the machines were removed and straw mattresses laid on the floor, men being admitted to sleep.

New York, Feb. 17.—Miss Theodora Shonts, at her home, No. 123 East Thirty-fifth street, at noon on Saturday, in the presence of her friends, many of whom were internationally prominent, became the bride of the Duc de Chaulnes. Mgr. Lavelle of St. Patrick's Cathedral officiated at the ceremony.

From the Duke himself, the bride received a magnificent tiara studded with rubies and diamonds. Theodore P. Shonts, the father of the young woman, supplemented the Duke's gift by giving his daughter a collar composed of rubies and diamonds to match the tiara.

Miss Margaret Shonts, sister of the bride, ordered a forty horse-power automobile for the Duchess. The car is to be delivered in Paris.

Thomas F. Ryan's gift to the bride was a splendid lace fan, the sticks of which are combined of carved pearl, inlaid with gold.

Miss Shonts received seventeen fans of rare workmanship. Among the unique presents are several solid gold dishes, exquisitely wrought.

Miss Shonts' dresses were made by Worth in Paris. Her wedding gown was made of heavy satin, trimmed with point lace, and had a court train.

The entire second floor of the Shonts home was decorated for the wedding. The big doors between the various apartments were thrown open, so that a vista of flowers was visible, with the altar at the end of the perspective. Every room was able to see the solemn function. Members of the diplomatic corps came from Washington to attend the wedding. Mme. Jusserand, wife of the French Ambassador, was among the guests.

PETERBOROUGH, FEBRUARY 15 1908

THE FINANCIAL SITUATION

The country has passed through the 4th of February, the day on which business men bound themselves to cash up for goods bought last fall, without taking a copper. The wholesale houses report, everything considered, very satisfactory payments. There was anything but an avalanche of failures, notwithstanding the seriousness of the situation growing out of a tight money market and a reduction in wage-earning capacity in all our industrial centres. The temper of the country has been sorely tried in its determination to put on a good face in spite of discouraging conditions. Only the bed-rock solidity of our business interests has saved us from most disastrous consequences. Our people have believed in their solvency and relied upon our marvellous natural resources to convince capitalists that Canada has been given none too free a rein in the work of development that has been going on for the past few years. We have not been boastful, but we have shown a spirit of self-reliance that has been well received in foreign financial circles. The results of the 4th have undoubtedly favorably impressed the bank managers, who have lately cut credits to the bone and compelled a clearing of the decks for future action. There is little likelihood that conservative business interests will take any liberties with a rising market merely to force the return of "good times."

PUNISH GUILTY

W. T. R. Preston, Canadian Trade Commissioner in Japan, reports to the Department of Trade and Commerce at Ottawa, the delivery in the Orient of inferior Canadian butter. In fact from the reports of the condition of the butter it was positively bad. The goods are the product of Western Canada and were sent out of the country labelled as the real Canadian article. Such a reprehensible practice is nothing short of treason, and the parties who shipped the goods should be summarily punished. Canada has spent millions of dollars in educating her people to produce nothing but a fancy article of dairy commodities, and a dishonest shipment may be the means of so injuring the good name of Canadian products that incalculable harm may be done. At this particular time when Canadians are putting forth strenuous efforts to secure a share of the Oriental trade a consignment of inferior goods will go a long way towards retarding the development of sound trade relations, and an example ought to be made of the offenders similar to the prosecution of the Picton fruit dealers who sent a shipment of inferior apples to the Old Country. It would seem as if some Canadian dealers are immune to the campaign of education against such despicable methods, and nothing but a strong inoculation of the bacteria of Canadian criminal law will bring them to a realization of the great injury Canada suffers by such persistent infractions in this regard.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

News in Brief

Adrian, Mo., Feb. 15.—An explosion of a boiler in the basement of the Public School to-day tore away the floor of the primary department and precipitated a teacher and 60 pupils into the basement, burning and scalding many of them frightfully. The teacher and half of the pupils sustained severe injuries. Many of the children were taken out in an unconscious condition, and some of the larger boys engaged in the work of rescue were overcome by smoke.

A son of M. D. Spangler suffered the most serious injuries, his hands being blown almost off and his body scalded. Miss Maud Morgan, the teacher, was found under a pile of hot cinders and other rubbish. She was severely burned. The son of William Bullock was thrown through a window and severely cut. The older boys of the school jumped into the basement at the risk of their lives and continued their efforts at rescue until every child was found.

The cause of the explosion is unknown. The building is a two-storey brick, containing ten rooms. The property damage was $2,000.

Cobalt, Feb. 15.—Fred Anders, a clerk in the Cobalt freight office of the T. & N. O. Railway, shot and killed himself at 12.30 p.m. to-day.

Anders sent a bullet from a 32-calibre Smith & Wheson revolver into his head and died within half an hour. The remaining five chambers were loaded.

He was found about a quarter to one by W. H. Hickey, the local manager of the freight department, and Charles Reekie.

He left a note directing that his body be forwarded to E. B. White, Grand Rapids, Mich.

He was thirty-three years of age and a widower.

No cause is known for his act.

Buffalo, N.Y., Feb. 15.—The waters of Buffalo and Scaraquada Creeks in the southern and northern sections of this city, respectively, overflowed their banks early to-day, and at 10 o'clock there is from two to three feet of water in the streets. Street car traffic in those sections has been practically abandoned.

Many cellars are flooded, fires in furnaces extinguished and thousands of dollars damage has been done to property.

ONE FATALITY.

Utica, N.Y., Feb. 15.—Harry Rankin, 30 years old, engineer at Remington Arms Company plant, Ilion, was swept away in a stream at that village this afternoon and drowned. He attempted to open a floodgate to a sluice way when a chunk of ice was dashed against the gate and Rankin was thrown headlong into the stream. The body has not been recovered.

DANGER MARK PASSED AT PITTSBURG.

Pittsburg, Pa., Feb. 15. — The Allegheny, Monongahela, Ohio, Youghiogheny and Kiskiminetas Rivers are slowly spreading over the low lands of Pittsburg and Western Pennsylvania points to-day. The danger mark of 22 feet will be reached by noon, and the local U. S. weather bureau predicts a stage of thirty feet by nightfall. Nineteen feet was reached at nine o'clock. It is raining heavily.

The damage to river craft and property located near the rivers is already great. Large ice gorges in the Allegheny and Youghiogheny Rivers above this city are momentarily expected to break, wrecking and demolishing craft in their path. Some alarm is also felt for a number of bridges.

At Wheeling, W. Va., and Steubenville, Ohio, a serious flood is expected to occur. Word from Steubenville to-day says that a stage of 40 feet will be reached there by Monday morning or sooner.

At points here the high water has risen to the ground floor of business houses and dwellings. Throughout the night hundreds of people were actively engaged removing their household goods to places of safety.

IN NEW YORK STATE.

Utica, N.Y., Feb. 15.—A thaw that has continued since Wednesday followed by warm rain last night, has melted a considerable portion of the great body of snow covering Central and Northern New York, and the tracts of land that are unprotected by forests are discharging quantities of water into the valleys.

The business section of Ilion is under water, which is in some places three feet deep. Dynamite is being used on ice jams, but the water is still rising.

A special from Gouverneur, N.Y., says the town is almost entirely flooded, and many houses have been rendered uninhabitable. The river continues to rise and a serious situation is threatened. A freshet is sweeping through the valleys in Allegheny county.

SPRINGFIELD, OHIO, FLOODED.

Springfield, Ohio, Feb. 15. — Buck Creek is higher than since 1898 and fully 150 houses in this city are flooded. No lives have been lost, but boats were kept busy all night carrying people out of their submerged homes. All suburban traction lines entering the city have been out of commission since nine o'clock last night.

The Sandusky division of the Big Four railroad has no trains running, there being one or two bad washouts between this city and Urbana.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

Sealed Tenders addressed to the undersigned, marked, on the envelope 'Tender for Construction,' will be received at the office of the Commissioners of the Transcontinental Railway, at Ottawa, until twelve o'clock, noon, of Tuesday, the 10th day of March, 1908, for the work required for the construction, in accordance with the plans, profiles and specifications of the Commissioners, of the following sections of the Transcontinental Railway, viz:—

(1) District 'A'.—From a point designated on the plans of the Commissioners, about the 68th mile west of Moncton, to the crossing of the Intercolonial Railway at or about mile 97.7, a distance of about 29.7 miles.

(2) District 'A'.—From a point designated on the plans of the Commissioners, at or about the crossing of the Intercolonial Railway by the Transcontinental Railway at mile 97.7 west of Moncton to the Tobique River, at or about mile 165.7 less one mile, a distance of about 67 miles.

(3) District 'A'.—From a point designated on the plans of the Commissioners, at or near the Tobique River, to a point shown on the said plans about 2 1-2 miles west of the Town of Grand Falls, in the Province of New Brunswick, a distance of about 31.5 miles.

(4) District 'B'.—From a point designated on the plans of the Commissioners, at or near the boundary line between the Provinces of Quebec and New Brunswick, westerly a distance of about 52.4 miles.

(5) District 'D'.—From a point designated on the plans of the Commissioners, about eight miles west of the Abitibi River crossing, in the Province of Ontario, westerly for a distance of about 140 miles.

(6) District 'E'.—From a point designated on the plans of the Commissioners, about 19 1-2 miles west of the crossing of Mud River, near Lake Nepigon, in the Province of Ontario, easterly for a distance of about 75 miles.

Plans, profiles and specifications may be seen in the office of the Chief Engineer of the Commissioners at Ottawa; also in the offices of the District Engineers concerned, viz:—Guy C. Dunn, St. John, N. B.; A. E. Doucet, Quebec, P. Q.; John Ayles, Acting District Engineer, North Bay, Ont.; and T. S. Armstrong, Nepigon, Ont.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made in duplicate, and on the printed forms supplied by the Commissioners.

A separate tender must be submitted for each section.

Tenderers shall not be in any way entitled to rely upon the classification, or any other information given by any person on behalf of the Commissioners; and before submitting any tender, bidders should make a careful examination of the plans, profiles, drawings and specifications and read the forms to be executed, and fully inform themselves as to the quantity and quality of materials, and character of workmanship required; and are understood to accept, and agree to be bound by, the terms and conditions in the form of contract, specifications, etc., annexed to the form of tender.

Each tender must be signed and sealed by all the parties to the tender, and witnessed, and be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered bank of the Dominion of Canada, payable to the order of the Commissioners, of the Transcontinental Railway, as follows:—

For Section No. 2, District 'A'...	100,000
For Section No. 3, District 'A'...	75,000
For Section No. 4, District 'B'...	100,000
For Section No. 6, District 'E'...	100,000

Any person whose tender is accepted shall within ten days after the acceptance thereof furnish such additional approved security as may be required by the Commissioners; sign the contract, specifications, and other documents required to be signed by the said Commissioners; and, in any case of refusal or failure on the part of the party whose tender is accepted to complete the whose tender is accepted to complete and execute a contract with the said Commissioners, and to furnish the additional approved security within ten days after the acceptance of the tender, the said cheque shall be forfeited to the Commissioners as liquidated damages for such refusal or failure and all contracts rights acquired by the acceptance of the tender shall be forfeited. The cheques deposited by parties whose tenders are accepted will be deposited to the credit of the Receiver General of Canada as part of the security for the due and faithful performance of the contract according to its terms. Cheques deposited by parties whose tender are rejected will be returned within ten days after the signing of the contract.

'All mechanics, labourers, or other persons who perform labour for the purposes of the construction of the works hereby contracted for, shall be paid such wages as are generally accepted as current for competent workmen in the district in which the work is being performed, and if there is no current rate in such district, then a fair and reasonable rate; and, in the event of a dispute arising as to what is the current or a fair and reasonable rate, it shall be determined by the Commissioners, whose decision shall be final.'

'This agreement is subject to the regulations now in force, or which may at any time hereafter be in force during the construction of the works hereby contracted for, made under the authority of the Department of Labour, and which are, or shall be, applicable to such works.' (The schedule of minimum wages determined upon by said Department will form part of the contract).

The contractor shall in connection with the whole of the said work, as far as practicable, use only material, machinery, plant, supplies, and rolling stock manufactured or produced in Canada, provided the same can be obtained as cheaply, and upon as good terms, in Canada as elsewhere, having regard to quality and price.'

The contractor shall conform to the fire regulations adopted by the Commissioners, and also to the laws and regulations respecting fires in the different provinces wherein the work is being performed.

The right is reserved to reject any or all tenders.

By order,
P. E. RYAN,
Secretary.

TRENT CANAL
ONTARIO-RICE LAKE DIVISION
SECTION NO. 3

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

Sealed Tenders addressed to the undersigned and endorsed "Tender for Trent Canal," will be received until 16 o'clock on Thursday, 12th March, 1908, for the works connected with the construction of Section No. 3, Ontario-Rice Lake Division of the Canal.

Plans, specifications, and the form of the contract to be entered into, can be seen on an after the 5th February, 1908, at the office of the Chief Engineer of the Department of Railways and Canals, Ottawa, at the office of the Superintending Engineer, Trent Canal, Peterborough, Ont., and at the office of Mr. J. B. Brophy, Division Engineer, Trenton, Ont., at which places forms of tender may be obtained.

Parties tendering will be required to accept the fair wages Schedule prepared or to be prepared by the Department of Labor, which Schedule will form part of the contract.

Contractors are requested to bear in mind that tenders will not be considered, unless made strictly in accordance with the printed forms, and in the case of firms, unless there are attached the actual signatures, the nature of the occupation, and place of residence of each member of the firm.

An accepted bank cheque for the sum of $10,000 must accompany each tender, which sum will be forfeited, if the party tendering declines entering into contract for the work, at the rates stated in the offer submitted.

The cheque thus sent in will be returned to the respective contractors whose tenders are not accepted.

The advertisement dated the 16th January, 1908, is hereby cancelled.

The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

A Business Proposition!

FOR BUSINESS MEN AND WOMEN

I want business men and women who have money to invest to write me for particulars.

I have an absolutely clean and safe deal that has been tested and proved by actual experience.

It will pay over $540 yearly income on every $1,000 invested, (over $100 yearly on each $200 invested) yet is not a racing or gambling scheme, but a straight, legitimate, profitable, honest business you would be proud to be identified with.

It needs more money to run it on a large scale, hence this offer to you who have money and the business sense and acumen to share in this good thing.

I have submitted particulars of this deal to the proprietors and editors of this paper; they are business men and have approved it because it is safe, sound and clean, and the promises made are straight and reasonable.

When you read these particulars I believe you will approve and be glad you investigated. No matter if you have $5,000 or $10,000 to invest or only $100 or $200, it applies equally to all. It is a

for Business Men and Women of sense and discrimination. THIS MEANS YOU.

Write at once; write now, before you forget, stating about the amount you have for investment, and I will promptly send you a personal reply with the clearest and most concise facts and particulars.

Good coal stock is a safe and sure investment. Galbraith shares are especially attractive.

Modest Capitalization Large Coal Reserves

This Company organized under the laws of the Northwest Territories of Canada, owns and operates the Galbraith mine located at Lundbreck, Alta. They have four vertical seams of coal traversing their property, aggregating over 40 feet in thickness. Three of these seams are developed to a depth of 350 feet, and as they pass through the Company's lands for nearly a mile, some idea of the amount of coal may be had.

Shipping Steadily

The present output of the mine is about 200 tons per day. These shipments will be rapidly increased, as the C.P.R. allows its cars to be loaded with coal for points in the U. S.

We are selling a limited number of these shares at the extremely low price of

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTHWEST HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an Agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of a homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father or mother.

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing must be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa, of intention to apply for patent.

CONDITIONS IN CANADA.

Labor Gazette Gives Review of the Year 1907.

The January issue of the Labor Gazette contains an extended review of the industrial and labor conditions throughout Canada during the calendar year of 1907. The condition of industry and of general employment is described in the opening paragraph of the article in part as follows:—

During the first nine months of 1907 the general prosperity of trade and industry and the very active conditions of employment that were more pronounced in 1906 than in any previous year in the history of the Dominion were continued without abatement. Prices and wages, which went steadily upward in 1906, reached still higher levels in the spring and summer of 1907.

The Financial Stringency.

With the close of the summer season however, the growing stringency in the money markets of the world began to be felt in Canada in the way of checking the rapid increase in production and equipment, which had been uninterrupted for some time before. The yield of wheat and grain in the Northwest Provinces, and in Ontario also, showed a falling off as compared with 1906, and although the Atlantic fisheries and coal mines had an exceptionally busy year throughout, with labor in active demand, and though the volume of traffic and the earnings of the railway companies were the largest ever recorded, the output of manufactured goods and of the various metals was less in the closing months of the year than in the corresponding season of 1906. The lumber industry both in British Columbia and in Ontario and the eastern Provinces was also quiet throughout the autumn, with preparations under way for a smaller cut than last year.

Unemployed in Large Centres.

With the close of the season of outdoor activity, more than the usual number of unemployed were reported in certain of the larger centres, though the prolongation of mild weather in western Canada enabled an unusually large amount of land to be prepared for the season of 1908. During the closing weeks of the year there was a noticeable improvement in the general tone of the labor market and in industrial and commercial circles following upon the somewhat easier financial conditions. The outlook for 1908 was regarded as very favorable in view of the large amount of railway construction and other work in progress, the vast extent of land still unoccupied in western Canada, and the prevailing opinion that the money shortage would be overcome.

Trade Disputes During the Year.

The issue also contains a special review of the trade disputes occurring in Canada during 1907. Altogether, 149 trade disputes, affecting 34,694 workpeople, and causing a loss of 613,986 working days, occurred in 1907, compared with 138 disputes affecting 36,014 workpeople and causing a loss of 433,775 working days in 1906.

Oldest Protestant Church.

By far the oldest public building in English-speaking Canada,—St. Paul's, Halifax, is also the oldest Protestant church in that vast region, known yesterday as British North America. Erected in 1749, at the first settlement of the city, and constructed of timbers brought from Boston, the old church remains to-day in a perfect state of preservation and apparently good for at least another century. It is modelled upon the plan of St. Mary's church, Vere street, London, and possesses a pair of bells sent out from England, to judge from their tone, of very ancient workmanship. Underneath the church are extensive vaults containing the remains of a number of prominent personages, including the two Bishop Inglis, father and son. The vaults are now closed, but are still accessible to anyone of a mildly adventurous disposition.

The church contains between forty and fifty mural tablets to deceased clergymen, statesmen, and officers of the army and navy who have died on the station, and a number of "hatchments" or "escutcheons" also adorn the walls. There is a magnificent service of solid silver communion plates, presented by the founder, George II. In the vestry hang a number of rare and valuable engravings—Halifax in 1760, Bishop Inglis, Rev. Dr. Breynton, the second rector, in wig and gown. The vestry minute books and registers date about a century and a quarter back, and are most interesting.

Since its founding St. Paul's church has had eight rectors. The present rector, Ven. Archdeacon Armitage, Ph.D., is an Ontario man, as was also his predecessor, Rev. Dyson Hague, now of London, Ont. A great work is being carried on in this venerable parish, which, in point of membership and parochial activities, is the foremost in the Maritime Provinces.

The Very Thing.

The following story is being told about one of the professors at St. Michael's College, Toronto. He induced a Protestant friend, with whom he had many an argument, to accompany him to a Christmas service at St. Michael's Cathedral. It was this friend's first experience of such a service in a Catholic cathedral, and the odor of incense and the soft cadence of the music quite enraptured him.

Leaning over to his friend, he whispered: "Doesn't this beat the devil?"

"I am so glad you think so," smiled the professor. That is just what we are holding the service for."

Face Shows Habitual Worry.

Habitual worry shows itself in the action of the facial nerve—the nerve of expression, as anatomists call it—producing lines which in course of time become permanent. The same is true of many other emotions and states of mind; and those which are dominant in the life of the individual will ere long produce permanent changes in the face. The secret of the beauty which age cannot wither is to possess a beautiful mind; chin-straps and depilatories and electricity and massage and cosmetics are poor makeshifts compared with this.

Heart Strength

Heart Strength, or Heart Weakness, means Nerve Strength, or Nerve Weakness—nothing more. Positively, not one weak heart in a hundred is, in fact, actually diseased. It is almost always a hidden tiny little nerve that really is all at fault. This observe nerve—the Cardiac, or Heart Nerve—simply needs, and must have, more power, more stability, more controlling, more governing strength. Without that the Heart must continue to fail, and the stomach and kidneys also have these same controlling nerves.

This clearly explains why, as a medicine, Dr. Shoop's Restorative has in the past done so much for weak and ailing Hearts. Dr. Shoop first sought the cause of all this painful, palpitating, suffocating heart distress. Dr. Shoop's Restorative—this popular prescription—is alone directed to these weak and wasting nerve centers. It builds Nerve-strength; it offers real, genuine heart help.

If you would have strong Hearts, strong digestion, strengthen these nerves—re-establish them as needed, with

This APPEAL ...is for... You

The Great Provincial Charity, The Hospital for Sick Children, Calls On You For Aid.

Remember that this Hospital is not a local institution, but Provincial.

"I LIKE PICTURES"

It cares for every sick child in the Province of Ontario whose parents cannot afford to pay for treatment.

Busy dollars are better than idle tears. The sympathy that Weeps is good, but the Hospital has to have the sympathy that Works.

Last year there were 1063 patients admitted. Of these 378 came from 254 places outside of Toronto—all were children of poor people who could not afford to pay for treatment of their little ones.

Each child was in the Hospital 47¼ days at a cost of $1.31 each per day, or $62.22 for the 47¼ days stay.

If your dollar could straighten the feet of a little boy or girl with club feet, you would gladly give it, and your dollar will do that. There were 79 cases of club feet treated last year. Out of the 79, about 50 were from the country.

MASSAGE

BEFORE. AFTER.

If you know of any child in your county who is sick or has club feet, and whose parents can not afford to pay, send the name to the Hospital Secretary.

The stock books are open. Won't you let the Hospital write your name down for a few shares in Heaven's own work of healing little children?

A great mine of Mercy—the mining stock that always pays dividends—is bought with the money that helps The Hospital for Sick Children to extract the Gold of Life from the Quartz of Death.

EYE GAMES.

Please send contributions to J. Ross Robertson, Chairman, or to Douglas Davidson, Sec.-Treas., of the Hospital for Sick Children, College Street, Toronto.

GET MY REMEDY!

Is Dr. Hamilton's Advice to All Tired People

You are pale because your blood is weak and thin.

You can't have color and health till you get more blood, and better blood.

Health isn't possible so long as your liver and kidneys are inactive, and this is the trouble with the majority of anaemic pallid women.

My remedy overcomes your difficulty.

It is purely vegetable, composed of health-giving extracts like Mandrake, Butternut, and Dandelion, in combination with other agents that I have proved to be necessary in renovating the blood.

This wonderful remedy I call Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut.

I guarantee they will restore health and color to all women who suffer from anaemia and lack of blood tone.

It's safe for me to guarantee my pills because I know by experience just what they will do.

If you haven't used my pills now is the time to do so. They are in every drug store and are easily procured. Sold only in yellow boxes.

Remember the name—Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut—25c. per box or five boxes for $1.00, and refuse a substitute.

Injured in Havelock

Mr. William Godsart, a C.P.R. employee at Peterborough, met with an unfortunate accident on Saturday in Havelock. While engaged in coaling a locomotive he was caught between the locomotive and the coal shutes and severely bruised. He will be confined to the house for a few weeks.—Lindsay Post.

School Medals on Exhibition

The medals donated by Mrs. J. R. Stratton for drawing in the public schools and being awarded under the direction of the Women's Art Association will be on view in the window of Clark's jewellery store, corner of George and Brock streets. The donating of the medals has aroused a great deal of interest among the pupils.

Stop that tickling Cough! Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure will surely stop it, and with perfect safety. It is so thoroughly harmless Dr. Shoop tells mothers to use nothing else even with very young babies. The wholesome green leaves and tender stems of a lung healing mountainous shrub furnish the curative properties of Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. It calms the cough, and heals the sensitive bronchial membranes. No opium, no chloroform, nothing harsh used to injure or suppress. Demand Dr. Shoop's. Take no other. All Dealers.

At St. Andrew's Church

This is a busy week in St. Andrew's Church, the following meetings being on the slate:

To-day, 3 p.m.—Women's Foreign Missionary Society.

To-day, 8 p.m.—Young Men's Guild open meeting. Lecture by the Rev. Dr. Langfeldt.

To-morrow, 8 p.m. — Prayer meeting.

Friday, 7.30 p.m.—Boys' Guild.

St. Paul's Church Events

Mr. D. B. Moore will read a paper on "Insurance" at the meeting of St. Paul's Young Men's Guild to-night. All the men of the congregation are cordially invited. The regular monthly meeting of the Fraser Mission Band will be held this evening at 7.30 o'clock.

The regular mid-week service will be held to-morrow evening. Rev. Mr. Pogue will continue his series of addresses on "Prayer."

Death of Dr. Fisher in Toronto

The friends of Mr. W. Fisher, Water street, will condole with him over the death of his brother, Dr. J. H. Fisher, who died Saturday at his late residence, 18 St. Patrick street, Toronto. The late Dr. Fisher was raised in the county of Durham and leaves, besides his brother living here, a widow and two children. His fatal illness originated in an attack of influenza, which was followed by blood-poisoning.

I wish that I might talk with all sick men about the actual cause of Stomach, Heart, and Kidney ailments. To explain in person how weak Stomach nerves leads to Stomach weakness, I am sure would interest all. And it is the same with weak Hearts or Weak Kidneys. This is why my prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative—so promptly reaches ailments of the Stomach, Heart, and Kidneys. It is wrong to drug the Stomach or stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. These weak inside nerves simply need more strength. My Restorative is the only prescription made exclusively for these nerves. Next to seeing you personally, will be to mail you free, my new booklet entitled, "What To Do." I will also send samples of my Restorative as well. Write for the book to-day. It will surely interest you. Address Dr. Shoop, Box 8, Racine, Wis. All Dealers.

A woman's social and devotional meeting will be held to-morrow from 3.30 to 4.30 o'clock. The Brotherhood of St. Andrew will hold an open meeting to-morrow evening at eight o'clock.

Pet Owl Commits Suicide

Mr. Charles Dunnett, of the Peterborough Hotel, yesterday was mourning the loss of a splendid female horned owl he purchased about two weeks ago, and which Sunday night departed to that far country where mother mice, frogs nor small birds live in dread of the fearful beak and baleful and unearthly screech of these huge nocturnal birds of prey. The owl was one of the finest ever seen here, and was kept in an immense wire-screened box. The bird did not take kindly to captivity, and, refusing such delicacies as raw liver, sparrows and mice, deliberately committed suicide by starving itself to death. Mr. Dunnett is having the owl stuffed and set up by Mr. Bloomb.

Conservative Club's Kind Offer

In view of the large number of unemployed, and, in a sense, homeless men in the city, the Young Conservative Club has decided upon a philanthropic and appreciated plan for giving such men a comfortable, warm and cosy place wherein to meet during the day time, or, to be exact, from 10 a.m. until 11 p.m. The Club Committee, in response to representations made them, have offered the free use of their comfortable and commodious rooms on George street, just north of R. A. Dutton's fruit store, to all strangers. Such visitors can use the rooms for a meeting place or news exchange about work, etc., and have full use of the magazines and papers.

Local Firm Gets Outside Contracts

Mr. R. G. Sturgeon, of Hutchison Sturgeon Co., of 343 George street, has returned from Delora, Ont., with twelve men. Mr. Sturgeon went with a staff of men last September to Delora to install steam, hydraulic and plumbing work for the Delora Mine and Reduction Co. The local firm has just completed one of the numerous contracts, the last being one of the most extensive the firm has tackled to present date, involving work costing some $127,000. This class of work done by local firms is a good advertisement for Peterborough's industries. The above firm now has on hand signed contracts for plumbing and vacuum system, of heating for the Port Elgin Brush Works, Port Elgin Broom Works, Southampton Chair Co., Southampton Furniture Co., Chesley Furniture Co., Chesley Specialty Co., Berlin Iron Co. and several other firms at a distance.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

It is just a common cold, people say, there's no danger in that. Admitting their statement, then there are uncommon colds, colds which are dangerous; for many a fatal sickness begins with a cold. If we could tell the common cold from the uncommon we could feel quite safe. But we can't. The uncommon variety is rarely recognized until it has fastened its hold on the lungs, and there are symptoms of consumption.

At the first symptoms the careful person will heed the warning by taking a mild laxative; some vegetable pill that will not disturb the system or cause griping. About the best is "Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets." If the cold starts with a cough, and it persists then some local treatment for this condition should be taken. A well known alterative extract, which has been highly recommended by thousands of users, is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. This tonic compound is composed of an extract of roots and herbs and has a soothing effect upon the mucous membrane, allays the irritation and at the same time works in the proper and reasonable way, at the seat of the trouble—the stagnated or poisoned blood.

It contains no alcohol to shrivel up the blood corpuscles, but makes pure rich red blood.

Dr. Pierce's 1000-page illustrated book, "The Common Sense Medical Adviser," is sent free in paper covers on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to pay cost of customs and mailing only. For 50 stamps the cloth-bound volume will be sent. 1008 pages. It was formerly sold for $1.50 per copy. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

FATHER AND SON.

Pathetic Tragedy of the War Between the States.

Not all the sad stories of wartime come from the battlefield. Many a heartbreak is not recorded on the list of the killed and wounded. The civil war knew no more tragic occurrence than the following incident, taken from the New York Sun: A soldier had enlisted from his home in Georgia, where his father remained undisturbed through the struggle. The young man fought through the war without a scratch, save a slight wound which left him a little deaf. This affliction he never mentioned in his letters.

After the surrender he sent his father word that he would reach home about a certain date. Travel then was uncertain, and he could not tell just when he would arrive.

His father prepared to receive him. He had brought out the best plate, which had been secreted for a long time, and with gold which had been exhumed he bought such substantials and delicacies as the southern market at that time afforded. As many of the old time neighbors as were living in the vicinity were invited to the home coming.

The young soldier arrived on the plantation the night before the earliest date he had mentioned. It was late, and the family had retired, but the dog heard the noise and began to bark. The sound roused the father, who rose and got his shotgun. The country was overrun at the time with stragglers and sneak thieves. The father, gun in hand, went to the door, saw the approaching figure and challenged it. The young man, being deaf, made no reply, but still advanced, whereupon the father raised his gun and fired. His son fell, shot through the heart.

It was a pitiful sight to see that almost crazed father carrying his lifeless son into the home which had been made ready to welcome him. The next day the guests arrived. Instead of joyously greeting the returned soldier they gazed at the still form, wrapped in the flag for which the young man had bravely fought. Every private burial ground had in it a grave made by the war, but no funeral like that ever took place in the vicinity or possibly in the whole south.

Entertainment by St. Luke's Church C. G.

The Girls' Auxiliary of St. Luke's Church are taking every precaution to ensure their entertainment of Friday night exceptionally interesting. One feature of the attractions will be a "Hoop Drill" conducted by Miss King, in which twelve young ladies will take part. A play, "St. Luke's Missionary Group," will also be presented. Mr. Kenneth Shook will take part in the programme.

February, 1908, is here and so is

The Pacific Fruit Cooling and Vaporizing Company, Incorporated for the purpose of cooling deciduous fruits and removing moisture from citrus fruits and keeping under cold storage such fruits and other food products from the time of receiving them from the fruit growers until loaded on car and taken away by the Railroad Company for Eastern shipment.

STUBBORN FACTS UNIMPEACHABLE

The loss in shipping deciduous and citrus fruits is enormous. The orange crop of Southern California alone is valued at $30,000,000. The government experts estimate that about 25 per cent. or $7,500,000, is lost every year by rough handling in packing and decay of fruit in transit to the eastern markets. What a revenue of profit this loss would be to the shipper if it could be saved. Our process will save it. The same is true of the deciduous fruits of Northern California.

GREAT FORTUNES ARE MADE BY INVESTING IN NECESSITIES

Fruit is one of the necessities of our civilized life, and the company that can place the fruit in the markets of the world in the best shape, in the quickest time, at the lowest rate, has a fortune within its grasp. The Armour Company in ten years made $5,000,000 net handling California fruit in refrigerator cars. Our process is the necessary to the fruit grower as the refrigerator car. Therefore we ought to receive as large a revenue for handling the same commodity.

GET IN WHILE THE ENTERPRISE IS NEW

No wiser words were ever spoken than these: "The chief point about getting rich is to invest in a new enterprise that is being managed by successful men, who have some of their own money in the deal." "One good investment is worth a lifetime of labor". Think over this sentence. A man's daily labor will never make him rich. He must have some money at work for him. Money invested never gets sick, keeps no holidays, never goes on strike. There are three things that ought to guide you: First, invest with honest men; second, invest with men of sound judgment; third, invest under conditions where you get your full share of profits the business yields. Get into a company whose destiny is guided by men of this stamp when its future is before and not behind it. Here is the secret of fortune. Plant the seed of your investment in the soil of opportunity, at the season of greatest promise when the enterprise is new. Every ounce of honor in the hearts of the men managing this company is pledged to give

A SQUARE DEAL FOR EVERY INVESTO

There will be no preferred stock. Every dollar invested will be worth 100 cents on the dollar. Our Directors, as honourable business men, will not allow any tricks of trade by which the small investor can be frozen out. Their commercial standing proves they are not "grafters". The poor man's 500 or 100 shares will have the same standing in court as the rich man's. 10,000, and they will draw the same proportionate dividend. We court investigation.

EVERY RICH MAN IN THE WORLD WAS ONCE POOR, OR HIS GRANDFATHER WAS.

THE OPPORTUNITY OF A LIFETIME

To get into a company that has the certainty of growth, the assurance of large and quick returns, a rapid advance in the price of stock, to make it an exceptional chance for big profits on a small investment. This is an ideal investment for the wage earner as well as the rich man. Moderate sums invested now will bring splendid returns in the near future. The logic of all this is

DON'T WAIT

Time is the essence of this proposition. The stock will certainly double in a short time. Jay Gould once said: "When you see a good investment don't wait to see if it pans out well, for by that time other people are in, too, and you have lost your opportunity."

WOMEN AS INVESTORS

Some of the heaviest stockholders in our company are women of keen business instincts. One lady in Los Angeles bought 5,000 shares. In a few days she returned and bought 5,000 more. This lady has never made a mistake in her business ventures. Women are good investors because they have courage to follow their convictions. Their intuitions are keener and truer than men's logic. Men may prevent her voting, but they can't prevent her drawing dividends on her investments. This is one branch of trade where sex, culture, or color does not count.

MANAGEMENT

The affairs of this company are in the hands of men of honesty, ability, courage and good business judgment—men who have made a success of their own business—men whose business reputation is AI in the commercial circles in which they move.

These men are "square" and "shrewd". They will not deceive you nor will they be deceived themselves. Because of the promise of growth, permanency and profit this business offers they have united their money, energy, time and business experience to make this enterprise a grand success.

Notwithstanding the Financial Crisis, Investments made Six Months ago have Advanced

Terrified People Plunge Into River --A 45 Mile Fire

Sydney, Feb. 18.—The heat wave has culminated in a series of disastrous bush fires throughout the commonwealth, especially in Victoria. It is too soon yet to calculate losses, but their total must be enormous. In the Edenhope district a fire spreading over forty miles has been raging for five days, despite the efforts of hundreds of fire fighters, many of whom were temporarily blinded by smoke and heat. They made many heroic rescues.

At Derghoim the settlers rushed into the river when they saw that it was impossible to save their homesteads. Elsewhere people sought shelter in swamps. In the Derghoim district alone 150,000 acres of grass, miles of fencing and 10,000 sheep, besides the farmers' buildings, are destroyed. Thousands of sheep that escaped are carrying their fleeces scorched.

A squatter at Hamilton had 2,700 sheep burned to death. The signal lights on the Victoria coast have been obscured by clouds of smoke, thereby imperilling shipping. One wreck at least is attributed to this cause.

Awful Sufferings Of Men in Small Boat on Ocean

Had Been Days Without Water When Cook Drank Salt Water and Died

Three Were Rescued

Seattle, Wash., Feb 18.—A despatch to the Post-Intelligencer from Neah Bay, says: The crew of the little sixteen ton sloop Trekie lying at anchor here were startled last night by a feeble hail from a steel lifeboat drawing up slowly in the light breeze. In the boat were the forms of four men, three living, one dead, survivors of the American ship Emily Reed, wrecked off the mouth of Nealam river on the coast of Oregon, 300 miles from Neah Bay. The men in the boat were First Mate Fred Zuhe, Seaman Ewald Ahlstedt, Seaman Arthur Jahnke, ship's cook, name unknown.

The dead man was the ship's cook.

The three living survivors were in frightful condition. Their tongues were swollen from thirst so that at first they could scarcely articulate. They had had no food since Saturday night, or any water since they left the wreck of the Reed Friday morning.

A SURVIVOR'S STORY.

Mr. Zuhe said: "Almost the instant the Reed struck the beach she began to break up. In a twinkling one of the lifeboats was smashed by a big wave and the decks were so deep in the boiling water that there was no chance to get aft where Captain Kursel and his wife with some of the other members of the crew were stationed. We jumped into the remaining lifeboat and cut the lashings. Before we had completed the job a big sea broke over the wreck and carried us clear of the decks.

"A strong current swept us toward the stern of the wreck, where we could see Captain Kursel and the rest of the ship's company clinging to the roof of the aft house. We called to them to throw us a line, as we went under the stern, and some one threw one, but it fell short of our boat.

"My arm had been broken when the wreckage from the gaff dropped on us and there was only one good oar, as the other had been broken and the spare oars washed away. We did our best to get back to the wreck, but the set of the undertow carried us away.

"We tried to head for Tillamook Light, but we had no compass to steer us. When morning broke I found we were standing far out to sea. I thought it best to keep the boat well out, hoping to fall into the path of steamships. With this hope I set the course northward along the coast.

"At about two o'clock on Sunday morning we saw a big steamer. She stopped near us and we all believed we would be saved. But the vessel got under way again and left us. The cook gave up the fight. He lay down in the water, and in a few moments he was dead.

"About 7 o'clock Sunday morning we made out Tatoosh Island. We were all too tired to manage the boat very well, but along towards Sunday afternoon I got her headed back toward Neah Bay.

"Sunday seemed the worst day we were out. We kept seeing all sorts of vessels passing back and forth, but none of them would answer our hails. We were generally too far off to be made out plainly, I guess."

LOCAL POULTRY BREEDERS FORMED AN ASSOCIATION LAST NIGHT

Meeting well Attended by Enthusiastic Lot of Poultry Fanciers

Officers Elected

Last night a large number of citizens and residents of nearby townships gathered in the Council Chamber to discuss raising a local Poultry Association. Mr. R. H. Leary at eight o'clock called the meeting to order, saying he had been asked to say a few words. He was proud to see such a large audience present. He has attended all kinds of meetings, from exhibition to turf clubs, but never saw such a well attended meeting. He then spoke of the importance of the poultry industry. He thinks if an association were formed a good poultry show could be held and would pay, as the market outlook. One dozen would make a mile on the towns and just now even more, and during the year 1,000,000 eggs a day is a paying proposition. He hoped that the Ontario Government be give a grant annually for poultry associations. If not it called upon Mr. Bayle.

Mr. Bayle said he would like to hear Mr. Paxman.

Mr. Paxman thought if small r place than Peterborough could run successful poultry shows this city should be able to support a show here.

Mr. Bayle said that London and Guelph hold monthly poultry meetings. Breeders get together and compare notes and discuss the points of the birds. In these places many prizes are not given, but ribbons awarded. He thought a poultry association should be formed here. It is the monthly meetings that create interest in poultry raising.

Mr. Wm. Collins said he was glad to show the good will exhibited by the large attendance. He had had much experience in the past in poultry shows in Peterborough. They had had luck. Storms came at the times of the shows, and the show fell through for want of chances. However, whilst the shows were held here, great improvement was seen in local poultry. The past shows here gave a great impetus to poultry raising. They tried, in the past, without avail, to get assistance from the Government, but now the Government has granted $1,000 to be divided among the poultry shows of the Province.

Mr. Chittick, publisher of the Poultry Advocate, said, judging by the large attendance present, the time of a Peterborough association is assured. He asked Mr. Bayle's suggestion of having monthly meetings to study the birds and their points, especially of one or two varieties. Such meetings are most interesting. In Woodstock, at each meeting, one member or other would read a paper on poultry. A meeting in Ingersoll there were not half as many as at last night's meeting.

Ald. Gill also said he had not much knowledge of poultry, but would like to see a poultry association started. This would help the tournament meeting. He will do what he can to help it.

Mr. Bennett, of Otonabee, said he would like to see a club formed; the shows could be discussed later.

Mr. John McClelland said there been a successful poultry association here before. Where he was raised they used to make a specialty of raising this class of poultry. Fifty-one years ago he took the red ticket for this kind of fowl. From Ottawa to the west of Ontario he had taken red tick for poultry. He had always taken great interest in poultry. An association should certainly be formed, with a small annual fee to cover expenses. This would encourage and teach the younger members. A small room with a man in charge should be maintained, so that poultry could be stored. Young breeders are apt to think their own birds are the best until he learns better. He would advise the young breeder to raise only one or two classes of poultry so as to thoroughly learn their points. He advised discarding the board floor. If a board floor is already down, cover it with sand. In selecting a strain remember that color always comes from the cock bird.

Mr. J. J. Hartig said he had always been interested in fowl and would like to see an association formed. Well bred fowl will do better and lay better, and look better than the dunghill bird. It will take work to get a good association, but such can be done.

Mr. R. J. Kidd said he was raised among chickens, but still cannot tell their points. He would like to see an association formed so that he and others might learn how to raise the best quality. He then moved that the meeting form an association or club.

Mr. Lush said that the number present, if each were to show ten birds, we would have the best poultry show in Canada. We should call it the Peterborough Poultry Winter Fair, and we can beat Guelph or any other place.

Mr. Kidd's motion was carried unanimously.

OFFICERS.

It was moved that Mr. Bert Huston be secretary pro tem. The following officers were then elected:

President—J. Baptie.
1st Vice-President—G. Paxman.
2nd Vice-President—H. Lush.
Secretary—Bert Huston.
Treasurer—James Kelly.

It was decided to fix the membership fee at fifty cents for the present year, on the understanding that the association will hold monthly meetings, open to all members, at which one class of bird will be inspected and criticised and ribbons given as rewards. Those present were then enrolled and the association starts with about fifty members which will soon be increased several fold.

Exciting Skating Races at the Brock St. Rink Last Night

The ice was in splendid shape for the programme of skating races run off at the Brock street rink last night. The feature events of the evening were the contests between Robson and Hefferman in a half mile mile and two mile races. Robson is champion of Canada, while his opponent has skated two miles faster than any man in Canada. It was a battle royal from the start.

The open mile race for the championship of the county was an interesting one.

Following is the result:

Half-mile race—Won by F. L. Robson, Toronto. Time, 1.36.

One mile race—Won by Hefferman. Time, 3.22.

One mile open championship of the county of Peterborough—Ben Dustan, 1st; C. Cox, 2nd. Time, 3.25 1-2.

A fairly large crowd witnessed the races.

KING CHARGED BY WILD BOAR

Madrid, Feb. 8.—King Alfonso has narrowly escaped being killed by a wild boar.

The Marquis Villaviciosa states that during the royal hunt at Pardo the King and Duke of Tarancon came unexpectedly on the lair which made a dash toward them. The King rapidly raised his gun and shot at the animal, which rolled over, apparently dead.

Just as King Alfonso stepped forward to inspect the fallen beast it suddenly sprang to its feet and rushed at him.

The King, who had placed his gun on the ground, was fortunately able to spring aside, and the Duke of Tarancon, with great promptitude, shot the animal dead.

King Alfonso bears a charmed life. He has had many remarkable escapes from death, including four deliberate attempts to take his life.

When a boy he was attacked in the streets of Madrid by a ruffian armed with a knife, but escaped unharmed.

Two shots were fired at him on June 11, 1904, in Madrid while driving home from church, accompanied by his mother and sister. Both shots missed him.

During his visit to Paris in June, 1905, a bomb was thrown at him as he was returning from the opera with President Loubet. Two horses were killed, but the King escaped again unhurt.

The fourth attempt was made on May, 30, 1906, during his wedding festivities in Madrid. He was driving through the streets with his bride when a bomb was thrown at the royal carriage. Twelve people were killed and many others were injured, but the royal pair escaped.

The King has had many other escapes, largely due to his mounting exploits.

Prince and Chauffeur Struggle for Life --Car Stops at River's Brink

The Driver was Killed

Bucharest, Feb. 8 — Prince Zika, a Roumanian millionaire, yesterday had a fight for life with his chauffeur, who had fallen madly in love with the princess.

The chauffeur, an Italian named Harver, yesterday entered the room of the princess and passionately declared his love for her, asking her to fly with him from Bucharest. The princess ordered him to quit the service of the prince, to whom she would otherwise relate what had occurred.

The chauffeur agreed to these terms, but when he tendered his notice the prince, who did not know the cause, declined to receive it, and insisted that Harver should drive him and the princess to a party in the country.

Harver seized this opportunity to revenge himself on the princess. He drove the prince and princess in a 70 horse-power car from their house through the city, but as soon as he reached the open country, shouted: "Now I will drive you to h——," and putting on the highest speed rushed along the road at seventy miles an hour.

The prince, seeing that the chauffeur had gone mad, climbed into the front seat and attempted to stop the car. A desperate struggle ensued, during which the car swerved fearfully from one side of the road to the other, within a hair's breadth of destruction.

The chauffeur clung tenaciously to the wheel, and finally directing the car straight for a river, sprang out. The prince switched off, and applying the brakes, brought the car to a standstill on the brink of the water.

He returned to the chauffeur, whom he found lying dead on the ground. His head had come in contact with a tree, and his neck was broken. The princess is now lying seriously ill from the effects of the shock.

Villages Raided by Wolves

Paris, Feb. 19.—A great wolf hunt is being conducted by the people of the little villages round Dijon, situated on the outskirts of the forest lands.

Every night at sunset the inhabitants turn out with torches, lanterns and picks for a battle. During the last few days the starving wolves have been leaving the forest and attacking the villages. Two days ago a man was attacked at night on the high road by what at first he took to be a dog. He had no light, but shouted at the beast and kicked him with his heavy hob-nailed boots, driving him off. The same night the farmyards were raided.

Yesterday a little girl very nearly fell a victim. She was attacked by a great wolf within a hundred yards of her father's house. The father heard her call for help, and dashed a lantern, which he carried, full in the face of the brute, which bolted.

The authorities have sent criers round the villages warning the inhabitants not to go out without lights after dark.

Japanese Cruiser Watching American Naval Fleet

Valparaiso, Feb. 18. — The cruise along the coast of Chile of the Japanese steamer Kasado Maru has, in view of the proximity of the American battleship fleet, attracted considerable attention here. The Kasado Maru left Iquique on January 23 and steamed out to sea. Nothing was heard from her until two days ago, when she arrived at Tocopilla, a small town, 140 miles from Iquique. The fact that the vessel spent 24 days between these two ports leads to the suspicion in some quarters that she has been observing the progress of the American fleet or studying the Chilean coast in the vicinity of Tocopilla. The Kasado Maru is equipped with wireless telegraphy. She belongs to the Japanese Government, and left Japan in October for Honolulu, where she arrived November 7. Since then she has been reported at Callao, Africa, and other points on the Chilean coast. She is of 21,000 tons, has twin screws, and was built at Newcastle in 1900.

Mr. Wm. Low Seriously Injured by Street Car

Last night shortly before seven o'clock a serious collision occurred at the corner of George and Dublin streets, between a farmer's rig and a street car. It seems that a northbound car was going at a rapid rate of speed, and a farmer driving a team hauled on a sleigh load of coal, tried to pass in front of the car, and did not allow for the speed at which the car was travelling. The front end of the car hit the sleigh and smashed it badly. The occupants, viz., the farmer, named W. Low of Emily, who owned the outfit, and a Mr. Thibault, who was driving with him, were thrown out. The farmer was severely hurt and rendered unconscious, and taken later to the hospital. About a ton of coal was scattered all over the street, and the front of the car carried enough coal on its northward trip to run a stove for some days. The horse at the time of the accident tried to run away. Mr. Cox, the grocer at that corner, grabbed the reins, but the animals succeeded in breaking away and ran to Water street. They were later on captured. Mr. Low was attended by Dr. Morgan and was reported at a late hour as being in a serious condition.

Mr. P. M. Cameron Has Passed Away

The first white settler born in Ashburnham is dead, at the venerable age of eighty-six years. In the year 1821 there was born in that township Peregrine Maitland Cameron, who first saw light near the shores of Rice Lake. His father was the late Mr. John Cameron, who, at the time of the birth of the deceased P. M. Cameron, lived near where Capt. Birdsall's house now stands, but afterwards moved to Cameron Point. The late Mr. P. M. Cameron was one of a family of nine, all of whom, but one sister, had predeceased him. Mr. Cameron passed away on the 13th instant, and his death removes one of the oldest and most widely known residents of the county.

Danny Simmons as Chief Comedian

Mr. Pete Simons, the well-known, yesterday received a Boston newspaper which contained a notice of his brother Danny. As the latter gentleman is an old Peterborough boy and has a host of warm friends in the city, it will interest our readers to learn that this paper from "The hub of Culchawk" says:—

"Danny Simons, chief comedian of the Avery Strong company introduced a new specialty at the City theatre yesterday afternoon. He delighted both afternoon and evening audiences with his Scotch impersonation. The company played "Tennessee's Pardner" for the opening attraction and in the evening presented "The Railroad King." In both plays Mr. Simons has good comedy roles. Miss Mina Gennell has the soubrette roles, succeeding Miss Eva Scott of this city, who is seriously ill and may not resume the stage this season. The other parts are entrusted to Barrow le Page, Dan Malloy, M. S. Goldsine, A. B. Lear, Charles Hill, Edythe Winchester and Flora Frost. Miss Gennell is a fine little girl, always on the alert to be entertaining. She appears in specialties that win favor.

THE PASSING OF THE GRIST MILL

Mr. J. W. Pearce, M.P.P., Proposes by Legislation to Help it in its Fight for Existence

Save the small flour mill!

Prevent the larger mill from absorbing it!

In this way protect the chief industry of many a village and hamlet throughout the country.

These questions are occupying the mind of Mr. J. W. Pearce, M.P.P. for North Hastings. He points out that besides being a convenience to the farmers of each locality, the flour mills are an important feature of the business of the places where they are located, because they naturally draw many people from the country to do their purchasing there.

The merchants of the villages and small towns are, therefore, almost as much interested in saving the small "grist" mill as the millers themselves, for they do not wish to see their trade going to the larger towns.

Mr. Pearce's remedy is to amend the Assessment Act so as to lighten the burden of these mills. In common with all manufacturing concerns they are assessed at 60 per cent. of their value, while merchants are assessed at only 25 per cent. On account of the purely local nature of the business, and the difficulty of competing with the larger flour mills, Mr. Pearce would reduce the assessment of the mills, with a capacity of 100 barrels or less, per day, to 25 per cent., the same as the merchants. This would mean their taxes by a considerable sum, and give them a better chance to keep going.

"There are at least three saw mills in Hastings county that now do only a chopping business," Mr. Pearce stated. "There must be eight or ten small mills in each county, or about 500 altogether in the province."

Mr. Pearce has given notice of a bill to be introduced in the Legislature for the purpose of amending the Assessment Act, as indicated.

Trial by Jury at the Conservatory

It is confidently expected that those attending "Trial by Jury" in the Conservatory of Music Hall to-night will enjoy a rare treat. The operetta is given under the auspices of All Saints' Church, and will be one of the society events of the season. The young people of All Saints' will be assisted by a number of other local artists including Misses W. McIlroy, M. Johnston, J. H. Scriver, H. W. Morphet, Allen, and Messrs Carrie Rexsor, Pearl Lundy and Julia Choate.

Mr. McIlroy, in his inimitable style, will sing a song entitled "I'll Tell You How I Came to be a Judge." The cast includes pretty bridesmaids and twelve good men and true. The affair is under the direction of Mr. R. Gliddon.

Gordon Nicholls was arrested last night by P. C. Adams for creating a disturbance while under the influence of liquor at the Crown Hotel and afterwards doing some damage at the Oriental. He will appear this morning before Magistrate Dumble.

Fine Sample of Local Manufacture

In the display window of Messrs. F. Charlie & Sons', jewellery store, corner of George and Brock streets, yesterday, was exhibited the handsome silver medal presented by Mrs J. H. Stratton for the best drawing done by a pupil of the Public Schools of Peterborough. The medal is of solid silver with silver clasp. In front is the monogram W. A. A., as this prize is given in connection with the Women's Art Association of Peterborough. The model, which is of a simple but attractive design, is strictly of local design and manufacture, having been made entirely by Messrs. Charlie & Son. The name of the winner will be engraved on the reverse side as soon as it is awarded. On the face of the medal are also the words "labore et constantia."

Another View on the Public Library

Editor Mining News:

In the Examiner of last night I read a plausible letter of Mr. D. W. Dumble strongly in favor of asking Mr. Carnegie for a grant towards a public library. Mr. Dumble, as a lawyer, naturally showed up the strongest arguments he could find in favor of his side of the case. He quotes a long array of facts and figures, especially figures, as to the annual cost of a Carnegie library. Whilst admitting the plausibility of these figures, there are two points overlooked. A large proportion of those using a free library are mechanics and working men. It is well that such men should have access to good useful reading matter. But do the mechanic and working men of this city want charity from Mr. Carnegie? The reason for asking this question, in connection with Mr. Carnegie, is obvious. Another matter is the name of Mrs. Nisbett's to be shelved after all this lady has done for the town, to be replaced in public sight and mind to gratify the ambition of the great American Iron Master!

MECHANIC.

Mr. John Finlay, M.P., to Locate in Renfrew

The town of Renfrew has been considering the matter of obtaining an industry to occupy their factory property which for some time was made use of by P. R. Cumming Co. The town council has passed a by-law authorizing an overdraft with the Bank of Ottawa for $10,000 and now there is a promising outlook for occupancy of the property, negotiations being brought about by Mr. A. A. Wright, M. P., between Mr. John Finlay, M. P., for East Peterborough, and the town council. Mr. Finlay has been here inspecting the property and preparations to and fro are taking place which will be considered at the adjourned meeting.

Late Mr. W. Pringle's Picture Finished

The portrait of the late Mr. William Pringle which the Board of Education decided to place in the King Edward School in recognition of his valuable services in the construction of that institution, has been completed by Mr. R. M. Hoy, and is an excellent production of the photographer's art. It is a cabinet portrait 24 by 28 inches, and is intended to be the best work that the Hoy Studio has turned out. The picture is practically a composite portrait, points being taken from several photographs of the deceased educationalist.

PETERBOROUGH, FEBRUARY 19 1903

A GOOD SHOWING.

The financial statement of the Dominion for the month of January and for the first ten months of the current fiscal year shows an increase of $381,337 in the total revenue for the last month as compared with January, 1902, and an increase of $9,271,842 for the ten months. The total expenditure on consolidated fund account for the ten months was $56,332,534, an increase of $10,650,229. Of this increase $6,083,244 is chargeable to the January figures for payment of subsidy increases to the Provinces, amounting to $1,500,000, and interest charges on the public department totaling $1,623,650, both falling due last month.

For the ten months the surplus of revenue fund account amounted to $24,991,738. The total expenditure on capital account, as entered on the books of the finance department up to January 31st, was $23,245,499, of which $17,446,975 was chargeable to public works, railways and canals. The National Transcontinental Railway is, of course, responsible for much of this amount. The total net debt of the Dominion at the end of last month was $269,504,613.

MR. OLIVER'S PROPOSAL.

The Federal Minister of the Interior Hon. Frank Oliver, has given notice of his intention to introduce in the House of Commons a bill to give a grant of a half-section of the Dominion lands available for homestead entry to every volunteer who at the time of his enlistment for military service in South Africa, in the years 1899-1902 inclusive, was a resident in Manitoba and the Northwest Territories, under certain conditions regarding occupancy and cultivation.

There will scarcely be a Canadian so unpatriotic and so ungrateful to the "flower of our country" who laid their lives upon the altar of the British Empire in those years as to offer a word of criticism to any person or to any government who evinces a desire to make a recognition of their services to their King and Country on the veldt. The men who volunteered and saw service in that terrible war are worthy of the best we, as a country, can give them, and we are confident that Mr. Oliver will receive the praise of all loyal Canadians when he proposes that a grant of 320 acres of land be given them.

It seems to us, though, that our Federal Government, which legislates for the whole country, rather than for the special welfare of any section thereof, should not restrict the grant to the South African veterans only, who at the time of their enlistment for service were residents of Manitoba or the Northwest Territories. Young Canadians from Ontario, the Maritime Provinces and other parts of our Dominion rendered as valiant service to the Empire, and brought as great renown to Canada as did the "heroes of the veldt" who left home in the West to go to South Africa. They are, therefore, quite as much entitled to recognition at the hands of our Federal Government as are their comrades from the West.

It is hoped that Mr. Oliver and the Government will place every one of the loyal sons of Canada who saw service in the South African War on the same footing, and give all the same amount of consideration when they come to distribute land grants in recognition of the services they rendered.

A BUSINESS LESSON.

How Peter Cooper Taught One Man the Value of Money.

Peter Cooper was one of the most successful, careful and prudent business men of his time. He was strongly opposed to the methods of many merchants who launched out into extravagant enterprises on borrowed money, for which they paid exorbitant rates of interest. The following anecdote illustrates this point very forcibly:

Once, while talking about a project with an acquaintance, the latter said he would have to borrow the money for six months, paying interest at the rate of 3 per cent per month.

"Why do you borrow for so short a time?" Mr. Cooper asked.

"Because the brokers will not negotiate bills for longer."

"Well, if you wish," said Mr. Cooper, "I will discount your note at that rate for three years."

"Are you in earnest?" asked the would be borrower.

"Certainly I am. I will discount your note for $10,000 for three years at that rate. Will you do it?"

"Of course I will," said the merchant.

"Very well," said Mr. Cooper. "Just sign this note for $10,000, payable in three years, and give your check for $800, and the transaction will be complete."

"But where is the money for me?" asked the astonished merchant.

"You don't get any money," was the reply. "Your interest for thirty-six months at 3 per cent per month amounts to 108 per cent, or $10,800. Therefore your check for $800 just makes us even."

The force of this practical illustration of the folly of paying such an exorbitant price for the use of money was such that the merchant determined never to borrow at such ruinous rates, and he frequently used to say that nothing could have so fully convinced him as this rather humorous proposal by Mr. Cooper.

HIS RULING PASSION.

Old Harpagon Carried It to the Brink of the Grave.

The following story is commonly related as true in France: Old Harpagon was fast approaching his end. His sufferings were very great, but he consoled himself with the thought that as he could not eat there was so much saved at any rate.

"Well, doctor," he said in a feeble voice, "how long have I yet to live?"

"Only half an hour. Would you like me to send for somebody—a clergyman, for instance?"

Harpagon was silent for a few moments. He passed his hand over his chin, bristling with a grizzly beard of several days' growth, when a sudden thought struck him, and, turning to the doctor, he gasped excitedly:

"Quick—send for—a barber!"

The barber soon afterward arrived with his shaving tackle.

Harpagon, whose voice was getting weaker, asked him, "You—charge—two-pence—for shaving?"

"That's the price," was the answer.

"And—how much—is it—for shaving a corpse?"

The barber paused a moment and then said, "Five shillings."

"Then—shave—me—quickly," stammered old Harpagon, casting a feverish glance at the watch which the doctor still held in his hand.

He was too feeble to utter another word, but the doctor understood the mute appeal and said:

"Fifteen minutes more!"

A smile of satisfaction stole over the features of the patient. The barber set to work and in a very short time finished his task notwithstanding the nervous twitchings that distorted the face of the dying man. When the operation was over old Harpagon uttered a sigh of relief and was heard to whisper:

"That's a good thing—four shillings—and tenpence—saved!" And he breathed his last.—London Chronicle.

E. V. Moore Confident as to Peat's Future

It now looks as though the excitement of a few years ago over the probability of universal use of peat as a fuel will be revived. It is no secret that for the past year or two peat has fallen not so much into disfavor but into "spurious desuetude" for lack of production or place on the market. However, Mr. Ernest V. Moore, manager of the Condensed Peat Fuel Co., of this city, who has just returned from a trip to Montreal and Ottawa in the interests of his work, reports that confidence in the success of peat as a fuel is gaining rapidly. Whilst in Ottawa Mr. Moore had an interview with the Director of Mines, Dr. Eugene Haanel, who is at present making extensive preparations for research as to the possibilities of peat fuel, for which it is expected an appropriation will shortly be granted by the Government. The Director of Mines expressed himself as convinced that this fuel cannot be gotten on the market too soon.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

(6) District 'E'.—From a point designated on the plans of the Commissioners, about 19 1-2 miles west of the crossing of Mud River, near Lake Nepigon, in the Province of Ontario, easterly for a distance of about 75 miles.

Plans, profiles and specifications may be seen in the office of the Chief Engineer of the Commissioners at Ottawa; also in the offices of the District Engineers concerned, viz:—Guy C. Dunn, St. John, N. B.; A. E. Doucet, Quebec, P. Q.; John Aylen, Acting District Engineer, North Bay, Ont.; and T. S. Armstrong, Nepigon, Ont.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made in duplicate, and on the printed forms supplied by the Commissioners.

A separate tender must be submitted for each section.

Tenderers shall not be in any way entitled to rely upon the classification, or any other information given by any person on behalf of the Commissioners; and before submitting any tender, bidders should make a careful examination of the plans, profiles, drawings and specifications and read the forms to be executed, and fully inform themselves as to the quantity and quality of materials, and character of workmanship required; and are understood to accept, and agree to be bound by, the terms and conditions in the form of contract, specifications, etc., annexed to the form of tender.

Each tender must be signed and sealed by all the parties to the tender, and witnessed, and be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered bank of the Dominion of Canada, payable to the order of the Commissioners, of the Transcontinental Railway, as follows:—

For Section No. 2,	District 'A'...	100,000
For Section No. 3,	District 'A'...	75,000
For Section No. 4,	District 'B'...	100,000
For Section No. 6,	District 'E'...	100,000

Any person whose tender is accepted shall within ten days after the acceptance thereof furnish such additional approved security as may be required by the Commissioners; sign the contract, specifications, and other documents required to be signed by the said Commissioners; and, in any case of refusal or failure on the part of the party whose tender is accepted to complete the whose tender is accepted to complete and execute a contract with the said Commissioners, and to furnish the additional approved security within ten days after the acceptance of the tender, the said cheque shall be forfeited to the Commissioners as liquidated damages for such refusal or failure and all contracts rights acquired by the acceptance of the tender shall be forfeited. The cheques deposited by parties whose tenders are accepted will be deposited to the credit of the Receiver General of Canada as part of the security for the due and faithful performance of the contract according to its terms. Cheques deposited by parties whose tender are rejected will be returned within ten days after the signing of the contract.

'All mechanics, labourers, or other persons who perform labour for the purposes of the construction of the works hereby contracted for, shall be paid such wages as are generally accepted as current for competent workmen in the district in which the work is being performed, and if there is no current rate in such district then a fair and reasonable rate; and, in the event of a dispute arising as to what is the current or a fair and reasonable rate, it shall be determined by the Commissioners, whose decision shall be final.'

'This agreement is subject to the regulations now in force, or which may at any time hereafter be in force during the construction of the works hereby contracted for, made under the authority of the Department of Labour, and which are, or shall be, applicable to such works.' (The schedule of minimum wages determined upon by said Department will form part of the contract).

The contractor shall in connection with the whole of the said work, as far as practicable, use only material, machinery, plant, supplies, and rolling stock manufactured or produced in Canada, provided the same can be obtained as cheaply, and upon as good terms, in Canada as elsewhere, having regard to quality and price.'

The contractor shall conform to the fire regulations adopted by the Commissioners, and also to the laws and regulations respecting fires in the different provinces wherein the work is being performed.

The right is reserved to reject any or all tenders

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTHWEST HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an Agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each on and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of a homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father or mother.

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing must be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa, of intention to apply for patent.

"I tell you," said Callander, "she thinks you are too formal, too cut and dried, too wrapped up in your profession. To her you're a fossil."

"If I were you I'd kick him for saying that," said Gaitley. "Go ahead, Abbett, old man; you're far enough away from the village so that your unbending from dignity will never be seen."

"Oh, I'll do worse than that to him some time!" returned young Dr. Abbett, glaring with comic malevolence at Callander. "I'll wait until he is injured in some of his schoolboy escapades, and then I'll operate on him. Don't you feel the approach of another foolish attack, Georgie?"

The three young men sat in the shade of a huge mass of rock that marked the end of a long, irregular ridge of hills which jutted out from the main range to the west. At the mouth of a tiny canyon just visible from the rocks a cluster of summer cottages showed white against the brown and gray of their surroundings.

Georgie Callander grunted, stretched his hulking body and took out a pair of fieldglasses from a case at his side.

"No, Folsom," he replied at length; "I don't feel unusually foolish at present. But this grand air and this sunshine and—well, life in general greatly appeals to me today, and so there's no telling when I shall find it necessary to break out again. By Jove," he went on, pointing the glasses at the faraway cottages, "there's my dear wife and the dear wife of our friend Hiram here, and—yes, the dear sister of my dear wife aforementioned, all laden with baskets and making for Flagstaff hill."

"Dear, dear," said Hiram Gaitley; "anybody else in the party?"

"N-no, none that I can make out. Hold on, though; yes, there is. They're passing Evergreen inn now, and that discreditable simian Ramage has joined them. I believe, Abbett, that's what you called him, wasn't it—a discreditable simian?"

"Callander," demanded Abbett sternly, "does Miss Alice know that you two ungainly wretches enticed me away with you this morning without letting me know that she and other ladies were bent upon a picnic today?"

"Miss Alice?" queried Callander. "Oh, you mean little Allie, my wife's sister. Now that I think of it, Folsom, I believe she did say something about asking you to have lunch with them on Flagstaff hill today. She asked if I thought you would care to leave your bug hunting and whether you would make one of so informal a party. I believe I told her"—

He broke off and leveled his glass at the distant hills.

"Well, well," cried Abbett impatiently, 'what reply did you make? Something absurd, I suppose. Give me those glasses."

Callander adroitly moved out of reach of Abbett's arm and continued:

"I forgot just what I did say, but it must have been something worthy of so ungainly a wretch. They're up on the hill now, Folsom, and Ramage has taken his place beside Allie and is carrying her basket."

"That's a bad sign," Gaitley put in. "That's the way I began on the day I asked Ella to be my wife. You remember that picnic, Georgie?"

"Certainly. Picnics are fatal affairs. I have no doubt that if Folsom were on Flagstaff hill today he'd be the happy man instead of Ramage. By Jove! He and Allie have strolled away from the rest and are picking wild flowers."

Abbett groaned.

"And I thought you were my friends—my boyhood friends. Here, give me those glasses, I say!"

Again Callander eluded his grasp and lightly sprang across a tree trunk which spanned the creek that rattled down from the range of hills and into the plain. Once safely across, he pulled away the log and set it floating downstream.

"We are your friends, Folsom," he declared from the opposite bank. "Haven't we patiently listened to your ravings about Allie for the past six months? Didn't we bring you out with us today on purpose to talk about her?"

"And you," cried the young doctor, turning to Gaitley, "I suppose you're in this attempt to keep me away from Miss—from the picnic?"

"Don't speak so harshly, Folsom," Gaitley returned. "Let's go leave George and hunt fossils or something."

"I've a notion to hunt you," Abbett answered, and he stepped toward Gaitley.

"Oh, don't, doctor; don't, doctor!" Gaitley screamed in a high falsetto as he sprang down the hill, with Abbett at his heels.

At the creek bank Gaitley paused to look back, and, seeing the doctor still coming, he leaped into the stream and floundered across it.

Abbett stopped at the bank and began to throw stones at his tormentors They moved out of range of the missiles and walked downstream until the settlement of cottages came into view from behind the rocks where they had been sitting on the other side of the creek.

Abbett followed them downstream on his side and bawled out half angry epithets at them. Callander, after a prolonged look through the glasses at Flagstaff hill, called out:

"Oh, horrors, Folsom, Ramage has taken Allie for a stroll to the top of Flagstaff! They're at the top now. I did so want you for a brother-in-law, and now I'll never have a doctor in the family."

"Stop them; stop them!" cried Folsom, dancing up and down. "Do, please, Georgie, toss over those glasses!"

"Couldn't do it. This is a sight one doesn't see every day. There he goes, flopping down on his knees before her. Farewell, Brother-in-law Folsom; farewell forever!"

Desperately Abbett went to the bank, removed his coat and shoes and rolled up his trousers.

"Look out," cried Gaitley; "he's going to swim for it!"

Abbett plunged in and had hardly taken two steps when he slipped and fell. Immediately he arose again, splashed across the stream and clambered up on the opposite bank.

"Now," he grated, "I'll show you what it means to torment a peaceable man."

"Wait," called Georgie from a safe distance; "he wasn't flopping on his knees, after all, so don't be angry. You wouldn't raise black and blue lumps all over our pure, white bodies, would you, Folsom?"

"You'll see," retorted the angry young man as he took up the chase.

The two led him along a devious path, through thickets and over rough prairie grass and rocky stretches of plain. But his blood was up, and he doggedly kept on. They easily continued in the lead and frequently stopped to shout back mocking comments and to report what could be seen by looking through the glasses.

"Say," cried Georgie after one such look at Flagstaff hill, "I wish we were nearer, so we could distract Allie's attention from what Ramage is saying to her. I know she'd be pleased to see you unbending a little."

"That's all she's afraid of," Gaitley took up. "She's told my wife as much lots of times. She thinks you're a born stiff—er—were born stiff, I mean."

"No," bawled Callander; "he means she thinks you're so wrapped up in your profession that you look upon even her love as a secondary affair, and she wants you to consider it the whole thing."

"She thinks," began Gaitley as he dodged a piece of granite which Abbett hurled at him, "that you can't enthuse over anything but strange bugs or fossils or a new disease. We've often told her that she's wrong"—he ducked to avoid another stone—"but we couldn't convince her, and this is our reward—to be—stoned—to be chased across country like innocent rabbits.

They were obliged to take up the cross country again, for Abbett was well upon them. Down the creek was another log from bank to bank, and they darted across toward the cottages, with Albert in full cry at their heels.

There was no more opportunity for extended banter, although Gaitley now and then flung back a stentorian wish that Alice might see them at the present moment.

When they drew near the cottages, the hares endeavored to shape their courses so that the hound must cross the foot of Flagstaff hill, but he gave up and ran to kennel at the Evergreen inn.

He came out an hour later with all marks of the chase removed from his clothing. But the banter of his friends still rankled, and he determined to see Miss Alice at once, then if he had been refused to go back to the city. So he bravely charged up Flagstaff hill to meet his fate.

He found Alice, and at the first opportunity he told her of his love. When, to his unspeakable joy, he found himself accepted he demanded to know whether or not he had heard the truth from his friends in regard to her estimation of his character.

"Y-es, I did think that until this morning," answered the young lady. "But I know now that I was wrong, Folsom, dear. Mr. Ramage had a pair of powerful binoculars with him this morning, and I watched you every minute from the top of Flagstaff hill."

A Congenial Occupation.

"It isn't everybody that gets a place in life that's just suited to him," said Mr. Hobart thoughtfully, "but I declare it seems as if Jed Loring had landed in the very spot he'd choose above every other."

"I didn't suppose anything would ever suit Jed," remarked Mrs. Hobart, "a man that always thought everybody was better off than he and never appeared to enjoy anything except other folks' misfortune. Where in the world is he?"

"While I was visiting Henry's folks," said Mr. Hobart, "they took me across the ferry to the island one day. I thought the face of the man that worked the gates looked kind of familiar, and he gazed at me real searching as Henry and I stood there.

"'Aren't you Jim Hobart that used to live in Bushby?' he asked me at last.

"'I am and still do,' says I, 'and it's just come to me who you are. You're Jed Loring.'

"He nodded that I was right.

"'Got a job that suits you here, I guess,' I said, for he's grown stouter and looks considerable cheerfuler than he used to when he was here in Bushby.

"'Yes, I have,' says he, real hearty. 'Why, this ferryboat runs back and forth every half hour all day long, and there's hardly a trip but what somebody misses it and gets as mad as ever.'"

Weak Women

To weak and ailing women, there is at least one way to help. Deal with that way, two treatments must be combined. One is local, one is constitutional, but both are important, both essential.

Dr. Shoop's Night Cure is the Local.
Dr. Shoop's Restorative, the Constitutional.

The former—Dr. Shoop's Night Cure—is a topical mucous membrane suppository remedy, while Dr. Shoop's Restorative is wholly an internal treatment. The Restorative reaches throughout the entire system, making the repair of all nerve, all tissue, and all blood ailments.

The "Night Cure", as its name implies, does its work while you sleep. In another sore and inflamed mucous surfaces, heals local weaknesses and discharges, while the Restorative, upon nervous exhaustion, gives renewed vigor and ambition, builds up wasted tissues, bringing about renewed strength, vigor, and energy. Take Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—as a general tonic to the system. For positive local help, use as well

The Great Provincial Charity, The Hospital for Sick Children, Calls On You For Aid.

Remember that this Hospital is not a local institution, but Provincial.

"I LIKE PICTURES"

It cares for every sick child in the Province of Ontario whose parents cannot afford to pay for treatment.

Many dollars are better than idle tears. The sympathy that Woods is good, but the Hospital has to have the sympathy that Works.

Last year there were 1093 patients admitted. Of these 378 came from 251 places outside of Toronto—all were children of poor people who could not afford to pay for treatment of their little ones.

Each child was in the Hospital 47½ days at a cost of $1.31 each per day, or $62.22 for the 47½ days stay.

BEFORE

If your dollar could straighten the feet of a little boy or girl with club feet, you would gladly give it, and your dollar will do that. There were 70 cases of club feet treated last year. Out of the 70, about 50 were from the country.

If you know of any child in your county who is sick or has club feet, and whose parents can not afford to pay, send the name to the Hospital Secretary.

The stock books are open. Won't you let the Hospital write your name down for a few shares in Heaven's own work of healing little children?

A great mine of Mercy—the mining stock that always pays dividends—is bought with the money that helps The Hospital for Sick Children to extract the Gold of Life from the Quartz of Death.

ULCERS IN THE FLESH MEAN BAD BLOOD

As a result of debility, sickness or improper diet, the blood often becomes weak and unable to free itself of poisons.

Morbid, unhealthy matter accumulates and breaks out in sores that discharge and will not heal.

Washes, salves and ointments are useless because they have no action on the poisoned blood.

But Dr. Hamilton's Pills cleanse and enrich the diseased blood, drive out impurities and fill it with nutriment and strong building material.

Ulcers, boils and sores heal up.

Likewise all weakness due to impoverished blood is cured by these famous pills and anaemia, erysipelas and rheumatis, go before it as chaffbefore fire.

The skin grows smooth, complexion clears, health, vigor and strength are evident on all sides.

A blood remedy for blood diseases, the formulae of a famous physician—no improvement can be made on Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

Their use extends to the people of many nations and thousands have proved that they do cure when all else fails.

No matter what your ailment may be, if it has its origin in the blood it is curable with Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Sold everywhere, 25c. per box or five for $1.00, and be sure to refuse a substitute.

General Manager Bura Escaped

Mr. Geo. Bura, general manager of the Bank of Ottawa, a gentleman with personal friends here, was in the recent G. T. R. accident near Ottawa, where both engineer and fireman were scalded to death. We are pleased to note that Mr. Bura was practically unhurt and took an active part in looking after the interests of those less fortunate than himself, and who sustained injuries.

Gowns for St. Andrew's Choir

The Ladies' Aid Society of St. Andrew's Church have thoroughly considered the question of procuring gowns for the choir and vestry gowns for the rector, Rev. J. G. Potter. It was finally decided that Mrs. McClelland, representing the choir, and Mrs. Robinson the Ladies' Aid, should go to Toronto next week with a view to receiving information regarding the gowns.

Stop that tickling Cough! Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure will surely stop it, and with perfect safety. It is so thoroughly harmless Dr. Shoop tells mothers to use nothing else even with very young babies. The wholesome green leaves and tender stems of a lung healing mountainous shrub furnish the curative properties of Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. It calms the cough, and heals the sensitive bronchial membranes. No opium, no chloroform, nothing harsh used to injure or suppress. Demand Dr. Shoop's. Take no other. All Dealers.

Olde Tyme Concert a Success

At the meeting held Monday night at the residence of Mrs. L. F. Robinson, Charlotte street, business in connection with the recent Olde Tyme Concert was wound up by the Ladies' Aid Society of St. Andrew's Church. This concert, which was held in aid of the society's funds, it seems, realized $50 over and above expenses. The ladies are grateful to Mrs. C. H. McClelland and Mr. Freeland for their valuable assistance.

Dr. L. King for Medicine Hat

A despatch from Medicine Hat notes that Dr. Lionel King, formerly of this city, who has been visiting there, will soon open up an office in that far western burg. Dr. Lionel is a brother of Dr. D. C. King, of this city, and has been practising his profession in Michigan for some years past. The doctor's ability in the field of sport will make him especially welcome in his new home, and his ability as a physician will ensure him a lucrative practice.

Y.M.C.A. Provincial Sec. will Give Address

Mr. C. M. Copeland, Provincial Secretary of the Y. M. C. A., will give the leading address at the members' banquet here on Thursday night, which will be held in the gymnasium.

Several of the members will, however, speak on "How We Can Improve Our Association." Music both vocal and instrumental will be rendered by popular artists of our city. Members are asked to secure their tickets as soon as possible so that the committee will be able to know how many to provide for.

If you have Catarrh, rid yourself of this repulsive disease. Ask Dr. Shoop, of Racine, Wis., to mail you free a trial box of his Dr. Shoop's Catarrh Remedy. A simple, single test, will surely tell you a Catarrh truth well worth your knowing. Write to-day. Don't suffer longer. All dealers.

Messrs. A. L. Andrews, Peterborough; G. Dundas, H. Holmes, of Renfrew; R. S. Southworth, of Sherwood, and H. Lockie, of Fraserville, are attending the Kingston Dairy School.

IN SHORT FORM FOR BUSY READERS

—Queen Alexandra Circle, No. 136, A. O. F., will hold a concert in the S. O. E. Hall

—The Fraser Mission Band of St. Paul's Church met last night in the Guild room of the church.

—Mr. Louis Mendel photographed the champion Tigers of basketball fame, and has turned out a very artistic picture.

—A meeting of the Girls' Guild of the George Street Methodist Church was held at the residence of Miss Wood, Belmont avenue, last night.

Even an Englishman used to his daily cold bath would have thought twice before going for a swim in the Otonabee yesterday.

—A number of young ladies gave a social tea from 4 to 6 and from 7 to 10 p.m. yesterday evening at the residence of Mr. Jobath, corner King and Stewart streets, to assist the Children's Aid Society.

—Last night a basket social was given in the Orange Hall, Simcoe street, under the auspices of L. O. L. 775. There was a large attendance and a splendid programme was rendered.

—The friends of Mr. Wm. Redmond will be pleased to learn that he is getting along well at St. Joseph's Hospital, since recently fracturing his leg in a fall.

—Mr. Amos Mullen has sold his residence at No. 10 John street, to Mr. George Ruth, the local real estate agent. Mr. Mullen is leaving in two weeks for the Northwest.

It seems as though the present wood famine is about ended as several loads of fine tamarac were brought in early in the morning, a sign that more will follow.

Those who feared that the price of hay would soar to $20 a ton may rest easy, as yesterday this commodity sold at $17 per ton on the market. There were quite a number of loads present.

—The C.O.F. No. 29, will on Thursday, Feb. 27th, celebrate its 29th anniversary in the Foresters' Hall, Simcoe street. Refreshments will be served and a pleasant social evening is expected.

—The Sunsor and the Junior Brotherhood Chapters of St. John's Church held a sleigh drive to Lakefield last night to visit the Lakefield Chapter. The bus left the Post Office at 6.30 o'clock.

—The Post Office clock seems to be stuck on the number 6.35. The hands have been there now for three days. It is time either the clock or its caretaker should get a move on.

Only one case was before the Police Court yesterday morning, that of an old man, unable to look after himself, who asked for a pass to the delights of Governor Nesbitt's stone boarding house. The old man was accommodated.

—Mr. Harry Clark, a partner of Messrs. F. Clark & Son, the local jewellers, have purchased a fine property on Boswell avenue from Mr. C. Huffman. The house is a handsome brick structure, of elegant appearance, and fitted up with all modern improvements. The price paid is understood to be $3,500.

I wish that I might talk with all sick ones about the actual cause of Stomach, Heart, and Kidney ailments. To explain in person how weak Stomach nerves leads to Stomach weakness, I am sure would interest all. And it is the same with weak Hearts or Weak Kidneys. This is why my prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative—so promptly reaches ailments of the Stomach, Heart, and Kidneys. It is wrong to drug the Stomach or stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. These weak inside nerves simply need more strength. My Restorative is the only prescription made exclusively for these nerves. Next to seeing you personally, will be to mail you free, my new book just entitled, "What To Do." I will also send samples of my Restorative as well. Write for the book to-day. It will surely interest you. Address Dr. Shoop, Box 8, Racine, Wis. All Dealers.

Mr. Steire, the street car conductor, who was hurt while getting on his car at the G. T. R. crossing on Charlotte street, was not able to be at work yesterday.

Mr. W. H. Noyes, son of Mr. Chas. Noyes, East City, is in St. Louis for a week or two as grand audietr for the Order of the Brotherhood of Maintenance of Waymen.

What Ails You?

Do you feel weak, tired, despondent, have frequent headaches, coated tongue, bitter or bad taste in morning, "heartburn," belching of gas, acid risings in throat after eating, stomach gnaw or burn, foul breath, dizzy spells, poor or variable appetite, nausea at times and kindred symptoms?

If you have any considerable number of the above symptoms you are suffering from biliousness, torpid liver with indigestion, or dyspepsia. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is made up of the most valuable medicinal principles known to medical science for the permanent cure of such abnormal conditions. It is a most efficient liver invigorator, stomach tonic, bowel regulator and nerve strengthener.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" is not a patent medicine or secret nostrum, a full list of its ingredients being printed on its bottle-wrapper and attested under oath. A glance at its formula will show that it contains no alcohol, or harmful habit-forming drugs. It is a fluid extract made with pure, triple-refined glycerine, of proper strength, from the roots of the following native American forest plants, viz., Golden Seal root, Stone root, Black Cherry bark, Queen's root, Bloodroot, and Mandrake root.

The following leading medical authorities, among a host of others, extol the foregoing roots for the cure of just such ailments as the above symptoms indicate: Prof. R. Bartholow, M. D., of Jefferson Med. College Phila.; Prof. H. C. Wood, M. D., of Univ. of Pa.; Prof. Edwin M. Hale, M. D., of Hahnemann Med. College, Chicago; Prof. John King, M. D., Author of American Dispensatory; Prof. Jno. M. Scudder, M. D., Author of Specific Medicines; Prof. Laurence Johnson, M. D., Med. Dept. Univ. of N. Y.; Prof. Finley Ellingwood, M. D., Author of Materia Medica and Prof. in Bennett Medical College, Chicago. Send name and address on Postal Card to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., and receive free booklet giving extracts from writings of all the above medical authors and many others endorsing in the strongest possible terms, each and every ingredient of which "Golden Medical Discovery" is composed.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels. They may be used in conjunction with "Golden Medical Discovery" if bowels are much constipated. They're tiny and sugar-coated.

Dies Suddenly from Paralysis

The truth of the saying, "In the midst of life we are in death," was only too clearly proven on Monday night when Mr. Harry Rishea, 276 Romaine street, unexpectedly passed away. It seems that Mr. Rishea, apparently in good health, and with no visible signs of its approach, was suddenly stricken with paralysis at about 10.30, and died at midnight. He had worked all day at Matthews' packing house, and was in good health and spirits.

The late Mr. Rishea was 58 years of age and was born at Three Rivers, Quebec. He had resided in Peterborough during the past 35 years and was married to Miss Delmia Barette. Mr. Rishea was highly respected by those who knew him. For fifteen years he worked in the C. G. E. works, afterwards following up the bricklaying trade.

The deceased is mourned by his wife and family as follows: Mrs. A. H. Jones and Mrs. Jos. Ranger of this city, and Messrs. Harry, Amos and Frederick Rishea, his sons. His surviving brothers are Michael of Peterborough, Louis of Bracebridge, and Oliver of Parry Sound. Mr. Rishea was a member of the Catholic Order of Foresters.

The funeral will be held to-morrow morning at nine o'clock from the family residence, 276 Romaine street, to St. Peter's Cathedral, and thence to the Roman Catholic Cemetery.

Sports

HOCKEY.

The game between the Strathconas and the city league all stars on Friday night promises to be the hockey event of the season, and is attracting a great deal of interest among the hockey fans. President Fred. A. Clarke, of the city league, is picking the all stars, while the Strathconas will have their regular city league team in action.

NOONAN THE CHAMPION.

Cincinnati, O., Feb. 18.—Jas. Noonan, the Canadian Bowling Association champion, won the world's championship bowling title, and special prize at the international bowling tournament here yesterday. He beat his second opponent, Marshall Levy, the A. B. C. champion, by almost 100 points. The Western and National Bowling champions did not figure, only being able to make 1,521 and 1,562, respectively.

On the international matches completed thus far Canada won two championships and New York won the other. All of the champions will be entered in the Canadian tournament at Toronto. The Tosetti five-men team of Chicago broke the world's record late last night with a score of 2,886, bowled in the three games, and now lead in the tournament. The following is the international individual standing:

J. Noonan, Canada, 1,686; M. Levy, American Bowling Congress, 1,567; J. Morris, Western Bowling Congress, 1,561; F. Sauer, National Bowling Association, 1,502.

"BOB" EMSLIE HURT.

London, Feb. 18.—Nothing but the fact that the upper portion of the head of the veteran National League umpire, Robert Emslie, is covered by a very natural looking wig, saved his life at St. Thomas last night.

While the popular baseball dictator was pursuing the chief winter diversion, that of skipping a St. Thomas rink in the Coke Curling League, he became overheated from the strenuous skipping of an exciting rink, and walked over to the side of the rink to cool off for a moment. Directly above him was an attendant removing ice from the eaves with a heavy six foot crowbar. The window, as partly into the roof, was open, and the crowbar slipped from the hand of the man on the roof. It came down point formost, and piercing the umpire's hat like so much paper, it carried hat and wig with it along with a healthy-looking portion of Emslie's scalp.

The umpire was dazed for a moment, but escaped serious injury, and it was evident that if the wig had not deflected the crowbar with it, the veteran National League official would have been killed.

Emslie laughed over the incident, remarking that "he was accustomed to dodging baseballs, and didn't mind a crowbar or two."

News in Brief

In a recent statement in Winnipeg, Mr. William Whyte, second vice-president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, who is distinguished for moderation of judgment and practical sagacity, seems to have declared substantially for public management of the liquor traffic. Appearing on a deputation to the Manitoba Government, he urged that bars should be closed at 6 o'clock, and he made a vigorous attack on the treating system, and suggested that means should be devised for its legal extinction. According to the press reports he said that liquor was responsible for the majority of railway accidents. These statements carry high authority, and should be influential throughout the whole country.

London, Feb. 18.—It is declared here with some show of authority that the Prince of Wales will attend in August of this year, the 300th anniversary of the founding of Quebec by the French.

The Star intimated in its despatches some weeks ago that it was understood in some quarters that the Prince of Wales himself would grace the tercentenary celebrations at Quebec next August, when the Plains of Abraham will be declared a national park. War ships from three navies will be present.

Geneva, Feb. 19.—The spectacle of a runaway bobsleigh with a dead man sitting at the steering wheel was witnessed by the alarmed villagers along the mountain road between Leysin and Sepey yesterday.

The tragedy nearly caused the loss of four lives instead of one.

Four Swiss tourists had procured a large bobsleigh for the array run from Leysin, a lofty village nearly three miles above Sepey.

One of their number named Dercben, who had considerable experience in bob-sleighing, acted as steersman.

The quartet made several descents in safety, but the terrible speed was apparently too exhausting for Dercben, who was subject to heart disease. Shortly after the bobsleigh left Leysin on one of its trips, the man sitting behind Dercben saw him sway slightly, and his head dropped forward.

His hands still remained on the steering wheel, but the bobsleigh was not under control.

The other passengers thought that Dercben had fainted, but as they were unable to reach the wheel, or stop the bobsleigh, decided to hold on and trust to luck.

The bobsleigh travelled through Sepey at lightning speed, narrowly missed two other bobsleighs and dashed into a fountain.

Dercben's three friends received serious injuries and Dercben himself was found to have died from heart disease.

Five Geneva Alpinists rode on an avalanche in the Jura mountains yesterday, and one of them was killed.

The Pacific Fruit Cooling and Vaporizing Company, Incorporated for the purpose of cooling deciduous fruits and removing moisture from citrus fruits and keeping unde cold storage such fruits and other food products from the time of receiving them from the fruit growers until loaded on car and taken away by the Railroad Company for Eastern shipment.

STUBBORN FACTS UNIMPEACHABLE

The loss in shipping deciduous and citrus fruits is enormous. The orange crop of Southern California alone is valued at $30,000,000. The government experts estimate that about 25 per cent. or $7,500,000, is lost every year by rough handling in picking and decay of fruit in transit to the Eastern markets. What a revenue of profit this loss would be to the shipper if it could be saved. Our process will save it. The same is true of the deciduous fruits of Northern California.

GREAT FORTUNES ARE MADE BY INVESTING IN NECESSITIES

Fruit is one of the necessities of our civilized life, and the company that can place the fruit in the markets of the world in the best shape, in the quickest time, at the lowest rate, has a fortune within its grasp. The Armour Company in ten years made $5,000,000 net handling California fruit in refrigerator cars. Our process is as necessary to the fruit grower as the refrigerator car. Therefore we ought to receive as large a revenue for handling the same commodity.

GET IN WHILE THE ENTERPRISE IS NEW!

No wiser words were ever spoken than these: "The chief point about getting rich is to invest in a new enterprise that is being managed by successful men, who have some of their own money in the deal." "One good investment is worth a lifetime of labor". Think over this sentence. A man's daily labor will never make him rich. He must have some money at work for him. Money invested never goes on strike. Money invested never goes sick, keeps no holidays, never goes on strike. There are three things that ought to guide you: First, invest with honesty men; second, invest with men of sound judgment; third, invest under conditions where you get your full share of profits the business yields. Get into a company whose destiny is guided by men of this stamp when its future is secure and not behind it. Here is the secret of fortune. Plant the seed of your investment in the soil of opportunity, at the season of greatest promise when the enterprise is new. Every ounce of donor in the hearts of the men managing this company is pledged to give

A SQUARE DEAL FOR EVERY INVESTO

There will be no preferred stock. Every dollar invested will be worth 100 cents on the dollar. Our Directors, as honourable business men, will not allow any tricks of trade by which the small investor can be frozen out. Their commercial standing proves they are not "graiters". The poor man's 500 or 100 shares will have the same standing in court as the rich man's. 10,000, and they will draw the same proportionate dividend. We court investigation.

EVERY RICH MAN IN THE WORLD WAS ONCE POOR, OR HIS GRANDFATHER WAS.

THE OPPORTUNITY OF A LIFETIME

To get into a company that has the certainty of growth, the assurance of large and quick returns, a rapid advance in the price of stock, to make it an exceptional chance for big profits on a small investment. This is an ideal investment for the wage earner as well as the rich man. Moderate sums invested now will bring splendid returns in the near future. The logic of all this is

DON'T WAIT

Time is the essence of this proposition. The stock will certainly double in a short time. Jay Gould once said: "When you see a good investment don't wait to see if it pans out well, for by that time other people see it, too, and you have lost your opportunity."

WOMEN AS INVESTORS

Some of the heaviest stockholders in our company are women of keen business instincts. One lady in Los Angeles bought 5,000 shares. In a few days she returned and bought 5,000 more. This lady has never made a mistake in her business ventures. Women are good investors because they have courage to follow their convictions. Their intuitions are keener and truer than man's logic. Men may prevent her voting, but they can't prevent her drawing dividends on her investments. This is one branch of trade where sex, culture, or color does not count.

MANAGEMENT

The affairs of this company are in the hands of men of honesty, ability, courage and good business judgment—men who have made a success of their own business—men whose business reputation is A1 in the commercial circles in which they move.

These men are "square" and "shrewd". They will not deceive you nor will they be deceived themselves. Because of the promise of growth, permanency and profit this business offers they have united their money, energy, time and business experience to make this enterprise a grand success.

Notwithstanding the Financial Crisis, Investments made Six Months ago have Advanced

LET TRAIN RUN OVER HIM RATHER THAN BE DEPORTED

Irish Immigrant, When He Saw Train in Pursuit, Lay Down on the Track--Both Legs were Cut Off, and He Died of Injuries

Smith's Falls, Ont., Feb. 19. — The body of a stranger, an Irish immigrant from Toronto, it is said, lies in the public ward of the hospital here to-day as the result of a tragic occurrence on the C. P. R. at Shurbot Lake this morning at four o'clock.

The man was one of a dozen immigrants being deported, and was in a bourse car going with the others in charge of a guard. It seems he was opposed to going back to the old land and had resisted deportation in every possible way. At Shurbot Lake station he walked out of the car and made an attempt to escape by walking up the track. Some of the men about the platform had noticed him going off, and when an enquiry was made for him, they made known the fact. Immediately the train was backed up the line in pursuit and soon came within sight of him. When he saw the train bearing down on him, he lay down on the rails, evidently being more willing to die than to continue his journey back to the place from whence he had come. Before the train could be stopped the wheels of the last truck of the big Pullman car had passed over him completely severing both his legs close to the body.

The poor fellow was picked up and brought to the Smith's Falls hospital, but died an half an hour after reaching here. He remained consciousness for a few minutes just before he died, but refused to talk.

The man was about 38 or 40 years of age, and on some of his clothing there was the name of McCarthy.

It is not known yet what disposition will be made of his body.

The sad end of this Irish immigrant brings to mind the words of "Rory Darlang," the evicted tenant:

There's a country that they tell of
Far away across the sea,
Where they say there's luck and fortune
In store for you and me.
But if there's no room over there
And forth again we're cast,
There's another country left us
That will take us in at last.
It's up yonder, Rory Darling,
Where the stars are shining fair,
And there'll be no weary roaming
When we once are safe up there.

Shooting Incident In Toronto Restaurant Causes Excitement

Toronto, Feb 19.—About 11 o'clock this morning, while within three feet of Florence Smith in the kitchen of the Richelieu restaurant at 84 King street west, Robert J. Fleming, a porter in the Clarendon hotel, drew a six-chambered 32-calibre revolver and fired. The bullet grazed the girl's throat and lodged in a brick wall of the kitchen.

The left side of Miss Smith's face was burned and blackened by the powder of the discharge.

The girl, accompanied by 14-year-old Blanche McMahon, daughter of Thomas McMahon, proprietor of the restaurant, ran into King street.

"My God, my face, he has shot me!" shrieked the girl as followers by Blanche, ran east on King street to the corner of Bay street.

CLERK AMONG THE CROWD.

Attracted by the noise on the street, Lemuel A. Bradish, clerk in All Saints' church, who was passing in the cars, stopped and, like Dr. Chapman as to the trouble, and when Smith pointed to Fleming, who had also left the restaurant and was rushed in the direction of York street.

"The girl pointed him out to me and I followed him until I saw a policeman," said the lawyer to The Star. "The policeman took him into custody near York street."

WILLING TO GO BACK.

Fleming was walking quietly along the street when Policeman Robert Armstrong met him.

"There has been some trouble at the restaurant," said he to Armstrong. "I'll go back with you."

Accompanied by Armstrong, Fleming returned to the restaurant and was then taken to Court street Police station, where a charge of shooting with intent to kill was laid against him by Inspector William Davis.

The revolver was loaded in five chambers. The sixth had been discharged.

The shooting occurred in the kitchen of the restaurant, immediately in the rear of the dining room. It was Fleming's custom to go into the eating-house every morning for a bowl of soup, and he entered the morning ostensibly for that purpose.

He spoke to Miss Smith as she stood beside him at a long table running lengthways to the kitchen.

THE GIRL'S STORY.

Miss Smith is only 21 years old, and, although shaking in every limb and badly frightened, she was able to tell quite a connected story to The Star a few minutes after the shooting.

"Bob and I have been friends for some time," she said, "and a little while ago he asked me to keep company with him. I said I would if he gave up drinking. Last night we didn't exactly have a quarrel, but I told him if he didn't let the drink alone, I wouldn't have anything more to do with him.

"At last he said, 'Will you be friends?' I said 'Yes.' 'Well then,' he said, 'shake hands.' We shook hands, and he asked me to give him my ring as a keepsake. "Give it to me," he said, 'and I'll wear it forever.' I drew it off my finger and gave it to him.

"This morning, about ten minutes to seven, he came into the dining room where I was busy at the tables. He asked me if I would still keep company with him and I said again that I would if he gave up drinking.

SAW HIM DRAW REVOLVER.

"'Come here and I'll give you your keepsake,' he said then. I didn't go to him at the time and I saw him take a revolver from his coat pocket and put it in the top pocket of his trousers. He went from there into the kitchen, where Mrs. McMahon was working. "Tell Florrie I want to speak to her," he said. When I went into the kitchen, he was in the store room. I wouldn't go in there, because I was afraid, so I called 'No, I won't go in there because I am afraid of you.'

"He came out of the room and came to where I stood by the table. He did not say a word, but just pulled out the revolver and fired. Then I ran into the street. As I ran I heard him say, 'Don't forget that I have another one just like it left yet.'"

HAD THE WEAPON LAST WEEK.

"On Saturday night I was sick and he came to see me. He showed me a revolver then, and I know that he had one, so I was afraid of him. When he left me in the dining room he ran upstairs to his room in the hotel, where he got the revolver out of a satchel, where he kept it."

Before Fleming could make his escape Mr. McMahon seized him and endeavored to wrest the weapon from his hand, but without success.

SEVERAL SAW HIM SHOOT.

Mr. and Mrs. McMahon, Mrs. Dixon, a kitchen servant, and Blanche, the proprietor's daughter, were in the kitchen when the shooting took place. They were badly frightened, but the older women stood their ground and Mr. McMahon hurried out to find a policeman.

Just after Fleming left Patrol Sergeant Reeves and Policeman Brown searched the premises in the belief that Fleming was hiding in the building.

MISS SMITH AN ENGLISH GIRL.

Miss Smith came to Canada from England last October, and has been employed in the restaurant as a dining room girl ever since. She has no relatives in Canada.

Fleming has been in Toronto for some years, and until two months ago was employed about the restaurant for two years. He has been employed in the Clarendon Hotel as a porter since he left Mr. McMahon's restaurant.

As Fleming had only to go next door to get to the restaurant he did not wear an overcoat. The weapon was taken from his trouser pocket.

SHOT HURT HER EARS.

When seen by a reporter Miss Smith was holding both hands to her ears. Asked if she had been hurt there, she said that the shot had

BRITISH FLEET IS COMING TO CANADA

Halifax, N.S., Feb. 19.—Halifax is much interested in a report current here that a large British fleet will spend some time in this station during the summer, and while the Marine and Fisheries Department here know nothing of the matter, the British Admiralty is steadily increasing its reserve supply of coal and coke at the dockyards. There is now over 7,000 tons of Welsh coal and coke belonging to the Admiralty at the dock yards, and an Admiralty collier, the Camperdown, is due here next month with a large cargo of Welsh steam coal.

Oldest Canadian Dies at the Age of 119

Hamilton, Ont., Feb 19.—Word was received here to-day of the death near Waterford of Mrs. Elizabeth Funn, the oldest woman in Canada.

Mrs. Funn was an Indian woman, and claimed to be 119 years of age. She had many children, but they all predeceased her, and she resided for the past few years with her granddaughter, Mrs. Henry Mike, who is now an old woman.

Until five years ago Mrs. Funn was in possession of all of her faculties, by far the most five years she had been totally blind. Otherwise she enjoyed good health, until her final sickness.

For over 100 years she had been drawing an Indian allowance.

Run-Away Team Stuck in Drift

It was Mr. Robt. Edmison, of Smith township, who captured Mr. Lowe's runaway team Tuesday night after the accident, a report of which was given in yesterday's issue. While unable, before going to press to ascertain the above particular in time for the morning's issue, it might be added that the team had evidently, after the collision with the street car, made for their stable in the township of Emily. However, not having the guiding hand of man on the reins to direct them, the horses ran into a snow drift and were stuck there until released by Mr. Edmison.

Struck in the Face with a Crowbar

Conductor Adams, of the Cobourg mixed, will be laid off for a few days as the result of an accident this morning. It seems the genial conductor was using a crowbar this morning around the engine—perhaps to give her a lift up a hill with the heavy loads of freight collected on the road.

Anyway, the crowbar slipped and struck him in the face. At first it was thought the jaw was broken, but was learned that, although later it the injuries were severe, he was not quite so unlucky. He will be off duty for a few days.—Lindsay Post.

AMERICAN FALLS WOULD BECOME A MERE DRIBBLE

British Scientist Employed by Canada Shows Effect of Ontario Power Company's New Franchise, if Granted

Washington, Feb. 19.—J. W. Spencer, the British scientist, commissioned by the geological survey of Canada to investigate the Niagara Falls problem, discussed to-day the effect of the diversion of its waters by power plants upon its scenic beauty.

At the instance of the American Civic Federation Dr. Spencer has appeared before the House Rivers and Harbors Commission and presented data concerning the requests of the Ontario Power Company for a power franchise. To develop this power would require forty thousand cubic feet of water per second, which Dr. Spencer contended is from twenty to twenty-five per cent. of the discharge of Niagara River, and would greatly impair the characteristics of the whirlpool rapids, lower the river bed up to the Falls, break up the surface rock at the foot of the American Falls and Goat Island, and thereby cause a more rapid recession of the Horse Shoe.

"As the beginning of these rapids is marked by a rim over which the flow of water is already thin," said Dr. Spencer to-day, "the diversion of the water would destroy about 800 feet of flow on the eastern side of the great Horse Shoe and break up the American Falls into separate streams. The total length of both falls would be contracted roughly from four thousand feet to sixteen hundred feet, and the diameter of the great falls from 1,200 to 800 feet. This diversion of the water will produce a shrinkage of the Horse Shoe so that what remains will be entirely on the Canadian side of the boundary line."

He argued that the lowering of the water in the Niagara above the upper rapids would increase the slope of the river so that the surface of Lake Erie will be lowered by three feet, which in turn would lower lakes Huron and Michigan. Already with a partial use, Lake Erie has been lowered ten inches. The amount of lowering includes that of the Chicago Canal which at present is taking five thousand cubic feet a second.

Mr. Goodwill's Work Has Borne Fruit

It will be remembered that about a year ago the mother of a little boy named Shea deserted him and his younger sister, leaving them at the House of Providence. The step-mother said to the nuns and inform later on hand of the children over to the Children's Aid Society. Since then the girl has been adopted by a local family.

Mr. Goodwill, secretary of the Children's Aid Society, has, after closely questioning the boy, and going to much trouble in the way of voluminous correspondence, succeeded in locating the grandparents of the children at or near Sault Ste. Marie by name O'Malley. After arranging matters with O'Malley's solicitor at Sault Ste. Marie, Mr. Goodwill will have the boy sent to his grandparents next week.

RESULT UNCHANGED.

Gerrie, Feb. 19. — The recount of the local option ballots for the township of Howick took place here to-day before the Honor Judge Doyle, and still the vote remains as it was, four of a majority for the by-law.

C.P.R. HAD THEIR SNOW PLOWS OUT

The C. P. R. had snow plows out all day yesterday and early this morning working in the deep cuts between Myrtle and Peterborough, where it has been snowing pretty heavily. It is a bad piece of line when the snow comes, and the company are determined if possible to prevent any repetition of the bad tie-up of ten days ago.

Snow fences have been erected along stretches of the various lines where there are also many deep cuttings.

The trains, while running fairly well on time, had quite a coating of snow upon them when they pulled into Peterborough last night.

AUSTRALIA AND THE JAPANESE

The Australian newspapers, representing, doubtless, an undivided public opinion, are using very plain language in dealing with the Japanese question. The Sydney Morning Herald agrees that Asiatic exclusion is a very grave Imperial problem, and appreciates the difficulties and embarrassments which it causes to the Imperial Government. But it adds:

"It might as well be plainly and definitely understood in England, once for all, that, at whatever cost, the Commonwealth will determinedly adhere to the white ideal. If the Mother Country's protection were withdrawn, Australia might or might not be able to assert herself, but we should make the attempt; there is no possibility of compromise. Asiatic exclusion is a life-and-death matter for a small white community within jumping-off distance of the teeming Orient. In declaring for a white Australia, we have at stake Western civilization, our breed and our institutions. A white Australia keeps one of the finest stretches of the world's surface for the British race, which is the greatest service to the British connection of which we can conceive ourselves capable."

The Daily Telegraph of Sydney declares that it is the duty of Australians to secure the exclusion of Asiatics by means devised so as not to hurt racial feelings.

Norwood Council Upheld Their Choice

The Village Council of Norwood at its last session had quite an excitement over the appointment of a constable and street commissioner. It seems that at the meeting prior Mr. Jas. L. Johnston had been named for the "position"—like a secure constable, pound inspector, caretaker of the town hall and street commissioner. The emoluments for these varied branches of village usefulness amounted, outside the dignity of many offices, to $90 per annum. When a by-law was being drafted to confirm the offices and pay, some of the temperance people objected to the appointee as being opposed to local option. The arguments grew hotly, but the council maintained their original choice, Mr. Johnston having promised to enforce all by-laws during the time he took to make the yoke of municipal dignity of office.

Ex-Pupil of Local Colledge Dead

The many friends of Mr. Wm. Weir, of Lakehurst, will regret to learn of the death of his son, John A. Weir, at this home in Davidson, Sask., on Saturday, Feb. 8th, of typhoid fever, aged thirty years. The deceased was the fourth son of Wm. Weir and had been in the West for five years. He was married four years ago to Miss E. A. Bullard of Chandos, who with an child mourns the loss of a kind husband. Before going West he attended the Peterborough Business College and had many warm friends in Peterborough and Harvey Besides his wife and child, the deceased leaves to mourn his loss, his father, two brothers in Saskatchewan, two brothers in Harvey and one sister, Mrs. J. L. S. Freeman, of Belmont.

Interment took place at Davidson.

John Hicks Had Both Feet Frozen

On Tuesday a victim of the extremely cold weather, in the person of Mr. John Hicks, of Chatham, arrived in Lindsay in a serious condition. Hicks, who is about 70 years of age and a carriage builder by trade, had been looking for work at Orillia, but not being successful, was only able to pay his fare to Beaverton, from which point he undertook to walk to Lindsay on Saturday. On account of a heavy rainstorm, he went into a settler's shack near Leonardsville, on the road side, where he discovered that his feet were frozen. A kind-hearted farmer took him home and looked after him until Tuesday, when he brought him to Lindsay and interested several citizens in his behalf. Alderman Eyres secured for him a ticket to Fort Hope, where he has a sister.

Mixed Marriages-- Bishops Have Power to Grant Dispensations

Montreal, Feb. 20.—"There is no truth whatever in the report that the Pope is about to withdraw the permission given to the Bishops to grant dispensations in mixed marriages," declared his Grace Archbishop Bruchesi today. "On contrary, this power continues, the Pope has full confidence in this matter, but just as in the civil government of the country powers are entrusted to the officers of the government, so in the church his Holiness entrusts to the bishops certain functions which they discharge under his authorization. Thus, in the matter of mixed marriages, his Holiness, recognizing that the bishops are necessarily better informed of local conditions in each country, leave in their hands the granting of dispensations for such mixed marriages."

While speaking on the subject of mixed marriages his Grace referred to his recent pronouncement on the subject. "I have never declared," he said, "that I would never grant dispensations and often meetings. And even in the United States, all such dispensations, and methods they are bestowed as genuine. What I did state, and what I wish to reiterate and impress upon my people, is that these dispensations will not be granted as they have been in the past. We did come to a point where the facility of obtaining such dispensations was becoming an abuse, and I determined, with the approval of the chapter and clergy of the archdiocese, that a stop must be put to the practice."

A large number of applications for dispensations have been made since his Grace issued his pastoral on the subject, but in each and every case, upon the authority delegated to him by the Pope, his Grace had refused to grant the dispensation. He has had no reason so far to regret his action in the matter. "I may add," declared his Grace, "that my pastoral on the subject has received the express approval of his Holiness as well as of the Propaganda, as expressed in the letters which they have written me."

Do You Open Your Mouth

Like a young bird and gulp down whatever food or medicine may be offered you? Or, do you want to know something of the composition and character of that which you take into your stomach whether as food or medicine?

Most intelligent and sensible people now-a-days insist on knowing what they employ whether as food or as medicine. Dr. Pierce believes they have a perfect right to insist upon such knowledge. So he publishes broadcast and on each bottle-wrapper, what his medicines are made of and vouches for them. This he feels he can well afford to do because the more the ingredients of which his medicines are made are studied and understood the more will their superior curative virtues be appreciated.

For the cure of woman's peculiar weaknesses, irregularities and derangements, giving rise to frequent headaches, backache, dragging-down pain or distress in lower abdominal or pelvic region, accompanied, oftimes, with a debilitating, pelvic, catarrhal drain and kindred symptoms of weakness, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a most efficient remedy. It is equally effective in curing painful periods, in giving strength to nursing mothers and in preparing the system of the expectant mother for baby's coming, thus rendering childbirth safe and comparatively painless. The "Favorite Prescription" is a most potent, strengthening tonic to the general system and to the organs distinctly feminine in particular. It is also a soothing and invigorating nervine and cures nervous exhaustion, nervous prostration, neuralgia, hysteria, spasms, chorea or St. Vitus's dance, and other distressing nervous symptoms attendant upon functional and organic diseases of the distinctly feminine organs.

A host of medical authorities of all the several schools of practice, recommend each of the several ingredients of which "Favorite Prescription" is made for the cure of the diseases for which it is claimed to be a cure. You may read what they say for yourself by sending a postal card request for a free booklet of extracts from the leading authorities, to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., and it will come to you by return post.

Fire Brigade at Home Tomorrow

The members of the local Fire Brigade are going to supplement their recent largely attended and successful "At Home" in the Fire Hall by a similar function to-morrow. A cordial invitation extended to those who were present at the former "At Home" under the auspices of the firemen. A committee has the matter in hand and is making all arrangements in connection with the event.

News in Brief

CHINA'S RIGHTS IGNORED.

Pekin, Feb. 19.—In view of the protest lodged by China against the establishment of a municipal administration by Russia at Harbin, the Russian Minister to China, M. Pokotieff, has communicated to the representatives of the powers here an explanation of the Russian position. He says the Russian claims in this matter are justified by the convention with China giving Russia the right to administer the railroad lands in Manchuria.

Although the Russian municipalities in Manchuria are being established slowly, as is the case at Harbin, for instance, the procedure is a source of anxiety to China, especially on account of the attitude assumed by Japan. The Tokio Government is making extensive plans to follow the example of Russia and set up extra-territorial municipalities in Manchuria to accommodate the increasing Japanese population.

WENT AWAY TO DIE.

Ottawa, Feb. 19.—The lifeless body of Joshua Johnson, an Ottawa carpenter, was found on an island in the Ottawa River above Chaudiere Falls yesterday. He had been drinking heavily of late, and evidently went out to the island determined to commit suicide. The body was found with the throat gashed and a razor lying nearby in the snow. Johnson was 51 years of age, and leaves a wife and three children. Raymond Johnson, a son, escaped three days ago from the Industrial School at Minico and has not yet been found.

TERRORISTS ARE FLEEING.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 19. — The appointment of Gen. Von Boeckman to be Governor of Finland has produced a great degree of excitement among the revolutionists and terrorists, who in the past have found Finland a convenient base of operations. They are now fleeing. This exodus will greatly facilitate the work of guarding the lives of prominent personages in St. Petersburg.

Immigrants Get One Year and Fine of $500 for Ignoring Natal Act

Vancouver, B.C., Feb. 19.—The full penalties possible under the Natal Act of the Provincial Government were yesterday inflicted on the two Japanese arrested last Friday for entering British Columbia in defiance of the Act. Each man was fined five hundred dollars, and sentenced to 12 months' imprisonment, pending the government's appeal for the deportation, in order to teach the Japanese a salutary lesson.

It is known that the Department of Justice at Ottawa has instructed counsel in the matter, but D. G. MacDonald, who appeared for the Japanese, refuses to admit that he is acting in any way for the Federal authorities. Robert Cassady, K.C., appeared for the province in the prosecution.

The Japanese refused to take advantage of the option granted by the magistrate that each furnish security in two sums of two hundred and fifty dollars and take their liberty on condition of immediately leaving the province. The Japanese Consul is understood to have instructed the men to remain in jail and fight the matter out pending the decision of the Supreme Court on the constitutionality of the Act, which will be brought into question to-day, on habeas corpus proceedings. It is argued here that Ottawa will not disallow the Act.

Ottawa, Feb. 20.—The official copy of the Natal Act, as passed by the British Columbia legislature, reached the State Department here this morning, and was immediately referred to the Justice Department for consideration.

Hon. Mr. Aylesworth's report as to the constitutionality of the act will be presented to the next meeting of the Cabinet on Thursday next. As act is practically the same as one previously passed by British Columbia, and disallowed as being ultra vires. It is therefore practically certain that the act will be disallowed by the Governor in Council on Thursday next, unless the action taken meanwhile in a British Columbia court to effect the release under habeas corpus proceedings of the Japanese now under arrest for contravention of the act should result in making it unnecessary for the government here to intervene. If the court decides that the province has no power to enforce the act, the Provincial Government may forthwith submit to the ruling without an appeal to a higher court, and desist from their present efforts to put the act in force, especially in view of the fact that any Japanese or Chinese immigrant detained for refusal to submit to the educational test prescribed will have a good case for damages against the province.

Grippe is sweeping the country. Stop it with Preventics, before it gets deeply seated. To check early colds with these little Candy Cold Cure Tablets is surely sensible and safe. Preventics contain no Quinine, no laxative, nothing harsh or sickening. Pneumonia would never appear if early colds were promptly broken. Also good for feverish children. Large box, 48 tablets, 25 cents. Vest pocket boxes, 5 cents. Sold by all dealers.

POLICE

Last night the police arrested a young girl by the name of Lilian Armitage, and a man, whose name we were unable to obtain from police headquarters, for an act of indecency. The arrest was made in the vicinity of the Post Office lane. No information could be obtained from the police.

SICK WOMEN MADE WELL

Thousands Find the Way Back to Health Through Ferrozone.

No need for so many sick girls and women.

Their ills are curable if they give them proper treatment.

Nutrition must be supplied, blood must be enriched, nerves strengthened, and additional power given to digestion.

Ferrozone does this and more; it cures such cases as Mrs. N. E. Peabody of Trenton. She was a wreck,—never thought medicine was made that could restore her, yet Ferrozone was successful.

Among her troubles were;

Headaches, Weariness,
Nervousness, Weakness,

SOCIALISM IN ENGLAND

As a matter of sentiment merely, the rapid progress of Socialism in Great Britain, and particularly in England, need excite little wonder. For half a century the sharp contrast between the life in life of the very rich and the extremely poor has more and more engrossed the thoughts of the philanthropic. Charles Kingsley, in Alton Locke, Mrs. Humphrey, in Robert Elsmere, and a host of others, have voiced the cry of the great under-world, and shown the need, not merely of benevolence, but of a more conscientious grappling with a mighty problem. Every humane observer, high or low, recognized the demand for some amelioration of the existing situation. It was in this sense that Lord Salisbury, not long before his death, said: "We are all Socialists now."

In the presence of such a problem, however, enlightened political economy after generations of effort, still stands baffled. Charitism was a blind groping after the light by untrained minds. Owenism, Fourierism, and the like, were the work of educated men, but mere theorists, and failed to stand the test of actual practice. Of late the question has been, how far the so-called Labor element of England is prepared to embrace the tenets of German Socialism — that is to say, the philosophy of Karl Marx and Lassalle, here, with their followers, have managed to keep all Europe in a ferment. At the recent Labor congress in Hully, this element — now thoroughly organized as a political party, and largely represented in parliament—apparently swung over bodily to the dreaded cult, and hoisted the red flag.

In relation to British politics, this may mean, sooner or later, a readjustment of party lines. One great cross-division—that concerning home rule in Ireland—led to the detachment of the Unionists from the Liberal party, and the strengthening of the Tories. Another great cross-division — that concerning tariff reform — seems likely to produce a cleavage in both the old parties. The third cross-division will almost exclusively benefit the Conservative party. For many years there has been much more in common between the moderate Tories and the Whigs, than between the Whigs and the Radicals. And if the Socialist propaganda ever really threatens the rights of landholders and manufacturers, these classes will unite to down the rising spectre. A single vote in the house of commons, regardless of party distinctions, may settle the matter for a long period. If the Labor party, still clinging to Socialism, ever acquires the balance of power, property holders will form a coalition, and then will come the Armageddon between the class and the masses.

It is unlikely that affairs will ever drift so far. For one thing, the Liberal party will try to meet the most eminent requirements of the down-trodden. It is doing so now in its old-age pension scheme. For another thing, German Socialism will never be accepted by so practical a people as the British. It is too doctrinaire. It involves too many obvious fallacies such as that manual labor is the only labor worth regarding, that wealth should be equally divided, regardless of moral character, mental ability or thrift, and that the principle of competition is vicious. Sympathize as we may with the dreamers, we cannot but shrink from the pathway by which they would realize their vision. And in proportion as the board schools do their work, and the British working classes become capable of systematic thinking, a chimerical political economy will be abandoned. Among "men of light and leading" very few now adhere to the older political economy undiluted — the dismal science, as it used to be called, of unfettered individualism, with no hope for those who fall behind in the race. Altruism has corrected one extreme. Socialism, calling for confiscation, would be another. The Anglo-Saxon race prefers evolution to revolution.

Amid all the rubbish, it is gratifying to know that there is a school of Socialism, which cannot leave the world too quickly. It is called Christian Socialism, and in essence it means the fuller application of the golden rule. Under its reign, the employer will be the father of his men—not regarding them as machines — and —will promote their moral, mental and physical welfare. Under its benign influence, employees will study the interests of their employers, executing their tasks conscientiously, taking artistic pride in their work, preventing waste, and striving to increase the net profit of the whole enterprise. Attempts to realize this ideal are seen in schemes for co-operation in production and distribution, profit-sharing in trading, model cities for operatives, etc.

In a word, everything Socialists can reasonably want may be found in the New Testament. When Christianity is better understood, and more faithfully applied, the shadows will flee. The day is dawning when "man to man the warl' o'er shall brithers be an' a' that."

CHEESE EXPORT TRADE

P. B. MacNamara, Canadian Trade Commissioner at Manchester, England, in writing to the Department of Trade and Commerce, Ottawa, under January 15th, referring to the Canadian cheese trade, says:—

"One of the largest wholesale produce houses of this city states that the prospects at this moment are for higher prices, in view of the fact that Canada will close the season with about 250,000 boxes short, which in itself must have a great influence in forcing up the price on this side; although the average weekly consumption is not so great as last year yet it is above the average of late years, being about 45,000 boxes per week.

"The price 62s. to 65s. rules about the same as last year, but it is expected to reach 67s. in February. Customers throughout the country now realize that the shortage is genuine, and are turning their attention to same by buying forward to the extent of a few weeks' supply, whereas all through the season the buying has been from day to day.

"What the prospects for the coming season will be is too early to predict, but it is to be hoped that the spirit of speculation and cornering of this food product will not be manipulated by just a select few to the great disadvantage of the whole trade. They are pleased to report that the quality of the goods sent has been fairly good and that the shipping of green cheese has been conspicuous by its absence, which has done much to keep the good name of Canadian cheese well to the fore in this great market."

The last sentence contained in the above observation to the effect that the quality of the goods exported is better and that article known as "green cheese" is conspicuous by its absence, will be received with feelings of genuine satisfaction by all interested in dairying. It is of vital importance that the standard be kept up, and one of the best means of attaining that end is to ship none but properly matured cheese—a product that will not alone command a high price but will help expand the trade and create a bigger market for the Canadian output. We have the soil in Ontario to produce the right article, and by the adoption of the modern methods of sanitation in the process of manufacture and shipping the goods properly, the market will continue to adapt itself in the future as it has in the past, and Canadian dairy products will always be the kind that a critical foreign trade exacts.

Mr. P. M. Cameron Has Passed Away

The first white settler born in Asphodel is dead, at the venerable age of eighty-six years. In the year 1821 there was born to that township Peregrine Maitland Cameron, who first saw light near the shores of Rice Lake. His father was the late Mr. John Cameron, who, at the time of the birth of the deceased P. M. Cameron, lived near where Capt. Birdsall's house now stands, but afterwards moved to Cameron Point. The late Mr. P. M. Cameron was one of a family of nine, all of whom, but one sister, had predeceased him. Mr. Cameron passed away on the 13th instant, and his death removes one of the oldest and most widely known residents of the county.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

Sealed Tenders addressed to the undersigned, marked, on the envelope 'Tender for Construction,' will be received at the office of the Commissioners of the Transcontinental Railway, at Ottawa, until twelve o'clock, noon, of Tuesday, the 10th day of March, 1908, for the work required for the construction, in accordance with the plans, profiles and specifications of the Commissioners, of the following sections of the Transcontinental Railway, viz:—

(1) District 'A'.—From a point designated on the plans of the Commissioners, about the 65th mile west of Moncton, to the crossing of the Intercolonial Railway at or about mile 97.7, a distance of about 32.7 miles.

(2) District 'A'.—From a point designated on the plans of the Commissioners, at or about the crossing of the Intercolonial Railway by the Transcontinental Railway at mile 97.7 west of Moncton to the Tobique River, at or about mile 165.7 less one mile, a distance of about 67 miles.

(3) District 'A'.—From a point designated on the plans of the Commissioners, at or near the Tobique River, to a point shown on the said plans about 2 1-2 miles west of the Town of Grand Falls, in the Province of New Brunswick, a distance of about 31.5 miles.

(4) District 'B'.—From a point designated on the plans of the Commissioners, at or near the boundary line between the Provinces of Quebec and New Brunswick, westerly a distance of about 52.4 miles.

(5) District 'D'.—From a point designated on the plans of the Commissioners, about eight miles west of the Abitibi River crossing, in the Province of Ontario, westerly for a distance of about 140 miles.

(6) District 'E'.—From a point designated on the plans of the Commissioners, about 19 1-2 miles west of the crossing of Mud River, near Lake Nepigon, in the Province of Ontario, easterly for a distance of about 75 miles.

Plans, profiles and specifications may be seen in the office of the Chief Engineer of the Commissioners at Ottawa; also in the offices of the District Engineers concerned, viz:—Guy C. Dunn, St. John, N. B.; A. E. Doucet, Quebec, P. Q.; John Ayles, Acting District Engineer, North Bay, Ont.; and T. S. Armstrong, Nepigon, Ont.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made in duplicate, and on the printed forms supplied by the Commissioners.

A separate tender must be submitted for each section.

Tenderers shall not be in any way entitled to rely upon the classification, or any other information given by any person on behalf of the Commissioners; and before submitting any tender, bidders should make a careful examination of the plans, profiles, drawings and specifications and read the forms to be executed, and fully inform themselves as to the quantity and quality of materials, and character of workmanship required; and are understood to accept, and agree to be bound by, the terms and conditions in the form of contract, specifications, etc., annexed to the form of tender.

Each tender must be signed and sealed by all the parties to the tender, and witnessed, and be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered bank of the Dominion of Canada, payable to the order of the Commissioners, of the Transcontinental Railway, as follows:—

For Section No. 1,	District 'A'...	$ 75,000
For Section No. 2,	District 'A'...	100,000
For Section No. 3,	District 'A'...	75,000
For Section No. 4,	District 'B'...	100,000
For Section No. 5,	District 'D'...	150,000
For Section No. 6,	District 'E'...	100,000

Any person whose tender is accepted shall within ten days after the acceptance thereof furnish such additional approved security as may be required by the Commissioners; sign the contract, specifications, and other documents required to be signed by the said Commissioners; and, in any case of refusal or failure on the part of the party whose tender is accepted to complete the whose tender is accepted to complete and execute a contract with the said Commissioners, and to furnish the additional approved security within ten days after the acceptance of the tender, the said cheque shall be forfeited to the Commissioners as liquidated damages for such refusal or failure and all contracts rights acquired by the acceptance of the tender shall be forfeited. The cheques deposited by parties whose tenders are accepted will be deposited to the credit of the Receiver General of Canada as part of the security for the due and faithful performance of the contract according to its terms. Cheques deposited by parties whose tender are rejected will be returned within ten days after the signing of the contract.

Attention is called to the following clauses in the form of contract:—

'All mechanics, labourers, or other persons who perform labour for the purposes of the construction of the works hereby contracted for, shall be paid such wages as are generally accepted as current for competent workmen in the district in which the work is being performed, and if there is no current rate in such district, then a fair and reasonable rate; and, in the event of a dispute arising as to what is the current or a fair and reasonable rate, it shall be determined by the Commissioners, whose decision shall be final.'

'This agreement is subject to the regulations now in force, or which may at any time hereafter be in force during the construction of the works hereby contracted for, made under the authority of the Department of Labour, and which are, or shall be, applicable to such works.' (The schedule of minimum wages determined upon by said Department will form part of the contract).

The contractor shall in connection with the whole of the said work, as far as practicable, use only material, machinery, plant, supplies, and rolling stock manufactured or produced in Canada, provided the same can be obtained as cheaply, and upon as good terms, in Canada as elsewhere, having regard to quality and price.'

The contractor shall conform to the fire regulations adopted by the Commissioners, and also to the laws and regulations respecting fires in the different provinces wherein the work is being performed.

The right is reserved to reject any or all tenders.

TRENT CANAL
ONTARIO-RICE LAKE DIVISION
SECTION NO. 3.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

Sealed Tenders addressed to the undersigned and endorsed "Tender for Trent Canal," will be received until 12 o'clock on Thursday, 13th March, 1908, for the works connected with the construction of Section No. 3, Ontario-Rice Lake Division of the Canal.

Plans, specifications, and the form of the contract to be entered into, can be seen on an after the 6th February, 1908, at the office of the Chief Engineer of the Department of Railways and Canals, Ottawa, at the office of the Superintending Engineer, Trent Canal, Peterborough, Ont., and at the office of Mr. J. B. Brophy, Division Engineer, Trenton, Ont., at which places forms of tender may be obtained.

Parties tendering will be required to accept the fair wages Schedule prepared or to be prepared by the Department of Labor, which Schedule will form part of the contract.

Contractors are requested to bear in mind that tenders will not be considered, unless made strictly in accordance with the printed forms, and in the case of firms, unless there are attached the actual signatures, the nature of the occupation, and place of residence of each member of the firm.

An accepted bank cheque for the sum of $10,000 must accompany each tender, which sum will be forfeited, if the party tendering declines entering into contract for the work, at the rates stated in the offer submitted.

The cheque thus sent in will be returned to the respective contractors whose tenders are not accepted.

The advertisement dated the 16th January, 1908, is hereby cancelled.

Good coal stock is a safe and sure investment. Galbraith shares are especially attractive.

Modest Capitalization — Large Coal Reserves

This Company organized under the laws of the Northwest Territories of Canada, owns and operates the Galbraith mine located at Lundbreck, Alta. They have four vertical seams of coal traversing their property, aggregating over 40 feet in thickness. Three of these seams are developed to a depth of 350 feet, and as they pass through the Company's lands for nearly a mile, some idea of the amount of coal may be had.

Shipping Steadily

The present output of the mine is about 200 tons per day. These shipments will be rapidly increased, as the C.P.R. allows its cars to be loaded with coal for points in the U. S.

in blocks of 100 or over. Tight money in the States makes it possible for us to give this unprecedented offer in stock that will be paying dividends inside of six months, and you are sure to realize a handsome profit.

Parties ordering can send money by P. O. Orders, Express Orders or Bank Drafts, and we will have the stock issued direct to you. Full information furnished on request. Correspondence solicited. Reference, Bank of Montreal

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTHWEST HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an Agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of a homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father or mother.

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line exclusive of the width of road allowance crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing must be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa, of intention to apply for patent.

W. W. CORY,
Deputy of the Minister of the Interior.

Y.M.C.A. Provincial Sec. will Give Address

Mr. C. M. Courtland, Provincial Secretary of the Y. M. C. A., will give the leading address at the members' banquet here on Thursday night, which will be held in the gymnasium.

Several of the members will, however, speak on "How We Can Improve Our Association." Music both vocal and instrumental will be rendered by popular artists of our city. Members are asked to secure their tickets as soon as possible so that the committee will be able to know how many to provide for.

Trees and Fools.

Any fool can destroy trees. They cannot run away, and if they could they would still be destroyed—chased and hunted down as long as fun or a dollar could be got out of their bark hides, branching horns or magnificent bole backbones. Few that fell trees plant them. Nor would planting avail much toward getting back anything like the noble primeval forests. During a man's life only saplings can be grown in the place of the old trees, tens of centuries old, that have been destroyed. It took more than 3,000 years to make some of the trees in these western woods—trees that are still standing in perfect strength and beauty, waving and singing in the mighty forests of the Sierra. God has cared for these trees, saved them from drought, disease, avalanches and a thousand straining, leveling tempests and floods, but he cannot save them from fools. Only Uncle Sam can do that.—John Muir of California.

Dairy and Creamery

A rented farm where both owner and tenant are receiving adequate compensation for their investment and services and where ample returns are made to the soil to insure larger and better yields with each succeeding year should attract more than passing notice. Such conditions exist on a farm located in southern Michigan. It is a dairy farm of 120 acres, 106 acres tillable, two and a half acres in natural pastures and the remainder taken up by lanes, roads, yards and buildings.

Sawdust is used for bedding in the stalls and as an absorbent. This renders the manure especially adaptable for disking in, as in the case of fitting oat stubble for alfalfa. No ill effects on the soil have ever been noticed from the use of this material.

from the stable and dumps it on a manure spreader. The spreader stands on a rectangular cement foundation built with sides about two feet above the floor. The ends of the floor are raised, so that any drippings from the spreader cannot escape, but not high enough to prevent driving the spreader on or off. By keeping some absorbent litter, which is changed when necessary, on this foundation all the liquid as well as the solid manure is saved without recourse to a manure cistern. A roof over this foundation, supported by seven foot posts, keeps off rain and snow. The manure is hauled to the fields daily. Experience has shown that it injures the texture of the soil very much to drive a loaded wagon over it when it is too wet. To avoid this trouble, the building in the near future of a shed large enough to store the manure accumulating during the wet periods of the year is contemplated. Enough manure is produced by the herd to cover the whole farm with six to eight tons to the acre each year.

Machinery Equipment.

The implements and machinery in use on this farm are three wagons, two disk harrows, one smoothing harrow, two walking plows, one gang disk plow, two two-horse cultivators, one corn binder, one mowing machine, one two-row cultivator, one manure spreader, one weeder, one combined fertilizer and grain drill, one fifteen horsepower gasoline engine and one silage cutter. One of the best tools is a float made of three eight-foot poles weighted so as to make a good load for three heavy horses.

Work and Wages.

Five men are employed the year round. Four of them milk from ten to fifteen cows each. Two of the milkers drive the delivery wagons on the city milk route and take care of the cans and milking utensils. One attends to feeding the stock and to the chores about the barns. The fourth while not milking is engaged at labor in the fields. One man devotes his entire time to general work in the fields. A few day hands are hired during busy times, such as the haying and silo filling seasons.

The milking takes about two hours twice a day. It is the first work done in the morning, commencing at 4:30, and is finished in the evening at 6 o'clock. It takes the two men who drive the milk wagons about five hours to deliver the milk and one hour to take care of the wagons and cans. The farm men work about nine hours in the field.

The two men who drive the milk wagons receive $25 a month. The barn man gets $4 a week. One farm hand is paid $23 a month; the other, a boy, $18 a month. The wages paid the temporary help vary from 20 cents a day for boys to $2.50 a day for skilled men. All the laborers are furnished board.

Causes of "Hard Milking."

"Hard milking" occurs from varied causes. Sometimes the trouble is due to an unnatural construction of the entire length of the canal of the teat, sometimes to new growths along its course and not infrequently to little shotlike bodies attached to a pedicle, which drop down into the canal from above and form a sort of a ball valve obstruction. Again the trouble may come from injuries to the lower part (the sphincter of the teat). These last causes usually arise from injuries received from without and occasionally are due to warty growths at the opening of the teat.

Attractive Butter Prints.

Butter, if put up in prints, should be wrapped in parchment paper to preserve it. Prints should be rectangular and have a neat, trim appearance. Whatever may be the condition, the man that puts his butter up in the handsomest packages will sell the most butter if other conditions are equal.

Union in Failure.

Men are united more by their vices than their virtues, observed Balzac. It is also true that they are more closely bound by their failures than their successes. How a man will love you if you have fallen down like himself when perhaps you should both have woe out were there any real stuff in you.—Michael Monahan.

True honor leaves no room for hesitation and doubt.—Plutarch.

A BUSINESS LESSON.

How Peter Cooper Taught One Man the Value of Money.

Peter Cooper was one of the most successful, careful and prudent business men of his time. He was strongly opposed to the methods of many merchants who launched out into extravagant enterprises on borrowed money, for which they paid exorbitant rates of interest. The following anecdote illustrates this point very forcibly:

Once, while talking about a project with an acquaintance, the latter said he would have to borrow the money for six months, paying interest at the rate of 3 per cent per month.

"Why do you borrow for so short a time?" Mr. Cooper asked.

"Because the brokers will not negotiate bills for longer."

"Well, if you wish," said Mr. Cooper, "I will discount your note at that rate for three years."

"Are you in earnest?" asked the would be borrower.

"Certainly I am. I will discount your note for $10,000 for three years at that rate. Will you do it?"

"Of course I will," said the merchant.

"Very well," said Mr. Cooper. "Just sign this note for $10,000, payable in three years, and give your check for $800, and the transaction will be complete."

"But where is the money for me?" asked the astonished merchant.

"You don't get any money," was the reply. "Your interest for thirty-six months at 3 per cent per month amounts to 108 per cent, or $10,800. Therefore your check for $800 just makes us even."

The force of this practical illustration of the folly of paying such an exorbitant price for the use of money was such that the merchant determined never to borrow at such ruinous rates, and he frequently used to say that nothing could have so fully convinced him as this rather humorous proposal by Mr. Cooper.

HIS RULING PASSION.

Old Harpagon Carried It to the Brink of the Grave.

The following story is commonly related as true in France: Old Harpagon was fast approaching his end. His sufferings were very great, but he comforted himself with the thought that while he could not eat there was so much saved at any rate.

"Well, doctor," he said in a feeble voice, "how long have I yet to live?"

"Only half an hour. Would you like me to send for somebody—a clergyman, for instance?"

Harpagon was silent for a few moments. He passed his hand over his chin, bristling with a grisly beard of several days' growth, when a sudden thought struck him, and, turning to the doctor, he gasped excitedly:

"Quick—send for—a barber!"

The barber soon afterward arrived with his shaving tackle.

Harpagon, whose voice was getting weaker, asked him, "You—charge—twopence—for shaving?"

"That's the price," was the answer.

"And—how much—is it—for shaving a corpse?"

The barber paused a moment and then said, "Five shillings."

"Then—shave—me—quickly," stammered old Harpagon, casting a feverish glance at the watch which the doctor still held in his hand.

He was too feeble to utter another word, but the doctor understood the mute appeal and said:

"Fifteen minutes more!"

A smile of satisfaction stole over the features of the patient. The barber set to work and in a very short time finished his task notwithstanding the nervous twitchings that distorted the face of the dying man. When the operation was over old Harpagon uttered a sigh of relief and was heard to whisper:

"That's a good thing—four shillings—and tuppence—saved!" And he breathed his last.—London Chronicle.

Contentment in a Pawnshop.

A watch had just passed from the hands of a seedy young man into those of a pawnbroker. Before the young man got out of the shop the broker called him back.

"Here's a picture—a woman's picture—in the back of this watch," he said. "You'd better take it out."

The young man blushed.

"It isn't worth while," he said. "I'll redeem the thing in a week or two."

"Maybe you will and maybe you won't," retorted the broker. "You never can tell about these things. I may not be strong on sentiment, but one thing I insist on is that no man shall leave a woman's picture in a watch that he pawns here."

Ageless Love.

It is a splendid thing to think that the woman you really love will never grow old to you. Through the wrinkles of time, through the mask of years, if you really love her, you will always see the face you loved and won. And a woman who really loves a man does not see that he grows old. He is not decrepit to her. He does not tremble. He is not old. She always sees the same gallant gentleman who won her hand and heart.—Robert G. Ingersoll.

PAIN

Pain is the hand—pain anywhere, has its cause. Pain is congestion, pain is blood pressure—nothing else usually. At least, so says Dr. Shoop, and he proves it he has created a little pink tablet. That tablet—it is Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablet—means blood pressure away from pain centers. Its effect is charming, pleasingly delightful. Gently, though safely, it surely equalizes the blood circulation.

If you have a headache, it's blood pressure.
If it's painful periods with women, same cause.
If you are sleepless, restless, nervous, it's blood congestion—blood pressure. That surely is a certainty, for Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets stop it in 20 minutes, and the tablets simply distribute the unnatural blood pressure.

Rub the pain finger, and doesn't it get red, and swell, and pain you? Of course it does. It's congestion, blood pressure. You'll find it where pain is—always. It's simply Common Sense.

We sell at 25 cents, and cheerfully recommend

The Great Provincial Charity, The Hospital for Sick Children, Calls On You For Aid.

Remember that this Hospital is not a local institution, but Provincial.

"I LIKED PICTURES"

It cares for every sick child in the Province of Ontario whose parents cannot afford to pay for treatment. Many dollars are better than idle tears. The sympathy that Weeps is good, but the Hospital hosts have the sympathy that Works.

Last year there were 1093 patients admitted. Of these 370 came from 254 places outside of Toronto—all were children of poor people who could not afford to pay for treatment of their little ones.

Each child was in the Hospital 47½ days at a cost of $1.31 each per day, or $62.22 for the 47½ days stay.

If your dollar could straighten the foot of a little boy or girl with club foot, you would gladly give it, and your dollar will do that. There were 70 cases of club foot treated last year. Out of the 70, about 50 were from the country.

If you know of any child in your county who is sick or has club feet, and whose parents can not afford to pay, send the names to the Hospital Secretary.

The clinic doors are open. Won't you let the Hospital take your name down for a few shares in Heaven's own work of healing little children?

A great issue of Mercy—the raising stock that always pays dividends—is brought with the money that helps The Hospital for Sick Children to restore the Gold of Life from the Quarry of Death.

Please send contributions to J. Ross Robertson, Chairman, or to Douglas Davidson, Sec.-Treas., of the Hospital for Sick Children, College Street, Toronto.

If you have Catarrh, rid yourself of this repulsive disease. Ask Dr. Shoop, of Racine, Wis., to mail you free a trial box of his Dr. Shoop's Catarrh Remedy. A simple, single test, will surely tell you a Catarrh truth well worth your knowing. Write to-day. Don't suffer longer.

THE GIRL WHO EARNS HER LIVING

One of the marvellous developments of modern life is the advent of woman as a co-laborer with man throughout the entire industrial field.

It follows then that woman must adapt herself to new conditions. But this can't be done in one generation nor in ten. In consequence she lives in an environment of unhygienic conditions, unsuited to her temperament and constitution.

The incessant strain upon her nervous system by reason of the new vocations she has taken up, strikes at the very foundation of her physical stability.

Work becomes worry, and this means destruction to the nervous system.

Very complex in her physical relations to life, disease early seizes upon the woman who works, and she must therefore guard jealously anything that would tend to destroy her vitality or health.

Probably nothing is of more service than Dr. Hamilton's Pills, and every girl and woman can employ this grand remedy with gratifying results.

As a system tonic and blood renovator, no treatment gives such results.

For maintaining good digestion, healthy appetite and the proper performance of the duties of the liver and kidneys, it is impossible to equal Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

Dusky, sallow complexion is changed to a healthy, ruddy glow, which proves that Dr. Hamilton's Pills circulate blood that is rich and nourishing.

Weak organs are filled with new life and vitality; weakness, irregularities and the common ills are prevented, and this means much to those who have lived in that half-sick, half-well condition that seems so hard to overcome.

When you feel poorly, when the head aches, back feels lame, and a drowsy, tired feeling creeps through you—that's what tells of the need of Dr. Hamilton's Pills; try them.

Sold in yellow boxes, 25c. each of five for $1.00, at all dealers, and satisfaction guaranteed.

Local People Saw the Fires

Misses Florence and M. Butcher, Burnham street, East City, have returned from New Liskeard, where they have been visiting their sister, Mrs. John Scott, for the past month. The Misses Butcher were witnesses of the disastrous conflagrations there and stated that people were panic-stricken over the destruction wrought by the flames. Miss Butcher was greatly shocked at the sight of burnt and charred bodies of the dead being brought out of the burning buildings. She also saw several thefts committed during the conflagrations.

I wish that I might talk with all sick ones about the actual cause of Stomach, Heart, and Kidney ailments. To explain in person how weak Stomach nerves leads to Stomach weakness, I can sure would interest all. And it is the same with weak Hearts or Weak Kidneys. This is why my prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative—so promptly reaches ailments of the Stomach, Heart, and Kidneys. It is wrong to drug the Stomach or stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. These weak inside nerves simply need more strength. My Restorative is the only prescription made exclusively for these nerves. Next to seeing you personally, will be to mail you free, my new booklet entitled, "What To Do." I will also send samples of my Restorative as well. Write for the book today. It will surely interest you. Address Dr. Shoop, Box 5, Racine, Wis. All Dealers.

Ode to Poultry Club's Secretary

Possibly owing to the fact that Mr. Bert Hanson, the city editor of the Examiner, was appointed secretary of the Peterborough Poultry Raisers' Association, a local disciple of the immortal Bard, yesterday handed us the following:

"To learn ought regarding a chicken,
From hatching, brooding to sticken';
See the Exam's Cay Ed.,
Of whom it is said,
'He's 'an fait' right down to the pinkin'."

Petition for G.T.R. Changes

Petitions are being circulated in Campbellford, Hastings and Keene and are being largely signed requesting the G. T. R. to give the above named places better connections with Toronto. It is proposed that the flyer which leaves here at seven o'clock in the morning for Toronto, and returns at ten o'clock at night, have its starting point and terminus at Campbellford in the future, as is done during the progress of the Toronto Exposition.

Pleasant Outing to Lakefield

Three members of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, to the number of about thirty, who drove out to Lakefield, Tuesday night, report having had a most enjoyable outing. A joint meeting was held at the village with members of the Brotherhood there. Short addresses were made by Rev. W. J. Creighton, and Messrs. Strickland, De La Fosse, and Langley of Lakefield, and Messrs. Jas. Bell, Jayes, Walker and Goudacre, of Peterborough. Refreshments were served and the local party returned to the city shortly after midnight.

Poor Fund at Home a Success

Much favorable comment was throughout the city yesterday concerning the kindness of the young ladies, who, on Tuesday, held an "At Home" at the residence of Miss Edna Jobbitt, King and Stewart streets. The proceeds netted the tidy sum of eighteen dollars, which will be given towards the poor of the city. Misses Jobbitt, Moore and Hunter received. A candy booth was in charge of Misses Hazel Buller and Bessie Henderson. The tea room was looked after by Misses Blythe Buller and Mabel Gilbert, assisted by Misses May Laing, T. Meade, Leona Alfred and Molly Bleiz. The Misses Helen Davies and Frances Manning rendered vocal solos, and Mr. James Brown contributed a vocal number. Instrumental solos were given by Misses Janet Quinn and May Huffman.

Our Forests

"Our inexhaustible forests" used to be a favorite word to use in speaking of Canada's forest wealth. But, as time goes on, people are coming to see that "inexhaustible" is a dangerous word to use in this connection. Look, for instance, at some of the barren sand plains where once Michigan's "inexhaustible" pine forests stood; but even today the last of Michigan's pine is being cut; and her example should be a warning to those in charge of Canada's forests.

Not so long ago eight hundred millions of acres was given as the area of Canada's forests and passed unchallenged; to-day a third, or even one-half, is taken off that estimate.

Dr. B. E. Fernow, Dean of the Faculty of Forestry in the University of Toronto, and one of the best and most widely-known authorities in forest subjects on this continent, thinks Canada can count on but 300 million acres of "commercially valuable timberland," from which can be got wood valuable for manufactures and commerce. This, he remarks, "is not much more than one-half of the commercial forest area of the United States."

Mr. A. H. Campbell, Superintendent of Forestry under the Dominion Government, estimates Canada's timberland at about 538 million acres, distributed as follows:—

	Acres.
British Columbia	113 million
Man., Sask., Alta, and unorganized territories	130 "
Ontario	60 "
Quebec	130 "
New Brunswick	71-2 "
Nova Scotia	5 "

Canadians are now awakening to the necessity of perpetuating their timber supply by protecting the timber they have and attending to the reproduction of forests that have been cut over. Only in this way can the forests be made to yield the wealth they are capable of giving, and to these matters Canadian governments either have turned, or will soon have to turn, their attention.

For the Woman That's Fat

A Detroit physician says that the cheapest and safest mixture a fat woman who wants to get thin can use is one-half ounce Marmola (get it in the original half ounce package), 3-4 ounce Fluid Extract Cascara Aromatic, and 4 3-4 ounces Syrup Simplex. The proper amount to take is a teaspoonful after meals and at bedtime.

These ingredients may be obtained from any druggist at small cost and make a combination that is not only excellent as a fat reducer, being able, it is claimed, to take off a pound a day without causing wrinkles, but is also a splendid help to the system as a whole, regulating the stomach and bowels (where the fat person's troubles begin), and clearing the skin of pimples and blotches. No exercise is necessary to help the remedy in its work, and, best of all, no dieting is necessary while taking it—you can eat what you like.

The Fatal Bowsprit.

Now, if you have never reefed a mizen or jigger, as we generally call it, on a small boat running off under a press of sail in a seaway, you have never done an acrobatic stunt that knocks out the most thrilling feats of the arena. It is not so bad as laying out on the headspar to shift a jib because the wet is left out, and therefore it is a job not so detested by seamen. Working on the bowsprit is most dreaded of all sea jobs. Mariners lose their lives off that spar that from all other parts of the ship together. Driving along she takes a plunge into it, at the same time the heavy foot of the sail bangs across knocking off your hold, and overboard you go to be swept under and trodden upon by the swift rushing forefoot. A fair sight on a jib boom with a half reefed sail thrashing about and the spar end pitching, tossing and forking the brine at every plunge there may [illegible] Day is [illegible]

The Pacific Fruit Cooling and Vaporizing Company, Incorporated for the purpose of cooling deciduous fruits and removing moisture from citrus fruits and keeping unde cold storage such fruits and other food products from the time of receiving them from the fruit growers until loaded on car and taken away by the Railroad Company for Eastern shipment

STUBBORN FACTS UNIMPEACHABLE
The loss in shipping deciduous and citrus fruits is enormous. The orange crop of Southern California alone is valued at $30,000,000. The government experts estimate that about 25 per cent. or $7,500,000, is lost every year by rough handling in packing and decay of fruit in transit to the Eastern markets. What a revenue of profit this loss would be to the shipper if it could be saved. Our process will save it. The same is true of the deciduous fruits of Northern California.

GREAT FORTUNES ARE MADE BY INVESTING IN NECESSITIES
Fruit is one of the necessities of our civilized life, and the company that can place the fruit in the markets of the world in the best shape, in the quickest time, at the lowest rate, has a fortune within its grasp. The Armour Company in ten years made $5,000,000 net handling California fruit in refrigerator cars. Our process is as necessary to the fruit grower as the refrigerator car. Therefore we ought to receive as large a revenue for handling the same commodity.

GET IN WHILE THE ENTERPRISE IS NEW
No wiser words were ever spoken than these: "The chief point about getting rich is to invest in a new enterprise that is being managed by successful men, who have some of their own money in the deal." "One good investment is worth a lifetime of labor". Think over this sentence. A man's daily labor will never make him rich. He must have some money at work for him. Money invested never gets sick, keeps no holidays, never goes on strike. There are three things that ought to guide you: First, invest with honest men; second, invest with men of sound judgment; third, invest under conditions where you get your full share of profits the business yields. Get into a company whose destiny is guided by men of this stamp when its future is before and not behind it. Here is the secret of fortune. Plant the seed of your investment in the soil of opportunity, at the season of greatest promise when the enterprise is new. Every ounce of sooner in the hearts of the men managing this company is pledged to give

A SQUARE DEAL FOR EVERY INVESTOR
There will be no preferred stock, every dollar invested will be worth 100 cents on the dollar. Our Directors, as honorable business men, will not allow any tricks of trade by which the small investor can be frozen out. Their commercial standing proves they are not "grafters". The poor man's $10 or 100 shares will have the same standing in court as the rich man's 10,000, and they will draw the same proportionate dividend. We court investigation.

EVERY RICH MAN IN THE WORLD WAS ONCE POOR, OR HIS GRANDFATHER WAS.

THE OPPORTUNITY OF A LIFETIME
To get into a company that has the certainty of growth, the assurance of large and quick returns, a rapid advance in the price of stock, to make it an exceptional chance for big profits on a small investment. This is an ideal investment for the wage earner as well as the rich man. Moderate sums invested now will bring splendid returns in the near future. The logic of all this is

DON'T WAIT
Time is the essence of this proposition. The stock will certainly double in a short time. Jay Gould once said: "When you see a good investment don't wait to see if it pans out well, for by that time other people see it, too, and you have lost your opportunity."

WOMEN AS INVESTORS
Some of the heaviest stockholders in our company are women of keen business instincts. One lady in Los Angeles bought 5,000 shares. In a few days she returned and bought 5,000 more. This lady has never made a mistake in her business ventures. Women are good investors because they have courage to follow their convictions. Their intuitions are keener and truer than men's logic. Men may prevent her voting, but they can't prevent her drawing dividends on her investments. This is one branch of trade where sex, culture, or color does not count.

MANAGEMENT
The affairs of this company are in the hands of men of honesty, ability, courage and good business judgment—men who have made a success of their own business—men whose business reputation is A1 in the commercial circles in which they move.
These men are "square" and "shrewd". They will not deceive you nor will they be deceived themselves. Because of the promise of growth, permanency and profit this business offers they have united their money, energy, time and business experience to make this enterprise a grand success.

Notwithstanding the Financial Crisis, Investments made Six Months ago have Advanced

The next six months promises to far exceed the past six months

HON. A. B. MORINE DELIVERS AN ELOQUENT ADDRESS AT THE CANADIAN CLUB BANQUET

Ex-Minister of Finance and Fisheries of Newfoundland Guest of Honor

"The Ancient Colony."

The Canadian Club banquet, held last night in the National hotel, was a great success in every way. A large and representative number of Peterborough's leading citizens gathered at the head table at 8 and 8.30 p.m., when dinner was announced. Mr. F. D. Kerr very ably occupied the chair. After a sumptuous menu was disposed of the chief speaker of the evening, Hon. A. B. Morine, ex-Minister of Finance and Fisheries of Newfoundland, gave a bright, eloquent, historical and witty address on the subject of "The Ancient Colony." The speaker is thoroughly "au fait" with the past, history, resources, politics and present conditions of this ancient British colony, and gave a most comprehensive resume of her needs and future prospects.

Mr. Morine, who is a well preserved, fine looking, large man of something past middle age, with his well-trimmed white moustache, looks more like a military man than a typical politician, is of affable manners and possesses that magnetism so essential to the perfect attainment of personal and political influence. He does not at present hold a portfolio in the Newfoundland cabinet, but has filled the responsible positions of Minister of Finance and also of Minister of Fisheries, the latter a most important portfolio in the old colony. Shortly before the banquet began Mayor Rush was introduced and welcomed the distinguished visitor.

After Chairman Kerr had called for order and introduced the Hon. Mr. Morine, this gentleman began his address. He first gave a short but interesting history of the Island of Newfoundland. He referred briefly to the population of the colony and its compositions. In a clear and concise manner he displayed the present and possible advantages and referred to the splendid educational conditions and facilities. The resources of the country, according to the speaker, are something beyond easy belief, both as regards timber, fisheries, minerals, game, etc. Mr. Morine naturally paid extended attention to the unique fishing areas surrounding the coasts of Newfoundland, a subject that he has at his finger tips. Also the undeveloped mineral resources got quite a detailed description. His address was ended after a brief history of the Island, with special attention to Confederation.

A hearty vote of thanks was passed to Hon. Mr. Morine for his eloquent and instructive as well as highly interesting account of this oldest of British colonies.

Matrimonial Agencies Form the Latest Trust

Chicago, Ill., Feb. 20.—The Tribune to-day says: A gigantic matrimonial trust, embracing all "cupid hunter" agencies similar to the Marian Grey searchlight club of Elgin, was unearthed in the Federal Grand Jury room yesterday. It was learned that evidence had been secured positively proving the hundreds of "soul mate" bureaus operated in every section of the country were controlled by a Chicago and a New York man and possibly two other men.

Secret Service men, headed by Col. Stuart and Walter S. Mayor, Chief Post Office Inspector of New York, were called as witnesses before the Grand Jury and gave valuable testimony. The government attorneys expect to break up "traffic in marriages" in one swoop by the arrest and conviction of the officers of the combination. Secret Service men given the lead by information secured in the Marian Grey trial, have shown all matrimonial agencies in the country use the same testimonial as sent out by Miss Grey, as well as the same stock pictures.

GENERAL STOESSEL SENTENCED TO DIE

St. Petersburg, Feb. 20.—No verdict in the Stoessel case had been handed down up to six o'clock this evening. The judges have now been deliberating thirty hours. It is persistently rumored that they have agreed to sentence Generals Stoessel, Fock and Reiss to death, but have applied to the Emperor at Tsarskoe-Selo to commute this sentence to 15 years' imprisonment.

Later.—Stoessel was sentenced to death. The court recommends that the sentence be commuted to ten years' imprisonment.

Canadian was Murdered by a Pole in the United States

Brockville, Feb. 20.—News has just been received here of the murder at a little place called Fance, twenty miles from Florence, Wis., on the 3rd inst., of Patrick Campbell, a former resident of this town, who went to Wisconsin twenty-five years ago.

Campbell, who was 52 years old was unmarried, and resided alone in his log cabin on a farm of forty acres. On the evening of the 3rd a Pole called at the cabin and demanded a night's lodging. Campbell did not like the look of the stranger, and told him so, whereupon the latter departed. A few minutes later, on going out, Campbell received the charge of a gunshot just as he was leaving his door.

Twelve hours later he was found by a neighbor in his hut, still breathing and conscious, and from a description given of the stranger the authorities arrested Paul Kaan, who is now being held.

Campbell died on being taken to a hospital.

Frank Campbell, a resident of Toronto, is a brother, and Michael Campbell, of this town, is another brother. Two sisters reside in Denver.

POLICE

Mrs. A. Edgar, Shrubbery street, called at the police station yesterday afternoon and complained that a quarter of loaf had lost the place owing her two months board bill. She wanted to know if she could not make them pay, but she got little encouragement. Chief Ross told her that she should have collected it in advance, and that neither the police nor police court are collecting agencies for bad debts.

Edward Blanchard, Toronto, a lecturer again, was arrested yesterday afternoon by P. C. Mharry, but was allowed his freedom after a short detention. It appears that Blanchard called at the residence of Mr. A. Stewart, Water street, yesterday, and asked for some pictures to frame. He was told by the lady of the house that she had none to be framed, but he insisted on entering the house. He even took a seat, after having been told that he could not have it. Mrs. Stewart 'phoned the police. Upon instructions from the magistrate he was allowed to go on the condition that he give up the picture and behave himself in the future.

At yesterday's session of the police court, a young man named John Meade, arrested about 9.30 Wednesday night, charged with improperly assaulting a young girl named Lilian Armitage, pleaded not guilty. It seems that the poor little foolish girl says that she is but 14 years old until next month, and has a reputation far from good or moral. Meade had been working in the lumber camps and only returned a few days ago. His Worship allowed him to go on his promise to appear next Wednesday morning for trial. It is likely that either the Children's Aid Society will take charge of the erring girl or that she will be sent to a reformatory.

Nuptial Knot Tied in Warsaw

On Wednesday in the ambitious little village of Warsaw, Rev. Mr. Currie, Presbyterian clergyman of that burg, united in the holy bonds of matrimony Mr. James Tucker and Mrs. W. Darling, both of the village. The ceremony, which was performed at the residence of Mr. John Darling, was followed by the usual congratulatory speeches and a most pleasant time was spent by the invited guests. The happy couple will reside in Warsaw.

Seen at Dinner with Another Man, and After Midnight Too

Millionaire E. R. Thomas

New York, Feb. 20.—Evelyn Nesbit Thaw has set New York tongues to wagging again. the town is talking about her today because with her husband, Harry K. Thaw, still in the insane asylum, she went to the Sunrise Club dinner, and was seen at dinner after midnight, with another man.

E. R. Thomas, who was a millionaire before the rosy game hit him, is the other man. Evelyn says that she did not go the cafe with Thomas, but that she can't stop people talking.

It was no secret that Mrs. Thaw and Thomas had any intention of attending the Sunrise club dinner, but were accidentally seated in the same room. The club dinners as dinners go, at six hundred dollars per throat, are usually interesting affairs, but most of the diners took more interest in the former millionaire and his companion than they did in the speaking. The attention finally embarrassed Thomas, and he paid the check and both left. Mrs. Thaw did not seem at all embarrassed and during the few minutes while she was left alone followed the speeches with apparent interest.

Disclosures of Evelyn's dinner with Thomas, leads to authoritative revelation that steps to annul her marriage to Harry Thaw will soon be taken.

This statement comes from one in the confidence of Mrs. William Thaw, mother of Harry K. Thaw. It is sustained by a semi-direct statement from Evelyn that she will never go again to Matteawan to visit her "insane" husband.

Daniel O'Reilly, one of Thaw's lawyers, said no legal action has been taken as yet by either side, but intimated that the gubbosity attached to the Thomas-Evelyn episode, may force an immediate commencement of the contemplated action for amendment.

LOTS OF GOSSIP.

People who saw the couple that looked so much like Mr. Thomas and Mrs. Thaw agreed that they might have been mistaken, but they insisted that the double resemblance was remarkable.

It was said that several people had told Thaw that his wife had been seen dining with friends, and that these stories had so worked on him that he intended to effect a complete separation.

A number of extremely interesting stories have been current along Broadway in the past few weeks which have had to do with a very young and beautiful girl, whose violet eyes, satiny complexion, dark hair, and slim, graceful figure have been so many times pictured that they are not easy to mistake.

One of these stories was to the effect that some nights ago two girls one of the violet eyes, and a friend, went into the Cafe Martin and proceeded to a private room. Later they were rejoined by a State Senator, several politicians, and sports. There was much to drink and a good deal of frolicking and extremely frank and free exchange of places around the table.

Matteawan, N.Y., Feb. 20—Harry K. Thaw denied absolutely the reports that he has begun or is about to begin proceedings to secure a divorce from his wife, Evelyn Thaw.

A Sample of Quick Irish Wit

Yesterday a sample of quick Irish wit with repartition was heard on the market square. It seems that a young boy has for some time past made a custom of "hanging about" the scales office. He neither goes to school nor works, and is seemingly about 12 or 13 years of age. Unfortunately the language used by this lad is not of a kind permissible in either police society nor books of a Sunday school library. Very much, the reverend. Yesterday a local official remonstrated with the boy on his absence from school, idleness and horrible language. The lad brazenly told his would-be mentor to go to ——, well, a hotter place than Death Valley, California. The official asked him, "Are you not from the Old Country, my boy?" "No, I am not," he answered. "Why," persisted the philanthropically inclined official, "Aren't you from Ireland?" The boy looked him straight in the face and replied, "Yes, of course I'm from Ireland, but wasn't Ireland and Canada made at the same time, so how do you call Ireland the Old Country?" Just then the brass buttons designating a police officer loomed into vision when the boy's attitude underwent a change, and tears instead of profanity were in order. This boy should be looked after, as he is just at the age when he may be turned to a good citizen or the opposite.

Value of goods recovered, $2,100.86.

SCHEDULE D.

Licenses collected, with assistance of city clerk, including dog tax licenses, $2,541.50, dog tax, $980.

GENERAL REMARKS.

During 1907 there was an appointment to the force and one resignation, viz., P. C. McDonald, whose place has not been filled. The general conduct of the force has been good.

Second-hand and junk dealers have complied with the by-law.

HOTELS AND POOL ROOMS.

Seventeen persons were summoned for breach of the Liquor Licence Act. Ten were convicted and fined. Pool rooms are well conducted. No illicit sale of liquor, nor houses of ill-fame. No gambling resorts.

The chief paid a high tribute to the Chief Constables Association, formed three years ago, which has made a strong chain and made organized team work against crime. He would like all chief constables to join. Association meets in Quebec in July, 1908. He would like to invite the association to meet here in 1909. He called the attention of the Property Committee to the inadequate police force office, there being only one small room to do all police business. He recommended that two more men be added to the force. There is only one man more than on the force 20 years ago, when the town was only half its present size. According to population the city has the smallest force in the country.

Houses left during owners' absence last summer under police care were undisturbed.

Prescription Hurts Sale of Medicine

Simple Prescription to Make Home Made Medicine Cure

To make up enough of the "Dandelion treatment," which is claimed to be relieving nearly every sufferer who uses it for backaches, kidney complaint, sore weak bladder and rheumatism; get from any good prescription pharmacy one-half ounce Fluid Extract Dandelion, one ounce Compound Kargon and three ounces Compound Syrup of Sarsaparilla. Shake well in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and again at bedtime.

Those who have tried it claim that it acts gently but thoroughly on the kidneys, relieving backache and bladder trouble and urinary difficulties, almost instantly. Many cases of rheumatism are known to have been relieved within a few days, the pain and swelling diminishing with each dose.

A well known local druggist, who is in a position to know, asserts that this prescription, whenever it becomes known, always ruins the sale of the numerous patent medicine rheumatism cures, kidney cures, etc. It is a recipe which the majority of patent medicine manufacturers, and even certain physicians, dislike to see published. Few cases, indeed, which will fail to fully yield to its peculiarly soothing and healing influence. Being composed of common every-day ingredients, which can be had from any druggist, it makes up a good honest and harmless remedy and at months' cost.

The Bridge Club Prize Winners

Result of Series of Games Played for Amusement Solely

As is generally known, the scientific game of bridge whist has its devotees in this city, but fortunately in Peterborough the play, unlike similar games in other cities, is for "points," with a prize for the best player at the end of the series of "Bridge" is synonymous with playing for money, but no so with the "Club," as noted below, the members of which play simply for the amusement and scientific interest of this most fascinating game.

Last night the final meeting of the Bridge Club was held at Sheriff Hall's residence, Hunter street. After a most enjoyable evening the prizes, presented by the gentlemen of the club, were awarded to the two whose scores were highest;

The first prize, a pair of handsome brass candlesticks, was won by Miss Helen Hall. The second prize, a rechauche cup and saucer, was won by Miss Gwen Hall.

The members of the club are Mrs. C. Currier, Miss Aylmer, the Misses Helen and Gwen Hall, Miss Banks Clementi, Miss Elsie Anderson, Miss Agnes Hall, Miss Munro, Messrs. C. Currier, Gerald Rackham, John Anderson, R. B. Morley, Douglas Laird, M. Hamilton Douglas Stuart, Mr. Thompson and Mr. Marlowe.

Case was Dismissed with Costs

Yesterday's Toronto papers contain the following note of local interest in the Osgoode Hall news:

Lawless vs. Crowley.—W. R. Wallbridge for the defendants. S. T. Medd (Peterborough) for the plaintiff, contra. Appeal from the County Court of Peterborough upon the dismissal of defendant's counterclaim, resumed from yesterday. Appeal of defendant dismissed with costs, on the ground that this court was not the proper forum but by consent of plaintiff's counsel the order dismissing the defendant's counterclaim is vacated and he is to be permitted to litigate same in such forum as he may be advised.

Color Photography Has Been Accomplished in Peterborough

The Roy Studio Took Original Photograph Showing Complexion of Subject

The First in this Country

That will of the wisp that many a thousand photographer and chemist has for years so ardently and persistently chased, namely, color photography, has been captured by the Roy Studio of this city. It is needless to prove that Messrs. Roy & Son have always kept abreast of the very latest wrinkles in the art of photography, and turn out work that was successfully won out at Society of New York or the greatest London or Paris artists, still this time have they added new laurels to their crown by being the first in this part of the country to solve the seemingly sphynx-like riddle of how to take a photograph that will show every, even the most delicate and finest tints and grades of color, simultaneously with the original and first expression. Yesterday the Times saw a glass photograph (not a negative or a print positive on glass and colored by hand) of a lady in which the various shades, tints and colors of the latter's hat trimmings, dress bouquet, eyes, cheeks, hair, etc., are reproduced as perfectly as represented to the eye looking direct at the subject of the picture. The blue eyes of the lady, the delicate tints of her face outside, her red, pink and white shades of a bunch of carnations, and the pink of some chrysanthemums held by her, the feathers in her hat are all produced exactly perfect. This is the [illegible] photographic [illegible] that [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

DEATH FROM HEART DISEASE

A Case of Neglecting a Weak Heart and Tired Nerves.

If your heart flutters, be careful. An attack is liable to come on at any time. Excitement, over-exertion or emotion may cause it.

If blood rushes to the head, if palpitation and short breath are noticeable, there's cause for alarm.

If you want a good honest remedy try Ferrosone. We recommend Ferrosone because we know it's just right for heart trouble. It cured A. F. Beattie, who lives at Allan Hotel, Bay City, Mich. See if your symptoms resemble these:

SYMPTOMS OF WEAK HEART.

Nervousness	Palpitation,
Trembling,	Dizziness,
Sinking Feeling,	Heart Pains,
Short Breath,	Weakness.

Mr. Beattie says:

"I was weak and miserable.

"I was subject to heart palpitation and dizziness.

"As I grew worse I began to have trembling and sinking sensations.

"Ferrosone strengthened my heart, gave vigor to my nerves, soon made me well. It's a great rebuilder."

By strengthening the muscles of the heart, giving proper circulation and causing a general rebuilding of the whole system, Ferrosone is bound to do grand work in heart trouble; try it, 50c per box, or six for $2.50, at all Dealers.

THE UNEMPLOYED IN ENGLAND

Two years ago the question of relief and employment for the jobless workers was very grave in England. Destitution was widespread and extreme, and there were demonstrations, processions and spectacular marches to impress upon the government the need of remedial legislation. Public and private charity did its utmost, the queen starting a subscription with a liberal gift. There was talk of farm colonies, potato patches, great state and municipal undertakings and so on. But with the advent of spring business so improved that the problem solved itself largely.

Last year there was comparatively little distress in England. Parliament had placed half a million dollars in the hands of John Burns, labor's representative in the cabinet, and he used it with care and intelligence. At the end of the winter he had a balance to turn in. Little was heard of farm colonies and other experiments, though undoubtedly the experience of the people and government during the two winters had influenced everybody in favor of small holdings legislation and had emphasized the importance of the "back to the land" movement in Great Britain.

This winter, owing to the business depression in Europe, the unemployment question is again rather serious in the British industrial centres. There has been a revival of "radical" and extraordinary schemes, and the march of a little army of men from Manchester to Windsor, with the alleged intention of "squatting" on a section of the royal park and raising vegetables, is one of these.

The matter is sure to be agitated in parliament. The labor party is dissatisfied with the attitude of the government, though John Burns has spoken vigorously against hasty measures and pauperizing makeshifts. Several days ago it moved an amendment to the speech from the throne regretting the omission in the latter of any reference to the question of providing work for the unemployed, and while the amendment was rejected the ministerial majority in that division was only 47, the Irish representatives and many of the radicals, together with most of the tories, voting with the laborites. There was political strategy in the action of the tories, who certainly are no more ready than the party in power is to embark upon costly and doubtful public works as a means of relief for the temporarily unemployed. But, with allowance for partisan politics made, the situation is still difficult enough to cause much anxiety.

Struck in the Face with a Crowbar

Conductor Adams, of the Coboconk mixed, will be laid off for a few days as the result of an accident this morning. It seems the genial conductor was using a crowbar this morning around the engine—perhaps to give her a lift up a hill with the heavy loads of freight collected on the road.

Anyway, the crowbar slipped and struck him in the face. At first it was thought the jaw was broken, but later it was learned that, although the injuries were severe, he was not quite as unlucky. He will be off duty for a few days.—Lindsay Post.

CATTLE SHIPPING.

How Animals Are Loaded on Board Vessels in Hawaii.

Afterward I was taken to Kawaihae, where I saw cattle loaded in a most cruel manner. It was a little after 6 o'clock when I landed on the beach among a lot of cowboys and half naked natives. The cattle were corralled under the trees, and when one was ready to be taken aboard a rope was tied about its horns. A cowboy on horseback then rode into the surf, dragging the frightened steer into the water. The rope was tossed to a half naked native who was swimming, and he in turn carried it to the men waiting in a small boat. These men pulled the animal, which must now swim or drown, to the boat and tied him by the horns to its side. After eight steers had been tied up in this manner the engine on the steamer was set to work and the boat pulled alongside by means of a rope. The cattle were then hoisted on board by the use of a bellyband. The method of handling these dumb animals is brutal, and, while the men seem to use as much care as possible in moving them about, their piteous bellowing caused by fear made as pathetic a scene as I have ever witnessed. Thousands are shipped every year, and it seems that some more humane method of putting them aboard might be adopted.

The Japanese sailor on these ships is said to be the best for keeping the ship clean, while the native excels in handling the boats, especially in rough water. The Hawaiian is a born swimmer, and native boys will follow these vessels for several hundred yards as they are leaving Honolulu, swimming alongside and diving for coins thrown overboard by the travelers. The passage on these boats is always rough, and on the Ewalani, as the ship lay at anchor out in the channel, the nights were intensely warm. Freighting in this way is necessarily expensive, but those in authority say that it is the only way practical, as no wharf could withstand the lashing of the waves raised by the mad fury of the winds during the winter. At that season it is often impossible to make landings along the rocky coast of Molokai.—Leslie's Weekly.

The Electro Magnet.

In engineering works the electro magnet is taking a very prominent place. This device dispenses with hooks, slings and other lifting apparatus. By throwing a switch controlling the current the magnet is energized and thereby attaches itself to the bars, castings, scrap or pig iron which it is desired to lift. The magnet poles are shaped according to the nature of the material to be raised. For heavy rails they are oblong and are slung from the crane hook by a short chain. Castings weighing over two tons are successfully handled by electro magnets. Another use to which the electro magnet is put is in breaking old castings so that they may be melted and utilized. To accomplish this the magnet is made to lift and drop a steel ball weighing from one to six tons.

Passing of a Famous Bridge.

At last the old bridge over the Golden Horn at Constantinople is about to be done away with and replaced by a new structure. An amusing tale is told in connection with the efforts of an American firm to secure the order. With a view to impressing the sultan with the quality of its work an elaborate painting was prepared for presentation to his majesty showing the bridge as it would appear during a storm which would have done credit to the Atlantic. However, the firm was informed that the sultan would be so horrified by the view that it at once prepared a picture showing the bridge as it would appear on a beautiful summer's day. This, however, Reuter says, failed of its purpose.

WHEN OREGON HAD CAMELS.

In Days of Old, When the State Had a Tropical Climate.

That the whole of interior Oregon was once the bed of the Pacific ocean has been proved beyond question by the investigations of Professor Thomas Condon, Dr. Diller and other noted geologists. That the region was later a tropical country has been equally well established.

Numerous discoveries of the bones of animals and rocks containing the perfect imprint of the plants of the tropics have been made, and it is no longer an occasion for surprise when well diggers or irrigation excavators unearth the fossil remains of a camel or a broad faced ox.

Within recent years many fossil beds of beautiful palm leaves have been found in eastern Oregon.

The Cascade hills, Blue mountains and Owyhees, once islands surrounded by tropical lakes, were covered with luxuriant growth, forests and flowering shrubs, for Knowlton tells us the magnolia and cinnamon and fig trees were there.

Today the soil presents a finely ground mixture of basalt and volcanic ash, containing the elements of most fertile soil, and when properly watered producing enormous crops of vegetables, fruits and grains common to temperate zones.

The climate has been changed, says Professor Condon, by the upfolding of the Cascade range, shutting off from the interior the softening influence of the Japan current and the drift of ocean fogs and clouds.—Sunset Magazine.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

For Section No. 4, District 'B'...	100,000
For Section No. 6, District 'E'...	100,000

Any person whose tender is accepted shall within ten days after the acceptance thereof furnish such additional approved security as may be required by the Commissioners; sign the contract, specifications, and other documents required to be signed by the said Commissioners; and, in any case of refusal or failure on the part of the party whose tender is accepted to complete the whole tender is accepted to complete and execute a contract with the said Commissioners, and to furnish the additional approved security within ten days after the acceptance of the tender, the said cheque shall be forfeited to the Commissioners as liquidated damages for such refusal or failure and all contracts rights acquired by the acceptance of the tender shall be forfeited. The cheques deposited by parties whose tenders are accepted will be deposited to the credit of the Receiver General of Canada as part of the security for the due and faithful performance of the contract according to its terms. Cheques deposited by parties whose tender are rejected will be returned within ten days after the signing of the contract.

Attention is called to the following clauses in the form of contract :—

'All mechanics, labourers, or other persons who perform labour for the purposes of the construction of the works hereby contracted for, shall be paid such wages as are generally accepted as current for competent workmen in the district in which the work is being performed, and if there is no current rate in such district, then a fair and reasonable rate; and, in the event of a dispute arising as to what is the current or a fair and reasonable rate, it shall be determined by the Commissioners, whose decision shall be final.'

This agreement is subject to the regulations now in force, or which may at any time hereafter be in force during the construction of the works hereby contracted for, made under the authority of the Department of Labour, and which are, or shall be, applicable to such works.' (The schedule of minimum wages determined upon by said Department will form part of the contract).

The contractor shall in connection with the whole of the said work, as far as practicable, use only material, machinery, plant, supplies, and rolling stock manufactured or produced in Canada, provided the same can be obtained as cheaply, and upon as good terms, in Canada as elsewhere, having regard to quality and price.'

The contractor shall conform to the fire regulations adopted by the Commissioners, and also to the laws and regulations respecting fires in the different provinces wherein the work is being performed.

The right is reserved to reject any or all tenders.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTHWEST HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an Agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of a homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father or mother.

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line exclusive of the width of road allowance crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing must be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa, of intention to apply for patent.

News in Brief

CHINA'S RIGHTS IGNORED.

Pekin, Feb. 19.—In view of the protest lodged by China against the establishment of a municipal administration by Russia at Harbin, the Russian Minister to China, M. Pokotiloff, has communicated to the representatives of the powers here an explanation of the Russian position. He says the Russian claims in this matter are justified by the convention with China giving Russia the right to administer the railroad lands in Manchuria.

Although the Russian municipalities in Manchuria are being established slowly, as in the case at Harbin, for instance, the procedure is a source of anxiety to China, especially on account of the attitude assumed by Japan. The Tokio Government is making extensive plans to follow the example of Russia and set up extra-territorial municipalities in Manchuria to accommodate the increasing Japanese population.

WENT AWAY TO DIE.

Ottawa, Feb. 19.—The lifeless body of Joshua Johnson, an Ottawa carpenter, was found on an island in the Ottawa River above Chaudiere Falls yesterday. He had been drinking heavily of late, and evidently went out to the island determined to commit suicide. The body was found with the throat gashed and a razor lying nearby in the snow. Johnson was 51 years of age, and leaves a wife and three children. Raymond Johnson, a son, escaped three days ago from the Industrial School at Mimico and has not yet been found.

The Opal Serpent

By FERGUS HUME,

COPYRIGHT, 1908, BY G. W. DILLINGHAM COMPANY

Fergus Hume, author of the celebrated novel "The Mystery of a Hansom Cab" and other tales of mystery, has written no more absorbing story than the one that follows. Mr. Hume has the ability to make his characters as well as his incidents interesting. There are characters in this story which the reader will be unable to forget—the two Beecots, sweet Sylvia Norman, old Norman, Pash, Hurd, Miss Qian, Mrs. Krill and her stately daughter, and last, but not least, Debbie Junk, whose name, if she had appeared in one of Dickens' novels, would have been familiar to all Christendom. With beauty and grace Debbie is not endowed, and her grammar is defective, but she has a gift of speech that an orator might envy. She is a tyrant, it must be admitted, but her heart is of gold, and she has courage and devotion which would add luster to any hero or heroine in fiction or in real life. And now this trumpeter will stand aside, welcoming you, ladies and gentlemen, to the feast of comedy, mystery and tragedy which lies before you.

CHAPTER I.

SIMON BEECOT was a country gentleman with a small income, a small estate and a mind considerably smaller than either. He dwelt at Wargrove, in Essex, and spent his idle hours, of which he possessed a daily and nightly twenty-four, in snarling at his faded wife and in snapping between whiles at his son. Mrs. Beecot, having been bullied into old age long before her time, accepted sour looks and hard words as necessary to God's providence, but Paul, a fiery youth, resented useless nagging. He owned more brain power than his progenitor, and to this fostering of nature paternal tyranny naturally objected. Paul also desired fame, which was likewise anathema in the irritable tyrant's eyes.

As there were no other children Paul came heir to the Beecot acres; therefore their present proprietor suggested that his son should wait with idle hands for the falling in of the heritage. In plain words, Mr. Beecot, speaking of a long line of middle class Britons, wished his son to be a loafer also. Again, when Mrs. Beecot retired to a tearful rest her bully found Paul a useful person on whom to expend his spleen. Should this whipping boy leave Mr. Beecot would have to forego this enjoyment, as servants object to being sworn at without cause. For years Mr. Beecot indulged in bouts of bad temper till Paul, finding twenty-three too dignified an age to tolerate abuse, announced his intention of storming London as a scribbler.

The parents objected in detail. Mrs. Beecot, after her kind, dissolved in tears and made reference to young birds leaving the nest, while her husband, puffed out like a frog and redder than the wattles of a turkeycock, exhausted himself in well chosen expressions. Paul increased the use of these by firing a day for his departure. The female Beecot retired to bed with the assistance of a maid, burnt feathers and sal volatile, and the male as a last and clinching argument figuratively buttoned up his pockets.

"Not one shilling will you get from me," said Beecot senior, with the graceful addition of vigorous adjectives.

"I don't ask for money," said Paul, keeping his temper, for, after all, the turkeycock was his father. ", have saved £50. Not out of my pocket money," he added hastily, seeing further objections on the way. "I earned it by writing short stories."

"The confounded mercantile intellect!" snorted paterfamilias, only he used stronger words. "Your mother's uncle was in trade. Thank heaven, none of my people ever used hands or brains! The Beecots lived like gentlemen."

"I should say like cabbages from your description, father."

"No insolence, sir. How dare you disgrace your family? Writing tales, indeed! Rubbish I expect" (here several adjectives). "And you took money, I'll be bound, eh, eh!"

"I have just informed you that I took all I could get," said Beecot quietly. "I'll live in town on my savings. When I make a name and a fortune I'll return."

"Never, never!" gobbled the turkeycock. "If you descend to the gutter you can wallow there. I'll cut you out of my will."

"Very good, sir; that's settled. Let us change the subject."

But the old gentleman was too high spirited to leave well alone. He demanded to know if Paul knew to whom he was talking. Inquired if he had read the Bible touching the duties of children to their parents, buttressed the fact that Paul's dear mother would probably pine away and die and ended with a pathetic reference to losing the prop of his old age. Paul listened respectfully and held to his own opinion. In defense of the same he replied in detail:

"I am aware that I talk to my father, sir," said he, with spirit. "You never allow me to forget that fact. If another man spoke to me as you do I should probably break his head. I have read the Bible and find therein that parents owe a duty to their children, which certainly does not include being abused like a pickpocket. My mother will not pine away if you will leave her alone for at least three hours a day. And as to my being the prop of your old age, your vigor of language assures me that you are strong enough to stand alone."

So Paul Beecot repaired to London and after the orthodox fashion began to cultivate the muses on a little oatmeal by renting a Bloomsbury garret. There he wrote reams on all subjects and in all styles and for six months assiduously haunted publishers' doors with varying fortunes. Sometimes he came away with a check, but more often with a bulky manuscript bulging his pocket.

Shortly the great manager of the Universal theater enlisted Paul as an actor, and he assumed the double role of an unappreciated author and a sighing lover. In the first capacity he had in his desk ten short stories, a couple of novels, three dramas and a sheaf of doubtful verses. These failed to appeal to editor, manager or publisher, and their author found himself reduced to his last five pound note. Then the foolish, ardent lad must needs fall in love. Who his divinity was, what she was and why she should be divinised can be gathered from a conversation her worshiper held with an old schoolfellow.

It was in Oxford street at 5 o'clock on a June afternoon that Paul met Grexon Hay. Turning the corner of the street leading to his Bloomsbury attic, the author was tapped on the shoulder by a resplendent Bond street being—that is, the said being wore a perfectly fitting frock coat, a silk hat, trousers with the regulation fold back and front, an orchid buttonhole, gray gloves, boots that glittered, and carried a gold topped cane. The fact that Paul wheeled without winning showed that he was not yet in debt.

"Beecot!" said the newcomer, taking rapid stock of Paul's shabby serge suit and worn boots. "I thought I was right."

The voice if not the face awoke old memories.

"Hay—Grexon Hay!" cried the struggling genius. "Well, I am glad to see you." And he shook hands with the frank grip of an honest man.

"And I you." Hay drew his friend up the side street and out of the human tide which deluged the pavement. "But you scout"—

"It's a long story," interrupted Paul, flushing. "Come to my cradle and I'll tell you all about it, old boy. You'll stay to supper, won't you? See here"—Paul displayed a parcel—"a pound of sausages. You loved 'em at school, and I'm a superfine cook."

Grexon Hay always used expression and word to hide his feelings. But with Paul—whom he had always considered a generous ass at Torrington school—a trifle of self betrayal didn't matter much. Beecot was too dense and, it may be added, too honest to turn any opportunity to advantage. "It's a most surprising thing," said Hay in his calm way, "really a most surprising thing, that a Torrington public schoolboy, my friend and the son of wealthy parents, should be buying sausages."

"Come, now," said Paul, with great spirit and towing Hay homeward, "I haven't asked you for money."

"If you do, you shall have it," said Hay, but the offer was not so generous a one as would appear. That was Hay all over. He always said what he did not mean and knew well that Beecot's uneasy pride shied at loans, however small.

Paul, the unsophisticated, took the shadow of generosity for its substance, and his dark face lighted up. "You're a brick, Hay," he declared, "but I don't want money. No"—this in reply to an eloquent glance from the well to do—"I have sufficient for my needs, and besides," with a look at the resplendent dress of the fashion plate dandy, "I don't glitter in the west end."

"Which hints that those who do are rich," said Grexon, with an arctic smile. "Wrong, Beecot. I'm poor. Only paupers can afford to dress well."

"In that case I must be a millionaire," laughed Beecot, glancing downward at his well worn garb. "But mount those stairs. We have much to say to one another."

"Much that is pleasant," said the courtly Grexon.

Paul shrugged his square shoulders and stepped heavenward. "On your part, I hope," he sang back; "certainly not on mine. Come to Poverty castle." And the fashionable visitor found his host lighting the fire in an apartment such as he had read about, but had never seen.

"As near heaven as I am likely to get," rattled on Beecot, deftly frying the sausages after placing his visitor on the sofa. "The grub will soon be ready. I'm a first class cook, bless you, old chap. Housemaid too. Clean, eh?" He waved his fork proudly round the ill furnished room. "I'd dismiss myself if it wasn't."

"But—but," stammered Hay, much amazed and surveying things through an eyeglass, "what are you doing here?"

"Trying to get my foot on the first rung of fame's ladder."

"But I don't quite see"—

"Read Balzac's life and you will. His people gave him an attic and a starvation allowance in the hope of disgusting him. Bar the allowance, my pater has done the same. Here's the attic, and here's my starvation"—Paul gayly popped the frizzling sausages on a chipped hot plate—"and here's your aspiring servant hoping to be a novelist, dramatist and what not—to my nothing of why not. Mustard? There you are. Wait a bit. I'll brew you tea or cocoa."

"I never take these things with meals, Beecot."

"Your bit assumes me of that. Champagne's more in your line. I say, Grexon, what are you doing now?"

"What other west end men do," said Grexon, attacking a sausage.

"That means nothing. Well, you never did work at Torrington, so how can I expect the leopard to change his saucy spots."

Hay laughed and during the meal explained his position. "On leaving school I was adopted by a rich uncle," he said. "When he went the way of all flesh he left me a thousand a year, which is enough to live on with strict economy. I have rooms in Alexander street, Camden Hill, a circle of friends, and a good appetite, as you will perceive. With these I get through life very comfortably."

"Ha," said Paul, darting a keen glance at his visitor, "you have the strong digestion necessary to happiness. Have you the hard heart also? If I remember at school"—

"Oh, hang school!" said Grexon, flushing all over his cold face. "I never think of school. I was glad when I got away from it. But we were great friends at school, Paul."

"Something after the style of Steerforth and David Copperfield," was Paul's reply as he pushed back his plate. "You were my hero, and I was your slave. But the other boys"—He looked again.

"They hated me because they did not understand me, as you did."

"If that is so, Grexon, why did you let me slip out of your life? It is ten years since we parted. I was fifteen and you twenty."

"Which now makes us twenty-five and thirty respectively," said Hay dryly. "You left school before I did."

"Yes. I had scarlet fever and was taken home to be nursed. I never went back, and since then I have never met an old Torrington boy"—

"Have you not?" asked Hay eagerly.

"No. My parents took me abroad, and I sampled a German university. I returned to idle about my father's place till I grew sick of doing nothing, and, having ambitions, I came to try my luck in town." He looked around and laughed. "You see my luck."

"Well," said Hay, lighting a dainty cigarette produced from a gold case, "my uncle, who died, sent me to Oxford, and there I traveled. I am now on my own, as I told you, and haven't a relative in the world."

Indigestion

Stomach trouble is but a symptom of, and not in itself a true disease. We think of Dyspepsia, Constipation, and Indigestion as real diseases, yet they are symptoms only of a certain specific Nervousness—nothing else.

It was this fact that first correctly led Dr. Shoop in the creation of that now very popular Stomach Remedy—Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Going direct to the stomach nerves, alone brought that nerve-aid favor to Dr. Shoop and his Restorative. Without that original and highly vital principle, no such lasting results as Dr. Shoop's were ever to be had.

For stomach distress, bloating, biliousness, bad breath and sallow complexion, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—and see for yourself what it can and will do. We call and cheerfully recommend

Chas. Burke on Trial Tomorrow

Chas. Burke, the man alleged to have held up two young women at the point of a gun in Purser's store at Buckhorn some months ago, and with stealing some $25, will appear before his Honor Judge Weller for trial to-morrow morning at eleven o'clock. Burke was committed for trial by the Worship County Magistrate Edmison. County Crown Attorney R. E. Wood for the prosecution and Messrs. O'Connell & Gordon for the defence.

Oyster Hogs Might Ship Here

The oyster contains of Montreal, mount than sell at reasonable prices to the public, who refused to pay their exorbitant charges, will throw several thousand barrels of Malpeque oysters up to the dump there. Toronto will be losing its name of "Hog-town" if the Montreal combine continues in business long. Such men as those above noted should be closed in a mammoth self-sealer, shaped like an oyster shell, and cast into the sea. If the good people of Montreal will not consent to have their legs pulled inordinately, let the combine send a few hundred barrels to Peterborough's charitable institution. We will pay freight and say nothing.

Trouble Over Burial of Horse

Yesterday afternoon Mr. Williams, who has a contract with the city and looks after the "Dump" at the southern boundary, complained to the police that his contract is being violated. It seems that the understanding is that the owner of deceased boneyards, yclept "horses," brought to the dump for burial, he has the privilege of skinning the animals for the value of the hides, about $2 each. A few days are two men brought the remains of a horse there from which the pelt had been removed. Thus he had the trouble of sepulture without the hide in payment. The men threatened to leave the remains outside the gate if Williams did not buy it. Mr. Williams now wants to know "Where he is at."

In Memoriam

Lines on the death of Elmer G. Wood, who died January 29th, 1907.

How true the sacred sentence is
That man is born to die
His soul must go to meet his God
His body mouldering lie;
And day by day we're called to mourn
The loss of those we love
But our loved one is gone to join
The angelic host above.

But oh, the blessed hope is ours
To cheer the mourning heart
That we may meet at God's right hand
And never more to part
Where purer joys await the souls
Of the departed dead
Where crowns of love are ready for
The never aching head.

Then weep no more for him dear friends
Nor shed the bitter tear,
He's free from sorrow, pain and death
In yon celestial sphere.
His happy spirit lingers near
To guide us through the gloom
Of this dark world, and bring us safe
To our eternal home.

HAVELOCK

A deputation composed of the municipal officers of eighteen municipalities in Midland Ontario and the leading manufacturers and business men of eight ridings will on Friday, Feb. 21st, wait on the Dominion government in behalf of the Northumberland-Durham Power Co. to petition that body to give the company a lease of Upper Healey Falls, which they need in order to properly develop Healey Falls. This portion of the falls will be absolutely of no use to anyone else but this company and there is no reason why the Dominion government should not grant their request.

Healey is a most wonderful fall of water and will undoubtedly in the course of a year or two become known to the whole country for the enormous electric power which will be developed there. It will also bring into prominence all the towns in South Midland Ontario, especially that growing and prosperous place called Havelock, which through it's importance in connection with the Northumberland-Durham Power Co. and Healey Falls has been appropriately christened "Power town".

It is a shame to let the water that is flowing over the falls go to waste. Every time the second hand on a man's watch makes one revolution, 1,000,000 cubic feet of water or enough to make 14,000 horse power, flows over Healey Falls to no good and so it will continue to do until the Northumberland-Durham Power Co. have been given the required lease of the Upper Rapids at Healey Falls.

The deputation will leave Havelock on the midnight express on Feb. 20th and will wait on the Minister of Railways and Canals at Ottawa at 10 o'clock a. m. on Friday, Feb. 21st.

Pedestrian Has Narrow Escape

Yesterday a gentleman prominent in local financial circles complained to Chief Ross that he had been nearly run over by the driver of a delivery waggon, who was, at the time driving at an immoderate rate of speed. The gentleman remonstrated with the driver, only to be answered impertinently, "Oh get out of the way and you won't be run over."

It seems that a good many drivers in this city are not aware that the man on foot has invariably the right of way, and that a driver must pull up to let the pedestrian go by. If a few of these reckless drivers are brought to the police court and heavily fined they will learn that the man on foot has equal, and a little more, rights than the driver.

Chief Ross will instruct the local force to see that drivers of delivery and other rigs hereafter recognise the rights of pedestrians, especially on crossings.

It was only a short time ago that a Times representative saw a gentleman crossing George street at Hunter street on foot. The driver of a horse and cutter, whether for a joke, through stupidity or reckless disregard of the walker's rights and safety, hit his horse with a whip just as the animal was near the pedestrian. The consequence was that the gentleman afoot was knocked down by the horse's shoulder and run over by the cutter. Fortunately he escaped with a few bruises. Did the driver wait to see whether his victim was hurt? No! He and the man with him whipped up their horse and left the gentleman lying on the road. It is fully time that the drivers learn that the man who is walking has the right of way, just as much as a sailing vessel has right of way over steam propelled boats.

—The annual anniversary concert of the George Street Sunday School will be held on the evening of March 2nd. The programme promises to be an unusually good one.

Is very careful about her churn. She scalds it thoroughly after using, and gives it a sun bath to sweeten it. She knows that if her churn is sour it will taint the butter that is made in it. The stomach is a churn. In the stomach and digestive and nutritive tracts are performed processes which are almost exactly like the churning of butter. Is it not apparent then that if this stomach-churn is foul it makes foul all which is put into it?

The evil of a foul stomach is not alone the bad taste in the mouth and the foul breath caused by it, but the corruption of the pure current of blood and the dissemination of disease throughout the body. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery makes the sour and foul stomach sweet. It does for the stomach what the washing and sun bath do for the churn—absolutely removes every tainting or corrupting element. In this way it cures blotches, pimples, eruptions, scrofulous sweetnings, sores, or open eating ulcers and all humors or diseases arising from bad blood.

If you have bitter, nasty, foul taste in your mouth, coated tongue, foul breath, are weak and easily tired, feel depressed and despondent, have frequent headaches, dizzy attacks, gnawing or distress in stomach, constipated or irregular bowels, sour or bitter risings after eating and poor appetite, these symptoms, or any considerable number of them, indicate that your suffering from biliousness, torpid or lazy liver with the usual accompanying indigestion, or dyspepsia and their attendant derangements.

The best agents known to medical science for the cure of the above conditions as pronounced by the faculty of leading medical writers and practitioners of all the several schools of medical practice, have been skillfully and harmoniously combined in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. That this is absolutely true will be readily proven to your satisfaction if you will but mail a postal card request to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., for a free copy of his booklet of extracts from the standard medical authorities, giving the names of all the ingredients entering into his world-famed medicines and showing what the most eminent medical men of the age say of them.

The Pacific Fruit Cooling and Vaporizing Company, Incorporated for the purpose of cooling deciduous fruits and removing moisture from citrus fruits and keeping unde cold storage such fruits and other food products from the time of receiving them from the fruit growers until loaded on car and taken away by the Railroad Company for Eastern shipment

STUBBORN FACTS UNIMPEACHABLE

The loss in shipping deciduous and citrus fruits is enormous. The orange crop of Southern California alone is valued at $30,000,000. The government experts estimate that about 25 per cent. or $7,500,000, is lost every year by rough handling in picking and decay of fruit in transit to the Eastern markets. What a revenue of profit this loss would be to the shipper if it could be saved. Our process will save it. The same is true of the deciduous fruits of Northern California.

GREAT FORTUNES ARE MADE BY INVESTING IN NECESSITIES

Fruit is one of the necessities of our civilized life, and the company that can place the fruit in the markets of the world in the best shape, in the quickest time, at the lowest rate, has a fortune within its grasp. The Armour Company in ten years made $5,000,000 by handling California fruit in refrigerator cars. Our process is as necessary to the fruit grower as the refrigerator car. Therefore we ought to receive as large a revenue for handling the same commodity.

GET IN WHILE THE ENTERPRISE IS NEW

No wiser words were ever spoken than these: "The chief point about getting rich is to invest in a new enterprise that is being managed by successful men, who have some of their own money in the deal." "One good investment is worth a lifetime of labor". Think over this sentence. A man's daily labor will never make him rich. He must have some money at work for him. Money invested never gets sick, keeps no holidays, never goes on strike. There are three things that ought to guide you. First, invest with honest men; second, invest with men of sound judgment; third, invest under conditions where you get your full share of profits the business yields. Get into a company whose destiny is guided by men of this stamp which its future is before and not behind it. Here is the secret of fortune. Plant the seed of your investment in the soil of opportunity, at the season of greatest promise when the enterprise is new. Every ounce of honor in the hearts of the men managing this company is pledged to give

A SQUARE DEAL FOR EVERY INVESTOR

There will be no preferred stock, every dollar invested will be worth 100 cents on the dollar. Our Directors, as honorable business men, will not allow any tricks of trade by which the small investor can be frozen out. Their commercial standing proves they are not "gratters". The poor man's 500 of 100 shares will have the same standing in court as the rich man's 10,000, and they will draw the same proportional dividend. We court investigation.

EVERY RICH MAN IN THE WORLD WAS ONCE POOR, OR HIS GRANDFATHER WAS.

THE OPPORTUNITY OF A LIFETIME

To get into a company that has the certainty of growth, the assurance of large and quick returns, a rapid advance in the price of stock, to make it an exceptional chance for big profits on a small investment. This is an ideal investment for the wage earner as well as the rich man. Moderate sums invested now will bring splendid returns in the near future. The logic of all this is

DON'T WAIT

Time is the essence of this proposition. The stock will certainly double in a short time. Jay Gould once said: "When you see a good investment don't wait to see if it pans out well, for by that time other people see it, too, and you have lost your opportunity."

WOMEN AS INVESTORS

Some of the heaviest stockholders in our company are women of keen business instincts. One lady in Los Angeles bought 5,000 shares. In a few days she returned and bought 5,000 more. This lady has never made a mistake in her business ventures. Women are good investors because they have courage to follow their convictions. Their intuitions are keener and truer than man's logic. Men may prevent her voting, but they can't prevent her drawing dividends on her investments. This is one branch of trade where sex, culture, or color does not count.

MANAGEMENT

The affairs of this company are in the hands of men of honesty, ability, courage and good business judgment—men who have made a success of their own business—men whose business reputation is A1 in the commercial circles in which they move.

These men are "square" and "shrewd". They will not deceive you nor will they be deceived themselves. Because of the promise of growth, permanency and profit this business offers they have united their money, energy, time and business experience to make this enterprise a grand success.

Notwithstanding the Financial Crisis, Investments made Six Months ago have Advanced

150 PER CENT

The next six months promises to far exceed the past six months

If you investigate this proposition you will surely invest.

WE COURT INVESTIGATION

Investments can be made in amounts of from $25 to $1,000

A Case of Marital Infidelity in the Village of Tweed

How a Man Lost Wife, and Children Lost Their Mother

Over Affectionate Traveller

There are villages and villages and though our general opinion of one is apt to turn Grand-pre-ward of the Arcadian days and suggest peace, quietness and simple home happiness, it is rather startling to find that tragedies are in their midst even as in our larger cities, where wickedness is supposed to flourish. A recent case in the pretty village of Tweed is food for reflection. A miner who spent most of his time in the back country, working for his wife and two children which he left in the more comfortable place to live, had reason to think he had better have them with him even in the mining country. Accordingly he came to the village and moved them out. The woman objected, but the man was firm. They started a sort of boarding house for the men in the mining district and any chance travellers coming through that remote region of the country. But the dream of conjugal happiness did not last long. A commercial traveller happened along and found great interest in the mining camp it was supposed. Now such a camp, be it ever so picturesque in summer, is a mighty cold and barren place in winter and not conducive to a romance. The traveller hugged the stove for several days and also incidently the other man's wife. Then he disappeared. No suspicion entered the husband's mind when a few days later his wife took a desperate longing to see her mother and begged to be allowed to take the two children and pay her a visit of weeks. Permission was granted and one of the miners driving into Tweed offered to take them along. As he was not to return for a few days, the man sent word to his mother-in-law to report if they arrived safely. They certainly did and the fond grandparent was glad to have them. But an unlooked for occurrence happened next day— the children remained safe and sound though the mother had disappeared in the night. Alas! that the good looking traveller should also be missing from his room where he boarded. The word reached the miner next day and he came to the village to investigate, but the birds had flown and no trace left as to their destination. With a philosophical resignation the man accepted the domestic situation and on Saturday sold out his household effects and has left his children in his mother's care.

This is the third case of domestic infidelity the village has known within a comparatively short time; divorce figures in one instance and legal separation in the other. So all the wickedness does not flourish in the large centres, but is about even in this "mad old, sad old world."

A Peterborough Man Makes a Rich Strike

Special to The Times.

Latchford, Ont., Feb. 20. — To-day another Peterborough man "struck it rich" on the Montreal River, close to Latchford, and also very near the famous Mine, which is situated on lot 10, con 3, Dack-man township. It is said by men well versed in mining values, that the new "strike" is one of the most valuable in the camp. It was made by Mr. Wm. Whalen, who left Peterborough only a few days ago. The ore is in slate formation, being a lead two feet wide with calcite, heavily charged with arsenic and leaf silver.

Miners and prospectors are getting very busy, and in a few weeks the great camp will be as busy as it was a year or two ago. Foreign mining men are coming in on every train. Thos from a distance appear to be well supplied with funds.

The Opal Serpent Our New Serial

The Times has always made a specialty of giving its readers, day by day, portions of a strong and thrilling novel by some celebrated writer of fiction. In yesterday's issue appeared the first chapter of "The Opal Serpent," one of Fergus Hume's most fascinating novels. The name of Fergus Hume is inseparably connected with that masterpiece of fiction entitled "Mysteries of a Hansom Cab," this author's celebrated work. The "Opal Serpent" is fully as interesting, and it would injury our readers, not only to follow the serial, day by day, but to cut out and preserve the whole work for a second perusal or for their friends' edification.

A Very Pretty Douro Wedding

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the residence of Mr. Thomas Black, Douro, on Feb 12th, when, under beautifully arranged evergreens and a floral bell, his only daughter, Miss Mabel Olive, became the bride of Mr. John A. Tedford, of Smith. Rev. J. G. Potter tied the nuptial knot. The bride was given away by her father, and Miss Mary Pratly, of this city, rendered Mendelssohn's march. The bride was handsomely attired in a gown of cream silk cord, with the usual wedding veil, and carried a shower bouquet of white carnations and ferns. Miss Lilly Potter, of Toronto, was the charming bridesmaid, whilst Miss Beatty Beck, cousin of the bride, acted as flower girl. The groom was supported by his brother.

Mr. Potter gave a very appropriate address, which was much applaud d. The bride was the recipient of a very large number of handsome presents. The happy couple will reside in Omemee.

Local Canoes for Hudson Bay Co

Yesterday morning the William English Canoe Co., Charlotte street, shipped eight large canoes to headquarters of the Hudson Bay Co. at London, Eng. The company will, on their arrival re-ship the canoes to different trading posts of the company. Four other canoes will be sent to the northwest to some of the company's quarters in the far north. That Peterborough canoes should receive such fame, not only in Canada, but in many other countries of, is a great credit and a standing advertisement for Peterborough-made goods.

SAYS GREAT BRITAIN FRIGHTENED RUSSIA INTO CO-OPERATION

British Authorities Said to Have Bluffed Russia

Turkish Situation

Berlin, Feb. 21.—The Foreign Office takes a cool view of the flurry among the diplomats of Europe occasioned by the Porte granting permission to Austria to survey for a railroad extension that would make complete the rail connection with Saloniki, traversing a portion of Turkish territory.

Reports received here from St. Petersburg, Paris and Rome indicate that in some time British diplomacy made representations in those capitals with the object of causing a fresh grouping of the powers in near Eastern affairs by means of which Great Britain, France, Russia and Italy would be able to impose their will upon the Sultan and thus manoeuvre Austria and Germany into a weaker position at Constantinople. Great Britain's ultimate object is believed to be to produce disorder in Turkish affairs so that a more permanent settlement may be reached before Russia has recovered from the effects of her war with Japan.

In official Government has known for several months past that the current British policy included the creation of the impression in St. Petersburg that Japan was preparing to renew the war. This suggestion, revealed on private letters to a member of the Russian court from persons of the highest social distinction in England, was supported by the stiff tone of the Japanese Foreign Office in the recent negotiations relating to frontier questions in Manchuria. The nervousness of the Russian Court was utilized in Great Britain to conclude the Persian and Afghanistan agreements, and it has now been employed in obtaining a limited co-operation in the protests against Austria in Macedonia.

Baron Von Aehrenthal, the Austrian Foreign Minister, has, however, during the last three days laid the basis of a French entente between Russia and Austria.

POLICE

At yesterday's session of the police court a man named Thomas Mahoney, pleaded not guilty, but was proven guilty of using profane language in a public place. Mahoney took ten days in Castle Nesbitt in place of paying the $2 fine imposed.

Albert Crowder and his wife were charged with keeping a house of ill-repute. The case was enlarged for one week in order to get witnesses subpoenaed. A further bartender was charged with being a frequenter of the Crowder house. This defendant was remanded for a week also unless he can get bail in the sum of $200.00.

A girl named Queenie Grant was also similarly dealt with as being an inmate of the house. The arrests were made Thursday night by P. C.'s Newhall, Adams and McGinty.

Just before the four prisoners were taken up to the jail on remand, one of the men remarked, "I would not take $1,000 and go up like this" (viz., handcuffed to the other). One of the women ejaculated, "O, I guess you'll go up for a good deal less than that." And so he did.

The ex-bartender while in the court explained that he had only gone to Crouser's house to take the latter home, as he was intoxicated. He had his overcoat and hat on when the raid was made, and claimed to have only arrived just before the place was raided.

Criminology to be the Next Subject

Owing to the great success of the local Canadian Club's banquet Thursday night at the National Hotel, it has been decided to hold the club's next meeting on Thursday evening, March 5th, when Mr. A. Archibald, of Ottawa, Dominion Parole Officer, will give an address on Criminology, of which he has made a special study, and has spoken on before the Canadian Clubs in many of the largest cities. His work consists largely in looking after prisoners whose sentences have expired and those who for various reasons are let out "on parole" before they have served all their time. Such a subject treated by so thorough an expert will be both instructive and interesting.

Evelyn Will Fight If Thaws Get Ugly The Midnight Dinner

New York, Feb 21.—From several sources it is stated that the elder Mrs. Thaw has demanded that proceedings be begun in a Pennsylvania court for the annulment of her son's marriage, on the ground that he was insane at the time of the ceremony. It is said that such a course, if successful, would leave Evelyn penniless.

Young Mrs. Thaw's counsel is preparing to have the two proceedings at a New York court for annulment of the marriage and the granting of alimony. As under the present State laws, however, would give young Mrs. Thaw a claim to alimony should she obtain a decree in this State. This would amount to one-third of the income of the Thaw property during the remainder of the husband's natural lifetime.

The great stumbling block in the way of a settlement is Harry K. Thaw himself.

A note was sent to him yesterday at Matteawan asking if there was any truth in the rumor that he would be divorced from his wife. The note was returned with a large printed over the back of the paper.

"NO!"

Mrs. William Thaw was quoted yesterday afternoon as having said:

"Up to now Harry has refused to listen to the counsel I have given him. Until he does he must bear the annoyance of such acts as Monday night's dinner at the Cafe Boulevard. I am very sorry for my poor boy. He is brave, but very foolish.

"I have read the denial of the report that she was at the Cafe Boulevard with a man named Thomas. It sounds as much like other denials she has made."

Mrs. Evelyn Thaw, at the doorway of her Park avenue house, replied to several questions of a reporter yesterday. In response to a question regarding suit for divorce or annulment of her marriage, she responded:

"I am sick to-day with neuralgia on the left side of my face, and I am ill with the grip. I have all the troubles I wish without stirring up any more."

WON'T TALK OF INTERVIEW.

"Have you seen the interview given by your mother-in-law?"

"No. I have not, and I do not care to see it. If it is anything disagreeable my lawyer will attend to it. I have every confidence in him, and I guess he is ready for any move."

At the home of Mrs. Evlyn Thaw, it was said yesterday that Mrs. William Thaw has been at the house only twice since Evelyn took up their residence there. That was several months ago, and visits between the two have ceased entirely. The elder Mrs. Thaw is stopping at the Hotel Lorraine.

During Thaw's last trial there were several rumors, borne out by incidents, that Thaw and his wife were not upon the best of terms. The breach between them is said to have widened considerably since he failed to prevail upon his lawyers to attempt to keep him out of Matteawan.

The elder Mrs. Thaw has been openly hostile, to the daughter-in-law. Every possible effort was made by Mrs. William Thaw to prevent the marriage of her son but afterwards she made a determined effort to have Evelyn accepted by society. Realizing that since the two trials of Thaw, any further social efforts are hopeless, she is said to have to have determined to get the younger Mrs. Thaw out of the family.

Yesterday there were denials and affirmations of the printed reports of Mrs. Evelyn Nesbit Thaw having dined with E. R. Thomas at the Cafe Boulevard on Monday night. Mrs. Thaw was greatly disturbed over the report. She said;

"It is absolutely false that I was in the Cafe Boulevard on Monday night. I dined at my home and spent that evening in my home. My maid can corroborate what I say."

Here is what Mr. Thomas has to say.:

"I was with two friends, both of them editors, until midnight Monday. From midnight until two o'clock Tuesday morning I was with my counsel, Edward Lauterbach. I was not near the Cafe Boulevard. I don't know Mrs. Thaw, and have never seen her."

An hour before Mr. Thomas issued this statement his wife made this assertion at her home:

"My husband had dinner at home and spent the evening right here with me. The report that he was in a Boulevard restaurant with Mrs. Thaw is false."

A Woman's Back

Has many aches and pains caused by weaknesses and falling, or other displacement, of the pelvic organs. Other symptoms of female weakness are frequent headache, dizziness, imaginary specks or dark spots floating before the eyes, gnawing sensation in stomach, dragging or bearing down in lower abdominal or pelvic region, disagreeable drains from pelvic organs, faint spells with general weakness.

If any considerable number of the above symptoms are present there is no remedy that will give quicker relief or a more permanent cure than Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It has a record of over forty years of cures. It is the most potent invigorating tonic and strengthening nervine known to medical science. It is made of the glyceric extracts of native medicinal roots found in our forests and contains not a drop of alcohol or harmful, or habit-forming drugs. Its ingredients are all printed on the bottle-wrapper and attested under oath as correct.

Every ingredient entering into "Favorite Prescription" has the written endorsement of the most eminent medical writers of all the several schools of practice—more valuable than any amount of non-professional testimonials—though the latter are not lacking, having been contributed voluntarily by grateful patients in numbers to exceed the endorsements given to any other medicine extant for the cure of woman's ills.

You cannot afford to accept any medicine of unknown composition as a substitute for this well proven remedy of known composition, even though the dealer may make a little more profit thereby. Your interest in regaining health is paramount to any selfish interest of his and it is an insult to your intelligence for him to try to palm off upon you a substitute. You know what you want and it is his business to supply the article called for.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the original "Little Liver Pills" first put up by old Dr. Pierce over forty years ago, much imitated but never equaled. Little sugar-coated granules—easy to take as candy.

Local Champion at Kansas City

Mr. Dave Hartley, Peterborough's champion pedestrian, now in Kansas City, Mo., to take part in the great six days' walking match there, beginning Monday, has written to Mr. R. J. Munro, proprietor of the hotel of that city. Dave says there is a great deal of betting on the race, and when the six days' grind is over there will be a clean-up for somebody. The bookies, of whom there are a great many, are doing a land office business.

The Peterborough walker is in good shape and has been training faithfully for the event. He says he is up against a fast field, but hopes to be within the money when the race has finished. Hartley is doing no talking, and says it is well down there to keep quiet. Since he has been there one man has been shot for talking too much, and Hartley deems it wise not to discuss his chances with anyone. He writes the letter from his boarding house on 13th street.

Coming Citizens Given God-Speed

Lakefield News: On Wednesday evening, February 19th, about forty of the neighbors and friends of Mr. and Mrs. Sherwin, Smith township, assembled at their home, giving them a complete surprise, to spend one more evening with them before their removal to their new home in Peterborough. An enjoyable evening was spent by both old and young, with games and music, both vocal and instrumental. During the evening a sumptuous supper was served, followed by a speech from the genial host, expressing his appreciation of the kinds as of his neighbors, and his regret in leaving the community. Mr. and Mrs. Sherwood are highly esteemed by both old and young in the neighborhood of which they have been residents for the last five years. They will be greatly missed not only in the church and Sunday school, of which both have taken an active part. Mr. and Mrs. Sherwin can be sure they have the good wishes of their many friends and neighbors in their new home.

MANITOBA RAISES TELEPHONE RATES

Winnipeg, Feb. 21.—Following the absorption of the Bell Telephone system by the Government of Manitoba, a reduction had been expected. Today the doctors and nurses of the city received a circular letter from the city manager of the Provincial Telephone System, acting under instructions from the Telephone Commission, that on and after March 1, the rates for their telephones would be advanced from $40 to $50 a year, an increase of 25 per cent. This caused a great deal of comment throughout the city, particularly in the circles of the professions affected.

It is understood that the long distance tariff has been revised also, and that the time has been cut from three minutes to two minutes, while the charge has been slightly reduced.

Splendid Showing of Canadian Company

Federal Life Assurance Co. Has Had Successful Year

The twenty-sixth annual meeting of that grand old Canadian institution, the Federal Life Assurance Co., was held in the company's head office in Hamilton on Friday the 14th, with Mr. David Dexter, president, in the chair. Notwithstanding the general financial depression that has, in a sense, handicapped every branch of business since the middle of last year, the Federal Company has maintained its uninterrupted success. The report of the directors showed that during the past year the company got two thousand four hundred and fifty-four new applications for insurance, aggregating $3,534,198.57, of which two thousand three hundred and twenty-two were accepted for $3,302,748.57. As in the past, the income of the company shows a substantial increase, the assets of the company now $3,000,472.74 exclusive of guarantee capital, the increases for last year being $289,770.12. The main feature of the Federal's success is the absolute protection given to policy holders, the security amounting to $3,870,472.74., while the liabilities for reserves and all outstanding claims amount to $2,786,356.74, a most significant assurance to policyholders. There were ninety-five death claims amounting to $168,149.32. The total payments to policyholders amounted to $168,149.32. The funds of the company, as can be seen by the annual statement included in this issue are invested in most conservative and safe manner. The assets of the company have been increased nearly ten and two-thirds per cent. over those of the preceding year. The company has taken advantage of the present financial depression to purchase bonds, debentures, etc., at a great advantage, and as these securities are really worth par or over, a good profit will accrue. Mr. David Dexter, one of Canada's leading financiers, has every reason for congratulation over the splendid showing made by the Federal under his management.

Mr. Geo Pope, 406 George street, is the manager for this district for the Federal Co.

A Galena Smelter for Town of Tweed

Mr. E. J. Cowan is at present in Pittsburg, where he has gone to interest capital in the new galena ore which he has discovered on his property near Bogart. The ore samples are very fine and there is large quantities of it on his property, which is located in Bedford township on the K. & P. Railway.

He has recently had this ore treated by a chemical process which in a little over an hour will change this ore into pure white lead, medium chrome lead and light chrome lead.

Mr. Cowan has already formed the Frontenac Mining and Smelting Co., in which several local men are interested, and if he can carry out his arrangements in Pittsburg and Oil City he will return to Tweed with the intention of erecting a plant here for the treatment of that ore. It is said that Tweed would be the best location for such a plant owing to its proximity to the Sulphide Works where the acids necessary to the process can be obtained.

Little more of the plans of the company can be learned and as much depends on the success of the trip to the Pennsylvania cities, it is to be hoped that it will be entirely successful.—Tweed News.

New School Regulations

We find a regrettable ignorance of the New Public School Act among rural school trustees, from the questions coming to us. We have not had time to become informed on its provisions. The Inspector of Schools is the fountain of knowledge on School Law. Ignorance obtains of the new Public School Act in so far as it applies to the teacher's salary. In rural schools any advance over $300 up to $400 the Government will pay forty per cent. The section that engages a teacher at $400 really pays only $280; or $450, $300. There is also a straight grant of $15.00 to every section independent of salary and a small grant on equipment. This does not apply to incorporated villages or towns.

Fourteen Miners Were Killed in England

Newcastle-upon-Tyne, Eng., Feb. 21.—Fourteen miners lost their lives by an explosion in the Globe Pit in the village of Washington, last night.

There were fifteen men in the mine at the time of the accident, and only escaped with his life.

Shortly before the explosion occurred 500 miners ascended from the pit.

EIGHT FFET OF SNOW IN TWP OF DOURO

Mr. Chamberlain, who lives some three or four miles out in the township of Douro, was in the city yesterday, and noted that the roads were almost impassible. The road just beyond where the turn leads to Messrs. Curtis Bros.' brickyards is covered with snow to a level with the bank at the side, or some nine feet deep. Mr. Chamberlain noted that only one team came to there on Saturday last, viz., that of Mr. Kemp, who was in the city. It took six men to fill in the holes made by Mr. Kemp's horses, so as to render the road safe for driving. Were these holes, caused by Mr. Kemp's horses sinking through the melting snow of that day not filled in, horses driven now could easily step into the cavities and break a leg.

MOTHERS MUST HAVE ABUNDANT STRENGTH

No Mother Can Rear a Healthy Child Unless She is Strong Herself.

A woman's anxieties multiply tenfold about the time the new baby is expected.

If her strength is exhausted and her blood weak, it goes hard in the hour of trial.

Ferrozone should be used because it makes the blood nutritious and rich, by instilling new strength into every part of the body, it uplifts your spirits at once.

Childbirth is certainly made easier by Ferrozone. The following statement expresses the earnest gratitude of Mrs. M. E. Duckworth, of Durham. It is a woman's story—of her own case—told that other women may profit by her experience;

"Before baby was born I was in a weak, miserable, nervous state. I had no reserve strength. I tried to build up, but nothing helped me. I looked upon the coming day with dread, knowing I was unequal to the occasion.

"Ferrozone braced me up at once. It gave me strength and spirits, brought back my nerve and cheerfulness. From my experience with Ferrozone I recommend it to all expectant mothers."

There is more concentrated nourishment in Ferrozone than you can get from anything else. It supplies what weak systems need. Simply take one tablet at meals and you'll feel benefited in a thousand ways.

Ferrozone makes healthy, virile, vigorous women; try it. 50c per box of fifty tablets, or six for $2.50, at all dealers.

UNION LABEL

PETERBOROUGH, FEBRUARY 22, 1908.

In spite of the increase of fire construction and the interest in concrete development, wood remains the great building material of the continent. A report of the United States geological survey contained the information that in forty-nine of the large cities of the Union, 60 per cent. of the buildings erected last year were of wood. The percentage is, of course, much greater in the suburbs, in smaller places and in the rural districts.

That a diminishing supply and an increase of price must act as a deterrent is obvious, but it is stated that the cut for building purposes in 1906, both in Canada and the United States, was larger than it had ever been before. There is, in fact, a great incentive to destroy the forests for a tempting present profit, and the natural operation under private ownership would be to secure the profit and to let the future take care of itself. The end would come with the exhaustion of the supply, when the country would be bare and there would be neither wood for buildings nor trees to protect its water courses.

Under a proper system of forest reservations it is possible not only to prevent such a complete destruction of our timber but to keep the supply replenished, and this is the object of the government policies. But it is to be hoped that a check on the cutting of the trees may be found also in the cheapening of building materials other than wood. If people could get at low prices a material that would be durable, that would resist the fire and that would give to the houses an attractive appearance, the demand for lumber would diminish very sensibly. Of late years concrete has seemed to be the most promising material along these lines, but it has been subjected to some rash experiments and has led to some severe disappointments. Nevertheless there can be no doubt that there will be a steadily increasing demand for it, and with proper care in composition and construction it gives thoroughly satisfactory results. The problem is to get these results at small cost.

Grippe is sweeping the country. Step it with Preventics, before it gets deeply seated. To check early colds with these little Candy Cold Cure Tablets is surely sensible and safe. Preventics contain no Quinine, no laxative, nothing harsh or sickening. Pneumonia would never appear if early colds were promptly broken. Also good for feverish children. Large box, 48 tablets, 25 cents. Vest pocket tome, 5 cents. Sold by all dealers.

Early Morning Triangular Fight

In the wee sma' hours yesterday morning as a young man was on his way home in the southern part of the city he ran across a full-fledged fight in progress, even though the time was about 2 a.m. The combatants chose as their battle-ground the space between the C. P. R. station and MacHarn's Mill. The scrap was somewhat even, or to be correct, two-sided, as two men were pitching into a third. Each one of the three had a large enough cargo of tanglefoot aboard to have reasonably satisfied the whole three if divided equally. The lone man had sustained quite a beating from the other two and was bleeding freely. The young man who saw the fight remembered that the "Peacemaker" in a fight like this of being "Blessed" generally gets a blessed good licking from both combatants, so went on his way.

ELLEN TERRY'S COOKING.

How She Learned to Be a Good Housekeeper.

At twenty-one years of age Ellen Terry had been on the stage long enough to feel the necessity of a long vacation. In a little sketch of her life she goes to those six years of the simple life with much delight:

"Actors must take care of themselves and their voices, husband their strength for the evening's work, and when it is over they are too tired to do anything. For the first time I was able to put all my energies into a living. Charles Lamb says, I think, that when he left the East India House he felt embarrassed by the vast estates of time at his disposal and wished that he had a bailiff to manage them, but I knew no such embarrassment. I began gardening, 'the purest of human pleasures.' I learned to work and in time cooked very well, though my first essay in the difficult art was rewarded with dire and complete failure.

"It was a chicken. Now, as all the chickens had names—Sultan, Duke, Lord Tom Noddy, Lady Teazle and so forth—and as I was very proud of them as living birds, it was a great wrench to kill one at all, to start with. It was the murder of Sultan, not the killing of a chicken. However, at last it was done and Sultan deprived of his feathers, floured and trussed. I had no idea how this was all done, but I tried to make him sit up nicely like the chickens in the shops.

"He came up to the table looking magnificent—as large as any turkey.

"'Hasn't this chicken rather an odd smell?' said our visitor.

"'How can you?' I answered. 'It must be quite fresh—it's Sultan!'

"However, when we began to carve the smell grew more and more potent.

"I had cooked Sultan without taking out his inwards!

"There was no dinner that day except bread sauce, beautifully made; well cooked vegetables and pastry like the foam of the sea. I had a wonderful hand for pastry."

SAVE BROKEN CHINA.

Order Brought Out of the Chaos of Bits of China.

Here is what a thrifty housewife has to say about utilizing broken bits of china:

"I was always averse to throwing my china away and so one day found I had quite a collection. What could I do with them? A happy thought struck me. Why not piece all together in a crazy pattern and so form a surface for a table?

"I bought one of those inexpensive bamboo tables you can get for 50 or 60 cents and found it answered very well. A bamboo table has the edge raised all around and so forms a bed for the china, bringing it level with the edges.

"Now for commencing the work.

"Take some putty and mold it well, leaving no hard lumps. To do this moisten with linseed oil. Then pull a small piece and cover a small portion of the table, beginning at the corners and working toward the middle. Next press the pieces of china close together, leaving a small ridge of putty between, which must be leveled with a knife.

"An old table knife is the best. Select five of the best pieces for the corners and the center, matching them if possible.

"Keep the table level. Thicker pieces of china will have to be pressed down harder. When finished, leave to harden and fill up all cracks with more putty. When this is done, gild the putty with Judson gold.

"The success of the table depends a great deal on what kind of china you use. The better the china the better the table.

"I found some of my best pieces in all sorts of odd places. One very pretty piece showing an old fashioned garden I found on the beach at the seashore. If you can manage to get any of your friends in the service to give you a piece of the 'mess' china, which often gets broken, it will greatly add to your collection."

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

Sealed Tenders addressed to the undersigned, marked on the envelope 'Tender for Construction,' will be received at the office of the Commissioners of the Transcontinental Railway, at Ottawa, until twelve o'clock, noon, of Tuesday, the 10th day of March, 1908, for the work required for the construction, in accordance with the plans, profiles and specifications of the Commissioners, of the following sections of the Transcontinental Railway, viz:—

(1) District 'A'.—From a point designated on the plans of the Commissioners, about the 58th mile west of Moncton, to the crossing of the Intercolonial Railway at or about mile 97.7, a distance of about 39.7 miles.

(2) District 'A'.—From a point designated on the plans of the Commissioners, at or about the crossing of the Intercolonial Railway by the Transcontinental Railway at mile 97.7 west of Moncton to the Tobique River, at or about mile 165.7 less one mile, a distance of about 67 miles.

(3) District 'A'.—From a point designated on the plans of the Commissioners, at or near the Tobique River, to a point shown on the said plans about 2 1-2 miles west of the Town of Grand Falls, in the Province of New Brunswick, a distance of about 31.5 miles.

(4) District 'B'.—From a point designated on the plans of the Commissioners, at or near the boundary line between the Provinces of Quebec and New Brunswick, westerly a distance of about 52.4 miles.

(5) District 'D'.—From a point designated on the plans of the Commissioners, about eight miles west of the Abitibi River crossing, in the Province of Ontario, westerly for a distance of about 140 miles.

(6) District 'E'.—From a point designated on the plans of the Commissioners, about 19 1-2 miles west of the crossing of Mud River, near Lake Nepigon, in the Province of Ontario, easterly for a distance of about 75 miles.

Plans, profiles and specifications may be seen in the office of the Chief Engineer of the Commissioners at Ottawa; also in the offices of the District Engineers concerned, viz:—Guy C. Dunn, St. John, N. B.; A. E. Doucet, Quebec, P. Q.; John Ayles, Acting District Engineer, North Bay, Ont.; and T. S. Armstrong, Neelon, Ont.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made in duplicate, and on the printed forms supplied by the Commissioners.

A separate tender must be submitted for each section.

Tenderers shall not be in any way entitled to rely upon the classification, or any other information given by any person on behalf of the Commissioners; and before submitting any tender, bidders should make a careful examination of the plans, profiles, drawings and specifications and read the forms to be executed, and fully inform themselves as to the quantity and quality of materials, and character of workmanship required; and are understood to accept, and agree to be bound by, the terms and conditions in the form of contract, specifications, etc., annexed to the form of tender.

Each tender must be signed and sealed by all the parties to the tender, and witnessed, and be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered bank of the Dominion of Canada, payable to the order of the Commissioners, of the Transcontinental Railway, as follows:—

For Section No. 1,	District 'A'...	$ 75,000
For Section No. 2,	District 'A'...	100,000
For Section No. 3,	District 'A'...	75,000
For Section No. 4,	District 'B'...	100,000
For Section No. 5,	District 'D'...	150,000
For Section No. 6,	District 'E'...	100,000

Any person whose tender is accepted shall within ten days after the acceptance thereof furnish such additional approved security as may be required by the Commissioners; sign the contract, specifications, and other documents required to be signed by the said Commissioners; and, in any case of refusal or failure on the part of the party whose tender is accepted to complete the work, the whole tender is accepted to complete and execute a contract with the said Commissioners, and to furnish the additional approved security within ten days after the acceptance of the tender, the said cheque shall be forfeited to the Commissioners as liquidated damages for such refusal or failure and all contracts rights acquired by the acceptance of the tender shall be forfeited. The cheques deposited by parties whose tenders are accepted will be deposited to the credit of the Receiver General of Canada as part of the security for the due and faithful performance of the contract according to its terms. Cheques deposited by parties whose tender are rejected will be returned within ten days after the signing of the contract.

Attention is called to the following clauses in the form of contract:—

'All mechanics, labourers, or other persons who perform labour for the purposes of the construction of the works hereby contracted for, shall be paid such wages as are generally accepted as current for competent workmen in the district in which the work is being performed, and if there is no current rate in such district, then a fair and reasonable rate; and, in the event of a dispute arising as to what is the current or a fair and reasonable rate, it shall be determined by the Commissioners, whose decision shall be final.'

'This agreement is subject to the regulations now in force, or which may at any time hereafter be in force during the construction of the works hereby contracted for, made under the authority of the Department of Labour, and which are, or shall be, applicable to such works.' (The schedule of minimum wages determined upon by said Department will form part of the contract).

The contractor shall in connection with the whole of the said work, as far as practicable, use only material, machinery, plant, supplies, and rolling stock manufactured or produced in Canada, provided the same can be obtained as cheaply, and upon as good terms, in Canada as elsewhere, having regard to quality and price.'

The contractor shall conform to the fire regulations adopted by the Commissioners, and also to the laws and regulations respecting fires in the different provinces wherein the work is being performed.

The right is reserved to reject any or all tenders.

TRENT CANAL
ONTARIO-RICE LAKE DIVISION
SECTION NO. 3

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

Sealed Tenders addressed to the undersigned and endorsed "Tender for Trent Canal," will be received until 16 o'clock on Thursday, 12th March, 1908, for the works connected with the construction of Section No. 3, Ontario-Rice Lake Division of the Canal.

Plans, specifications, and the form of the contract to be entered into, can be seen on and after the 5th February, 1908, at the office of the Chief Engineer of the Department of Railways and Canals, Ottawa, at the office of the Superintending Engineer, Trent Canal, Peterborough, Ont., and at the office of Mr. J. B. Brophy, Division Engineer, Trenton, Ont., at which places forms of tender may be obtained.

Parties tendering will be required to accept the fair wages Schedule prepared or to be prepared by the Department of Labor, which Schedule will form part of the contract.

Contractors are requested to bear in mind that tenders will not be considered, unless made strictly in accordance with the printed forms, and in the case of firms, unless there are attached the actual signatures, the nature of the occupation, and place of residence of each member of the firm.

An accepted bank cheque for the sum of $10,000 must accompany each tender, which sum will be forfeited, if the party tendering declines entering into contract for the work, at the rates stated in the offer submitted.

The cheque thus sent in will be returned to the respective contractors whose tenders are not accepted.

The advertisement dated the 16th January, 1908, is hereby cancelled.

The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

A Business Proposition!

FOR BUSINESS MEN AND WOMEN

I want business men and women who have money to invest to write me for particulars.

I have an absolutely clean and safe deal that has been tested and proved by actual experience.

It will pay over $500 yearly income on every $1,000 invested, (over $100 yearly on each $200 invested) yet is not a racing or gambling scheme, but a straight, legitimate, profitable, honest business you would be proud to be identified with.

It needs more money to run it on a large scale, hence this offer to you who have money and the business sense and acumen to share in this good thing.

I have submitted particulars of this deal to the proprietors and editors of this paper; they are business men and have approved it because it is safe, sound and clean, and the promises made are straight and reasonable.

Galbraith Coal Co., Ltd.

Non-personal Liability

Capital, $250,000.00 — 1,000,000 Shares 25c. each.

Good coal stock is a safe and sure investment.
Galbraith shares are especially attractive.

Modest Capitalization — Large Coal Reserves

This Company organized under the laws of the Northwest Territories of Canada, owns and operates the Galbraith mine located at Lundbreck, Alta. They have four vertical seams of coal traversing their property, aggregating over 40 feet in thickness. Three of these seams are developed to a depth of 350 feet, and as they pass through the Company's lands for nearly a mile, some idea of the amount of coal may be had.

Shipping Steadily

The present output of the mine is about 200 tons per day. These shipments will be rapidly increased, as the C.P.R. allows its cars to be loaded with coal for points in the U. S.

We are selling a limited number of these shares at the extremely low price of

30 CENTS PER SHARE

in blocks of 100 or over. Tight money in the States makes it possible for us to give this unprecedented offer in stock that will be paying dividends inside of six months, and you are sure to realize a handsome profit.

Parties ordering can send money by P. O. Orders, Express Orders or Bank Drafts, and we will have the stock issued direct to you. Full information furnished on request. Correspondence solicited. Reference, Bank of Montreal

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTHWEST HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an Agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each on and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of a homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father or mother.

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing must be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa, of intention to apply for patent.

News in Brief

CHINA'S RIGHTS IGNORED.

Pekin, Feb. 19.—In view of the protest lodged by China against the establishment of a municipal government by Russia at Harbin, the Russian minister to China, M. Pokotiloff, has communicated to the representatives of the powers here an explanation of the Russian position. He says the Russian control in municipal affairs is justified by the convention with China giving Russia the right to administer the railroad lands in Manchuria.

Although the Russian municipalities in Manchuria are being established slowly, as is the case at Harbin, for instance, the procedure is a source of anxiety to China, especially on account of the attitude assumed by Japan. The Tokio Government is making extensive plans to follow the example of Russia and set up ex-territorial municipalities in Manchuria to accommodate the increasing Japanese population.

WENT AWAY TO DIE.

Ottawa, Feb. 19.—The lifeless body of Joshua Johnson, an Ottawa carpenter, was found on an island in the Ottawa River above Chaudiere Falls yesterday. He had been drinking heavily of late, and evidently went out to the island determined to commit suicide. The body was found with the throat gashed and a razor lying nearby in the snow. Johnson was 51 years of age, and leaves a wife and three children. Raymond Johnson, a son, escaped three days ago from the Industrial School at Mimico and has not yet been found.

cause. He could put two and two together as well as most people.

"I might ask you the same question," said he.

The two friends looked at one another, and each thought of the difference in his companion since the old school days.

From the garret and the lean meal of sausages Hay drew his conclusions and put them into words.

"Your father has cut you off," said he calmly, "and yet you propose to marry."

"How do you know both things?"

"I keep my eyes open, Paul. I see this attic and your clothes. I saw also the flush on your face when you asked me why I did not marry. You are in love?"

"I am," said Beecot, becoming scarlet and throwing back his head. "It is clever of you to guess it. Prophecy more."

Hay smiled in a cold way. "I prophesy that if you marry on nothing you will be miserable. But of course"—he looked sharply at his open faced friend—"the lady may be rich."

"She is the daughter of a second-hand bookseller called Norman, and I believe he combines selling books with pawnbroking."

"Hum," said Hay, "he might make money out of the last occupation."

"He is a miserable looking, one eyed man, with the manner of a frightened rabbit."

"One eyed and frightened," repeated Hay musingly, but without change of expression; "desirable father-in-law. And the daughter?"

"Sylvia. She is an angel, a white lily, a"—

"Of course," said Grexon, cutting short these rhapsodies. "And what do you intend to marry on?"

Beecot fished a shabby blue velvet case out of his pocket. "On my last £5 and this," he said, opening the case.

Hay looked at the contents of the case and saw a rather large brooch made to the form of a jeweled serpent. "Opals, diamonds and gold," he said slowly, then looked up eagerly. "Sell it to me."

CHAPTER II.

NO. 45 Gwynne street was a second-hand bookshop, and much of the stock was almost as old as the building itself. A weather stained board of faded blue bore in tarnished gold lettering the name of its owner, and under this were two broad windows divided by a squat door, open on week days from 8 in the morning until 8 at night. Within, the shop was dark and had a musty odor.

On either side of the quaint old house was a butcher's and a baker's flaunting places of business, raw in their newness. Between the first named establishment and the bookshop a low, narrow passage led to a small back yard and to a flight of slimy steps, down which climbs who did not wish to be seen could scuttle at a kind of cellar to transact business with Aaron Norman.

This individual combined two distinct trades. On the ground floor he sold second-hand books; in the cellar he bought jewels and gave money on the same to needy people. In the shop, pale youths, untidy, abstracted old men, spectacled girls and all varieties of the pundit caste were to be seen poring over ancient volumes or exchanging words with the proprietor. But to the cellar came fast young men, aged spendthrifts, women of no reputation and some who were very respectable indeed. These usually came at night, and in the cellar transactions would take place which involved much money exchanging hands. In the daytime Mr. Norman was an innocent bookseller, but after 7 he retired to the cellar and became as genuine a pawnbroker as could be found in London. Touching books he was easy enough to deal with, but a Shylock as regards jewels and money lent. With his bookish clients he passed for a dull shopkeeper who knew little about literature; but in the underground establishment he was spoken of by those who came to pawn as a usurer of the worst. In an underhand way he did a great deal of business.

It was this strange man that Paul Beecot encountered in the doorway of the Gwynne street shop the day after his meeting with Hay. Many a visit had Paul paid to that shop and not always to buy books. Norman knew him very well, and, recognising him in a fleeting look as he passed through the doorway, smiled weakly. Behind the counter stood Bart Tawsey, the lean underling, who was much sharper with buyers than was his master, but after a disappointed glance in his direction Paul addressed himself to the bookseller. "I wish to see you particularly," he said, with his eager air.

"I am going out on important business," said Norman, "but if you will not be very long"—

"It's about a brooch I wish to pawn."

The old man's mouth became hard and his eyes sharper. "I can't attend to that now, Mr. Beecot," he said, and his voice rang out louder than usual. "After 7."

"It's only 6 now," said Paul, looking over his shoulder at a church clock which could be seen clearly in the pale summer twilight. "I can't wait."

"Well, then, as you are an old customer of books," said Aaron, with emphasis, "I'll stretch a point. You can go below at a quarter to 7, and I'll come round through the outside passage to see you. Meantime I must go about my business," and he went away with his head hanging and his solitary eye searching the ground as usual.

Paul, in spite of his supposed hurry, was not ill pleased that Aaron had gone out and that there was an idle hour before him. He stepped lightly into the shop, and under the flaring gas—which was lighted, so dark was the interior of the shop in spite of the luminous gloaming—he encountered the smile of Barty. Paul, who was sensitive and proudly reticent, grew red. He knew well enough that his apparent admiration of Sylvia Norman had attracted the notice of Bart and of the red armed wench, Deborah Junk, who was the factotum of the household. Not that he minded, for both these servants were devoted to Sylvia and knowing that she returned the feelings of Paul said nothing about the position to Aaron. Beecot could not afford to make enemies of the pair and had no wish to do so. They were coarse grained and common, but loyal and kindly of heart.

"Got any new books, Bart?" asked Beecot, coming forward with roving eyes, for he hoped to see Sylvia glide out of the darkness to bless his hungry eyes.

"No, sir. We never get new books," replied Bart smartly. "Leastways there's a batch of secondhand novels published last year. But bless you, Mr. Beecot, there ain't nothing new about them 'cept the bindings."

"You are severe, Bart. I hope to be a novelist myself."

"We need one, sir. For the most part them as write now ain't novelists, if that means telling anything as is new. But I must go upstairs, sir. Miss Sylvia said I was to tell her when you came."

"Oh, yes—er—er—that is she wants to see a photograph of my old home. I promised to show it to her." Paul took a parcel out of his pocket. "Can't I go up?"

"No, sir. 'Twouldn't be wise. The old man may come back, and if he knew as you'd been in his house." Bart jerked his head toward the ceiling. "he'd take a fit."

"Why? He doesn't think I'm after the silver?"

"Lor' bless you no, sir. It ain't that. What's valuable—silver and gold and jewels and such like—is down there." Bart nodded toward the floor. "But Mr. Norman don't like people coming into his private rooms. He's never let in any one for years."

"Perhaps he fears to lose the fairest jewel he has."

Bart was what the Scotch call "quick in the uptake!" "He don't think so much of her as he ought to, sir," said he gloomily. "But I know he loves her and wants to make her a great heiress. When he goes to the worms Miss Sylvia will have a pretty penny. I only hope," added Bart, looking slyly at Paul, "that he who has her to wife won't squander what the old man has worked for."

Beecot colored still more at this direct hint and would have replied, but at this moment a large, red faced, ponderous woman dashed into the shop from a side door. "There," said she, clapping her hands in a childish way, "I know'd his vice, as' I see to Miss Sylvia, as is sittin' doing needlework, which she do do lovely, I see 'That's him,' and she sez, with a lovely color, 'Oh, Deborah, jus' see, fur m'eart's a-beating too loud for me t'ear 'is vice.' So I sez"—

Here she became breathless and clapped her hands again, so as to prevent interruption. But Paul did interrupt her, knowing from experience that when once set going Deborah would go on until pulled up. "Can't I go up to Miss Norman?" he asked.

"You may murder me, and slay me, and trample on my carp," said Deborah solemnly, "but go up you can't. Master would send me to walk the streets if I dared to let you, innocent as you are, go up them stairs."

"Can't I see her in the cellar?" he asked. "Mr. Norman said I could go down to wait for him."

"Sir," said Deborah, plunging forward a step like a stumbling bus horse, "don't tell me as you want to pawn."

"Well, I do," replied Paul softly, "but you needn't tell every one."

"It's only Bart," cried Deborah, casting a fierce look in the direction of the slim, sharp faced young man, "and if he was to talk I'd take his tongue out. That I would. I'm agin—

Weak Kidneys

Weak Kidneys surely point to weak Kidney Nerves. The Kidneys, like the Heart, and the Stomach, find their weakness, not in the organ itself, but in the nerves that control and guide and strengthen them. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is a medicine specifically prepared to reach these controlling nerves. To doctor the Kidneys alone, is futile. It is a waste of time, and of money as well.

If your back aches or is weak, if the urine scalds, or is dark and strong, if you have symptoms of Bright's or other distressing or dangerous kidney diseases, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative a month—Tablets or Liquid—and see what it can and will do for you. Druggist recommend and sell

ARE YOU DYING WITH HEART DISEASE

Sometimes you wake up heart throbbing like a steam engine. Your breathing is short and irregular; pains shoot through the chest and abdomen and cause horrible anxiety.

Your trouble isn't with the heart at all.

These sensations are the outcome of indigestion, which has caused gas to form on the stomach and press against the heart.

But how long can your heart stand this?

You know well enough it will soon give out.

Then remove the cause.

It can be done with Dr. Hamilton's Pills; they correct digestion, tone up the liver and kidneys, guarantee you freedom from further attacks.

Is it not your plain duty to get this grand remedy today?

Better you are sure to feel at once. Just read what happened to Isaac Mallour, of Belle River, Ont. He used Dr. Hamilton's Pills—they made a new man of him.

"Three months ago I was as weak, sickly man. My appetite was poor, food fermented in my stomach, and I had sour risings and indigestions. At night I would often waken with gas in the stomach and heart palpitation. "I consulted my doctor," and used remedies that my friends advised. Nothing helped.

"One day I received a sample of Dr. Hamilton's Pills, and my cure commenced. To-day I have a vigorous appetite, strong heart action and no sign of indigestion. I feel younger and healthier than ever before."

Your dealer sells Dr. Hamilton's Pills. 25c per box, or five boxes for $1.00.

As we Are Known in England

Millbrook Reporter: Mr. Dean, manager of the Bank of Montreal, received a letter yesterday addressed as follows: D. Dean, Bank of Montreal, Hamilton, Ontario, India. It was from England and was to show that while the writer was ignorant of Geography, the P. O. officials were not.

Mr. Herb Kent is the City

Mr. H. W. Kent, of Vancouver, B. C., a former Peterborough boy and district manager of the Burrell Inlet Telephone Company, is registered at the Dreamel. Mr. Kent has been on a business trip to Ottawa, Montreal and Toronto, and will be here for a couple of days. Mr. Kent has sent in his resignation to the Burrell Inlet Company, but the company has not accepted it. Herb's many old friends here are giving him "the glad hand."

A Correction

Mrs. A. Edgar, of Shortbrooke St., called at the Times yesterday and noted that a report of ours concerning the alleged act of the lady calling at the police station to complain about a boarder leaving her who owed her two months' board bill, was absolutely incorrect. Our informant regarding this matter was evidently mistaken.

A Coming Event

Concert on March 3rd in Conservatory Hall: J. Harry Scriver, robust tenor; Carrie Reesor, mezzo soprano; Julia Choates, violinist; all local artists. Mr. Bert Harvey, of Toronto, Canada's first humorist, and Miss Jessie I. Anderson, of Hastings, looked upon as the best concert pianist and accompanist between Toronto and Montreal.

Local Men Win Suit

At yesterday's session of the Division Court Messrs. Florence & Co., junk dealers of this city, sued a fellow countryman at Fenelon Falls for a sum of money, which they claimed was due them in connection with a transaction over some scrap iron. Mr. S. T. Mudd appeared for Florence & Co., and Mr. Knight, of Lindsay, for the defendant. Judge Waller gave the decision in favor of the plaintiff, but not for the entire amount claimed.

Got Jail Instead of Whiskey

A Lindsay man named Hutton, who was on the "Black" or prosecuted list, as regards the purchase of liquor, got dry with a capital "D." He went, in defiance of the Liquor License Act, and tried to procure the goods (?) old house that his heart or stomach hungered for from a local firm there. Instead of the cooling drink he got a month in the Lindsay Bastile, where beans does not enter nor the seductive cocktail tickle the palate. Our shakespearean correspondent hearing of this sad end of poor Hutton, sent in the following: "A Lindsay man by name Hutton, Against the law went a-button. Instead of his whiskey, To make him feel frisky, Jail cordwood he now is a-cuttin'.

I wish that I might talk with all sick ones about the actual cause of Stomach, Heart, and Kidney ailments. To explain in person how weak Stomach nerves leads to Stomach weakness, I am sure would interest all. And it is the same with weak Hearts or Weak Kidneys. This is why my prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative—so promptly reaches ailments of the Stomach, Heart, and Kidneys. It is wrong to drug the Stomach or stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. These weak inside nerves simply need more strength. My Restorative is the only prescription made exclusively for these nerves. Next to seeing you personally, will be to mail you free, my new booklet entitled, "What To Do." I will also send samples of my Restorative as well. Write for the book to-day. It will surely interest you. Address Dr. Shoop, Box 5, Racine, Wis. All Dealers.

Mr. John Perrault, 325 Davidson street, Boulevard St. Paul, near Montreal, Canada, writes:

"I have been a bicyclist for over five years, and last spring I caught cold and did not take anything for it, for I thought it was not bad enough, but it came to catarrh. I was so discouraged that I didn't know what to do. I could not sleep; I always felt tired and troubled.

"Finally I began to take Peruna. After I had taken one bottle I felt better. I took another one, and now I am well. I would like to always feel as I do to-day. I often recommend Peruna to my friends."

Close Confinement.

Mr. G. W. Woodbury, Rogers, Ohio, formerly Captain and Center of the Hiram College Basket Ball Team, writes:

"There are times in the life of every student when excessive study and too close confinement and attention to the object in view will tell on your health.

"I have found that when body and mind alike are weary and refuse to work, a few doses of Peruna restores lost strength and invigorates one quicker and more permanently than anything I know.

"It gives one nerves of iron and muscles of steel, and assists the mental activities together with the physical to a wonderful degree."

The athlete knows the importance of being in fine form. Peruna is a valuable assistant to anyone who wishes to keep himself in vigorous health every day

Sixty Bandsmen of S. A. Commissioned

One of the most interesting functions that has been seen of late in the local Salvation Army was the commissioning of members of the Army's splendid musical organization and send those who regularly assist vocally. Staff Capt. Goodwin conducted the ceremony and clearly and concisely impressed upon the officers the seriousness of the obligations they were undertaking and the responsibility relating to their duties.

Those who took the obligations and were commissioned were: Bandmaster J. M. Greene, Deputy Bandmaster W. Ford, and Bandmaster. W. Naish, R. C. Braund, Richardson, G. O. Thomas, R. Brown, P. Grady, W. Boorman, B. Grey, H. Greene, Wm. Jones, C. Gadd, J. French, Morris, W. Payton, F. Grey, J. Thomas, W. Northcote, Leaman, E. Hensley, H. Dapse, W. Gadd, Thos. Slights, W. Moyniss, P. Card, Wilford Boorman, B. Dahn, Clark, Pearson, Sergeant E. Barret, Cunningham, Hodges, Secretary W. Outram, Bandswoman Miss Jones, Mildred Bacon, Mrs. R. C. Braund, Mrs. C. S. Greene and Mrs. H. Greene.

The following songsters received their commissions: Pearl Lloyd, Lillie Leaman, Mrs. C. Gadd, Ethel Card, Miss Bedge, Nellie Leaman, Gertie Fowler, Ethel Payton, Maud Naish, Mrs. A. Northcote, Mrs. C. Naish, Mrs. Gray, Victor Boorman, J. Boorman, Mrs. Thomas, Mr. Trew, Mr. Bulpit.

After the ceremony short speeches were made by Bandmaster J. M. Greene and Songster Leader Mr. F. Ashton.

The Federal Life Assurance Company OF CANADA

The Twenty-Sixth Annual Statement

DIRECTORS' REPORT.

The twenty-sixth annual meeting of the shareholders of the Federal Life Assurance Company of Canada was held at the Company's Home Office in Hamilton, Tuesday, 18th February, 1908, at 4 p.m., Mr. David Dexter in the chair, Mr. W. H. Davis, acting secretary.

The Annual Report, as follows, was read and adopted, on motion of Mr. Dexter, seconded by Lieutenant-Colonel Moore, R.O.,—

Your Directors have the honor to present the Report and financial statement of the Company for the year which ended on the 31st December, duly vouched for by the Auditors.

The new business of the year consisted of two thousand four hundred and fifty-four applications for insurance, aggregating $3,554,100.57 of which two thousand three hundred and twenty-two applications for $3,362,746.57 were accepted.

As in previous years, the income of the Company shows a gratifying increase, and the assets of the Company have been increased by $89,770.12, and have now reached $3,000,472.74, exclusive of guarantee capital.

The security for Policyholders, including guarantee capital, amounted at the close of the year to $3,870,472.74, and the liabilities for reserves and all outstanding claims, $2,766,577.00, showing a surplus of $1,103,895. Exclusive of uncalled guarantee capital, the surplus to Policyholders was $213,918.

Policies on ninety-five lives became claims through death, to the amount of $156,149.32.

Including Cash Dividends and Dividends applied to the reduction of premiums with annuities, the total payment to Policyholders amounted to $287,368.17.

Careful attention has been given to the investment of the Company's funds, in first-class bonds, in mortgage securities and loans on the Company's policies amply secured by reserves. Our investments have yielded a very satisfactory rate of interest.

Expenses have been confined to a reasonable limit, consistent with due effort for new business. The results of the year indicate a most gratifying progress. Compared with the preceding year, the figures submitted by the Directors for your approval show an advance of nearly ten and two-thirds per cent. in assets.

The assurances carried by the Company now amount to $18,965,117.93, upon which the Company holds reserves to the full amount required by law, and, in addition thereto, a considerable surplus.

Owing to the severe financial depression which has prevailed throughout this Continent since about the middle of last year, the market prices of Bonds, Debentures and other negotiable securities of a like nature, issued prior thereto, were considerably lower at the end of the year than they were at the end of preceding year, and so appear in the return made to the Government. These securities were purchased by our Company to yield the best rates of interest obtainable, at the time, and are intrinsically of the same value as when acquired, and we are practically in the same position as if the money had been invested in Mortgages at a lower rate than the prevailing current rates.

The Directors firmly believe that the present depression in the values of these securities is temporary only, but in the meantime they have thought it advisable and prudent to set apart an amount sufficient to cover the same.

The field officers and agents of the Company are intelligent and loyal, and are entitled to much credit for their able representation of the Company's interests. The members of the office staff have also proved faithful to the Company's service.

Your Directors are pleased to be able to state that the business of the Company for the past two months of the current year has been of a most satisfactory character, and that the outlook for the future is most encouraging.

DAVID DEXTER,
President and Managing Director.

AUDITORS' REPORT.

To the President and Directors of the Federal Life Assurance Company:

Gentlemen,—We have carefully audited the books and records of your Company for the year ending 31st December last, and have certified to their accuracy.

The Cash and Journal Vouchers have been closely examined and agree with the entries recorded.

The Debentures, Bonds, etc., in the possession of the Company have been inspected, whilst those deposited with the Government or Banks have been certified by certificate, the total agreeing with the amount as shown in the Statement of Assets.

The accompanying statements, viz., Revenue and Expenditure, Assets and Liabilities, show the result of the year's operations and also the financial position of the Company.

Respectfully submitted,
H. S. STEPHENS,
CHARLES STIVE,
Auditors.

DEATH PREVENTED HIM COMING HERE

On Saturday a local merchant, whose name by request is omitted, received a letter conveying the sad intelligence that a young man he had engaged to work for him and take charge of one of his departments, had suddenly died. The young man in question was Mr. Edward L. Hunter, of St. James street Montreal. Mr. Hunter, previous to leaving for Peterborough to assume his new position, went to visit a relative living a short distance outside Montreal. Whilst at the relative's farm, Mr. Hunter was kicked on the head and had his skull crushed in by a horse.

Cartwright Probable Choice for Next Lieutenant-Governor

Sir Richard Cartwright will Succeed Sir William Clarke

For Government House

Ottawa, Feb. 22. — The prominence given in the party press to the words of Hugh Guthrie, M.P., Reid, Parrdee, M.P., Leighton McCarthy, M.P., and Horace Logan, M.P., has led to the belief that a reorganization of the Laurier council is imminent, and that the young members are being feed out for a plum.

In well informed circles it is taken for granted that Sir Richard Cartwright will succeed Sir William Mulock as Lieutenant Governor of the province of Ontario. Sir Richard's translation would leave vacant the portfolio of trade and commerce, and would be the excuse for further shifting.

Sir W. Mortimer Clark was appointed Lieutenant Governor of Ontario on April 21, 1901, so this has term of office, being five years, is up this coming April. He has been one of the most popular and useful governors the province has had, and has every action since being chosen governor, has justified Sir William Mulock in his selection in 1903.

Other rumors of military changes are associated with the names of Hon. A. B. Aylesworth and Hon. Mr. Scott. Mr. Aylesworth, his friends say, is not well, but, in fact, is growing more indisposed day by day. He has worked too hard in his department. He has made a record for zealous attention to departmental details, but it has been at the expense of his bodily vigor. It is expected that he will take an extended trip abroad in search of health before the present session is over.

The Sharbot Lake Suicide was Here

It now transpires that the sad suicide of the young man who met tragically by drowning in front of a C.P.R. train at Sharbot Lake last Wednesday has a somewhat local significance, as the young man was Arthur R. Turner, who had been taken from the Peterborough jail by Mr. P. Devlin, Immigration Inspector, to be deported to the Old Country. He was arrested on the 28th of January, by the local police, charged with vagrancy, and sentenced to jail for one month. Mr. Devlin came to Peterborough on Tuesday to secure Turner, but the local jailor refused to give him up as the time did not expire until January 28th. However, Mr. Devlin secured an order from the Minister of Justice for Turner's release, and left Peterborough with his man on the midnight train on Wednesday. A despatch from Smith's Falls describes the tragic affair as follows:

"The body of Arthur R. Turner, an Irish immigrant from Peterborough, lies in the public ward of the hospital here as the result of a tragic occurrence at Sharbot Lake."

Obituary

The Toronto World of Saturday, referring to a prominent physician, a brother-in-law of Mr. J. A. Aylmer, the Trent Valley Canal contractor, of this city, says:

Cornwall, Feb. 21. — Dr. Pringle, who died suddenly at Schreiber, Ont., on Wednesday, was the youngest son of the late Judge Pringle of Cornwall. He was a graduate of McGill and commenced the practice of his profession on the line of the C.P.R. north of Lake Superior, in the early days of its construction, being appointed to the position he held at the time of his death, when Schreiber was first made a divisional point. The remains are being brought to Cornwall and are expected to arrive tomorrow morning. The funeral will leave his mother's residence at 3.30 o'clock on Sunday afternoon for Woodlawn cemetery.

Mrs. Aylmer, Simcoe street, left on Saturday for Cornwall to attend the obsequies.

Additional Police Considered in March

The matter of appointing another man to the police force to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation some time since of Ex-Constable McDonald, will be considered by the Police Commissioners at their meeting on March 5th. This appointment is a matter much talked of throughout the city. It seems to be the general consensus of opinion that at least one more man is required on the local force. As it is, Peterborough has proportionately to population, the smallest police force of any city in Canada. In Toronto there is a policeman for about every one thousand citizens, whilst in Peterborough each policeman has to guard the life person, morals and property of about three thousand citizens.

The Law Society Elects Its Officers

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Law Society, with President E. A. Peck in the chair, has elected the following officers for the coming year:

President—Mr. Louis M. Hayes, K.C.
Vice-President—Mr. J. W. Bennet.
Secretary—Mr. E. L. Goodwill.
Treasurer—Mr. R. E. Wood.
Trustees—Messrs. D. O'Connell and F. D. Kerr.

A resolution was passed congratulating Mr. Justice Beck, a former member of the Association on his elevation to the bench in Alberta.

—A meeting of the City Council will likely be held this week. The regular meeting night is on Monday, March 2nd, but it may be necessary to meet at an earlier date.

LIVES LOST, MANY PEOPLE INJURED IN GREAT STORM IN CHICAGO

Boat Lost In Harbor--Part of Crew Drowned --Was Dashed to Pieces

Terrible Blizzard

Chicago, Feb. 22. — Several deaths, many injuries and much suffering, followed in the wake of one of the worst blizzards experienced in this section in several years. Traffic on surface and suburban lines was practically tied up last night, and down town hotels are filled with residents of outlying districts, who found themselves unable to reach their homes. The storm which broke early in the day raged with increasing fury until gale-like, subsiding soon after midnight.

DASHED TO PIECES.

One of the most tragic occurrences in connection with the storm was the wrecking in the harbor at Waukegan of the tug boat Anspach, in which two men lost their lives and six others had narrow escapes from death. The boat left the harbor early in the day to tow coal barges out into Lake Michigan. Caught in the storm on the return trip the vessel battled with the elements until it regained the harbor at 6 o'clock in the evening, only to be blown against the breakwater and wall and crushed. Capt. Oliver Ruker with five men composing the crew were thrown upon an ice pack. Four of the men succeeded in clinging to the ice and were rescued. Two slid into the water and were drowned.

STRUCK BY TRAIN.

Chicago, Feb. 22. — At Hammond, Ind., two men, blinded by the storm, were run down by a train and fatally injured.

In the vicinity a woman, overcome by exhaustion, was found dying in the snow.

But little effort was made during the night to remove the constantly drifting snow even in the business district of Chicago, and it was said by transportation officials that traffic would be greatly impeded before the lines could be cleared. The weather for gain announced late last night that there was little relief in sight, more snow being in prospect with falling temperature.

The blizzard was still in progress to-day, although the greatest fury of the storm has passed. A light snow fell during the night, and was piled into deep drifts by a strong wind.

There were many accidents to pedestrians. Two men were found by police almost completely buried in the snow. An abandoned automobile was found in a snow drift at Stewart avenue and Sixty-sixth street. Nothing was found by which the identity of the owner could be learned.

Service on the railways is greatly handicapped.

Natal Act is Ultra Vires

Vancouver, B.C., Feb. 22. — The Natal Act, recently passed by the British Columbia Legislature and which was promptly acted upon with the result that two Japanese attempting to enter the country from the United States were arrested, fined and imprisoned, was yesterday declared unconstitutional by Chief Justice Hunter of the Supreme Court.

While stating sincerely that he did not believe the Natal Act conflicted with the Federal Immigration laws, the Chief Justice said that it did conflict with the Dominion Act sanctioning the Anglo-Japanese treaty. He, therefore, ordered the immediate release of the two Japanese.

Attorney-General Bowser has arranged an appeal to the full court for Monday, and will take steps to expedite the carrying of the case to the Privy Council should the judgment of the Full Court be adverse to the Province.

The Dominion Immigration Officer will deport both these Japanese for entering the country in defiance of the order-in-council prohibiting immigrants from coming in save direct from the land of birth or citizenship.

JAPAN IS ASSURED.

Ottawa, Feb. 22.—By awaiting the action of the court the Dominion Government has obtained a better settlement of the question than if the Act were disallowed here. In the latter case the province could have at once passed another Act, and the situation of the past few days would have been repeated.

A cable was sent Thursday to the Japanese Government, acquainting them with the facts of the case, and giving assurance that if the courts did not promptly declare the Act ultra vires it would be disallowed here. In any case the interests of the Japanese would be adequately protected by the Government.

Police Taught Him Perjury To Get a Murder Verdict

Chicago, Feb. 22. — Eighteen-year-old Jerry B. Vandine's testimony more than that of any other person served to convict the Bohemian fortune teller, Herman Billik, of the murder of six members of the Vizral family, has, it is announced, recanted, and in an affidavit declares that the testimony was simply perjury. Billik and Mrs. Vizral were accused of murdering the latter's husband and children for insurance money.

Billik is under sentence to be hanged March 20. The Supreme Court has affirmed the judgment, destroying the man's last chance unless Governor Deneen shall issue a pardon.

Not only does the Vizral boy impugn his own evidence, but he declared that two of his relatives also lied. In the affidavit the boy states that all the vital part of his testimony was perjury taught him by a high police official and an assistant state's attorney. He specifically names the men whom he accuses.

In the affidavit Vizral, who is now a student in Valparaiso, Ind., says that he told the story because a police official threatened him with the murder unless he did as the officer wished. The credit for polishing off the fictitious narrative he gives to an assistant state attorney, with whom, he says, he was closeted four times, the conferences being from one to four hours in duration. He further asserts that the inspector of police surrounded him at least fifty times, and that those conferences usually lasted two hours.

The confession was obtained by the instrumentality of Rev. P. J. O'Callaghan, head of the Paulist Fathers in the city, and pastor of St. Mary's Catholic Church, who has been working in Billik's behalf for several months. Father O'Callaghan says he was interested in the case through Sister Rose, a nun at the Columbus Hospital, who firmly believed in Billik's innocence. It was Sister Rose who converted the car-barn bandit Gustav Marx, who was executed with Ned Preyer and Vandine, the only one of the trio who died a Christian.

The Big Walking Race Starts Today-- Hartley is in Shape

Another letter has been received from Dave Hartley, Peterborough's crack pedestrian, who today begins his great six days' walking match in Kansas City. Mr. Hartley has been fortunate enough to secure good rooms near the convention Hall, in which latter place the match will be held. At his rooms he is then across two Canadians stopping there, so feels quite at home. Mr. Hartley speaks in high terms of Manager Scoville, who has given him much encouragement as to his (Dave's) chance to win out. He finds the climate agrees with him, and is in good trim for today's match. He walks from 15 to 20 miles a day. The hall in which the great six days' match is held is so large, in fact covering a whole block, that it takes quite a squad of men to look after it. We hope by Saturday midnight to learn that the plucky little Peterborough walker has won a name for himself and his city, and also, incidentally, captured a good big chunk of the "long green."

Mr. Culverwell Honored Again Re-Elected Vice President of Old Boys' Association

Port Hope Guide says:—We notice by the annual report that our fellow townsman, John Alexander Culverwell, has been honored by re-election as one of the Vice-Presidents of Upper Canada College Old Boys' Association, the governing body of that great college school.

Mr. Culverwell, who is an unusually energetic young Canadian, is a resident dent of Port Hope, but formerly of Toronto. He married an American lady. He is a full member of the Engineers' Club of Toronto, being an electric and hydraulic engineer of wide experience and well versed in waterpower law. He was with the old Edison General Electric Company two years. His advocacy of the completion of the Trent Valley Canal and his deepening by three feet, before the Ontario Scientific Societies and City and District Boards of Trade, and his literary work secured him personal commendation from leading American canal transportation experts.

He is now heavily interested in the waterpowers of the Trent Valley district. As Managing-Director of the Northumberland-Durham Power Company, which controls most of the celebrated Healey Rapids, he has secured the official endorsement of eighteen municipal councils to the Government—a remarkable achievement.

—An "at home" will be held by the Veleta Club in the Conservatory of Music Hall on Thursday evening, February 28, dancing to begin at 8.30 o'clock.

Great Excitement at Chemong

The good villagers of Bridgenorth on Monday last week had a real live piece of excitement, and they are not suffering with pneumonia: either. Three foxes were seen on the ice, making for Telford's woods, towards the village. In about ten minutes every door in the village, from daschund to mastiff, and every able bodied man around, with guns dating from the American Revolution to Winchesters, greeted, were after the Reynards. Notwithstanding the volleys of sportsmen, the foxes got safely away.

Ordination Service at St. John's Church

At yesterday morning's service in St. John's Church, the rector, Rev. Canon Davidson, advised the members of the congregation that on next Sunday the ceremony of Ordination will be performed, the morning prayer will begin at 10.30 instead of 11 o'clock. This will be followed by Holy Communion and the ordination, when his lordship, assistant Bishop Reeves of Toronto will ordain a candidate as deacon. As the ordination ceremony is both impressive as well as interesting, it is expected that the large congregation of St. John's will be further augmented.

—The Old Boys of the L.P.S., in Shedrake, are giving a re-union dinner at the King Edward, Toronto, on Saturday, Feb. 29th, at 7.30 o'clock.

CYCLONE BLOWS TRAIN OFF TRACK

North of England and Ireland are Storm Swept--Ship Capsized

Many were Injured

London, Feb. 23.—The northwest of England and the north of Ireland were in the grasp of a hurricane today which left death and destruction in its wake.

In the Mersey river a schooner was capsized and eight men drowned. Several small steamers are reported in distress off Holyhead, while a number of small craft have been driven ashore.

No less than one dozen grandstands at several provincial points were blown down, and many of the occupants, who had gathered to witness local football matches, injured.

A train running between Burtonport and Donegal was blow off the rails by the wind while crossing a viaduct, and nearly smashed into a bog beneath. The passengers were rescued unhurt.

The launching at Belfast of the new 25,000 ton steamer Rotterdam for the New York service of the Holland-American line, had to be postponed on account of the gale.

Blinding hailstorms added discomfort to the day.

If You Read This

It will be to learn that the leading medical writers and teachers of all the several schools of practice recommend, in the strongest terms possible, each and every ingredient entering into the composition of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for the cure of weak stomach, dyspepsia, catarrh of stomach, "liver complaint," torpid liver, or biousness, chronic bowel affections, and all catarrhal diseases of whatever region, name or nature. It is also a specific remedy for all such chronic or long standing cases of catarrhal affections and their resultants, as bronchitis, throat and lung disease (except consumption) accompanied with severe coughs. It is not so good for acute colds and coughs but for lingering, or chronic cases it is especially efficacious in producing perfect cures. It contains Black Cherry bark, Golden Seal root, Bloodroot, Stone root, Mandrake root and Queen's root—all of which are highly prized as remedies for all the above mentioned affections by such eminent medical writers and teachers as Prof. Bartholow, of Jefferson Med. College; Prof. Hare, of the Univ. of Pa.; Prof. Finley Ellingwood, M. D., of Bennett Med. College, Chicago; Prof. John King, M. D., of Cincinnati; Prof. John M. Scudder, M. D., of Cincinnati; Prof. Edwin M. Hale, M. D., of Hahnemann Med. College, Chicago, and scores of other equally eminent in their several schools of practice.

"The Golden Medical Discovery" is the only medicine put up for sale through druggists for like purposes that has any such professional endorsement, or more than any number of ordinary testimonials. Open publicity of its formula is the best possible guaranty of its merits. A glance at this published formula will show that "Golden Medical Discovery" contains no poisonous, harmful or habit-forming drugs and no alcohol—chemically pure, triple-refined glycerine being used instead. Glycerine is entirely unobjectionable and besides is a most useful agent in the cure of all stomach as well as bronchial, throat and lung affections. There is the highest medical authority for its use in all such cases. The "Discovery" is a concentrated glyceric extract of native, medicinal roots and is safe and reliable.

A DARING BURGLARY

A daring burglary was committed last night between eight and nine o'clock, when the residence of Mr. Edward Vinnett was entered by burglars and $40 taken from a small box.

About eight o'clock Mr. and Mrs. Vinnett were out calling on a neighbor. At 8.30 Mrs. Vinnett looked out of the window and noticed a man standing at the corner of the house, but thought it was some of the boys. The act of her raising the blind drew the attention of the man, who whistled, giving the signal to the burglar inside, and they then escaped. They were traced as far as the railroad track, but were then lost track of.

CHARLES BURKE ON TRIAL FOR THE BUCKHORN ROBBERY

His Honor Judge Weller Reserved Judgment Until Wednesday--Whole Matter Practically One of Personal Identification

At 11 a.m. Saturday morning his Honor Judge Weller ascended the tribunal of justice at the County Court room to try Chas. Burke, who, as stated before, was charged with holding up two young women at the post office & grocery in Purser's store at Buckhorn some months ago, and stealing $35. To be strictly accurate, however, the technical charge was for the robbery, the gun play being an incident. County Crown Attorney Wood acted for the prosecution and Mr. Gordon for the prisoner.

Mr. Wm. Johnston, Peterborough's expert stenographer, took the evidence in shorthand. Burke, the prisoner in the dock, looked well since his detention and has grown quite a beard. The witnesses for both prosecution and defence, except Miss Purser first witness, retired.

Miss Purser said she lives on the south side of the dam at Buckhorn. She was in Purser's store, Buckhorn, on Nov. 5th. A man made a small purchase of tobacco and gave her a $1 bill. She made change from a drawer under the shelves. There was between $25 and $35 in the till. The prisoner resembles in back of the store. As she went towards the back of the store the man went to the till. He pointed a revolver at her. She saw the man go down the steps. The store was well lighted. When the man went out she went to the till and found it empty, except for some small silver and coppers in a cup. She next saw the man in the jail. There were about a dozen prisoners. She picked out the prisoner as the man who robbed the till. She had no doubt whatever about the identification. The money belonged to her brother John, but she was in charge of it. The prisoner was clean shaved then, but has a beard now.

To Mr. Gordon, she did not remember how long the coat of the prisoner was. She did not remember the color. When she went to the jail two men stood up for her inspection. She saw a photograph shown her by Mr. Cochrane, who told her it was that of a man arrested in Toronto for the Buckhorn robbery. She could not identify the person by the photograph. She identified the prisoner as the robber.

Miss Higgins, who was in the store at the time, next went into the box. She saw the prisoner in the store. He went to the till and took the bills. He pointed a revolver at her head. She then went to call Miss Purser, whose guest she was. She thought prisoner was the man.

To Mr. Gordon, witness said she did not get a straight look at the robber. After Miss Purser told the man the tobacco she (Miss Purser) went toward the family part at the rear. She was too frightened to notice the man's hat or cap or clothes. She was sure about the prisoner being the man. When at the jail she picked out the prisoner and told Mr. Cochrane he, the prisoner, looked like the man who robbed the store.

Mrs. Margaret Kidd, who lives at Lakefield, said a stranger came to her house about the 5th of November last. She had heard the day after of the Buckhorn robbery. The stranger came to her place about 11 a.m. the day before the robbery was reported, and said he was going to Buckhorn. She gave him a lunch. She had seen the photograph and thought it looked like the man at her house. Witness thought prisoner was the man who had been at her house. The man was clean shaven.

Miss Kidd corroborated the last witness' testimony. She had not seen the man who got the lunch since until now in the dock.

To Mr. Gordon, she thought prisoner was the man, but would not swear to it. The man was dressed in light grey but no overcoat. A black overcoat was missed from their house about that time.

Miss Northrop, of Smith, lives on the Buckhorn road. A stranger came to their house about Nov. 5th. She

What will Future Be of The Flippant North-West?

Regina, Sask., Feb. 21. — One hears various views even out here as to the character of the people of the West, and on the more sombre East some good people see the ultra orthodoxy of mind and gloomy fears as to what we will become in the future, wagging their heads sagely as if we were departing from the old landmarks and were jeopardizing our salvation. In religion, in politics, in finance and commerce there are some who doubt the strict orthodoxy of our views.

It is simply in this strongly marked tendency to depart from the beaten paths that the character of the people of the west is manifest. For the management of the grist of those who mourn over this youthful headstrongness and independence that prompts to experiment, with a somewhat bumptious disregard for tradition and authority, irreverent treatment of the old lights, it may be said that a people, confronting entirely new conditions of life, who did not vary their previous standards would show themselves lacking not only in perception but in common sense.

DOLEFUL PROPHECIES.

In a little town on "The Soo" line, during the one blizzard we have had this winter, a moderate one through which trains made time, I listened to doleful prophecies from an easterner, mildly supported by an old countryman, and let it be owned frankly, provoked by the flippancies of a young westerner. This cub's jeremiads brought down denunciations of an Old Testament flavor on the erring West.

As the storm did not abate, I foregathered that evening around the stove in the doctor's office. The doctor is an American from Iowa, and obtains ancestors who were Covenanters whose dirks found their way to the hearts of soldiers of Claverhouse sent to arrest them. This fact was a source of great satisfaction to his ancestors, and has continued to be so to all succeeding generations down to the doctor himself. The doctor's strict orthodoxy is strongly tinctured by American humor. He enjoyed hearing of the flippancies of the irreverent club of the West and the gloomy forebodings of the man from the east.

A KANSAS ILLUSTRATION.

"You have heard," he said, "of William Allan White's famous editorial headed 'What's the Matter With Kansas?' No? Well, at the time of the Populist agitation when Kansas held the centre of the stage in America, you know I mean United States, affairs, White gravely set forth all the new theories Kansas had promulgated, and concluded as follows: "It would be better if Kansas were to raise more wheat and less hell."

"Now," continued the doctor, after he had the laugh right, "What I like supposing it is, isn't it seem well people to be thinking of raising the wheat. It only raises the other crop incidentally and when there is a justification for so doing. There is not the same occasion, perhaps, nor laws are enforced there as well, but if occasion did arise I have no idea the Wheat could raise the other crop pretty well, too."

The doctor is a young man who had to work to obtain his education, and his professional attainments are of no mean order. He knows life on the Iowa corn fields and in Chicago from the jungle of the stock-yards to the smallpox hospital, where patients, fated from the disease, listened to other patients reading articles that proved there was no such disease as smallpox. Yet, as his remarks, some of them died from his effects.

NO LOAFERS IN WEST.

"To the two possible advantages," he said, "You have no man here loafing around grocery stores and saloons. Every man is trying to accomplish something. The business men are as wide awake as any in the world. The man on a homestead is poor, often rough, and even in cases ignorant in a sense, but he is trying to accomplish something. Every man has a purpose, and is striving earnestly to attain it. There are practically no idlers. Men are in earnest in the west. Now, are not these the things that develop individual and national character? I believe they are."

A DISCOVERY OF GREAT VALUE

Because a Cure Was Found for Inflammatory Rheumatism.

There are many types of rheumatism, but none worse than inflammatory.

It was this kind that almost killed Mrs. Edw. Warman, of Kent Jct., N. S.

Every known remedy she tried, different doctors gave their advice, but the disease increased.

Weak and despairing, she was at her wits' end when the remarkable cure of Thos. Cullen was published. This gentleman was cured of rheumatism by "Ferrozone." Consequently Mrs. Warman used the same remedy. Here is her statement:

"For years I have been rheumatic. I tried various forms of relief without success. The disease increased, settled in my joints and muscles; these swelled, caused excruciating pain and kept me from sleeping. My limbs and arms stiffened, my shoulders were lame and prevented me from working. Week by week I was losing strength and despaired of finding a cure. It was a happy day I heard of ferrozone. Every day I took Ferrozone I felt better, it eased the painful joints, I weld it so that not an ache has returned, me energy and a feeling of new life. Ferrozone cured my rheumatism, cured even damp weather no longer affects me."

Ferrozone has power to destroy Uric acid, neutralize and enrich the blood, and therefore does cure the worst cases. Mrs. Warman's statement proves this.

By removing the cause of the disease and building up a reserve of energy Ferrozone is certain to cure. Sufferer, isn't it about time to stop experimenting? Ferrozone is a cure. We guarantee this. Sold by all dealers, 50c per box or six boxes for $2.50. Remember the name—"Ferrozone."

A QUEER MIX-UP

Tornto had a plebiscite two years ago as to whether or no the number of liquor licenses in Toronto should be reduced. A majority voted no. Now the city council cuts off 40 licenses out of 150 or so. This is a queer mix-up. Representative government first gets a jab in the stomach of a referendum gets a them that particular referendum gets a kick in the neck from representative government. We hope Toronto knows where she is at, nobody else can.

MUST Be ABSTAINERS

The Baltimore and Ohio Railway has announced that all employees having anything to do with the direction or running of trains must be total abstainers at all times. This illustrates the continuing spread of the determination of the business world to stand for outlie sobriety. Many of the railway companies of the continent have for some time required locomotive engineers and conductors to be abstainers, but only recently the rule has been extending to brakemen and other classes of employees. It is significant—the lad who may be beginning to take a glass of beer or a nip of whiskey at times should tell himself, or be told by his friends, that he is getting into a losing line.

THE FRESH AIR SCHOOL

A fresh air school has been opened at Providence, R. I. Children gather and study in their wraps in a big, fine room on three sides of which great doors swing freely to admit the pure atmosphere from outside.

The idea of such a school is borrowed from Europe. English cities have tried the scheme and found it good. In Germany fresh air schools are regarded as models. It seems strange that they have not sooner found a practical trial in America, where so much attention has been devoted to the benefits to be derived from fresh air along various lines.

In Providence the new school's establishment is due to the suggestion of the Rhode Island League for the Suppression of Tuberculosis. Yet the fresh air school is not all that humanity needs, nor are weak lungs the only ones that need the open door or open window.

Every dwelling place should be a fresh air room, every place of worship a fresh air church. Nothing can be let indoors that will prove more wholesome and helpful than the outdoors.

Grippe is sweeping the country. Stop it with Preventics, before it gets deeply seated. To check early colds with these little Candy Cold Cure Tablets is surely sensible and safe. Preventics contain no Quinine, no laxative, nothing harsh or sickening. Pneumonia would never appear if early colds were promptly broken. Also good for feverish children. Large box, 48 tablets, 25 cents. Vest pocket tins, 5 cents. Sold by all dealers.

News in Brief

Winnipeg, Feb. 21.—Following the absorption of the Bell Telephone system by the Government of Manitoba, a reduction had been expected. Today the doctors and nurses of the city received a circular letter from the city manager of the Provincial Telephone system, acting under instructions from the Telephone Commission, that beginning March 1, the rates for their telephones would be advanced from $40 to $50 a year, an increase of 25 per cent. This caused a great deal of comment throughout the city, particularly in the circles of the professions effected.

It is understood that the long distance tariff has been revised also, and that the time has been cut from three minutes to two minutes, while the charge has been slightly reduced.

Berlin, Feb. 21.—The Foreign Office takes a cool view of the flurry among the diplomats of Europe occasioned by the Porte granting permission to Austria to survey for a railroad extension that would make complete the rail connection with Salonaki, traversing a portion of Turkish territory.

Reports received here from St. Petersburg, Paris and Rome indicate that the same time British diplomacy made representations in these capitals with the object of causing a break grouping of the powers in near Eastern affairs by means of which Great Britain, France, Russia and Italy would be able to suppress dear Wilhelm Austria and Germany and a weaker position at Constantinople. Great Britain's ultimate object is believed to be to provide insurance in Turkish affairs so that a more permanent settlement may be reached before Russia fully recovers from the effects of her war with Japan.

The German Government has known for several months past that the current British policy included the creation of the impression in St. Petersburg that Japan was preparing to renew the war. This suggestion, revealed in private letters to a member of the Russian court from persons of the highest social distinction in England, was supported by the staff talk of the Japanese Foreign Office in the recent negotiations relating to frontier questions in Manchuria. The nervousness of the Russian Court was utilized in Great Britain to conclude the Persian and Afghanistan agreements, and it has now been employed in obtaining a limited co-operation in the protests against Austria in Macedonia.

Baron Von Aehrenthal, the Austrian Foreign Minister, has, however, during the last three days laid the basis of a French entente between Russia and Austria.

The many friends of Mrs. Margaret M. Sanderson, widow of the late Mr. Francis Sanderson, will regret to learn that this universally respected lady passed away Thursday night at the residence of her son, Mr. Francis Sanderson, Smith, after a short illness. The late Mr. Sanderson, who was 86 years of age, was born in Scotland and settled in the township of Asphodel when quite young. After marriage she moved to the township of Smith, where she had many warm hearted friends. Her husband predeceased her many years ago. The deceased was a consistent member of the Presbyterian Church. Five sons and two daughters are left to mourn her loss. The sons are: Michael, of North Smith; James, of Davidson, Sask.; Frank and Edward of Smith, and William, of Asphodel. The daughters are Mrs. John Sawers, city, and Mrs. Jas. McKee, of Smith.

The funeral will take place this afternoon at 1.30 o'clock, from the residence of Mr. Frances Sanderson, Chemong road, to the Little Lake cemetery.

$100 Reward, $100

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

A Galena Smelter for Town of Tweed

Mr. E. J. Cowain is at present in Pittsburg, where he has gone to interest capital in the new galena ore which he has discovered on his property near Bogart. The ore samples are very fine and there is large quantities of it on his property, which is located in Bedford township on the K. & P. Railway.

He has recently had this ore treated by a chemical process which in a little over an hour will change the ore into pure white lead, medium chrome lead and light chrome lead.

Mr. Cowain has already formed the Frontenac Mining and Smelting Co., in which several local men are interested, and if he can carry out his arrangements in Pittsburg and Oil City he will return to Tweed with the intention of erecting a plant here for the treatment of that ore. It is said that Tweed would be the best location for such a plant owing to its proximity to the Sulphide Works where the acids necessary to the process can be obtained.

Little more of the plans of the company can be learned and as much depends on the success of the trip to the Pennsylvania cities, it is to be hoped that it will be entirely successful.—Tweed News.

New School Regulations

We find a regrettable ignorance of the New Public School Act among rural school trustees, from the questions coming to us. We have not had time to become informed on its provisions. The Inspector of Schools is the fountain of knowledge on School Law. Ignorance obtains of the new Public School Act in so far as it applies to the teacher's salary. In rural schools any advance over $300 up to $600 the Government will pay forty per cent. The section that engages a teacher at $400 really pays only $360; or $450, $390. There is also a straight grant of $15.00 to every section independent of salary and a small grant on equipment. This does not apply to incorporated villages or towns.

Criminology to be the Next Subject

Owing to the great success of the local Canadian Club's banquet Thursday night at the National Hotel, it has been decided to hold the club's next meeting on Thursday evening, March 5th, when Mr. A. Archibald, of Ottawa, Dominion Parole Officer, will give an address on Criminology, of which he has made a special study, and has spoken on before the Canadian Clubs in many of the largest cities. His work consists largely in looking after prisoners whose sentences have expired and those who for various reasons are let out "on parole" before they have served all their time. Such a subject treated by so thorough an expert will be both instructive and interesting.

ONTARIO-RICE LAKE DIVISION

SECTION NO. 3

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

Sealed Tenders addressed to the undersigned and endorsed "Tender for Trent Canal," will be received until 16 o'clock on Thursday, 12th March, 1906, for the works connected with the construction of Section No. 3, Ontario-Rice Lake Division of the Canal.

Plans, specifications, and the form of the contract to be entered into, can be seen on an after the 5th February, 1906, at the office of the Chief Engineer of the Department of Railways and Canals, Ottawa, at the office of the Superintending Engineer, Trent Canal, Peterborough, Ont., and at the office of Mr. J. B. Brophy, Division Engineer, Trenton, Ont., at which places forms of tender may be obtained.

Parties tendering will be required to accept the fair wages Schedule prepared or to be prepared by the Department of Labor, which Schedule will form part of the contract.

Contractors are requested to bear in mind that tenders will not be considered, unless made strictly in accordance with the printed forms, and in the case of firms, unless there are attached the actual signatures, the nature of the occupation, and place of residence of each member of the firm.

An accepted bank cheque for the sum of $10,000 must accompany each tender, which sum will be forfeited, if the party tendering declines entering into contract for the work, at the rates stated in the offer submitted.

The cheque thus sent in will be returned to the respective contractors whose tenders are not accepted.

The advertisement dated the 16th January, 1906, is hereby cancelled.

The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

A Business Proposition!

FOR BUSINESS MEN AND WOMEN

I want business men and women who have money to invest to write me for particulars.

I have an absolutely clean and safe deal that has been tested and proved by actual experience.

It will pay over $500 yearly income on every $1,000 invested, (over $100 yearly on each $200 invested) yet is not a racing or gambling scheme, but a straight, legitimate, profitable, honest business you would be proud to be identified with.

It needs more money to run it on a large scale, hence this offer to you who have money and the business sense and acumen to share in this good thing.

I have submitted particulars of this deal to the proprietors and editors of this paper; they are business men and have approved it because it is safe, sound and clean, and the promises made are straight and reasonable.

When you read these particulars I believe you will approve and be glad you investigated. No matter if you have $5,000 or $10,000 to invest or only $100 or $200, it applies equally to all. It is a

BUSINESS PROPOSITION

for Business Men and Women of sense and discrimination. THIS MEANS YOU.

Write at once; write now, before you forget, stating about the amount you have for investment, and I will promptly send you a personal reply with the clearest and most concise facts and particulars.

Galbraith Coal Co., Ltd.

Non-personal} Liability

Capital, $250,000.00 1,000,000 Shares 25c. each.

Good coal stock is a safe and sure investment. Galbraith shares are especially attractive.

Modest Capitalization Large Coal Reserves

This Company organized under the laws of the Northwest Territories of Canada, owns and operates the Galbraith mine located at Lundbreck, Alta. They have four vertical seams of coal traversing their property, aggregating over 40 feet in thickness. Three of these seams are developed to a depth of 350 feet, and as they pass through the Company's lands for nearly a mile, some idea of the amount of coal may be had.

Shipping Steadily

The present output of the mine is about 200 tons per day. These shipments will be rapidly increased, as the C.P.R. allows its cars to be loaded with coal for points in the U. S.

We are selling a limited number of these shares at the extremely low price of

30 CENTS PER SHARE

in blocks of 100 or over. Tight money in the States makes it possible for us to give this unprecedented offer in stock that will be paying dividends inside of six months, and you are sure to realize a handsome profit.

Parties ordering can send money by P. O. Orders, Express Orders or Bank Drafts, and we will have the stock issued direct to you. Full information furnished on request. Correspondence solicited. Reference, Bank of Montreal

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTHWEST HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an Agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of a homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father or mother.

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing must be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa, of intention to apply for patent.

The Opal Serpent

By FERGUS HUME,

Author of "The Mystery of a Hansom Cab," "The Mandarin's Fan," Etc.

COPYRIGHT, 1905, By C. W. DILLINGHAM COMPANY

CONTINUED.

...ere, as ever with everything so ...ne-by. God bless her for a pretty flower!" She pointed a coarse, red finger at Paul. "If you were a gay deceiver, Mr. Beecot, I'd trample on your corp this very minute if I was to die at Old Bailey for the doing of it."

Seeing Deborah was breathless again, Paul seized his chance. "There is no reason you shouldn't know all about me, and"—

"No, indeed, I should think not, begging your pardon, sir. But when you comes here six months back, I sees to Miss Sylvia, I sez, 'He's making eyes at you, my lily,' and she sez to me, she says, 'Oh, Debby, I love him, that I do.' And then I sez, sez I, 'My pretty, he looks a gent born and bred, but that's the wust kind, so we'll find out if he's a liar before you loses your dear heart to him.'"

"But I'm not a liar"— began Paul, only to be cut short again.

"As well I knows," burst out Miss Junk, her arms akimbo again. "Do you think, sir, as I'd ha' let you come loving my pretty one and me not knowing if it was Judas or Jezebel? Not me, if I never drank my nightly drop of beer again. What you told Miss Sylvia of your frantic pa and your loving ma she told me. Pumping you may call it," shouted Deborah, emphasizing again with the red finger, "but everything you told in your lover way she told her old silly Debby. I sez to Bart, if you loves me, Bart, go down to Wargrove, wherever it may be—if in England, which I doubt—and if he—meaning you—don't tell the truth, out he goes if I have the chucking of him myself and a police court summings over it. So Bart goes to Wargrove, and he find out that you speaks true, which means that you're a gent, sir, if ever there was one, in spite of your frantic pa, so I hopes as you'll marry my flower and make her happy—bless you!" And Deborah spread a large pair of mottled arms over Paul's head.

"It's all true," said he good naturedly; "my father and I don't get on well together, and I came to make a name in London. But for all you know, Deborah, I may be a scamp."

"That you are not," she burst out. "Why, Bart's been follerin' you everywhere, and he and me, which is to be his lawful wife and master, knows all about you and that there place in Bloomsbury, and where you go and where you don't go. And let me tell you, sir," again she lifted her finger threateningly, "if you wasn't what you oughter be never would you see my pretty one again—no, not if I had to wash the floor in your blue blood—for blue it is, if what Bart learned was true of them stone figgers in the church," and she gasped.

Paul was silent for a few minutes, looking at the floor. He wondered that he had not guessed all this. Often it had seemed strange to him that so faithful and devoted a couple of retainers as Bart and Deborah Junk should favor his wooing of Sylvia and keep it from their master, seeing that they knew nothing about him. "All the same," he said aloud, and following his own thoughts, "It's strange that you should wish her to marry me."

Miss Junk made a queer answer. "I'm glad enough to see her marry any one respectable, let alone a gent. Mr. Beecot, twenty year ago, a slip of ten, I come to nurse the baby as was my loving angel upstairs, and her ma had just passed away to Zion there as lives overhead playing harps. All these years I've never heard a young step on them stairs, save Miss Sylvia's and Bart's, him having come five years ago, and a brat he was. And would you believe it, Mr. Beecot, I know no more of the old man than you do. He's queer, and he's wrong altogether, and that frightened of being alone in the dark as you could make him a corp with a turnip lantern."

"What is he afraid of?"

"Ah," said Deborah significantly, "what indeed? It may be police and it may be ghosts; but, ghosts or police, he never see what he oughter say if he's a respectable man, which I sadly fear he ain't."

"He may have his reasons or"—

Miss Junk tossed her head and snorted again loudly. "Oh, yes—he has his reasons," she admitted, "and Old Bailey sees they are, I dessay. But there's something hanging over his head." Don't ask me what it is, fur never shall you know, by reason of my being ignorant. But whatever it is, Mr. Beecot, it's something wicked, and shall I see my own pretty in trouble?"

"How do you know there will be trouble?" interrupted Paul anxiously.

"I've heard him pray," said Miss Junk mysteriously—"yes, you may look, for there ain't no prayer in the crafty eye of him—but pray he do, and asks to be kept from danger"—

"Danger?"

"Danger's the word, for I won't deceive you, sir, not if you paid me better wages than the old man do give and he's as near as the paring of an onion. So I sez to Bart, if there's danger and trouble and Old Baileys about, the sooner Miss Sylvia have some dear man to give her a decent name and perfect her the more happy old Deborah will be."

"Yes, yes, I see. Well, Deborah, you can depend upon my looking after your pretty mistress. If I were only reconciled with my father I would speak to Mr. Norman."

"Don't, sir—don't!" cried the woman fiercely, and making a clutch at Paul's arm; "he'll turn you out, he will, not being anxious fur any one to have my flower, though love her as he oughter do, he don't, no," cried Deborah, "nor her ma before her, who died with a starvin' 'eart. But you run away with my sweetest and make her your own, though her pa swears thunderbolts as you may say. Take her from this place of wickedness and police courts." And Deborah looked around the cellar with a shudder. Suddenly she started and held up her finger, nodding toward a narrow door at the side of the cellar. "Master's footstep," she said in a harsh whisper. "I'd know it in a thousand—just like a thief's, ain't it?—stealing as you might say. Don't tell him you've seen me."

"But Sylvia," cried Paul, catching her dress as she passed him.

"Her you'll see, if I die for it," said Deborah, and whirled up the wooden steps in a silent manner surprising in so noisy a woman. Paul heard the trapdoor drop with a stealthy creak.

As a key grated in the lock of the outside door he glanced round the place to which he had penetrated for the first time. It was of the same size as the shop overhead, but the walls were of stone, green with slime and feathery with a kind of ghastly white fungus. Overhead, from the wooden roof, which formed the door of the shop, hung innumerable spiders' webs thick with dust. The floor was of large flags cracked in many places, and between the chinks in moist corners sprouted sparse, colorless grass. In the center was a deal table, scored with queer marks and splotched with ink. Over this flared two gas jets, which whistled shrilly. Against the wall, which was below the street, were three green painted safes fast locked; but the opposite wall had in it the narrow door aforesaid, and a wide grated window, the bars of which were rusty, though strong. The atmosphere of the place was cold and musty and suggestive of a charnel house. Certainly a strange place in which to transact business, but everything about Aaron Norman was strange.

And he looked strange himself as he stepped in at the open door. Beyond, Paul could see the shallow flight of damp steps leading to the yard and the passage which gave admission from the street. Norman locked the door and came forward. He was as white as a sheet, and his face was thickly beaded with perspiration. His mouth twitched more than usual, and his hands moved nervously. Twice as he advanced toward Paul, who rose to receive him, did he cast the odd look over his shoulder. Beecot fancifully saw in him a man who had committed some crime and was fearful lest it should be discovered or lest the avenger should suddenly appear. Deborah's confidential talk had not been without its effect on the young man, and Paul beheld in Aaron a being of mystery. How such a man came to have such a daughter as Sylvia Paul could not guess.

"Here you are, Mr. Beecot," said Aaron, rubbing his hands as though the cold of the cellar struck to his bones. "Well?"

"I want to pawn a brooch," said Beecot, and he pulled out the case from his pocket. "A friend of mine would have bought it, but as it belongs to my mother I prefer to pawn it so that I may get it again when I am rich."

"The opal serpent! The opal serpent!" he cried.

"Well, well," said Aaron abruptly and resuming his downcast looks, "I shall do what I can. Let me see it."

He stretched out his hand and took the case. Slowly opening it under the gas, he inspected its contents. Suddenly he gave a cry of alarm, and the case fell to the floor. "The opal serpent! The opal serpent!" he cried, growing purple in the face. "Keep off! Keep off!" He beat the air with his lean hands. "Oh, the opal!" and he fell face downward on the slimy floor in a fit or a faint, but certainly unconscious.

CHAPTER III.

NEAR the Temple station of the Metropolitan railway is a small garden which contains a certain number of fairly sized trees, a round bandstand and a few flower beds intersected by asphalt paths. Here those who are engaged in various offices round about come to enjoy rus in urbe, to listen to the gay music. And lovers meet here also, so it was quite in keeping that Paul Beecot should wait by the bronze statues of the Herculaneum wrestlers for the coming of Sylvia.

On the previous day he had departed hastily after committing the old man to Deborah's care. At first he had lingered to see Aaron revive, but when the unconscious man came to his senses and opened his eyes he fainted again when his gaze fell on Paul, so he left.

It was strange that the sight of the brooch should have produced such an effect on Aaron, and his fainting confirmed Paul's suspicions that the old man had not a clean conscience. But what the serpent brooch had to do with the matter Beecot could not conjecture.

While he was trying to solve the mystery a light touch on his arm made him wheel round, and he beheld Sylvia smiling at him.

"I can't stay long," said Sylvia. "My father is still ill, and he wants me to return and nurse him."

"Has he explained why he fainted?" asked Paul anxiously.

"No; he refuses to speak on the matter. Why did he faint, Paul?"

The young man looked puzzled.

Rheumatism

I have found a tried and tested cure for Rheumatism! Not a remedy that will straighten the distorted limbs of chronic cripples, nor turn bony growths back to flesh again. That is impossible, but I can now surely kill the pains and pangs of this deplorable disease.

In Germany—with a Chemist in the City of Darmstadt—I found the last ingredient with which Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy was made perfected, dependable prescription. Without that last ingredient, I successfully treated many, many cases of Rheumatism; but now, at last it is formally cures all curable cases of this heretofore much dreaded disease. These sand-like granular wastes, found in Rheumatic blood seem to dissolve and pass away under the action of this remedy as freely as does sugar when added to pure water. And then, when dissolved, these poisonous wastes freely pass from the system, and the cause of Rheumatism is gone forever. There is now no real need—no actual excuse to suffer longer without help. Surest Signs of Biliousness

Among the earliest symptoms are furred tongue and dull headache.

Then come dizzy spells; bad taste, quick pulse, fever and cold sweats.

Finally, sleeplessness and vomiting make the condition of the sufferer almost intolerable.

The root of biliousness is with the liver which is clogged and can't keep bile from getting into the blood.

Nothing works with the certainty of Dr. Hamilton's Pills; they act directly on the liver, restore the bile to its proper course and prevent it from contaminating the vital fluid.

Of course the bowels are ordered and relaxed by Dr. Hamilton's Pills, the kidneys receive new tonic, the blood is renovated, and the result is a renewal of good health.

Stronger proof can't be had than the statement of Penwick Luddington, of New Harbor, N.B., who says:—

"Three months ago I had no expectation of ever getting free from periodical bilious attacks. They were preceded by dizziness and dreadful headaches. If I stooped over my head would swim, and a nauseous feeling crept into my stomach. Dr. Hamilton's Pills fixed up my liver, drove all the bile out of my blood, and made me a well man in a few months. To-day I enjoy a good appetite, excellent digestion, and the best of health. Dr. Hamilton's Pills did it all."

No need for delay, the sooner you use Dr. Hamilton's Pills, the sooner you'll feel the brisk, keen satisfaction of a healthy, well-regulated system. Sold in yellow boxes, 25c. each, or five for $1.00, at all dealers.

No City Charity Supplies Before Six

Once more on Saturday evening Relief Officer Lycett Miller had many applicants for assistance., In the way of meat, groceries, etc. Mr. Miller has had some trouble by applicants calling at his store during the afternoon. This interferes Mr. Miller's own work, so he has decided that no distribution will be made until 6 p.m. We might, at Mr. Miller's request, also remind applicants that it is no use their sending children for supplies, as only the heads of families will be recognized.

I wish that I might talk with all sick ones about the actual cause of Stomach, Heart, and Kidney ailments. To explain in person how weak Stomach nerves leads to Stomach weakness. I am sure would interest all. And it is the same with weak Hearts or Weak Kidneys. This is why my prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative—so promptly reaches ailments of the Stomach, Heart, and Kidneys. It is wrong to drug the Stomach or stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. These weak inside nerves simply need more strength. My Restorative is the only prescription made exclusively for these nerves. Next to seeing you personally, will be to mail you free, my new booklet entitled, "What To Do." I will also send samples of my Restorative as well. Write for the book today. It will surely interest you. Address Dr. Shoop, Box 5, Racine, Wis. All Dealers.

Former Soldier Relates Experiences

Mr. James Millar, of Belfast, Ireland, preached at the evangelistic meeting yesterday evening. Mr. Millar was an old Irish soldier, having spent sixteen years in active service. He was with Lord Roberts in his Afghanistan campaign, and also during the uprising in India and Egypt. He was converted while in India, and last night told some of his own experiences in a clear and interesting manner.

Prices Dropped on Saturday

Saturday's market was the best attended, both by buyers and sellers, for the same day of the week, that Market Clerk Mallmayle has seen for weeks. As consequence prices, which for the past few weeks have soared like the mercury of a thermometer plunged into B.B.K., might rise. Butter and eggs opened at 30 cents, but prices dropped a cent or two in a few cases. Beef and pork sold at 5 and 6 cents and 9 and 10 cents, respectively. Chickens, however, commanded prices that would only be considered by those who have more money than regard for a coming "rainy day."

Mr. A. Kennedy Has Bad Fall

Another victim to the slippery uncovered pavements in the person of Mr. Alexander Kennedy, sustained a severe shaking up. It not worse, injuries on Saturday evening. It seems that Mr. Kennedy, who has seen the sunset of some years set, and who is local agent of the Bay Line Co. of Toronto, slipped and fell heavily at the corner of Hunter and Chambers streets, and had to be taken to his home in a cutter. The nature of his injuries were not considered serious.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease the science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

heard of the robbery the same night by telephone. [illegible] glass of milk. She had not the least doubt but what [illegible] was the man at her house. To Mrs. Gordon, the man had an overcoat on, and a cap.

George Taylor, a Chemong Indian, was on the Buckhorn road Nov. 5th. At the [illegible] while driving past Northey's place, he saw a man coming out. He asked him if he wanted a ride with him. The man said he'd soon walk. He had a good look at the man. He thought the man not riding looked peculiar. He identified prisoner as the man. To Mr. Gordon, the man had a bag with a small farm on.

This ended the case for the prosecution.

The court adjourned at 1 p.m.

The court re-opened at 2.30 in the afternoon. As Mrs. D. Conroy, one of the witnesses, was too ill to attend, and had a doctor's certificate to that effect, her declaration was read and admitted to evidence.

Burke, the prisoner, went into the witness box, and denied the Buckhorn robbery in toto, but made somewhat damaging admissions as to the previous C. P. R. crime.

His Honor took the matter under consideration and will render judgment on Wednesday. It seems that Burke in his evidence made statements that absolutely contradict former testimony of his given under oath, and may should he be discharged on the Buckhorn matter, have to face a charge of perjury. The whole decision of the Buckhorn robbery, as far as Burke's innocence or guilt hangs on the matter of personal identification.

Mr. Gordon made a strong fight for his client against heavy odds, viz., the evidence of the first two witnesses.

February, 1908, is here and so is

The Pacific Fruit Cooling and Vaporizing Company, Incorporated for the purpose of cooling deciduous fruits and removing moisture from citrus fruits and keeping under cold storage such fruits and other food products from the time of receiving them from the fruit growers until loaded on car and taken away by the Railroad Company for Eastern shipment

STUBBORN FACTS UNIMPEACHABLE

The loss in shipping deciduous and citrus fruits is enormous. The orange crop of Southern California alone is valued at $30,000,000. The government experts estimate that about 25 per cent, or $7,500,000, is lost every year by rough handling in packing and decay of fruit in transit to the Eastern markets. What a revenue of profit this loss would be to the shipper if it could be saved. Our process will save it. The same is true of the deciduous fruits of Northern California.

GREAT FORTUNES ARE MADE BY INVESTING IN NECESSITIES

Fruit is one of the necessities of our civilized life, and the company that can place the fruit in the markets of the world in the best shape, in the quickest time, at the lowest rate, has a fortune within its grasp. The Armour Company in ten years made $5,000,000 net handling California fruit in refrigerator cars. Our process is as necessary to the fruit grower as the refrigerator car. Therefore we ought to receive as large a revenue for handling the same commodity.

GET IN WHILE THE ENTERPRISE IS NEW

No wiser words were ever spoken than these: "The chief point about getting rich is to invest in a new enterprise that is being managed by successful men, who have some of their own money in the deal." "One good investment is worth a lifetime of labor". Think over this sentence. A man's daily labor will never make him rich. He must have some money at work for him. Money invested never gets sick, keeps no holidays, never goes on strike. There are three things that ought to guide you: First, invest with honest men; second, invest with men of sound judgment; third, invest under conditions where you get your full share of profits the business yields. Get into a company whose destiny is guided by men of this stamp which its future is back and not behind it. Here is the secret of fortune. Plant the seed of your investment in the soil of opportunity at the season of greatest promise when the enterprise is new. Every ounce of honor in the hearts of the men managing this company is pledged to give

A SQUARE DEAL FOR EVERY INVESTOR

There will be no preferred stock, every dollar invested will be worth 100 cents on the dollar. Our Directors, as honorable business men will not allow any stocks of trash by which the small investor can be frozen out. Their commercial standing proves they are not "sharks". The poor man's $50 at low interest will have the same standing in court as the rich man's $5000, and they will draw the same proportional dividend. We court investigation.

EVERY RICH MAN IN THE WORLD WAS ONCE POOR OR HIS GRANDFATHER WAS.

THE OPPORTUNITY OF A LIFETIME

To get into a company that has the certainty of growth, the assurance of large and quick returns, a rapid advance in the price of stock, to make it an exceptional chance for big profits on a small investment. This is an ideal investment for the wage earner as well as the rich man. Moderate sums invested now will bring splendid returns in the near future. The logic of all this is

DON'T WAIT

Time is the essence of this proposition. The stock will certainly double in a short time. Jay Gould once said: "When you see a good investment don't wait to see if it pans out well, for by that time other people see it, too, and you have lost your opportunity."

WOMEN AS INVESTORS

Some of the heaviest stockholders in our company are women of keen business instincts. One lady in Los Angeles bought 5,000 shares. In a few days she returned and bought 5,000 more. This lady has never made a mistake in her business ventures. Women are good investors because they have courage to follow their convictions. Their intuitions are keener and truer than man's logic. Men may prevent her voting, but they can't prevent her drawing dividends on her investments. This is one branch of trade where sex, culture, or color does not count.

ANALYSIS

The affairs of this company are in the hands of men of honesty, ability, courage and good business judgment—men who have made a success of their own business—men whose business reputation is A1 in the commercial circles in which they move.

These men are "square" and "shrewd". They will not deceive you nor will they be deceived themselves. Because of the promise of growth, permanency and profit this business offers they have unlimited their money, energy, time and business experience to make this enterprise a grand success.

Notwithstanding the Financial Crisis, Investments made Six Months ago have Advanced

HARRY K. THAW'S WIFE MAY ASK FOR SEPARATION

She is Said to be Angered by Placing of Detectives on Her Course--Put Off Visit to Husband

New York, Feb. 24.—Confirmation of the plans of Mrs. William Thaw to have the marriage of Harry Thaw to his wife annulled is said to have been obtained, and it is stated that Evelyn Nesbit Thaw is already making active preparations for the legal battle. Angered on account of the reports which tell her that her footsteps are being dogged by detectives employed by her husband's family, it is said that young Mrs. Thaw may take the initiative and bring suit herself for a separation at least.

The wife of Stanford White's slayer will have as counsel one of the ablest lawyers in New York city, Jerome Hardy, who has been her legal representative during the last few months, counsel qualify, as he is the personal representative of Harry Thaw.

The fight, if instituted by Thaw's wife, will be made in the courts of this State, and as well demand a financial settlement commensurate with the style to which she has been accustomed since she married. The suit will be a test of the domestic relations law of New York, as it has no precedent.

DETECTIVE VISITS THAW.

Further measures of the breach between the young Pittsburg millionaire now at Matteawan and his wife is contained in the information that Thaw had as a recent visitor Harry V. Dougherty, who is at the head of a private detective agency which has received independent instructions to trail the young wife wherever she goes. Thaw's lawyers were very much disturbed when they learned that their client was acting without their advice, but declined to make any comment.

Mrs. Thaw, when seen at her home and asked about the matter, said:

"Everything I do is open to the fullest investigation. You may say that I willingly submit to this because it will show how utterly untrue are the stories that have been circulated about me."

Detective Dougherty has been in the service of Thaw before. He was one of the men employed to trail Stanford White and his associates, and obtained much of the evidence by which Thaw endeavored to have them prosecuted.

SUMMONED BY LETTER.

Dougherty was summoned to Matteawan by letter, and it is considered significant that he visited the institution the very day that Thaw, through his counsel, gave out statements in which he expressed every confidence in his wife. It is said that he is no longer willing to rely on his wife's own statements and the reports of his lawyers, and is determined to find out for himself just how Mrs. Thaw occupies her time when not at home.

On account of this new turn in their affairs Evelyn Thaw did not visit her husband at Matteawan Saturday, as she had contemplated doing. She has not seen him or communicated with him direct, it is said, since the date of the alleged dinner party at the Cafe Boulevard, when her name was linked with that of E. R. Thomas in a sensational story.

SAW HIS MOTHER.

Mrs. William Thaw visited Matteawan Friday, accompanied only by a nurse. The fact that neither of the Thaw lawyers went along caused some comment.

Mrs. Thaw was with her son an hour and a half, the nurse waiting in the reception room at the hospital. She was exceptionally nervous and feeble when she came out. This is her third visit, and the first made on a regular visiting day. Mrs. Thaw declined to say anything whatever for publication. She said she had made no statements to anyone as yet, and that she did not intend to do so. She was disgusted with all the newspaper talk, she said.

Dr. Lamb, superintendent of the hospital, admitted Saturday that the patient objects to examination by the regular doctors of the institution, but wishes to have this done only by Drs. Evans and Jacoby, the alienists in the recent trials.

Drunkenness is on the Increase

During the last license year the number of tavern, shop, and wholesale liquor licenses for the province was reduced by 198. The Hon. W. J. Hanna, in the annual report of the Liquor License Department, which was laid on the table of the Legislature yesterday, states that the employment of a special staff of officers to enforce the act throughout the Province has resulted in the more strict observance of the law by licensees, and as a consequence fewer prosecutions were necessary. In local option municipalities, the report claims, the law was vigorously enforced, and $9,175 was collected in fines. The revenue from the license branch for the financial year was $587,128.60. The total amount collected on account of licenses and fines, including the sums imposed by municipal by-laws, was $901,852.86, an increase, compared with the previous year, of $238,830.43. Of the total amount collected $411,916.71 went to the municipalities.

During the year 4,774 persons were committed for drunkenness, as compared with 4,316 in the previous year. Since 1899 the number of convictions for this class of offence has increased by practically a thousand.

POLICE

At yesterday's session of the Police Court only one case was tried, viz: that of a Gypsy named Geo. Williamson, who was arrested Saturday night by P. C. Adams for being drunk. The Magistrate imposed a fine of $2 or ten days in Castle Nesbitt. Williamson went up to the hill.

Old Resident of This City Dead

On Sunday evening one of Peterborough's old st residents passed away in the person of Mr. John M. Robinson, who died at the residence of his son, Mr. Alex. Robinson, Aylmer street, after several months illness. The deceased, who was 76 years old, was born and spent his life in Peterborough.

Three daughters and two sons are left to mourn his loss. The sons are: Alex. of this city, and Walter of Toronto ,, and the daughters are Mrs. Shunk of Toronto, Mrs. Hardy Groveton, New Hampshire, and Mrs. Ed. McAllen, Ignace.

The funeral will take place to-morrow afternoon at 2.30 o'clock to the Little Lake cemetery.

Sudden Death of Little Baby Bettes

Little did Mrs. Albert Bettes, 496 Rogers street, East Ward, think when she left her little six months old baby snugly wrapped in bed, at seven o'clock this morning, that when she should see it next, the little one would have passed from this life. Still such was the stern reality.

It seems that Mrs. Bettes left the child in bed and went about her household duties, while, as she thought, the baby was safe and securely slumbering. Some few hours later she went up to give the child and bring it down stairs, but to her horror the baby girl had died in the meantime. She at once summoned Dr. McCulloch, who was quickly on hand. The doctor diagnosed the death as being caused by inward convulsions. The matter was all the harder for the grief-stricken and distracted mother on account of Mr. Bettes being out of the city, in Guelph. Funeral arrangements are pending the arrival of Mr. Bettes, who was at once telegraphed for. The little one's name was Ruby Christine Bettes, and she has one elder sister. This sudden and tragic bereavement will ensure the sorrowing parents the heartfelt sympathy of the whole community.

WAS "WALKING ON THE WATER."

Hamilton, Ont., Feb. 24.—While taking snap shots of the ice banks at the Beach, on the lake shore, yesterday, John Feast was startled to find a man fifty feet from the shore in the water, to his neck. The fellow refused to come in. Feast made a perilous trip over ice floes and rescued the stranger, who was evidently suffering from religious mania, claiming that he was imitating Christ's example walking on the water. He was entirely naked, and had been in the water several minutes. He gave his name as William Brant of England. The police discovered that he was employed by a Binbrook farmer, and had wandered away. Brant was remanded on a charge of insanity.

Energetic Japs Slaughter Seals--Canadians are Hard Hit

Ottawa, Feb. 24.—Joseph Bonovitz, Japanese sealers have opened their f Victoria, B.C., the representative of annual hunt as early in the year as the British Columbia sealers, has had May, and have been using firearms several interviews with the Hon. Jas. as freely as they wished. Departing Lyon and Sir Wilfrid Laurier to urge of any international agreement being made to prevent the complete destruction of the seal herds in the Behring Sea. Under the terms of the Paris Award of 1893, Canadian and American sealers had agreed not to catch seals before the first of August in any year; that they will not catch any seals within the 3-mile limit of the Pribyloff Islands and that the use of firearms in the seal fisheries is absolutely prohibited. Unfortunately they reckoned without the Japanese, who, not being bound by the terms of the Paris Award, are free to do as they please, and with the characteristic enterprise of that people are doing as they please, taking seals wherever and whenever they can find them, using firearms and practically following a course, which, unless soon terminated, must inevitably result in the extermination of the seals. The effect of this course of action by Japan has been that the Canadian sealing fleet has been reduced from fifty ships to five. In the meantime the

They are asking the Governments of Great Britain and the United States to approach Russia and Japan with a request that a close season for seals to extend over a period of ten years at least, shall be established during which the herds shall be given an opportunity to recuperate. Whether Japan will agree to such a proposition is a matter for the future to decide. If it is rejected it will not be for want of earnest endeavor on behalf of the Canadian sealers. Both the British Ambassador and the Premier have raised the importance of the request, and each has promised to do what which in his power, lies, to further the carrying out of the proposal. It is quite evident that something has to be done. It is also evident that something can only be done by the consent of the Government of Japan.

Wealthy Couple were Kidnapped by the Black Hand

New York, February 25. — Four Black Hand letters demanding that sums of money from $500 to $800 be left in a secluded spot on the Orangeburg-Tappan road having received no attention, Wesley A. Kipp, a wealthy merchant of Sparkhill, Rockland County, N. Y., and his wife have disappeared. For a month or more Mr. Kipp had been receiving threatening letters which he turned over to James Hickey, chief of the Sparkhill police, who advised him to disregard them.

On Tuesday Kipp and his wife went for a walk along Sparkhill Creek to watch the skaters near an old mill in a secluded, wooded spot. Since that time neither has been seen. In the interim Charles Schuester, who owns a large bakery on Piermont avenue, about one mile from Mr. Kipp's place of business, has not left his home and is virtually a prisoner, fearing kidnapping, which is believed to have been the fate of Mr. and Mrs. Kipp.

Schuester has also received letters, apparently in the same handwriting as those sent to Mr. Kipp, which threatened to blow up his place of business and his home unless he submitted to blackmail.

OF PROMINENT FAMILY.

The disappearance of Mr. and Mrs. Kipp has aroused the entire countryside, as Mrs. Kipp is a sister-in-law of A. X. Fallon, the County Judge, and is related either directly or by marriage to leading families of Rockland County.

Headed by Hickey, the police chief, residents of Piermont, Sparkhill, Orangeburg and Tappan have banded together to run down the kidnappers. So far no clew has been found to the headquarters of the band. It is believed, however, that while it may be made up of Italians, a German is the leader, as the letters received by the Kipps and Schuester are in characters resembling German script.

The first letters were found by Schuester and Kipp on the front doorsteps of their homes on the evening of February 11. They were identical and read as follows:

"We give you herewith notice that you have put $500 on some tree where Mountain Side farm got her bulletin board on the road between Sparkhill and Orangeburg, at eight o'clock sharp by Tuesday, February 18, in the evening. If you not obey this order or notify the police we will blow all your houses and stores. If you also put us in trap that one of men gets in jail we will kill everybody in your family and you is the first that is marked for death.

Signed.

"P.S.—Your money or your life."

The country back of Sparkhill, in the mountains, affords many excellent hiding places for the captives of a kidnapper band and it is only with the greatest difficulty, owing to the heavy snow in the hills, that exploring parties can make their way around.

A Lazy Liver

May be only a tired liver, or a starved liver. It would be a stupid as well as savage thing to beat a weary or starved man because he lagged in his work. So in treating the lagging, torpid liver it is a great mistake to lash it with strong drastic drugs. A torpid liver is but an indication of an ill-nourished, enfeebled body whose organs are weary with over work. Start with the stomach and allied organs of digestion and nutrition. Put them in working order and see how quickly your liver will become active. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has made many marvelous cures of "liver trouble" by its wonderful control of the organs of digestion and nutrition. It restores the normal activity of the stomach, increases the secretions of the blood-making glands, cleanses the system from poisonous accumulations, and so relieves the liver of the burdens imposed upon it by the defection of other organs.

If you have bitter or bad taste in the morning, poor or variable appetite, coated tongue, foul breath, constipated or irregular bowels, feel weak, easily tired, despondent, frequent headaches, pain or distress in "small of back," gnawing or distressed feeling in stomach, perhaps nausea, "all gone" or "rising" in throat after eating, and kindred symptoms of weak stomach and torpid liver, no medicine will relieve you more promptly or cure you more permanently than Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Perhaps only a part of the above symptoms will be present at one time and yet point to torpid liver or biliousness and weak stomach. Avoid all hot bread and biscuits, griddle cakes and other indigestible food and take the "Golden Medical Discovery" regularly and stick to its use until you are vigorous and strong.

The "Discovery" is non-secret, non-alcoholic, is a glyceric extract of native medicinal roots with a full list of its ingredients printed on each bottle-wrapper and attested under oath. Its ingredients are endorsed and extolled by the most eminent medical writers of the age and are recommended to cure the diseases for which it is advised.

Don't accept a substitute of unknown composition for this non-secret MEDICINE OF KNOWN COMPOSITION.

MONTREAL START-LED BY MURDERS AMONG ITALIANS

The Third Fatal Shooting or Stabbing Fatality in Four Days--Epidemic of Crime to be Suppressed

Friday—Antonio de Lucia stabbed. Marsala Viti accused.

Saturday—Vezarro Silvio shot dead. Police search for Caldorse Carmino.

Monday—Maria Tadore killed by revolver shot. Husband and son under arrest.

Montreal, Feb. 24. — Still another was added to the long list of Italian tragedies which have taken place in Montreal during the past few weeks, when a woman resident of the Italian quarter was shot to death in her home. The husband of the dead woman and her son are held by the police.

The dead woman's name is Maria Antonia Tadore. Her husband, Michael Tadore, and her son, Antonio Tadore, are under arrest in the Central station, charged with being responsible for her death.

Tadore claimed that he shot the woman by accident while cleaning a revolver. The police point out that the trigger was pulled three times, as shown by the empty cartridges, two of which had failed to explode. It was the third shot which killed the woman.

The tragedy makes two murders in two days in the Italian community of Montreal, and on the third day a woman was shot through the heart by her husband, the latter also being Italians. In the first two cases the alleged murderer has not been captured, while in the third case the husband has been arrested.

Chief Detective Carpenter declares that never has there been such an epidemic in crime before in the history of the city. No less than five murders have been perpetrated by Italians in the city since the beginning of the year.

Has a Great Record

Railway Engineer for 48 Years and Never Had an Accident

Ottawa, February 24.—After forty-eight years' service, Charles Henry, of 233 Nicholas street, this city, last week resigned his position as engineer on one of the fast trains of the Canadian Pacific Railway, running between Montreal and Ottawa, to live a retired life. "I am one of the oldest engineers in Canada," said Mr. Henry. "I was never in an accident, have not received any injury, have saved two lives, and never has the engine I was on killed a man, except one who many years ago was working on the track, and for reasons never known stepped in front of my locomotive and was killed."

Old Peterborough Boy Visits His Parents

Mr. and Mrs. Primeau, of Dr. scott Terrace, East Ward, have once more with them their son, John Primeau, Jr., the latter now being a resident of Winnipeg, Man. Mr. Primeau, who holds a responsible position with Messrs. T. Eaton Co. of the Prairie City, has now been here for some two years, and is receiving the right hand of welcome from his many friends. He will remain in Peterborough for about a fortnight before returning to the west. He likes the life and people of the west very much.

No More Buildings on Central Park

Editor Daily Times:

Dear Sir,—The remark made in last night's Review by Mr. W. S. Robinson in a letter to that paper, regarding the proposal of some of this city having a "Carnegie" library caught my attention, and I consider well worth serious consideration. That is Mr. Robinson's disagreement with Mr. Dumble as to site of the new library, should one be built. The writer objected to having the library placed on the southeast corner of Central Park, as it would thus shut from view of those on our main thoroughfare, the splendid new Armouries and practically the Collegiate Institute. This enough is sufficient argument against this site being occupied by any building. But, Sir, more important than preserving the view of these buildings is the want of Central breathing and outing grounds for the people, the vast majority who have no gardens or grounds in connection with their respective places of abode. By all means, whether we get a Carnegie charity library or build one by issuing debentures, I say, "Hands off" should the site in question be proposed.

"OUTING."

FAT FOLKS FAVOR

Home Mixture That Takes off the Fat Rapidly--Causes no Wrinkles--No Stomach Ills and Requires Neither Dieting nor Exercise

Too much fat is both uncomfortable and dangerous, but usually fleshy people prefer to put up with its inconveniences rather than punish themselves with the tiresome exercising usually prescribed, or endanger their health by taking the so-called "cures" and patent fat "reducers."

The self-sacrifice of comfort and health to overabundant fat is entirely unnecessary, however, as Mrs. Lucile Bigger tells us there is a home remedy that is far superior in every way to anything money will buy for reducing superfluous flesh. It is said this simple mixture will take the fat off man or woman at the rate of at least a couple of pounds a week without even causing wrinkles. Moreover it does not disturb the stomach, but is a good thing for the system, clearing away pimples, and, best of all, it does not interfere with the diet. You can use it and at the same time eat whatever you like. This recipe is as follows: 1-2 ounce Marmola; 3-4; ounce Fluid Extract Cascara Aromatic, and 4 3-4 ounces of Syrup Simplex. Get these ingredients at any drug store, mix them together at home and take one teaspoonful after each meal and at bedtime.

Mrs. Bigger, as is well known, is a famous beauty expert, and whatever she recommends is sure to be found eminently satisfactory.

WM. EDWARDS KILLED WHILE ATTEMPTING TO STEAL A RIDE ON TRAIN

Chief Rousel has received the following letter from Mr. A. W. Laird, assistant treasurer of the Washington-Idaho-Montana Railway Co., informing them of the death of Wm. Edwards, who is supposed to have been born and raised in Peterborough. The letter reads as follows:

Washington, Idaho, Montana Railway Company.

Potlatch, Idaho, Feb. 18.

Chief Police, Peterborough.

Dear Sir,—On Feb. 12 a man by the name of Wm. Edwards was attempting to steal a ride on one of our trains, and on account of cold weather and deep snow, it would appear that he became numb and must have lost his grip on the brake beam, where he was riding, and rolled under the wheels and was killed. We understand that this man was born and raised in your city, but could get no information as to his relatives. We therefore write you the above information and would advise you that he had nothing on his person but 50c, and a hospital ticket which identified him. The remains were buried at Potlatch, Idaho, after coroner's inquest was held in the presence of L. H. McCarter, coroner of Latch county, whose residence is Moscow, Idaho. If this man has any relatives that you know of kindly inform them.

Yours truly,

A. W. LAIRD,
Asst. Treas.

Chinaman Petition for a Crusade Against Gambling

Toronto, Feb. 24.—Seventeen Chinamen of this city have forwarded to the mayor a petition asking for the suppression of gambling among their fellow-countrymen in the city. The petitions reads as follows:

"Your petitioners, members of the Chinese community of Toronto, and other persons deeply interested in the work of educating the Chinese to be useful citizens of Toronto, learn with great regret of the deplorable increase in gambling among the Chinese in Toronto, and the consequent degrading results therefrom, and your petitioners are further informed and believe that there are at present a number of Chinese resorts in Toronto, which purport to carry on trade, but which are nothing more or less than gambling dens, by reason of which gambling has increased to an enormous extent during the past year.

"Your petitioners, therefore, pray that an active crusade be conducted by the police for the purpose of suppressing gambling among the Chinese and for the suppression of such gambling dens, and the punishment of persons responsible for the same."

Spend Your Money In Peterborough

Now that hard times are sure to be upon us, it is up to Peterborough's patriotic citizens, and that adjective fits most of our local people, to buy all goods possible from Peterborough merchants. If ten men or ten women each pay ten dollars to outside dealers, whether in Toronto or Montreal, such purchasers make ten good or rather bad reasons for hard times here. Pay out the money earned in Peterborough, right in Peterborough. The Peterborough merchant pays rent and taxes in this city, the clerks he pays spend their money in Peterborough, the mechanics who sell to other merchants and clerks makes his retail purchases in Peterborough, and he cannot pay good wages or spend as much money here, should many retail purchases be made in Toronto as if all goods for local consumption were bought in our home city. Peterborough merchants have a good enough display and assortment to suit all but the very rich or members of the aristocracy, except in some isolated cases.

More Than Money to Many People Here

A Simple Home Recipe Recommended to Elderly Folks

This is a message that will bring happiness again into many families and sunshine all into the lives of hundreds of disheartened and discouraged men and women here. It requires just a little sensible shame, for it can't be bought already prepared. It is a simple home recipe now being made known in all the larger cities through the newspapers. It is intended to check the many cases of rheumatism, kidney and bladder trouble which have made so many cripples and invalids, and weaklings of some of our brightest and strongest people.

The druggists here have been notified to supply themselves with the ingredients, and the sufferer will have no trouble to obtain them. The prescription is as follows: Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Karsun, one ounce, and Compound Syrup of Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Mix by shaking well in a bottle. Take dose is one teaspoonful after each meal and at bedtime.

Hundreds of experiments, even in severe hospital cases, prove this simple mixture the remedy for rheumatism, because of its positive action upon the eliminative tissues of the kidneys. It compels these most vital organs to filter from the blood and system the water impurities and uric acid which are the cause of rheumatism. It cleanses the kidneys, strengthens them and removes quickly such symptoms as backache, blood disorder, bladder weakness, frequent urinations, painful scalding and discolored urine. It acts as a powerful stimulant to the entire kidney and bladder structure, puts new life into them and invigorates the entire tract. It makes the kidneys clean the blood. The Dandelion will take care of kidney trouble and constipation, and is fine for the stomach.

All the ingredients, states a well-known local druggist, are of vegetable extraction, making it a safe and harmless prescription at any time.

Those who suffer and are accustomed to purchase a bottle of patent medicine should not be a little inconvenience interfere with making up this prescription. Wherever this becomes generally known, stores a large capture publication, it ruins the sale of the quack medicines and so-called rheumatism and kidney cures, which is its best endorsement of virtue.

Grippe is sweeping the country. Stop it with Preventics, before it gets deeply seated. To check early colds with these little Candy Cold Cure Tablets is surely sensible and safe. Preventics contain no Quinine, no laxative, nothing harsh or sickening. Pneumonia would never appear if early colds were promptly broken. Also good for feverish children. Large box, 48 tablets, 25 cents. Vest pocket tubes, 5 cents. Sold by all dealers.

Letter of Resignation by Rev. A. H. Brace

Very general regret was expressed yesterday over the resignation of Rev. A. H. Brace as pastor of Park Street Baptist Church. Mr. Brace's letter of resignation, handed to Deacon T. G. Gillespie, was as follows:

Baptist Parsonage,
Park St., Peterborough,
Feb. 22, 1908.

To the Deacons and Members of the Park Street Baptist Church, Park St., Peterborough.

The Building Committee last Friday evening decided to put off building for at least six months in view of the strained condition of the money market and the high rate of interest just gives me the opportunity of retiring.

After careful consideration I have decided to give up my charge. I have spent five very happy and successful years and the church has steadily grown. You nobly raised your pledge to $700 to give me a call, the prosperity granted us warranted the increase of salary and it now stands at $850.

The lot for which we could not pay four hands on $10 to make deposit at sale is bought and paid for now $600 gained and mortgages burned. Hard cash going to interest in bank and thousands pledged for a forward movement.

I rejoice with you in over 100 received in baptism.

But five years for an ordinary man is deem to be long enough in one pulpit. I therefore tender my resignation to take effect Sunday evening, May 3rd, 1908.

Yours sincerely,

A. H. BRACE.

Acceptance or other disposal of the resignation has been deferred.

An Old Nurse

Persuaded Doctor to Drink Postum

An old faithful nurse and an experienced doctor, are a pretty strong combination in favor of Postum, instead of coffee.

The doctor said:—

"I began to drink Postum five years ago on the advice of an old nurse.

"During an unusually busy winter, between coffee, tea and overwork, I became a victim of insomnia. In a month after beginning Postum, in place of coffee, I could eat anything and sleep as soundly as a baby.

"In three months I had gained twenty pounds in weight. I now use Postum altogether instead of coffee; even at bedtime with a soda cracker or some other tasty biscuit.

"Having a little tendency to Diabetes, I use a small quantity of saccharine instead of sugar, to sweeten with. I may add that to-day tea or coffee are never present in our house and very many patients, on my advice, have adopted Postum as their regular beverage.

"In conclusion I can assure anyone that, as a refreshing, nourishing and nerve-strengthening beverage, there is nothing equal to Postum." "There's a Reason." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

Madame Lemieux and Party Had to Pay the Head Tax

Ottawa, Feb. 24.—A curious circumstance has transpired in connection with the Lemieux mission to Japan. When the mission left Japan to return to Canada, Mr. Lemieux, being in a hurry, left by the Canadian Pacific steamer and the northern route, as the more expeditious. Madame Lemieux and Mr. Joseph Pope, however, took the southern route, by way of San Francisco. And before the party —Madame Lemieux, Mr. Pope and Mr. Pope's secretary—were allowed to land in San Francisco. They were obliged to pay the head-tax. To be precise, they had to pay $4.05 each, the United States Treasury being enriched to the extent of $12.15.

The levy was made in Yokohama. Mr. Pope had to make the payments when buying the tickets, and was given to understand that they would not be allowed to board the steamer without the receipts.

Apart from the diplomatic status of the party, and from the fact that Mr. Pope was returning from negotiations of a character in which the Canadian case was so similar to that of the United States, the imposition was absolutely illegal, as the United States law expressly exempts persons travelling to Canada, via the United States. The American officials, however, refused to recognize this.

It is understood that Mr. Pope intends to enter a complaint at Washington against the illegal exaction.

Deputation Asks for More Power

Ottawa, February 24. — Mr. Graham, Minister of Railways, and Mr. Butler, Deputy Minister, met a deputation from the several municipalities interested in the Northumberland-Durham Power Co. This company has rights over about half of Healey's Falls on the Trent River, and the request which was backed by plans and engineering details was for permission to use all the water power.

The calculation submitted was that by using the whole 70 feet of head, 10,000 horse power could be developed at a cost of $61 per horse power.

The power is expected to serve the district from Deseronto to Port Hope. Mr. Graham, who gave a favorable hearing, promised consideration.

A RAILROAD RACE FOR EMPIRE

A railroad right of way figures in the Balkan complication which has so suddenly trodden on the heels of the Persian war scare.

Pursuing her policy of protecting the Southern Slavs, which was perhaps suggested by Voltaire to Catherine the Great, Russia is backing with bad credit and good diplomacy a projected railway southwest from Servia to the Adriatic, either at Antivari or Dulcigno, Montenegro. Such a line might run from the junction at Nisch by Mitrovitza and Podgoritza, or by an extension of the Kragoyevatz branch; in either case it would skirt Lake Scutari; and every mile would run through ancient Servian lands and peoples.

Austria, when placed by the Congress of Berlin in 'temporary' charge of Bosnia, began to plan that movement to the East—the "Drang nach Osten" — which Bismarck foresaw. Two years ago she pushed a narrow-gauge railway from Serajevo to Visegrad and Pribai, on the Turkish frontier. The engineering difficulties were great, the cost staggering, the benefit to the Slavic peasants who pay for it problematical. They, indeed, as they tread their ancient mule paths, hate the railroad as the symbol of a military oppression that burdens them now and menaces their dreams of a future South Slavic nation.

This Austrian railroad halts at the edge of the Sandjak of Novibazar, a sliver of Turkish soil, filled by Servian people, which the Berlin Congress left between Montenegro and Servia to wedge them apart. The congress gave Austria permission to keep a few soldiers in the Sandjak to guard the roads; she has construed this permission as a joint occupancy but has not dared extend the railroad and the agreement of other powers. She would only have to build to connect with the line, to Salonica, Macedonia, the richest seaport prize in the East next to Constantinople.

Either line must cross the soil of Turkey. The sick man plays off his would-be heirs, one against another. Unfortunately, Austria and Russia have the mandate of Europe to procure order in Macedonia. If on that dark and bloody ground the Slave were in the majority, the South-Slavic empire would establish itself in spite of Sultan, Kaiser or congress. But with a majority of the Macedonians of Bulgarian race and tongue, and with the Exarchate providing them an independent church, which Servia has not had since 1766, the Bulgarians have the lead in Macedonia.

So the deadlock of mixed races continues, with the pitiful effusion of blood which it has caused. And Turkey surely profits.

Toronto had a plebiscite two years ago as to whether or no the number of liquor licenses in Toronto should be reduced. A majority voted so. Now the city council cuts off 40 licenses out of 150 or so. This is a queer mix-up. Representative government first gets a jab in the shape of a referendum gets a them that particular referendum gets a kick in the neck from representative government. We hope Toronto knows where she is at, nobody else can.

IMPROVING THE VIOLIN.

"G String Prop" Makes New Harmonies a Possibility.

An innovation in violin making that is attracting considerable attention has been brought about through the ingenuity of Lester L. Sargent of Washington, who has contrived a simple but distinctly useful "G string prop" to enable the violinist to play simultaneously on three strings of his instrument, whereas heretofore it has been possible for him to play sustained chords of two notes only at a time. Thus the dominion of the "king of instruments" will be extended into the realm of harmony as well as of melody.

The new device itself is a small wedge shaped piece of bridge wood inserted on the violin bridge under the G string. Its dimensions, while dependent to some extent on the height of the bridge on the particular violin on which it is to be used and the character of the music to be played, are ordinarily as follows: Thickness, three sixty-fourths of an inch; length, five-eighths of an inch; width, three-fortieths of an inch or slightly less. The hypotenuse of the prop is curved to fit smoothly on the bridge of the violin, and a notch for the G string is also made. To exact the device on the violin is an easy matter, it being only necessary to turn down the G string about a tone, to insert the prop underneath and then to turn up the string with care. In effect it becomes a component part of the bridge itself, but it can always be easily removed.

This method of elevating the G just enough to be sounded simultaneously with the D and A strings takes away the mechanical obstacle that Ole Bull managed to overcome by means of a flat bridge and his remarkable tours de force, but which no other violinist has attempted to cope with.

That this method of playing is entirely novel is evidenced by the fact that all works on orchestration have stated that sustained chords on the violin are restricted to two notes and that three and four voiced chords must be played as arpeggios. But a new and beautiful effect is now placed at the command of the violinist, although it is true that there are few compositions in which use has been made of the possibilities of writing beautiful chords on the three lower strings of the violin. De Beriot has a notable passage in his Fifth Concerto, but it remains chiefly for future composers of music for the violin to enlarge the present excellent repertory of the violin with compositions containing violin harmony.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Wind Plucked Turkeys.

Six turkeys slain that morning revolved slowly on a kind of spit in a small room on the ground floor of a great poultry farm, and as they revolved they were miraculously plucked. Invisible hands stripped off their plumage. The air was gray with falling feathers.

"Wind plucked turkeys—it is an experiment," said the foreman. "Those birds are being plucked by cross currents of electrically driven air. But the feathers come off very slowly. The experiment is not a commercial success.

"For many years we have tried to invent a poultry plucking machine. We have not succeeded well. Air plucking seems to be the idea that offers most promise, but it still wants a lot of working out. Yet eventually I have no doubt these turkeys that now take a half hour and cost 10 cents apiece to pluck by air will be air plucked in a few seconds and at no more cost than 10 cents a thousand."—New York Press.

A Photograph of Mars.

Of the photographs taken of the canals on the planet Mars a writer says: "Professor Lowell was good enough to send me three of his wonderful direct photographs of Mars taken last July, which are only four millimeters (nearly one-sixth of an inch) in diameter, and most wonderful photos they are. They show the snow caps and the darker and lighter shading, but with normal sight I can see a number of most beautiful lines—the canals—and, with the aid of a very low power head glass not strong enough to show the fiber of the paper, I can count thirty-six of these perfectly straight lines, one of them double."

A School For Nobles.

Evidence that China is moving along toward a constitutional government is contained in the following item from a Shanghai daily newspaper: "Tao Hsi, vice president of the ministry of education, has recommended to the throne the establishment of a peerage school for the study of political economy and civil laws. Only sons of princes and dukes and other nobles shall be admitted into this school, which is to prepare its students for membership in the future Chinese house of lords."

The Caspian Sink.

It appears from the careful measurements of level recently made by Lieutenant Colonel Parfitky along the line of the Transcaspian railway that the level of the Caspian sea is eighty-three feet below the level of the oceans. If the Caspian sea were filled with water up to ocean level the town of Krasnovodsk, which stands on its shore, would be submerged, for the mean elevation of that town is between sixty-three and sixty-four feet below ocean level.

Fencing a Continent.

After five years' work the great transcontinental rabbit proof fence has been completed in West Australia. Its length is 2,036 miles, and the cost of its erection has been very nearly $1,250,000. It is furnished at intervals of five miles with systems of traps in which hundreds of rabbits are captured and destroyed daily.—Lloyd's Weekly.

The Fatal Bowsprit.

Now, if you have never reefed a mizzen jigger, as we generally call it in a small boat running off under a close reef of sail in a seaway, you have never done an acrobatic stunt that rocks out the most thrilling feats of the arena. It is not so bad as laying out on the headspar to shift a jib sheet, the wet is left out, and therefore it is a job not so detested by seamen. Working on the bowsprit is most dreaded of all sea jobs. More men lose their lives off that spar than from all other parts of the ship together. Driving along she takes a plunge into it, at the same time the heavy foot of the sail bangs across, knocking off your hold, and overboard you go to be swept under and trodden upon by the swift rushing forefoot. A dark night on a jib boom with a half mumzled sail storming about and the spar end pitching, bucking and forking the brine at every plunge—there may be nastier places; if so, they have never crossed my hawse.—T. F. Day in Outing Magazine.

—A meeting of the City Council will likely be held this week. The regular meeting night is on Monday, March 2nd, but it may be necessary to meet at an earlier date.

ONTARIO-RICE LAKE DIVISION

SECTION NO. 3.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

Sealed Tenders addressed to the undersigned and endorsed "Tender for Trent Canal," will be received until 16 o'clock on Thursday, 12th March, 1903, for the works connected with the construction of Section No. 3, Ontario-Rice Lake Division of the Canal.

Plans, specifications, and the form of the contract to be entered into, can be seen on an after the 6th February, 1903, at the office of the Chief Engineer of the Department of Railways and Canals, Ottawa, at the office of the Superintending Engineer, Trent Canal, Peterborough, Ont., and at the offices of Mr. J. B. Brophy, Division Engineer, Trenton, Ont., at which places forms of tender may be obtained.

Parties tendering will be required to accept the fair wages Schedule prepared or to be prepared by the Department of Labor, which Schedule will form part of the contract.

Contractors are requested to bear in mind that tenders will not be considered, unless made strictly in accordance with the printed forms, and in the case of firms, unless there are attached the actual signatures, the nature of the occupation, and place of residence of each member of the firm.

An accepted bank cheque for the sum of $10,000 must accompany each tender, which sum will be forfeited, if the party tendering declines entering into contract for the work, at the rates stated in the offer submitted.

The cheque thus sent in will be returned to the respective contractors whose tenders are not accepted.

The advertisement dated the 16th January, 1903, is hereby cancelled.

The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

By order,
L. K. JONES,
Secretary.

Capital, $250,000.00 — 1,000,000 Shares 25c. each.

Good coal stock is a safe and sure investment. Galbraith shares are especially attractive.

Modest Capitalization — Large Coal Reserves

This Company organized under the laws of the Northwest Territories of Canada, owns and operates the Galbraith mine located at Lundbreck, Alta. They have four vertical seams of coal traversing their property, aggregating over 40 feet in thickness. Three of these seams are developed to a depth of 350 feet, and as they pass through the Company's lands for nearly a mile, some idea of the amount of coal may be had.

Shipping Steadily

The present output of the mine is about 200 tons per day. These shipments will be rapidly increased, as the C.P.R. allows its cars to be loaded with coal for points in the U. S.

We are selling a limited number of these shares at the extremely low price of

SYNOPSIS Of CANADIAN NORTHWEST HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an Agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of a homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father or mother.

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the agent for the district of each intention.

Six months' notice in writing must be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa, of intention to apply for patent.

The Opal Serpent

By FERGUS HUME,

Author of "The Mystery of a Hansom Cab," "The Mandarin's Fan," Etc.

COPYRIGHT, 1905, By C. W. DILLINGHAM COMPANY

CONTINUED.

"Upon my word I don't know," he said. "Just as I was showing him a brooch I wished to pawn he went off."

"What kind of a brooch?" asked the girl, also perplexed.

Paul took the case out of his breast pocket, where it had been since the previous day. "My mother sent it to me," he explained. "You see, she guesses that I am hard up, and, thanks to my father, she can't send me money. This piece of jewelry she has had for many years, but as it is rather old fashioned she never wears it. So she sent it to me, hoping that I might get £10 or so on it. A friend of mine wished to buy it, but I was anxious to get it back again so that I might return it to my mother. Therefore I thought your father might lend me money on it."

Sylvia examined the brooch with great attention. It was evidently of Indian workmanship, delicately chased and thickly set with jewels. The serpent, which was apparently wriggling across the stout gold pin of the brooch, had its broad back studded with opals, large in the center of the body and small at head and tail. These were set round with tiny diamonds, and the head was of chased gold, with a ruby tongue. Sylvia admired the workmanship and the jewels and turned the brooch over. On the flat smooth gold underneath she found the initial "R." scratched with a pin. This she showed to Paul. "I expect your mother made this mark to identify the brooch," she said.

"My mother's name is Anne," replied Paul, looking more puzzled than ever—"Anne Beecot. Why should she mark this with an initial which has nothing to do with her name?"

"Perhaps it is a present," suggested Sylvia.

Paul snapped the case to and replaced it in his pocket. "Perhaps it is," he said. "However, when I next write to my mother I'll ask her where she got the brooch. She has had it for many years," he added musingly, "for I remember playing with it when a small boy."

"Don't tell your mother that my father fainted."

"Why not? Does it matter?"

Sylvia folded her slender hands and looked straight in front of her. For some time they had been seated on a bench in a retired part of the gardens, and the laughter of playing children, the music of the band playing the merriest airs from the last musical comedy, came faintly to their ears. "I think it does matter," said the girl seriously. "For some reason my father wants to keep himself as quiet as possible. He talks of going away."

"Going away? Oh, Sylvia, and you never told me."

"He only spoke of going away when I came to see how he was this morning," she replied. "I wonder if his fainting has anything to do with this determination. He never talked of going away before."

Paul wondered also. It seemed strange that after so unusual an event the old man should turn restless and wish to leave a place where he had lived for over twenty years. "I'll come and have an explanation," said Paul after a pause.

"I think that will be best, dear. Father said that he would like to see you again and told Bart to bring you in if he saw you."

"I'll call today—this afternoon, and perhaps your father will explain. And now, Sylvia, that is enough about other people and other things. Let us talk of ourselves."

Sylvia turned her face with a fond smile. She was a delicate and dainty little lady, with large gray eyes and soft brown hair. Her complexion was transparent, and she had little color in her cheeks. With her oval face, her thin nose and charming mouth she looked very pretty and sweet. But it was her expression that Paul loved. That was a trifle sad, but when she smiled her looks changed as an overcast sky changes when the sun bursts through the clouds. Her figure was perfect, her hands and feet showed marks of breeding, and, although her gray dress was as demure as any worn by a Quakeress, who looked bright and merry in the sunshine of her lover's presence. Everything about Sylvia was dainty and neat and exquisitely clean, but she was hopelessly out of the fashion. It was this odd independence in her dress which constituted another charm in Paul's eyes.

The place was too public to indulge in lovemaking, and it was very tantalizing to sit near this vision of beauty without gaining the delight of a kiss. Paul feasted his eyes, and held Sylvia's gray gloved hand under cover of her dress. Further he could not go.

"Can you be jealous, Paul?" Sylvia asked suddenly.

"Horribly! You don't know half my bad qualities. I am poor and needy and ambitious and jealous and"—

"There, there. I won't hear you run yourself down. You are the best boy in the world."

"I certainly have found an enchanted princess sleeping in a jealously guarded castle. What would your father say did he know?"

Sylvia looked startled. "I am afraid of my father," she replied indirectly. "You, he is so strange. Sometimes he seems to love me and at other times to hate me. We have nothing in common. I love books and art and gayety and dresses. But father only cares for jewels. He has a lot down in the cellar. I have never seen them, you know," added Sylvia, looking at her lover, "nor have Deborah or Bart. But they are there. Bart and Deborah say so."

"Has your father ever said so?"

"No. He won't speak of his business in the cellar. When the shop is closed at 7 he sends Bart away home and locks Deborah and me in the house. That is," she explained anxiously, lest Paul should think her father a tyrant, "he locks the door which leads to the shop. We can walk all over the house. But there we stop till next morning, when father unlocks the door at 7 and Bart takes down the shutters. We have lived like that for years. On Sunday evenings, however, father does not go to the cellar, but takes me to church. He has supper with me upstairs and then locks the door at 10."

"But he sleeps upstairs?"

"No. He sleeps in the cellar."

"Impossible. There is no accommodation for sleeping there."

Sylvia explained. "There is another cellar—a smaller one—off the large place he has the safes in. The door is in a dark corner almost under the street line. This smaller cellar is fitted up as a bedroom, and my father has slept there all his life. I suppose he is afraid of his jewels being stolen. I don't think it is good for his health," added the girl wisely, "for often in the morning he looks ill and his hands shake."

"Sylvia, does your father drink alcohol?"

"Oh, no, Paul! He is a teetotaler and is very angry at those who drink to excess."

"He either drinks or smokes opium," thought Paul on hearing Sylvia's denial. But he said nothing to her of this.

"I must go home now," she said, rising.

"Oh, no, not yet," he implored.

"Well, then, I'll stay for a few minutes longer, because I have something to say," she remarked and sat down again. "Paul, do you think it is quite honorable for you and me to be engaged without the consent of my father?"

"Well," hesitated Beecot, "I don't think it is as it should be. Were I well off I should not fear to tell your father everything, but as I am a pauper he would forbid my seeing you did he learn that I had raised my eyes to you. But if you like I'll speak, though it may mean our parting forever."

"Paul," she laid a firm, small hand on his arm, "not all the fathers in the world will keep me from you. Often I have intended to tell all, but my father is so strange. Sometimes he goes whole days without speaking to me, and at times he speaks harshly, though I do nothing to deserve rebuke. I am afraid of my father," said the girl, with a shiver. "I said so before, and I say so again. He is a strange man, and I don't understand him at all. I wish I could marry you and go away altogether."

"Well, let us marry if you like, though we will be poor."

"No," said Sylvia sorrowfully. "After all, strange and harsh though my father is, he is still my father, and at times he is kind. I must stay with him to the end."

"What end?"

Sylvia shook her head still more sorrowfully. "Who knows? Paul, my father is afraid of dying suddenly."

"By violence?" asked Beecot, thinking of Deborah's talk.

"I can't say. But every day after 6 he goes to church and prays all alone. Deborah told me, as often she has seen him leave the church. Then he is afraid of every stranger who enters the shop. I don't understand it," cried the girl passionately. "I don't like it. I wish you would marry me and take me away, Paul; but, oh, how selfish I am!"

"My own, I wish I could. But the money"—

"Oh, never mind the money. I must get away from that house. If it was not for Deborah I would be still more afraid. I often think my father is mad. But there," Sylvia rose and shook out her skirts, "I have no right to talk so and only do so to you that you may know what I feel. I'll speak to my father myself and say we are engaged. If he forbids our marriage I shall run away with you, Paul," said poor Sylvia, the tears in her eyes.

Paul was so enchanted with this speech that he would have defied public opinion by embracing her there and then, but Sylvia walked away rapidly down Gwynne street and shook her head with a pursed up mouth when Paul took a few steps after her. Recognizing that it would be wise not to follow her to the shop lest the suspicious old man should be looking out, Beecot went on his homeward way.

When he drew near his Bloomsbury garret he met Grexon Hay, who was sauntering along swinging his cane. "I was just looking for you," he said, greeting Paul in his usual self contained manner; "it worries me to think you are so hard up, though I'm not a fellow given to sentiment as a rule. Let me lend you a fiver."

Paul shook his head. "Thank you all the same."

"Well, then, sell me the brooch."

Beecot suddenly looked squarely at Hay, who met his gaze calmly. "Do you know anything of that brooch?" he asked.

"What do you mean? It is a brooch of Indian workmanship; that is all I know. I want to give a lady a present, and if you will sell it to me I'll take it, to help you, thus killing two birds at one shot."

"I don't want to sell it," said Paul, looking round. His eyes fell on a respectable man across the road who appeared to be a workman, as he had a bag of tools on his shoulder. He was looking into a shop window, but also—as Paul suddenly thought—seemed to be observing him and Hay. However, the incident was not worth noticing, so he continued his speech to Grexon. "I tried to pawn it with Aaron Norman," he said.

"Well, what did you get on it?" asked Hay, with a yawn.

"Nothing. The old man fainted when I showed him the brooch. That is why I asked you if you knew anything strange about the article."

Hay shook his head, but looked curiously at Beecot. "Do you know anything yourself?" he asked. "You seem so have something on your mind about that brooch."

"There is something queer about it," said Paul. "Why should Aaron Norman faint when he saw it?"

Hay yawned again. "You had better ask your one eyed friend. I think you said he was one eyed."

"He is, and a frightened sort of man. But there's nothing about that opal serpent to make him faint."

"Perhaps he did so because it is in the shape of a serpent," suggested Grexon, "a constitutional failing perhaps. Some people hate cats and others fluttering birds. Your one eyed friend may have a loathing of snakes and can't bear to see the representation of one."

"It might be that," said Beecot, after a pause. "Aaron is a strange sort of chap. A man with a past, I should say."

"You make me curious," said Grexon, laughing in a bored manner. "I think I'll go to the shop myself and have a look at him. Good day."

The more Paul thought of the episode of the brooch the stranger it seemed, and Sylvia's talk of her father's queer habits did not make Paul wonder the less. However, he resolved to write to his mother and was just mounting his stairs to do so when he heard a "Beg pardon, sir," and behold the workingman, bag of tools, pipe and all.

"Beg pardon, sir," said the man civilly, "but that gentleman you was a-talking to—know his name, sir?"

"What the devil's that to you?" asked Paul angrily.

"Nothing, sir, only he owes me a little bill."

"Go and ask him for it, then."

"I don't know his address, sir."

"Oh, be hanged!" Paul went on, when the man spoke again.

"He's what I call a man on the market, sir. Have a care," and he departed quickly.

Heart Strength

Heart Strength, or Heart Weakness, means Nerve Strength, or Nerve Weakness—nothing more. Positively, not one weak heart in a hundred is, in fact, actually diseased. It is almost always a hidden tiny little nerve that really is all at fault. This obscure nerve—the Cardiac, or Heart Nerve—simply needs, and can have, more power, more stability, more controlling, more governing strength. Without that the Heart must continue to fail, and the stomach and kidneys also have those same controlling nerves.

This clearly explains why, as a medicine, Dr. Shoop's Restorative has in the past done so much for weak and ailing Hearts. Dr. Shoop first sought the cause of all this painful, palpitating, suffocating heart distress. Dr. Shoop's Restorative—this popular prescription—is alone directed to these weak and wasting nerve centers. It builds, strengthens; it allows real, genuine heart help.

If you would have strong Hearts, strong digestions, strengthen those nerves—re-establish them as needed, with

Bruce Hutchison's Dog Poisoned

The cowardly and poisonous dog poisoner is still at his dirty work. In darkness, secrecy and cowardice. The latest victim to cross of these enemy is Mr. Bruce Hutchison, who has lost a valuable fox terrier dog poisoned. He discovered the pet lying in his yard on Sherbrooke street. Mr. Hutchison thought very much of the dog, and if he could ascertain who did the dastardly deed, it's even betting that some one will be wearing an eye heavily draped in mourning.

Stop that tickling Cough! Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure will surely stop it, and with perfect safety. It is so thoroughly harmless Dr. Shoop tells mothers to use nothing else even with very young babies. The wholesome green leaves and tender stems of a lung healing mountain evergreen furnish the curative properties of Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. It calms the cough, and heals the sensitive bronchial membranes. No opium, no chloroform, nothing harsh used to injure or suppress. Demand Dr. Shoop's. Take no other. All Dealers.

Y.M.C.A. Fellowship Club Tea

The Y.M.C.A. Strangers and Fellowship Club's tea, provided Sunday night by the ladies of George Street church was a great success. Mr. R. F. Harding acted very ably as chairman. Those present were Mr. H. E. Harding, Mr. H. C. Wright, Mr. H. Wright, Mr. Smith, Mr. Fox, Mr. J. A. Oke, Mr. A. Weart, Mr. Gobbs, Mr. J. H. Scriver, Mr. Daly, Mr. Little, Mr. S. Wade, Mr. Gale, Mr. Lang, Mr. C. Osborne, Mr. G. Wright and Mr. Arthur Rodgers.

All Saints' Church Chimes

The Men's Association of All Saints Church met last night.

The Junior Boys' Club will meet to-morrow at 7.30 o'clock. Cottage meeting will be held the same evening at eight o'clock.

The Woman's Auxiliary will meet on Thursday at 2.30 o'clock. Evensong will be held at 7.45, followed by choir practice, at 8.30 o'clock.

On Friday the Junior Auxiliary will meet at four o'clock and the Senior Boys' Club will meet at 7.30 o'clock.

Why the Times was Late

We have to ask the indulgence of our readers for the non-delivery of the Times yesterday morning to many of our subscribers, owing to some trouble with the fuse wires, which caused the lights to go out. This of course, prevented all possibility of using our type setting machines until at such a late hour that some seven or eight of our carrier boys, who attend the Collegiate Institute, had to leave before taking all their papers.

New Band to Give Concert

A concert will be held in the Y.M.C.A. Hall to-morrow evening under the auspices of the Peterborough band. The band is a new organization having been formed about Christmas time, but it has already reached a high state of efficiency. Some of the best talent in the city will contribute to to-morrow night's programme.

The following artists, of which are some of Peterborough's best, will assist: Mrs. Davidson, soprano soloist, of St. Andrew's, who possesses a fine voice; Mr. G. Chandler, the well-known silver tenor of St. John's; Nat Greenhalgh, fine baritone, of St. John's; Mr McLaren, the favorite humorist; Mr. G. Howarth, of the Opera House, violin soloist; Mr. Lynch, who always pleases, elocutionist, and selections by the band.

IN SHORT FORM FOR BUSY READERS

—The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A. met last night.

—A meeting of the Civic Charity Board was held yesterday evening.

—The annual meeting of the Peterborough Light and Power Company was held yesterday.

—The Literary Society of the T.A.S. will not meet on Wednesday of this week, but on Monday, evening of next week.

West Flamboro will reduce the licensed hotels in the township from four to two.

—The ladies of St. Andrew's Women's Foreign Missionary Society will hold an "At Home" at the residence of Mrs. Carter, 530 Bolivar street, this afternoon, from 3.30 till 6 o'clock.

—The Times is indebted to Hon. A. G. Morine, K.C., for a copy of the St. John's, Newfoundland, Evening Telegram, of date Feb. 13, 1908, for which we wish to return our thanks.

The men's fellowship tea of St. John's church next Sunday evening will be of an unusually interesting nature. His Lordship Bishop Reeve of Toronto will be in attendance and also a large number of clergymen who will be in the city for the ordination ceremony.

—The following delegates from George Street Methodist Church will attend the Ontario Alliance Convention in Toronto to-day and Wednesday: Messrs. George Powell, Thos. Moore, Thos. McFadden and Wm. Might.

—At this evening's Girls' Guild public meeting in St. John's school house, Mr. Mowphet and Mr. Chandler will repeat, by special request, their duet of Sunday evening, "Tarry With Me." Mr. J. H. Burnham will read from Thompson Seton's "Lives of the Hunted," and Drummond's "Johnnie Courteau."

I wish that I might talk with all sick ones about the actual cause of Stomach, Heart, and Kidney ailments. To explain in person how weak Stomach nerves leads to Stomach weakness. I am sure would interest all. And it is the same with weak Hearts or Weak Kidneys. This is why my prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative—so promptly reaches ailments of the Stomach, Heart, and Kidneys. It is wrong to drug the Stomach or stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. These weak inside nerves simply need more strength. My Restorative is the only prescription made exclusively for these nerves. Next to seeing you personally, will be to mail you free, my new booklet entitled, "What To Do." I will also send samples of my Restorative as well. Write for the book to-day. It will surely interest you. Address Dr. Shoop, Box 8, Racine, Wis. All Dealers.

Mr. R. M. Roy has received a letter from the Banning School of Expression of Denver, Colorado, asking for a photograph of Mr. Henry Lydlow, as City Clerk. The photo was reproduced in the Dramatic Mirror and the proprietor of the school was so favorably impressed with it that he wanted one of the originals for his school collection.

—The following from the Renfrew Mercury will make our local fox-hunters blink with envy: Mr. J. G. Harkness was lately on a fur buying trip up at Wilno, and became the proud possessor of a black fox skin that is valued at $850. It was in the hands of an Indian, who had poisoned the animal and then followed it for two days and a night, till he found the prize, dead, as a reward for his persistence.

Personal

Mr. G. B. Van Blaricom returned to Toronto yesterday.

Mrs. Wood, of Cavan, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. W. Eyres.

Miss Ida Mulholland has returned from Toronto, where she spent several days.

Mr. James Elliott left yesterday for Cookeville, Quebec, where he has accepted a position.

Lindsay Post: Mayor Rush, of Peterborough, was a visitor to town last evening.

Mrs. J. H. McClellan and Mrs. Gardner, of Peterborough, are staying at the Russell.—Mrs. R. R. Hall, Peterborough, is staying at the Russell House for a few weeks.—Ottawa Journal.

Mrs. F. Fox, of Toronto, is the guest of her daughter, Mrs. P. J. Kennedy, Concession street, East City.

Rev. Canon Davidson left at noon yesterday for Norwood, where he will assist at the mission held there.

Mr. K. M. Dunoon and Mrs. John Mervin were in Lindsay yesterday attending the funeral of the late Mrs. David Donoon.

The Rev. J. P. Falconer, B.A., of Toronto, spent yesterday in the city on his way from Hastings, where he preached Sunday.

Mr. Stanley Mills and bride, of Souris, Man., who have been visiting his brother, Mr. Lorne Mills, Water street, left yesterday for Lindsay, to spend a few days.

Rev. J. W. Baker, of Halloway, Ont., and his daughter, Mrs. H. P. Kennedy, of this city, have gone to Chicago, as Mrs. Kennedy's brother, Mr. James Barker, is seriously ill with pneumonia.

Mr. William Miller, teller of the local Bank of Toronto staff for the past few years, has received instructions to report at head office. This means that Mr. Miller is to be transferred from Peterborough to some other branch. His many friends here will regret to hear this report.

The many friends in the city of Lieut. R. H. Henderson will be pleased to hear of his appointment on the permanent force of the Canadian Army Service at Halifax, with the rank of lieutenant. For the past eighteen months Lieut. Henderson has been one of the staff officers on the London Barracks, filling the position of Instructor.

Mission Service in St. John's

Commencing on Sunday, March 8th, and concluding on Wednesday, March 18th, a mission will be held at St. John's Church.

Previous missions have been held in Peterborough, one at St. John's in 1881 conducted by Rev. O. F. Ford of Toronto, and one in 1890, conducted by Rev. T. R. Du Vernet, now Bishop of Columbia; also at St. Luke's Church in 1898, conducted by Rev. G. O. Throop.

Mark Street Church Meetings

Last night the Missionary Committee of the Epworth League of Mark Street Church were in charge of the meeting, after which the Sabbath School Committee met.

Prayer meeting will be held to-morrow night at eight o'clock. A joint meeting of the Trustee Board and the choir will be held at the close of the meeting.

The regular monthly meeting of the Ladies' Aid will be held at the residence of Mrs. Westlake, 189 Brock street.

A cottage prayer meeting will be held on Friday night at the residence of Mr. E. A. Wicker, Waterford street.

$100 Reward, $100

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Obituary

Mr. Jas. Heaslip of this city, is mourning the sad loss of his father, Mr. Phillip Heaslip, who passed away early on the morning of Friday last at his residence, King street, Gananoque, Ont., at the age of 79 years. The late Mr. Heaslip was the police magistrate in Gananoque. He was born in the north of Ireland, and in 1844 came to Canada. He is survived by a widow, four sons and two daughters, namely, James, of this city; Will, of Toronto; Fred, of Ottawa; Byron, of Gananoque; Miss Mary and Miss Maggie, at home.

Popular Pastor's Regretted Resignation

Rev. A. B. Brace, the energetic and popular pastor of Park Street Baptist Church, has announced that he will resign the care of the church he has so ably looked after and brought to such a high state of efficiency, both religiously and financially. During his incumbency Mr. Brace has almost wrought miracles in the way of advancing both the spiritual and temporal standing of the Park Street Church, and his resignation will leave a vacancy very hard to fill. His departure will also be keenly felt by the local members of the Orange Order, as he has always been an ardent member, and has frequently made stirring addresses to the brethren.

THE OUTING MAGAZINE FOR MARCH

The Outing Magazine for March has a solid interest that will make the casual reader pause for reflection. Its photographs make it a veritable picture gallery of modern life. Among the writers are Mr. Vance Thompson who, after living the life of a gondolier in Venice, describes this life in March issue; Robert Dunn who tells of a sea that breeds volcanoes, under the title of "On the Chase for Volcanoes"; Ralph D. Paine who has selected from old sea diaries and logs some brand new facts that shed an interesting and valuable light upon our early history; his March article is entitled "The Privateersman of '76;" Miss Agnes C. Laut, who describes woman's part in national development under the title of "The Pioneer Woman of the West."

Miss Zona Gale's informing article upon "How to Make a Garden" will be found of very timely service to people of moderate means who would make artistic gardens that incorporate some of the latest ideas in gardening methods.

While travellingby automobile over Caesar's Old North Road from London to Edinburgh, Mr. Frank Presbrey had a chance to see the Englishman at home in hisunguarded moments. His article entitled "An Intimate Excursion," is at once delightful and informing. This narrative, like the preceding ones by Mr. Presbrey in The Outing Magazine, shows how much enjoyable travel over great distances the automobile has made possible to folks possessed of a moderate sum of cash and of time.

Other articles in the number are "Some Ancient American Giants," by J. Carter Beard; "Fighters in Real Life", by Robert Edgren; "The Maligned Everglades," by William Todd; "The Dog with a Bad Name", a story of Labrador, by Norman Duncan.

Brain Power

Increased by Proper Feeding

A lady writer who not only has done good literary work, but reared a family found in Grape-Nuts the ideal food for brain work and to develop healthy children. She writes:

"I am an enthusiastic proclaimer of Grape-Nuts as a regular diet. I formerly had no appetite in the morning and for 8 years while nursing my four children, had insufficient nourishment for them.

"Unable to eat breakfast I felt faint later, and would go to the pantry and eat cold chops, sausage, cookies, doughnuts or anything I happened to find. Being a writer, at times my head felt heavy and my brain asleep.

"When I read of Grape-Nuts I began eating it every morning, also gave it to the children, including my 10 months old baby, who soon grew as fat as a little pig, good natured and contented.

"Within a week I had plenty of breast milk, and felt stronger within two weeks. I wrote evenings and feeling the need of sustained brain power, began eating a small saucer of Grape-Nuts with milk instead of my usual indigestible hot pudding, pie, or cake for dessert at night.

"Grape-Nuts did wonders for me and I learned to like it. I did not mind my housework or mother's cares, for I felt strong and full of "go". I grew plump, nerves strong, and when I wrote my brain was active and clear; indeed, the dull head pain never returned."

"There's a Reason."

AND THIS IS THE TIME TO BUY

MONEY IN A SAFE DEPOSIT BOX OR AN OLD STOCKINGS DOES NOT INCREAE YOUR WEALTH

February, 1908, is here and so is

The Pacific Fruit Cooling and Vaporizing Company, Incorporated for the purpose of cooling deciduous fruits and removing moisture from citrus fruits and keeping unde cold storage such fruits and othe food products from the time of receiving them from the fruit grower until loaded on car and taken away by the Railroad Company fo Eastern shipment

STUBBORN FACTS UNIMPEACHABLE

The loss in shipping deciduous and citrus fruits is enormous. The orange crop of Southern California alone is valued at $30,000,000. The government experts estimate that about 25 per cent. or $7,500,000, is lost every year by rough handling in picking and decay of fruit in transit to the Eastern markets. What a revenue of profit this loss would be to the shipper if it could be saved. Our process will save it. The same is true of the deciduous fruits of Northern California.

GREAT FORTUNES ARE MADE BY INVESTING IN NECESSITIES

Fruit is one of the necessities of our civilized life, and the company that can place the fruit in the markets of the world in the best shape, in the quickest time, at the lowest rate, has a fortune within its grasp. The Armour Company in ten years made $5,000,000 net handling California fruit in refrigerator cars. Our process is as necessary to the fruit grower as the refrigerator car. Therefore we ought to receive as large a revenue for handling the same commodity.

GET IN WHILE THE ENTERPRISE IS NEW

No wiser words were ever spoken than these:—"The chief point about getting rich is to invest in a new enterprise that is being managed by successful men, who have some of their own money in the deal." "One good investment is worth a lifetime of labor". Think over this sentence. A man's daily labor will never make him rich. He must have some money at work for him. Money invested never gets sick, keeps no holidays, never goes on strike. There are three things that ought to guide you: First, invest with honest men; second, invest with men of sound judgment; third, invest under conditions where you get your full share of profits the business yields. Get into a company whose destiny is guided by men of this stamp when its future is before and not behind it. Here is the secret of fortune. Plant the seed of your investment in the soil of opportunity, at the season of greatest promise when the enterprise is new. Give ounce of honor in the hearts of the men managing this company is pledged to give

A SQUARE DEAL FOR EVERY INVESTOR

There will be no preferred stock. Every dollar invested will be worth 1 cents on the dollar. Our Directors, honourable business men, will not allow any tricks of trade by which the small investor can be frozen out. The commercial standing proves they are not "grafters". The poor man's $100 100 shares will have the same standing in court as the rich man's $10,000, and they will draw the same proportional dividend. We court investigation.

EVERY RICH MAN IN THE WORLD WAS ONCE POOR OR HIS GRANDFATHER WAS.

THE OPPORTUNITY OF A LIFETIME

To get into a company that has the certainty of growth, the assurance of large and quick returns, a rapid advance in the price of stock, to make it an exceptional chance for big profits on a small investment. This is an ideal investment for the wage earner as well as the rich man. Moderate sums invested now will bring splendid returns in the near future. The logic of all this is

DON'T WAIT

Time is the essence of this proposition. The stock will certainly double in a short time. Jay Gould once said: "When you see a good investment don't wait to see if it pans out well, for by that time other people see it, too, and you have lost your opportunity."

WOMEN AS INVESTORS

Some of the heaviest stockholders in our company are women of keen business instincts. One lady in Los Angeles bought 5,000 shares. In a few days she returned and bought 5,000 more. This lady has never made a mistake in her business ventures. Women are good investors because they have courage to follow their convictions. Their intuitions are keener and truer than man's logic. Men may prevent her voting, but they can't prevent her drawing dividends on her investment. This is one branch of trade where sex, culture, or color does not count.

MANAGEMENT

The affairs of this company are in the hands of men of honesty, ability, courage and good business judgment—men who have made a success of their own business—men whose business reputation is A1 in the commercial circle in which they move.

These men are "square" and "shrewd". They will not deceive you nor will they be deceived themselves. Because of the promise of growth, permanency and profit this business offers they have united their money, energy, time and business experience to make this enterprise a grand success.

Notwithstanding the Financial Crisis, Investments made Six Months ago have Advanced

150 PER CENT

The next six months promises to far exceed the past six months

If you investigate this proposition you will surely invest.

WE COURT INVESTIGATION

Investments can be made in amounts of from $25 to $4,000

Havelock Citizens Vote to Increase the License Fees

By Nearly Three to One Townspeople Favor Increase

To Squeeze Them Out

Havelock, Ont., Feb. 25.—The vote on the by-law to increase the license fees from $250 to $750, and thus practically force the three bars here to close, was taken yesterday. It resulted thus:

For the by-law..... 153
Against the by-law..... 55

Majority for by-law..... 98

The hotel people talk of protesting the by-law, on account of the poll not being closed on standard time.

There was great excitement over the outcome. The town was sorry when it did not vote on local option, so it took this other course. The hotelkeepers demanded the petition to see whose names were on it. There are three hotels in town, and one at least will close up on May 1, rather than pay the high license.

CORNWALL TO FOLLOW SUIT.

Cornwall, Feb. 25.—The temperance people of Cornwall headed by the local clergymen are anxious to have the number of licensed hotels reduced. At a special meeting of the Town Council five of the clergymen, Rev. Dr. Barkwell and Rev. N. H. McGillivray (Presbyterians), Rev. T. J. Sykes and Rev. S. Gower Poole (Anglicans), and Rev. C. Sheldan (Baptist) appeared as a deputation and asked the Council to pass a by-law reducing the number of hotels within the town limits. They claimed that some of the hotels were only saloons or drinking places.

This by-law, to become effective this year, must be passed before March 1. So far the Council has no decided upon any line of action. It is possible that they will increase the standard of accommodation and raise the license fee, which is now $450. Cornwall now has eleven licensed hotels, and two shop licenses within the town limits, with three licensed houses in the suburbs. If the license is increased very much some of these may be forced out of business.

Eight Hundred Men Are Eager to go to British Columbia

To the unemployed men in Toronto: If you are out of work and would go to British Columbia to work on a farm or any other works, send me a postcard with your full name and address, state age, married or single, use postcards only, addressed to Secretary British Welcome League, 87 Front street west.

Toronto, Feb. 26. — The foregoing paragraph was given one insertion as an advertisement in one Toronto paper on Saturday.

To-day Mr. Albert Chamberlain and Mr. Dickson, joint secretary of the British Welcome League, brought the results into the Star office. It took a good-sized valise to hold the answers from unemployed Toronto people who said they wanted to go to British Columbia.

"There are over 800 post-cards here in answer to that one ad," said Mr. Chamberlain, opening the valise.

RESULT OF CONTROVERSY.

The snowball grew out of a discussion which took place at the meeting of charities head Tuesday. At that meeting Mr. Chamberlain criticised the immigration work of the Salvation Army, and in particular the fact that they were at this moment bringing a load of several hundred men from England to British Columbia, while there were thousands of men in Toronto who could not get work.

Col. Howell said the Toronto unemployed would not go to British Columbia. Mr. Chamberlain said they would, and his advertisement, given above, was inserted on Saturday just to prove his contention.

SHALL CITY CHARTER A TRAIN?

A suggestion has been made that the city, or Employers' Association, or other organization, should charter a train for the purpose of taking to British Columbia all the Toronto unemployed who wish to go.

"Are you going to press that?" Mr. Chamberlain was asked.

"Here are the facts," he said, tapping the valise. "It's up to the authorities to do something."

"I'll guarantee that 80 per cent. of of the 800 answering would actually go to British Columbia, if they got the chance," said Secretary Dickson. "They were around the League all day yesterday begging us to tell them when they could start."

Mr. Dickson pointed out with feeling that already the 1908 tide of immigration to Canada has begun. 1,200 immigrants having sailed for Canada yesterday, despite the fact that thousands here are out of work.

"It's the bonus system that's doing it," he complained.

MET AT THE BARRACKS.

A meeting between Mr. Chamberlain and Colonel Howell, the head of the immigration department of the Salvation Army, took place this morning in the latter's office.

"You can get people to ask to be sent anywhere if you will pay their fares," said Colonel Howell.

"Why is the Salvation Army advertising in England for men to go to British Columbia? Why is it bringing men out here, when I have in my hand the names of eight hundred who will go to those positions?" asked Mr. Chamberlain.

"We are advertising because of a special arrangement with the British Columbia Government," replied the Colonel. "Our total immigration into that Province for the coming year will be 650, and for them we can provide work, though I concede that, in view of the newly-arisen conditions there, I think the demand could have been satisfied by the local supply, had we known what things were to be like at present."

Continuing, Colonel Howell said that labor conditions on the Pacific coast were not materially better than they are in Ontario to-day. A man has been sent over the ground by the Army, and that is his conclusion. It is possible that 3,000 or 4,000 men may be required by the Grand Trunk Pacific in a short time.

"I don't see the advantage of packing a special train load of people out there when you don't know what's going to become of them after their arrival," he said. "We are not responsible for the presence of many of those 800 who want to go."

GREAT BRITAIN says
NO ALUM IN FOOD and strictly prohibits the sale of alum baking powder—
So does France
So does Germany

The U. S. Congress has made the sale of alum foods illegal in Washington (District of Columbia), and alum baking powders are everywhere recognized as injurious.

To protect yourself against alum, when ordering baking powder,
Say plainly—
ROYAL BAKING POWDER
and be very sure you get Royal.

Royal is the only Baking Powder made from Royal Grape Cream of Tartar. It adds to the digestibility and wholesomeness of the food.

C. P. R. COMPANY'S ATLANTIC LINER "EMPRESS OF IRELAND."

Montreal, Feb. 25.—The first sign of the immigration rush was received at the Canadian Pacific offices yesterday morning when a message was received from Liverpool stating that the Empress of Ireland had sailed from that port on Friday with a passenger list numbering over 1,300. This is the largest number that have come out on any one boat for several months and it may be fairly taken as a sign that the rush of immigrants to the great Canadian West is starting again.

The Kansas City Walk

Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 24.—Nineteen men started at noon to-day in a six-day walking match in Convention Hall here. They will walk ten hours daily. The more prominent of the pedestrians are: W. L. Beagland, Auburn, N.Y.; Tom Slater, Syracuse, N. Y., David Hartley, Peterborough, Ont.; Lightfoot, West, an Indian, Oklahoma; H. Norton, Newcastle, England; and J. E. Blake, Columbus, Ohio.

Conservative Nominations in East Riding

The Liberal-Conservative Association of East Peterborough will hold a convention at Norwood to-day to select candidates for the forthcoming Dominion and Provincial elections. Delegates have been appointed from every polling sub-division in that part of the county, and much enthusiasm prevails. The convention is called for one o'clock and a large number of Conservatives from the city will be in attendance, the majority of them going down on the noon train.

In the evening an open meeting will be held, at which the principal speakers will be Hon. George E. Foster, M.P., and Mr. J. P. Downey, M.P.P. Both these gentlemen are brilliant speakers and will probably be heard by a large audience.

The annual meeting of the Liberal-Conservative Association will be held in connection with the convention, when officers will be elected for the coming year.

Power Companys Elect Officers

At the annual meeting of the Peterborough Light & Power Co., Limited, and the Peterborough Hydraulic Power Co., Limited, and the Peterborough Radial Railway Co., yesterday, the following officers and directors were elected:

Peterborough Hydraulic Power Co., Ltd.—President, Robert Stuart; Vice-President, John Stuart, Secretary, Robert Gordon; Superintendent, J. H. Larmouth; H. P. Crowell, Geo. A. Cox, W. B. Denham.

Irate Father Has Youth Arrested--Wed His 14-Year-Old Girl

Brockville, Ont., Feb. 25. — This morning Chief Burke went to Prescott with a warrant for the arrest of Henry J. Graham, of that town, who, it is charged, swore to a false return before the issuer of marriage licenses here yesterday. He stated in his affidavit that the girl, Edith Easter, that he was about to marry, was of the legal age, but her father appeared on the same day and took out the warrant before P. M. Deacon, declaring that the girl is not yet fifteen years of age.

Both of the young couple are highly connected.

They were married here on Saturday.

Later.—Henry J. Graham is in the police cells here now awaiting trial before Police Magistrate Deacon, charged with swearing to false returns to secure a marriage certificate. He is a native of Prescott, 27 years of age.

They were married here Saturday by Rev. D. Strachan, minister of St. John's Presbyterian Church. The couple returned to Prescott, where they were met at the station by the girl's father, who took her home, after a wordy row with the angry husband. The father had opposed the marriage in Prescott, so the couple came to this town to be married.

The father has instructed H. A. Stewart, K.C., of this town, to take proceedings to have the marriage annulled. The accused, when he appears in the police court to-morrow, will be defended by J. A. Hutcheson, and an enlargement of the case will be asked for. An attempt is being made to secure bail this afternoon for the accused.

The couple were acquainted for years.

Many Curiosities will be Shown

A most interesting exhibition under auspices of the Young People's Guild of Knox Church will be held Monday afternoon, March 2nd. The products of China, Japan, India, Alaska and other countries will be on exhibition, including many curiosities kindly loaned by good workers in Montreal and Smith's Falls. Through the good offices of Rev. Dr. Langfeldt and Principal Hoyles, of Osgoode Hall, a large consignment will be sent from the Museum of Wycliffe College, Toronto. The exhibition promises to be one of unusual interest and the general public are invited to inspect the articles.

In the evening a rally will be held, to which the young people of similar organizations in the other churches have been invited. The Rev. A. E. Armstrong, the assistant secretary of Foreign Missions in Toronto, will give an address on "Young People and the World's Evangelization." The programme is as follows:

Opening Hymn.
Welcome by the President.
Prayer.
Scripture reading.
Solo by Miss Dawson.
Introduction of subject and speaker by Rev. Dr. Langfeldt.
Address by Rev. A. E. Armstrong, M.A.
Duet by Miss Bellegham and Mr. Brown.
Collection and selection by the choir.
Closing hymn
Benediction.

Women Who Wear Well.

It is astonishing how great a change a few years of married life often make in the appearance and disposition of many women. The freshness, the charm, the brilliance vanish like the bloom from a peach which is rudely handled. The matron is only a dim shadow, a faint echo of the charming maiden. There are two reasons for this change, ignorance and neglect. Few young women appreciate the shock to the system through the change which comes with marriage and motherhood. Many neglect to deal with the unpleasant pelvic drains and weaknesses which too often come with marriage and motherhood, not understanding that this secret drain is robbing the cheek of its freshness and the form of its fairness.

As surely as the general health suffers when there is derangement of the health of the delicate womanly organs, so surely when these organs are established in health the face and form at once witness to the fact in rounded comeliness. Nearly a million women have found health and happiness in the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It makes weak women strong and sick women well. Ingredients on label—contains no alcohol or harmful habit-forming drugs. Made wholly of those native, American, medicinal roots most highly recommended by leading medical authorities of all the several schools of practice for the cure of woman's peculiar ailments.

For nursing mothers or for those broken-down in health by too frequent bearing of children, also for the expectant mothers, to prepare the system for the coming of baby and making its advent easy and almost painless, there is no medicine quite so good as "Favorite Prescription." It can do no harm in any condition of the system. It is a most potent invigorating tonic and strengthening nervine nicely adapted to woman's delicate system by a physician of large experience in the treatment of woman's peculiar ailments.

POLICE

At yesterday's session of the police court William Wallace was charged with having been D. & D. on Monday. It seems that Wallace's love for liquor and incidental trouble was not settled during a ten days' retirement in the stone house overlooking Victoria Park. He proceeded, just as soon as released to acquire a good sturdy fighting jag, and got into a row. Wallace promised to shake the dust of Peterborough from his shoes if the magistrate would but let him go. He would go to his friends in Pittsburg. As Pittsburg can better pay for his keep than the local funds he was let go.

C.T.R. Employees are Pensioned Of.

It was noted some time ago in these columns that the Grand Trunk Railway had decided to retire on pension, from active service, employes seventy years of age. Yesterday two local employees were notified that they would be pensioned off on the first of next month. They are Messrs. Geo. Nottingham and Samuel McIlroy. These men have been gatemen at the Simcoe street crossing. Mr. McIlroy having held that position for the past seven years, and Mr. Nottingham for four years. For fifty-three years Mr. Nottingham has been a servant of the company, while Mr. McIlroy has faithfully served them for half a century.

The English Girl's Beautiful Complexion

The Canadian women who visit our English cousins marvel at the beautiful complexions seen over there. The secret, if secret it can be called, is simply that the English girl takes better care of her skin than the Canadian.

Greasy creams, pastes and powders find little favor with the English maiden.

The favorite complexion preparation is a simple wash made at home — the ingredients can be obtained at any Canadian drug store. This is the formula:

Obtain at your drug store Rose Water, 2 ounces; Cologne Spirits, 1 ounce; Eppotone (skin food), 4 ounces. Put the Eppotone in a pint of hot water (not boiling), and after dissolved, strain and let cool. Then add the Rose Water and Cologne Spirits.

The liquid imparts a most soothing and cooling sensation to the face and quickly softens the tender cuticle that is roughened by exposure to the atmosphere. It is absolutely harmless.

Nomination Day in New Brunswick Indicates a Hard Fight

St. John, N.B., Feb. 25. — This is nomination day, and present indications are that there will be contests in every county. In one county, Gloucester, there are three tickets in the field — straight Government, straight Opposition and an Independent. The Liberal ticket is backed by the Federal member, Mr. Turgeon, M.P. In Restigouche the Government ticket is opposed by two men, who are running as Liberals pure and simple, and who contend that the Government ticket, being Conservative Liberals, are not the genuine article.

In all the other counties it is a straight party fight between the Government and the Opposition.

With the election only a week away it is possible to pretty well size up the contest, and the general impression is that the Government will be returned with a substantial majority. The Opposition had only 8 of the 46 seats in the last House, and it is expected they will make some gains, but there is no reason to think they will come anywhere within reach of becoming the Government party.

The fight in St. John is one of the keenest, but to-day all the indications are that the Government will have a substantial majority here. They also stand to win in Carleton, Charlotte and Northumberland counties, which the Opposition party carried in the last contest.

There is a feeling that the Opposition leader, Mr. Hazen, has the fight of his life in Sunbury, and his defeat would not cause surprise to those who are closely following the contest. Neither would the defeat of his chief lieutenant, Fleming, in Carleton county. The Government's majority is likely to be somewhat reduced in the general result.

Gold Discovered in Beach Sands

Victoria, B.C., February 26. — If news brought here last night is true, Vancouver Island will see a stampede this summer unequalled since the Klondyke gold rush. On the beach sands of Wreck Bay, at Sidney Inlet, on the west coast, a bank of sand 100 feet high has been found rich in gold.

Walter Myles, an old-time miner of Colorado and Yukon, has just had numerous samples assayed and the results are sufficient to justify the wildest hopes of avarice. The sands pan out five to fifteen cents to the pan and the yield varies from $42.20 to $104.60 to the ton. On being furnished with assay figures, Myles staked out eight claims.

"In all my experience in Colorado and Yukon, I have never known this equalled," said Myles.

TEMPERANCE PEOPLE DEMAND REPEAL OF THREE-FIFTHS CLAUSE

Will Wait on Whitney Government To-day--Great Gathering of Ontario Alliance in Toronto

Toronto, Feb. 25.—"The repeal of the three-fifths clause," is the slogan of the annual convention of the Ontario branch of the Dominion Alliance, which opened in the Bond Street Congregational Church at 9.30 this morning. There were about 300 present when the president, Mr. Jos. Gibson, of Ingersoll, took the chair. About one thousand representatives from all over the Province are expected. The sessions will last until Wednesday afternoon.

To-morrow morning the delegates will wait upon the Government. The outstanding object of the visit to Queen's Park will be to ask for removal legislation with regard to the three-fifths clause, which has been a handicap to local optionists in many options throughout the Province.

THE PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS.

The fight on the temperance people to repeal the three-fifths by-law was the principal motto of the address of the president, Mr. Joseph Gibson. His line of argument was as follows:

Local option has proved a success in almost all parts of the Province. It has made good.

Members of the Provincial Government assured the temperance people that the repeal of the three-fifths vote would be in order if only the permanence of public sentiment in favor of local option were assured.

The failure of the liquor interests to secure the repeal of local option in more than one or two odd cases, and the evident strengthening of public opinion in favor of advanced temperance legislation all over the Province are guarantees of the permanence of the movement.

Therefore, we claim that the Government are in duty bound to repeal the by-law requiring a three-fifths vote.

Mr. Gibson referred in the most feeling words to the death of the late Mr. Marter, who had always been one of the stalwarts in the fight for temperance reform.

Dealing with the general subject of advanced legislation, he said that temperance people had always been accused of being narrow. The real truth of the matter, however, which showed who actually were the narrow people, the friends or the enemies of advanced measures, was being made known in these later days, when men like, Mr. William Whyte, general superintendent of the C.P.R. at Winnipeg, came out so strongly in condemnation of the liquor traffic. He had declared that the drinking places near the C. P. R. station at Winnipeg made the vilest hell upon earth. Mr. Booth, the big lumberman at Ottawa, had also offered that city $2,000 to cut off the hotel licenses in the neighborhood of his mills, and yesterday's deputation told of the Pullman Dining Car Company of Chicago, deciding that liquor should no longer be served on their cars. The Baltimore and Ohio Railway had also recognized the evil of the drink traffic by making a regulation requiring their men to be total abstainers.

Mr. Gibson then referred to the attitude of the Provincial Government as to the three-fifths by-law.

"Hon. Mr. Whitney assured us a year ago," he said, "that the three-fifths was not insisted on for fear that the law could not be enforced. There was no doubt about that. The purpose was to secure the permanence of public opinion.

"Now, what we say is that, if the law is enforced, there is no question of permanence of public opinion.

"Hon. Mr. Hanna said later in the House that the three-fifths by-law could be repealed when the strength of public opinion justified it. He even said that, if the experience of the voting in January, 1907, were repeated in 1908, the three-fifths by-law should be repealed. The results this year were better than last year. In 1907 there could have been thirty-four repeal contests, but were only eight, and only one of these was successful.

EIGHT SMALLPOX CASES IN SYDENHAM

Kingston, Feb. 25. — Smallpox has appeared in Sydenham, a small village sixteen miles from here, and eight houses are quarantined. It is thought the disease was brought from Brockville. The Board of Health has closed the schools and ordered vaccination, and hundreds are having their arms punctured.

Miners' Union Methods

School Superintendent at Reno, Nev Forced to Many Moves

Reno, Nev., Feb. 26.—Claiming to be hounded by the "inner circle" of the Western Federation of Miners since the day he sat upon the coroner's jury in Cripple Creek that held federation men responsible for the destruction of the Independence depot, W. E. Pruitt, superintendent of schools of Reno, says he has been driven from place to place within the State of Nevada. To-day, he charges, the final warning came that he would have to cross the borders of the state. From Cripple Creek Pruitt went to Seven Troughs. Last May twenty miners visited his tent in the night and forced him to leave the camp at once. He came to Reno, and now he has been warned to leave. With two other men he appealed to the police to protect him.

Grippe is sweeping the country. Stop it with Preventics, before it gets deeply seated. To check early colds with these little Candy Cold Cure Tablets is surely sensible and safe. Preventics contain no Quinine, no Jamaica, nothing harsh or sickening. Pneumonia would never appear if early colds were promptly broken. Also good for feverish children. Liveryman Lays Complaint to Police Yesterday afternoon a local livery stable keeper called at the police station and complained that a man from whom he had purchased a load of straw had taken money under false pretences. It seems that the liveryman bought the straw, in weights, gross and net, i.e., the total weight of straw and sleigh, and also the weight of the empty sleigh being noted on a weigh scales ticket. When the straw was unloaded into his barn, there was a long and heavy plank across the top of the load. When the empty sleigh was weighed the plank had disappeared and was not allowed for by the deduction for the total weight. The purchaser, before paying for the load, asked the farmer from whom he bought the straw, what had become of the plank and why its weight had not been deducted. The farmer said he did not know what had become of the plank or anything about it. The complainant said he did not care so much for paying for the weight of the plank as straw, but thought such petty swindles should be stopped.

The clear-headed, active man weaves brain cells into his daily work.

This means daily waste of brain tissue which must be replaced by new material

Proper food (containing the food elements that rebuild brain cells) is necessary for their repair and replacement. This is life-tear down to build up better.

Grape-Nuts food contains the rebuilding elements of wheat and barley and at the same time requires little effort on the digestive organs to appropriate it. That's why Grape-Nuts food has been the mainstay for breakfast and lunch in the daily diet of thousands of successful men for years.

CURED PAINFUL IRREGULARITIES

Strong Testimony From a Lady Resident of Clarksburg, Proving That Ferrozone Surpasses All Other Remedies.

The health of many women is constantly imperilled through failure of certain organs to work according to nature's requirements.

Where this condition occurs there is no safer remedy to employ than Ferrozone, which has a specific action in female troubles.

Not only does it act directly on the organs, ensuring regularity and freedom from pain, but by forming rich red blood fortifies the system against weakening drains.

FERROZONE MAKES STRONG WOMEN.

Ferrozone possesses a volume of merit totally absent in the ordinary medicine, and its superiority is proclaimed by thousands of women it has restored to vigorous health. From Mrs. F. G. Caldwell comes the following endorsement, written from her home in Clarksburg: "I went through a most trying experience with what is commonly known as 'Female Trouble.' It isn't necessary to state my symptoms, but I suffered a great deal. My health was well nigh ruined, and I got into such a condition that I couldn't even sleep. I was dreadfully nervous, weak and pale. Different prescriptions were recommended and I tried them. But Ferrozone was the first to help. I improved steadily under Ferrozone, and normal conditions were finally established. I gained weight, my color and spirits improved, and my former health was restored. Ferrozone cured me, and with a full heart I recommend this good medicine to all other women."

Beware of imitations—don't allow a druggist to palm off anything else for Ferrozone, which costs 50c. per box or six boxes for $2.50 at all dealers.

RUINOUS TO OUR INTERESTS

Canadian apples have not maintained their reputation, and that of the shippers, in the British market. This is the discouraging and humiliating feature of the last report made by Mr. J. B. Jackson, Canadian Commercial Agent at Leeds, England. Although the complaints vary considerably, Mr. Jackson says they are chiefly of violations of the Fruit Marks' Act, the packing in some instances having been so unsatisfactory that re-packing was necessary, before the fruit would be taken by the retailers, the expense of re-packing materially lessening the profit of the British purchaser.

Some idea of the complaints that Mr. Jackson has heard may be gathered from the following:—'A consignment of apples which were marked as No. 1 "Kings" and sold as such at auction to local merchants for 17s. per barrel, were, when opened, found to be inferior "St. Lawrences", and the purchasers eventually disposed of them for 6s. per barrel. Similar cases could also be quoted. Barrels, for instance, marked as No. 1 "Spy", turned out to contain No. 2 "Snows," and No. 2 "Baldwins" were packed in barrels marked No. 2 "Spy", and so on. It is also said that many barrels marked No. 1 were not entitled to that mark as the fruit was grubby and small. The complaint as to the smallness of the fruit, by the way, is almost general in this district; indeed, on account of this, many No. 1's have only with difficulty been disposed of at a price which good No. 2's have obtained in past seasons.'

Such violation of the Fruit Marks' Act on the part of dishonest shippers is very discouraging to the honest grower, who is desirous of finding a market for his fruit in the Old Land, and is at the same time disastrous to Canadian trade. When a British buyer finds that the only good fruit in the barrel he has purchased is on the top, while while the rest of the barrel is filled with an inferior grade of apples, he will naturally entertain thoughts which, to say the least, will not be complimentary to the Canadian shipper. According to Mr. Jackson the shipments received in his district this season have been pronounced inferior in quality to those received there in previous years and the packing and grading, it is said, could not have been worse.

This condition of things is not to the credit of the shipper, and some means should be taken to protect the honest grower and shipper from ruin at the hands of those who seem to think that they can treat British or other purchasers in the same manner as they try to do their customers on the local markets. In this they must fail, however, and unless some means be found to prevent their persistence in this line of action, in their failure they will bring ruin and disaster to the fruit-growing and allied interests of our country.

RAN THROUGH RAPIDS

CANADIAN WINS $1,000 BY FEAT OF RECKLESS DARING.

Negotiated Big Horn Canyon for First Time in History—Boat Overturned Five Times in Awful Mid-stream—Feat Thought to Be Impossible — Fearful Gorge Called "Waters of Death."

A nervy Canadian has recently succeeded in making the passage of the dreaded Big Horn Canyon, winning $1,000 in gold and successfully accomplishing a feat which has heretofore been considered impossible by the Americans, a feat in which at least a dozen men have lost their lives. Where the Big Horn River breaks through the mountains in the terrible canyon, the Indians, many years ago, gave it the name of the "Waters of Death," and the fearful gorge has deserved that name both in looks and in fact.

W. C. Harned is the Canadian who made the successful trip. Harned was for many years a boatman on the rapids in the St. Lawrence river, and was known as the most proficient of all the guides there. But he drifted west and settled down in Shoshoni, from whence he made the start through the canyon which lies between that town and Thermopolis.

The Bet Made.

Two months ago Col. George M. Slinsy, a banker of Thermopolis, in speaking of the canyon, made the statement that it was impossible for a human being to ever pass through there and live to tell of it.

"You're wrong there, colonel," drawled Harned. "I've gone through places just as bad as the Big Horn Canyon, and I can go through there."

"You've won my $100 if you do," promptly replied the colonel, and the bet was on.

Harned secured the assistance of an old frontiersman and guide, now a business man of Shoshoni, named Winne, and the two went to work to build a boat which would withstand almost anything. Poplar and oak were used, and after the skiff was put together, it was sheeted from stem to stern with the heaviest cowhide.

Whole Town Turns Out.

The whole town of Shoshoni, at the head of the canyon, was at the river when the start was made. No one expected to see either of the men again.

The only Indian legend of an attempt to pass through the "Waters of Death" was made multitudes of moons ago, when a young Sioux chief, having won the love of a Shoshoni maiden, stole his sweetheart from the tepees of her people and attempted to escape with her. They were pursued and their escape by land being cut off, the intrepid Red lover and his bride took to the water in a dugout and attempted to run the rapids of the canyon. The following day the pieces of the boat were picked up along the bank below the canyon. The bodies were not found.

In 1869 three white trappers embarked in a canoe on the torrents, and several days later all three bodies were recovered near Thermopolis.

At several different times since then foolhardy frontiersmen have attempted the passage, and every one has paid for his rashness with his life.

Indorse For 12 Miles.

So, when the crowd at the river bade farewell to Harned and Winne, they never expected to see them again. Some portions of the lower part of the canyon have been explored, but for 12 miles not a soul ever saw one foot of the canyon's way, and lived to tell of it. For these 12 miles the river averages 400 feet in width, and rushes between precipitous rock walls from 600 to 3,000 feet high. The current is from 10 to 25 miles an hour, and is a veritable inferno of maelstroms, whirlpools, cataracts, cross currents with jagged rocks, sharp, savage and submerged throughout the entire length. The canyon ends a few miles above Thermopolis.

The skiff left Shoshoni at 10 o'clock in the morning, the departure being telephoned to Thermopolis. Practically the entire population of the latter town went at once to the canyon's mouth to await the coming of the dead bodies of the adventurers.

Bruised and Bleeding.

At 5 o'clock that afternoon the boat shot out of the black jaws of the canyon. Both men were utterly exhausted. They were cut and bruised and bleeding, wet to the skin, but still full of fight.

Five separate times did their boat overturn, throwing the voyagers into the frightful waters. Three times Harned saved the life of Winne, and twice did Winne pull Harned in after the latter was almost dead. Nothing but the heavy cowskin sheeting saved their lives dozens of times. The rocks were unable to puncture this covering, and the light skiff rode the waters with ease where no rocks appeared. The canyon had been conquered, "but we don't want any more of it," said Harned.

Made Purse $1,000.

Col. Slinsy was one of the party which helped haul the cowskin boat ashore. Instead of handing over the $100 agreed upon, the colonel threw a bag containing $1,000 in gold into the skiff, and then, with the two men still in the boat, it was lifted on broad shoulders and carried through the town, followed by a brass band and every citizen of the little city.

Scourge of Wolves.

Word received from Fort Chippewyan, at Winnipeg, indicates that wolves are becoming a positive scourge in the far north. An Indian woman and two children had been dragged out of their teppe and devoured. Deer and other animals are being depleted by the packs. The Indians refuse to kill them, even under the inducement of the $10 bounty, owing to superstition and a belief in the transmigration of souls.

The same despatch says that the police are close on the trail of Fischry, the half-breed swindler, wanted on a charge of forgery and embezzling $35,000.

Dear Coffee.

Louis XIV. of France drank the first cup of coffee made in western Europe. Coffee was then worth £5 16s. a pound.

Ancient Wines.

The wines of the ancients would not be thought palatable today, for they were mixed with sea water, resin, salt, pitch and aromatic herbs, exposed in smoky garrets till reduced to a syrup and then strained and mixed with water.

A Matter of Taste.

Marjorie is very fond of raisins and at the tea table one night was picking them out of her cake and eating them, leaving the crumbled cake. Her sister, thinking she would try the force of a good example, said, "I like my plums in my cake."

"I don't," replied Marjorie. "I likes 'em best in my mouf."

Taking Care of Kitty.

They brushed the clothes, they beat the clothes,
One sunny April day—
Their winter clothes, I mean—and then
They packed them all away
In paper boxes tied around
With very strongest strings,
First freely sprinkling them with some
Tobacco dust and camphor gum.

And when, their labor done, they took
Their tea and toasted bread,
"Why, where is kitty?" some one asked
And "I know," Lulu said.
"She's in my dollies biggest trunk;
I brushed and beated her;
There can't not any moths, I dess,
Dat into her nice fur.

"She scratched my fingers when I put
The camphor stuff about;
Dive me some toast that's buttered free."
They left it all to her and flew
To get poor kitty out.

FOR BUSINESS MEN AND WOMEN

I want business men and women who have money to invest to write me for particulars.

I have an absolutely clean and safe deal that has been tested and proved by actual experience.

It will pay over $60 yearly income on every $1,000 invested, (over $100 yearly on each $200 invested) yet is not a racing or gambling scheme, but a straight, legitimate, profitable, honest business you would be proud to to be identified with.

It needs more money to run it on a large scale, hence this offer to you who have money and the business sense and acumen to share in this good thing.

I have submitted particulars of this deal to the proprietors and editors of this paper; they are business men and have approved it because it is safe, sound and clean, and the promises made are straight and reasonable.

When you read these particulars I believe you will approve and be glad you investigated. No matter if you have $5,000 or $10,000 to invest or only $100 or $200, it applies equally to all. It is a

Capital, $250,000.00 — 1,000,000 Shares 25c. each.

Good coal stock is a safe and sure investment. Galbraith shares are especially attractive.

Modest Capitalization — Large Coal Reserves

This Company organized under the laws of the Northwest Territories of Canada, owns and operates the Galbraith mine located at Lundbreck, Alta. They have four vertical seams of coal traversing their property, aggregating over 40 feet in thickness. Three of these seams are developed to a depth of 350 feet, and as they pass through the Company's lands for nearly a mile, some idea of the amount of coal may be had.

Shipping Steadily

The present output of the mine is about 200 tons per day. These shipments will be rapidly increased, as the C.P.R. allows its cars to be loaded with coal for points in the U. S.

We are selling a limited number of these shares at the extremely low price of

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTHWEST HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an Agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of a homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father or mother.

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing must be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa, of intention to apply for patent.

The Opal Serpent

By FERGUS HUME,

Author of "The Mystery of a Hansom Cab," "The Mandarin's Fan," Etc.

COPYRIGHT, 1905, By C. W. DILLINGHAM COMPANY

CONTINUED.

Paul stared. What did the workingman mean, and was he a workingman?

CHAPTER IV.

PAUL did not go near the Gwynne street shop for the next few days, much as he wanted to do so. A call at the office of a penny weekly had resulted in the return of three stories as being too long and not the sort required. But the editor, in a hasty interview, admitted that he liked Paul's work and would give him £3 for a tale written on certain lines likely to be popular with the public. Paul did not care to set forth another person's ideas, especially as these were old and very sensational, but as he required money he set to work and labored to produce what would bring him in the cash. He made several attempts before he reached the editor's level, which was low rather than high, and succeeded in getting the tale accepted. With three golden pounds in his pocket and exultation in his heart, for every success seemed to bring him nearer to Sylvia, Paul returned to his aerial castle and found waiting for him a letter from his mother.

It was written in a low spirited sort of way, characteristic of Mrs. Beecot, but with a true motherly heart. After two pages of lamentation over his absence and a description of how the head of the household managed to bear up against the affliction of his son's absence, Mrs. Beecot proceeded to explain about the brooch.

"Why do you ask me about the opal brooch, my dear boy?" wrote Mrs. Beecot in her scratchy handwriting. "All I know is that your father bought it out of a pawnbroker's shop in Stowley, which is some town in the midlands. Your father was traveling there and saw the brooch by chance. As I always thought opals unlucky he was anxious to make me see the folly of such a superstition, so he bought the brooch and took it away with him. Afterward, I believe, he received a letter from the pawnbroker saying that his assistant had sold the brooch by mistake; that the time for redeeming it had not run out when your father bought it. The pawnbroker asked that the brooch might be returned and wanted to pay back the money. But you know what your father is. He refused at once to give back the brooch and insisted on my wearing it. I had a bad fall while wearing it and then was thrown out of that high dogcart your father would insist on driving. I am sure the brooch or the stones are unlucky, and as after a time your father forgot all about it I let it lie in my jewel case. For years I had not worn it, and as I think it is unlucky and as you need money, my darling boy, I hope you will sell it. There is no need to pawn it, as you say. I never want to see the brooch again. But regarding your health," etc.

There was nothing in the letter to explain Norman's faint. It was certainly strange that the pawnbroker from whom the brooch had been originally purchased should have demanded it back, and the excuse given seemed rather a weak one. However, Paul did not waste time in thinking over this, but resolved to tell Aaron what his mother had said.

He had received two letters from Sylvia, mentioning, among other things, that her father, now quite well, was asking after Paul and urging him to come and see him. "My father appears to have a fancy for you," wrote Sylvia, "so if you are very nice, as nice as you can be, perhaps he won't be very angry if you tell him we are engaged." There was much more to the same effect, which Paul thought good advice, and he intended to adopt the same. It was necessary that he should tell Aaron of his love if things were to be conducted in a straightforward and honorable manner. And Paul had no desire to conduct them otherwise.

Having made up his mind to see Aaron again, Paul bethought himself of Grexen Hay. So Beecot wrote to Grexen Hay at his Camden Hill chamber and told him he intended to go to Gwynne street on a certain day at a certain time. To this Grexen responded by saying that he was at Paul's service and would come, especially as he wanted to see Dulcimen of Gwynne street.

The man about town duly made his appearance to the very minute. "I always keep appointments," he explained when Paul congratulated him on his punctuality; "there's nothing annoys me so much as to be kept waiting, so I invariably practice what I preach. Well, Paul, how is Dulcimen of Gwynne street?"

"She is very well," replied Paul, who was still a young enough lover to blush, "but I have not seen her since my last visit. I waited for a letter from my mother about the brooch, so that I might explain to Aaron how she got it. The old man has been asking after me."

"Oh, confound the brooch!" said Grexen in his cool manner. "I don't want to hear about it. Let us talk of Dulcimen."

"Rather let us talk of yourself," said Paul.

"Not an interesting subject," replied Hay, rising as Paul opened his garret door for departure, "you know all about me."

"No! I don't know why you are called a man on the market."

Hay flushed and turned sharply. "What do you mean?" he asked in a particularly quiet tone.

"I don't know what I do mean," said Paul. "Do you remember that workingman with the bag of tools who was across the road when we last conversed?"

"No," said Hay, staring. "I never notice creatures of that class. Why?"

"Because he asked me who you were and where you lived. It seems you owe him some money."

"That is very probable," said Hay equably. "I owe most people money, and if this man has a debt against me he would certainly know all about me as to address and name."

"So I thought," replied Paul, "but the queer thing is that he told me to take care and called you a man on the market. What does it mean? I never heard the phrase before."

"I have," said Hay, proceeding calmly down the somewhat steep stairs. "A man on the market means one who wants to marry and is eligible for any heiress who comes along with a sufficient rent roll."

Grexon was quicker sighted than Paul, for the moment they arrived at the bottom of the stairs and were about to emerge into the street he saw a messenger. "Do you know if any gent of that name lives here, guvnor?" asked the boy, holding out the buff colored envelope.

Beecot, to his surprise, saw his own name. "Wait, boy. There may be an answer," and he skimmed through the lines. "Don't sell the brooch, but send it back," read Paul, puzzled. "Your father angry.—Mother." He paused and looked at the boy. "Got a form?" he asked.

The lad produced one and a stumpy pencil. With these materials Beecot wrote a reply, saying the brooch would be returned on the morrow. When the boy went away with the answer Paul felt in his breast pocket and took out the old blue case. "I've a good mind to send it now," he said aloud.

"What's that?" asked Hay, who was yawning at the door. "No bad news, I hope."

"It's about that brooch again."

Hay laughed. "Upon my word, it seems to you what the monster was to Frankenstein," said he. "Send it back—to Mrs. Beecot, I presume—and have done with it." He cast a glance at the case. "I see you have it with you," he ended lightly.

"Yes," said Paul and, replacing the case in his pocket, went down the street with his friend. Then he determined to ask his opinion and related the gist of Mrs. Beecot's letter. "And now the mater wires to have it back," he said. "I expect my father has found out that she has sent it to me and is furious."

"Well, send it back and have done with it," said Hay impatiently; "you are in danger of becoming a bore with that brooch, Beecot. I'll lend you money if you like."

"No, thanks; I have £3 honestly earned. However, we'll speak no more of the brooch. I'll send it back this very day. Tell me"—he linked his arm within that of his friend—"tell me of that man."

"That man—of the working creature," said Hay absently. "Pooh, the man was no more a workingman than I am."

"Well, I thought myself he was a bit of a fraud."

"Detectives never do make up well," said Grexon calmly.

Paul stopped as they turned into Oxford street. "What? Was the man a detective?"

"I think so, from your description of his conversation. The fact is I'm in love with a lady who is married. We have behaved quite well, and no one can say a word against us. But her husband is a beast and wants a divorce. I have suspected for some time that he is having me watched. Thanks to you, Paul, I am now sure. So perhaps you will understand why the man warned you against me and talked of my being a man on the market."

"I see," said Paul, hesitating; "but don't get into trouble, Hay."

"Oh, I'm all right. And I don't intend to do anything dishonorable, if that is what you mean. It's the husband's fault, not mine. By the way, can you describe the fellow?"

His stumble knocked Paul into the middle of the road.

"Yes. He had red hair and a red beard, rather a ruddy face, and walked with a limp."

"All put on," said Hay contemptuously; "probably the limp was affected, the beard false, the hair a wig and the face rouged—very clumsy indeed. I dare say he'll appear pale and gentlemanly the next time he watches me. I know the tricks of these fellows."

"Here we are," interrupted Paul quickly. Somehow it irritated him to hear this hardened sinner speak of Sylvia, and he began to think that Grexon Hay had deteriorated. Not that he was considered to be particularly good at Torrington school. In fact, Paul remembered that he had been thoroughly disliked. However, he had no time to go into the matter, for at this moment Aaron appeared at the door of the shop. He stepped out on to the pavement as Paul approached. "Come in," he said. "I want to see you—privately," he added, casting a frightened look at Hay.

"In that case I'll leave you," said Grexon, disengaging his arm from Paul. "Dulcimen must wait for another occasion. Go in and do your business. I'll wait without."

Paul thanked his friend by a look and went into the shop with the old man. "That brooch," said Aaron in a timid whisper—"have you got it? Give it to me—quick—quick!"

There was no one in the shop, as Bart had apparently gone out on an errand. The door leading to the stairs, down which Sylvia had so often descended, was closed, and no one was about to overhear their conversation. "I have the brooch," said Paul, "but"—"Give it to me—give it," panted Aaron. "I'll buy it—at a large price. Ask what you want."

"Why are you so eager to get it?" demanded Beecot, astonished.

"That's my business," said Norman in a suddenly imperious manner. "I want it. The stones take my fancy," he ended weakly.

"Was that why you fainted?" asked Paul suspiciously.

"No." The man grew white and leaned against the counter, breathing heavily. "Where did you get the brooch?" he asked, trying to keep himself calm, but with a visible effort.

"I got it from my mother, and she received it from my father"—

"Beecot—Beecot," said the old man, fingering his lips, much agitated. "I know no one of that name save yourself, and you are not a spy—a scoundrel—a—a"— He caught the eyes of Paul fixed on him in amazement and suddenly changed his tone. "Excuse me, but the brooch reminds me of trouble."

Weak Women

To weak and ailing women, there is at least one way to help. Just what that way, true treatments, must be considered. One is local, one is constitutional, but both are important, both essential.

Dr. Shoop's Night Cure is the Local.
Dr. Shoop's Restorative, the Constitutional.

The former—Dr. Shoop's Night Cure—is a topical nervine membrane emergency remedy, while Dr. Shoop's Restorative is wholly an internal treatment. The Restorative reaches throughout the entire system, seeking the repair of all nerve, all tissue, and all blood alimentation.

The "Night Cure," as its name implies, does its work while you sleep. It soothes sore and inflamed mucous membrane, heals local weaknesses and discharges, while the Restorative, going after nervous exhaustion, gives poise and vigor and ambition, builds up muscular tissues, brings about restored strength, vigor, and energy. Take Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—to go general tonic to the system. For positive local help, use as well

Artificial Digestion Quite Useless

The Temporary Relief of Digestive Tablets is Futile

My experience and study indicate that ninety per cent. of dyspepsics have slow liver, weak kidneys and constipated bowels.

These important organs get out of gear, throw an extra burden on the stomach, which it can't handle and the result is indigestion.

My remedy will cure you.

I call my remedy Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut, and can recommend it, because I have proved it does cure chronic stomach trouble.

When you look at the formula of Dr. Hamilton's Pills you you will see that they contain vegetable extracts that every physician admits are splendid tonics for the kidneys, liver and bowels.

Everyone knows the virtue of Mandrake, Butternut, Dandelion and Hyoscamus. These health-giving juices and extracts are carefully combined with other principles so as to produce a pill of wonderful efficiency that even children can safely use.

If you feel heavy and dull after meals, use Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

If your tongue is furred, or you have bad taste and offensive breath, use Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

If you have a full, choking feeling in the throat and chest, Dr. Hamilton's Pills are badly needed.

If your head aches, you feel dizzy, no appetite and a desire to rest, your liver is at fault and needs the stimulation given by Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

Think it over. Dr. Hamilton's Pills are a system cleaner and health bringer of unusual merit; and they are safe for young and old.

My guarantee stands behind each box, proving my great confidence in the remedy I recommended; 25c. per box or five for $1.00, at all dealers, and be sure you get the genuine Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut.

CITY AND COUNTY NEWS

GATHERED HERE AND THERE BY TIMES REPORTERS.

Local Sports Go Hunting

Mr. J. B. Oke, of Ladlaw & Oke, in company with Mr. David Conroy, of East City, has gone to Buckhorn, where they will be the guests of Mr. Thomas Eastwood. In a few days going in for bear and duck hunting for a couple of weeks. The hunters on all probability will shoot a few bags of ducks and bring home some trophies from the woods.

Death of Mr. E. Bourgoard

Yesterday Mr. Eugene Bourgoard, a highly respected citizen, passed away yesterday morning at his late residence on Park street, near King street. He was 52 years of age and leaves a wife to mourn his loss. The funeral will take place at 2.30 o'clock on Thursday to the Little Lake Cemetery.

Havelock Hotel Licenses Up

The vote taken in the village of Havelock as to whether liquor licenses there shall cost the present price, $250 per annum, or be raised to $750, was carried in favor of the raise by a majority of 26 out of 248 votes polled. It means that this raise in price originated with the hotelkeepers themselves asking for a constable to protect them. The good folks of Havelock did not see the point of paying a constable for such purposes, and hence the vote taken and carried.

Remembers Collegiate Institute

That bright and well edited little local sheet, the Collegiate Echo, says: "It affords us no small amount of pleasure to be able to acknowledge the receipt of four photographs from Mr. J. A. Fife, late Science Master in the Peterborough Collegiate Institute and now a member of the staff of the Edmonton High Schools. Although circumstances have thrown more than two thousand miles of Canada between us, we still think of each other, and we greatly appreciate Mr. Fife's interest in the "Echoes," and only regret that through the present state of our finances we are unable to publish the pictures."

—Local English immigrants are highly pleased over their reception at the Young Conservative Club.

A dizzy, uncertain feeling is one of the results of coffee drinking.

Anyone so annoyed, can find relief by quitting coffee and changing to Postum.

Postum is made of wheat which is a true food, and the bran-coat containing the phosphate of potash is included in this health beverage. This phosphate is used by nature in replacing wasted brain and nerve cells. Boil Postum to get the food values and the flavour.

City Topics

IN SHORT FORM FOR BUSY READERS

—Mr. J. H. Burnham lectured in St. John's school room yesterday evening.

—The game between the Examiner and Review hockey experts Thursday night promises to be a live one.

—February "Collegiate Echoes" is a credit to both the local seat of learning and the city.

—Those hands on the north face of the Post Office clock have now had a month's rest. It's time they got busy again.

—Mr. Barrie will be the accompanist and Miss Carrie White will recite at the Peterborough band concert at the Y.M.C.A. to-night.

—The bankers' dance in the Conservatory of Music Hall last night was well attended by the youth and beauty of Peterborough's elite.

—A large photo of the Peterborough Fire Brigade is on exhibition in Morrell & Meredith's window. The picture was taken by Roy and is being greatly admired.

—The executive of the Poultry Association have drawn up a constitution which will be presented at the next meeting of the association for ratification by the members.

—A meeting for women will be held at St. John's Church this afternoon at 3.30 o'clock, and a similar meeting for men will be held in the evening at eight o'clock. These meetings are preparatory to the mission to be held in the near future.

—A despatch from Renfrew states that the deal for the purchase of the factory of that place by Mr. John Findlay, M.P., of Norwood, has not yet been consummated.

—The Young Conservative Club rooms are open to the public as an employment agency. Every effort will be made by the management to assist both employer and unemployed.

—In the stoppage of the north clock on the Post Office building going to be permanent, or will its being put into business once more be an election promise to residents along Water street north?

—The second round of the Euchre Tournament will take place to-morrow evening at the Young Conservative Club rooms. On Saturday evening Mr. Amos, of St. Antoine Division, Montreal, will address the members of the club and Conservative workers only. A full attendance is requested.

—Mr. J. Miller resigned his position as superintendent of the Mark Street Church Sunday School at a meeting of the teachers and officers presided over by Rev. C. B. Coon, the pastor. Mr. Jas. Souci, an active church member, was unanimously elected to the vacant office, and will doubtless make a very efficient superintendent.

—The Young Conservative Club has succeeded in getting the C. P. R. to put on a coach to leave Norwood at 12 o'clock sharp to-night for Peterborough. This will give all those desirous of going to the Conservative convention at Norwood a chance to hear Messrs. Foster and Downey, and to return the same night. Going down rather the 11.16 a.m. or the 7.48 p.m. may be taken.

I wish that I might talk with all sick ones about the actual cause of Stomach, Heart, and Kidney ailments. To explain in person how weak Stomach nerves leads to Stomach weakness, I am sure would interest all. And it is the same with weak Hearts or Weak Kidneys. This is why my prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative—so promptly reaches ailments of the Stomach, Heart, and Kidneys. It is wrong to drug the Stomach or stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. These weak inside nerves simply need more strength. My Restorative is the only prescription made exclusively for these nerves. Next to seeing you personally, will be to mail you free, my new booklet entitled, "What To Do." I will also send samples of my Restorative as well. Write for the book to-day. It will surely interest you. Address Dr. Shoop, Box 8, Racine, Wis. All Dealers.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Arrangements Now About Completed

In connection with the religious census to be held on Wednesday, March 11th, it might be noted that supervisors have been secured for each of the thirteen districts into which the city has been divided. These supervisors have been at work arranging their districts and preparing to divide them up into groups of from 20 to 30 or 40 houses. To each of these groups two visitors will be assigned. A meeting of all the supervisors will be held in the Y.M.C.A. to-morrow evening at eight o'clock to arrange definitely for the completion of the work of organization.

Pretty Wedding in Smith Township

A very pretty wedding took place Wednesday last at the residence of Mr. John Darling, 4th line of Smith, when his sister, Miss Ida Pearl Darling, was united in marriage to Mr. Thomas Arnott McConnell, of Emily. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Peckover, of Omemee. The bride, who was given away by her brother, was gowned in cream crepe de chene, with the usual beautiful bridal flowers. The duties of bridesmaid were performed by Miss Violet King. The groomsman was Mr. Harold McConnell, brother of the groom. The numerous beautiful presents testified to the popularity of the bride. Mr. and Mrs. McConnell will reside in North Monaghan.

Mr. John Dwyer Has Passed Away

Mr. John Dwyer, a former local citizen, who came to the city from the township of Douro, and left for Alberta, arriving near Edmonton about eighteen months ago, has passed away from pneumonia. The late Mr. Dwyer had many warm friends both in this city and county.

He is survived by a wife and four children, Miss Rose in Toronto; Miss Fannie in Rochester, N.Y.; Joseph in Alberta, and Frank in Toronto. Mrs. Dwyer has been residing in Toronto. The deceased was about 60 years of age.

No word has been received in connection with the arrangements for the funeral.

Mrs. Eliza Calder was Laid to Rest

Yesterday afternoon the last mortal remains of the late Mrs. Elisabeth Calder was conveyed from the residence of her nephew, Mr. Fred Mitchell, 469 Donegal street, to the Little Lake cemetery for interment.

The late Mrs. Calder died on Sunday at Mr. Mitchell's residence after a short illness at the age of 86 years. She was born in England and came to Canada in 1864, settling in Peterborough. Her maiden name was Elisabeth Mitchell. She was married to the late Alex. Calder, who predeceased her some years ago. The late Mrs. Calder was widely known throughout the county and was highly esteemed for her many sterling qualities.

If you have Catarrh rid yourself of this repulsive disease. Ask Dr. Shoop of Racine, Wis., to mail you free a trial box of his Dr. Shoop's Catarrh Remedy. A sample, simple test, will surely tell you a Catarrh truth well worth your knowing. Write to-day. Don't suffer longer. All dealers.

The Pacific Fruit Cooling and Vaporizing Company, Incorporated for the purpose of cooling deciduous fruits and removing moisture from citrus fruits and keeping unde cold storage such fruits and other food products from the time of receiving them from the fruit growers until loaded on car and taken away by the Railroad Company for Eastern shipment

STUBBORN FACTS UNIMPEACHABLE

The loss in shipping deciduous and citrus fruits is enormous. The orange crop of Southern California alone is valued at $30,000,000. The government experts estimate that about 25 per cent. or $7,500,000, is lost every year by rough handling in packing and decay of fruit in transit to the Eastern markets. What a revenue of profit this loss would be to the shipper if it could be saved. Our process will save it. The same is true of the deciduous fruits of Northern California.

GREAT FORTUNES ARE MADE BY INVESTING IN NECESSITIES

Fruit is one of the necessities of our civilized life, and the company that can place the fruit in the markets of the world in the best shape, in the quickest time, at the lowest rate, has a fortune within its grasp. The Armour Company in ten years made $5,000,000 net handling California fruit in refrigerator cars. Our process is as necessary to the fruit grower as the refrigerator car. Therefore we ought to receive as large a revenue for handling the same commodity.

GET IN WHILE THE ENTERPRISE IS NEW

No wiser words were ever spoken than these: "The chief point about getting rich is to invest in a new enterprise that is being managed by successful men, who have some of their own money in the deal." "One good investment is worth a lifetime of labor"; "Think over this sentence. A man's daily labor will never make him rich. He must have some money at work for him. Money invested never gets sick, keeps no holidays, never goes on strike. There are three things that ought to guide you: First, invest with honest men; second, invest with men of sound judgment; third, invest under conditions where you get your full share of profits the business yields. Get into a company whose destiny is guided by men of this stamp when its future is before and not behind it. Here is the secret of fortune. Plant the seed of your investment in the soil of opportunity, at the season of greatest promise when the enterprise is new. Every ounce of honor in the hearts of the men managing this company is pledged to give

A SQUARE DEAL FOR EVERY INVESTO

There will be no preferred stock. Every dollar invested will be worth 100 cents on the dollar. Our Directors, as honourable business men, will not allow any tricks of trade by which the small investor can be frozen out. Their commercial standing proves they are not "grafters". The poor man's 500 or 100 shares will have the same standing in court as the rich man's, 10,000, and they will draw the same proportionate dividend. We court investigation.

EVERY RICH MAN IN THE WORLD WAS ONCE POOR, OR HIS GRANDFATHER WAS.

THE OPPORTUNITY OF A LIFETIME

To get into a company that has the certainty of growth, the assurance of large and quick returns, a rapid advance in the price of stock, to make it an exceptional chance for big profits on a small investment. This is an ideal investment for the wage earner as well as the rich man. Moderate sums invested now will bring splendid returns in the near future. The logic of all this is

DON'T WAIT

Time is the essence of this proposition. The stock will certainly double in a short time. Jay Gould once said: "When you see a good investment don't wait to see if it pans out well, for by that time other people see it, too, and you have lost your opportunity."

WOMEN AS INVESTORS

Some of the heaviest stockholders in our company are women of keen business instincts. One lady in Los Angeles bought 5,000 shares. In a few days she returned and bought 5,000 more. This lady has never made a mistake in her business ventures. Women are good investors because they have courage to follow their convictions. Their intuitions are keener and truer than men's logic. Men may prevent her voting, but they can't prevent her drawing dividends on her investments. This is one branch of trade where sex, culture, or color does not count.

MANAGEMENT

The affairs of this company are in the hands of men of honesty, ability, courage and good business judgment—men who have made a success of their own business—men whose business reputation is A1 in the commercial circles in which they move.

These men are "square" and "shrewd". They will not deceive you nor will they be deceived themselves. Because of the promise of growth, permanency and profit this business offers they have united their money, energy, time and business experience to make this enterprise a grand success.

"THE GOVERNMENT WILL BE GOVERNED BY ITS OWN CONVICTIONS" SAYS PREMIER OF ONTARIO

Premier Whitney Makes No Promise to Ontario Temperance Deputation

A Great Gathering

"This Government has come to the conclusion that it will do its duty in this and all other matters as it sees it — and by doing our duty I mean doing what seems to us conscientiously to be the best. It is altogether possible, not to say probable, that in many respects we may go wrong, for we are mortal and very human. But after considering carefully and reaching an honest conclusion, we feel it to be our duty as honest men to stand by it.

"We have, I may tell you, experienced both threats and compliments, but I think we would be equally reckless of the trust imposed on us if we permitted ourselves to succumb to the one or be swayed by the other. Whatever else may be said of us, so long as this Government exists — yes, even so long as it draws a breath of life — it shall be governed by its own honest convictions. It may be mistaken; it may misinterpret the will and the desires of the all-powerful people whose creature it is. It may be prepared to take the consequences the fellow-citizens will mete out to it. And if we are defeated, we will have no quarrel with the verdict, we will go down feeling that we have done our duty by the people as we saw it and ready to take the humbler part in the great future of the Province for Ontario's progress is assured, and will remain undisturbed by the rise or fall of any Prime Minister or any Government.

"The present laws are not perfect. We all recognize that. And in due course the Government will refer to this and some other features of the existing statutes in an endeavor to further perfect and improve them."

For the second time within a week the Prime Minister, Hon. Mr. Whitney has said "No" to a plea for changes in the license laws of the Province. But his negative to the great temperance deputation which thronged the buildings this morning was perhaps less emphatic than that with which he greeted the liquor interests, which waited upon him a few days ago in relation to the cutting off of a number of Toronto licenses under the City Council's by-law. The response this morning was coupled with an intimation that there was no finality in the present liquor license legislation, and that the whole of it, including the clauses governing the local option measures and votes, would in the near future be subjected to close Government scrutiny through investigation, revision and possible consolidation. But the Prime Minister made no promises. The Government were still of an open mind in relation to what was best to be done.

A GREAT GATHERING.

It was a huge gathering. A thousand men and women representing the Ontario Alliance, marched in a body up the pathway to the Parliament Buildings, and flooded the corridors. A meeting place was impossible, and after a conference between Mr. Joseph Gibson, the president, and Mr. Whitney, it was decided to have the proceedings in the large front hallway. The Prime Minister stood with Mr. Gibson at the head of the first flight of broad stairs. The members of the deputation thronged the corridors, crowded the steps and hung over the railings at every floor. There were many ladies, some of them occupying seats on the steps leading to the main floor.

With Mr. Whitney, stood Hon. W. J. Hanna, the Provincial Secretary, while behind him and wedged in among the throng, were Hon. A. J. Matheson, Hon. Frank Cochrane, Hon. Nelson Monteith, Hon. Adam Beck and other members of the Cabinet. The members of the Legislature of both parties viewed the great gathering from the corridor at the entrance to the Legislative Chamber. The promise of the deputation had caused several scores of visitors to gather at the buildings early. These were located in the Speaker's gallery to anticipation that there would be sufficient room for the deputation in the Legislative Chamber, and had to get their view from the railing of the third storey.

There was comparatively little demonstration. Mr. Whitney's appearance was greeted with applause, and Mr. Gibson was vigorously cheered. The latter at once asked the audience of applause. "We will make better and saner progress," he commented, an observation which the Prime Minister endorsed with a "Hear, hear."

Mr. Whitney's utterances were closely listened to; fully a score or more of the delegates taking notes. Upon the conclusion, and especially where he referred to the Government's intention to take the whole question of liquor license laws under advisement, he was warmly applauded.

"The intentions of the Government are good; I am quite satisfied with the result of the conference," said Mr. Joseph Gibson, president of the Ontario Alliance, when seen by a reporter immediately afterwards.

ABOLISH THE BAR ROOM.

Mr. Joseph Gibson, president of the Ontario Branch of the Dominion Alliance, was the first speaker. He read the following recommendation of the Committee on Legislation which had been adopted by a standing vote at the morning session of the convention.

"That we demand such legislation as will abolish the bar room, the treating system and drinking in clubs and will improve upon the liquor traffic such further restrictions as will most effectively curtail its operation and remedy its evil.

"That in the judgment of the convention the present requirement for the three-fifths vote to carry the local option by-law is contrary to justice, fair play and the spirit of our institutions, and deprives municipalities of a right long enjoyed, and that this provision of the Liquor Act should be at once repealed."

RESULTS OF THE CAMPAIGN.

Mr. Gibson viewed the results of the local option campaign and said: "You have a Government with a majority which dominates thoroughly the situation, and you have an Act regarding which there is not a shadow of constitutional doubt." He urged that the great middle class were in favor of local option and abolition of the bar.

PREMIER WHITNEY'S REPLY.

"I must evidently be very careful to-day as to what I say," began Mr. Whitney. "But there is only one successful way for the people and their representatives to get along, to be open and outspoken with one another. There are, however, one or two reasons why possibly I should not discuss this matter at length now. In the first place, we, as a Government, or as a Legislature, cannot bring about prohibition. It is beyond our jurisdiction. So as the introduction of this question may obscure the situation, we had better confine ourselves to dealing with local option. There is a great deal to be said in favor of total prohibition as the only effective means of effectually wiping out the evils of the drink traffic, but that is beyond us. It would be for us like beating our heads against a stone wall, and usually I have observed under such circumstances the wall stays and we retire.

"I confess disappointment that Mr. Gibson has quoted altogether from the great Republic to the South of us," continued Mr. Whitney. "While I would not be moved the width of a hair from my honest convictions in the matter, I confess to a sympathetic feeling towards British efforts and British precedents in dealing with this great question. And I am going to take the opportunity to refer, here and now, to a report I read in a morning paper to-day of the public statement in a public place of a clergyman said to be from the United States and presumably a Canadian guest, to which he is reported as saying, in relation to the three-fifths clause, that he thought before coming here that this was a civilized country, and lamenting that he found it not far removed from a barbarous one. To my mind he should have been told then and there what ordinary good taste and intelligence should teach any one, and I decry and resent that by me, at least, the insult from this traveller should not be permitted to pass unchallenged.

NO CLASS IN ONTARIO.

"I was sorry, too, to hear Mr. Gibson's reference to a 'middle class in Ontario,'" continued the Prime Minister. "Thank God there is no class in Ontario. We want no class distinctions in this Province. I do not believe, with the intelligence of the people and the mellowing influence of Christianity that permeates our people, that we shall ever be afflicted with the grievous ills of class distinction.

"Now I confess to difficulty in dealing with this question to-day," Mr. Whitney observed. "Because if I understand your speakers aright it is to be made a party question, and as such it would be unwise for me to say much about it. Because you must remember we're in politics, too, and when the time comes we will be ready to throw down the gauge and let the people decide. Mind you, I do not object if you decide to make it a party question, but for your own sakes do not let it become a political football. It is a great question and it should be dealt with solely upon its merits. Progress should be made upon this movement as upon other moral movements. There should be continuity of purpose in them all."

Mr. Whitney called attention to the fact that in the church courts it is asserted by the speakers a simple majority did not rule.—Toronto News.

Bell Service the Cheapest

Just as the Times has again andagain foretold another undeniable proof of the futility of certain soreheads trying to batter the Bell Telephone Company's modus operandi, has been verified in Winnipeg. As is generally known the Province of Manitoba, at heavy cost to the people and possibly actuated by misrepresentations of persons not qualified to judge between the expense of operating as compared with receipts, took over the plant of the Bell Co., under certain promises to the people as to reduction of rates. A Winnipeg despatch dated February 21st, says:

"The expected reduction in telephone rates by the Government is working out in a peculiar manner, and from present appearances the people may begin to wish for the yoke of the Bell monopoly.

"Yesterday dentists, doctors and nurses were notified of a 25 per cent. increase in rates, and to-day it is announced that the special concessions to newspapers will be cancelled and the charge nearly doubled."

This recalls an exactly similar lesson, and a sad one, learned by the citizens of Peterborough some years ago, when a few of our local citizens, at large expense, put in a plant in opposition to that of the Bell Company, and gave their subscribers a price for telephone service below that then charged by the Bell Company. The result was that the opposition company staggered along for a year or two without paying one cent of dividends to those whose money installed the plant and eventually were compelled to take the Bell Company's offer and sell out. In taking this offer the opposition company were not actuated by lack of capital or undue pressure by the Bell Co. The opposition Company's directorate, after learning by actual experience, what it really did, and does, cost to operate a large telephone service, found that their cut rate prices would not keep the service running, let alone give a return for the money invested. They found that not only were the Bell Company's charges reasonable, and as low as consistent with a fair business proposition, but that the general public was sick and tired of a dual system. Now the good people of Winnipeg are learning the lesson taught by Peterborough's experience and are finding that under the Bell Telephone Company's operation of their system, they had a good thing but did not appreciate it. Fortunately for Ontario, the experience of Peterborough with its defunct Ontario Telephone Company in memory, has shown our people that neither is a dual system desirable or profitable, nor can a service as good as that given by the Bell Co., be operated a cent cheaper than the Province now pays.

Charles Burke was Remanded Until March 10

Alleged Robber of Buckhorn Store Found Guilty but Remanded

A Clever Prisoner

Yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock his Honor Judge Weller held court in the County Council Chamber and rendered judgment in the case of Charles Burke, charged with robbing the store of Mr. Purser at Buckhorn on Nov. 5th.

His Honor said after hearing the evidence the other day, he thought owing to the importance of the case, he should give Burke's case a little further consideration. This he had done, and had arrived at the same decision he had formed at the trial. A stranger on Nov. 5th last called at Mrs. Kidd's house near Lakefield and got something to eat. They put him up a lunch to carry away. Both Mrs. Kidd and her daughter identified the prisoner as the man that called at their house. The afternoon of the same day the same man called at Mr. Northey's house and got a glass of milk. Miss Northey identified the prisoner as that man. Taylor, the Indian, an intelligent man, his Honor has known for some time, identified the prisoner as the man he saw coming out of Northey's and going towards Buckhorn. An intelligent Indian often notices more than a white man does. His Honor then detailed the purchase of a plug of tobacco in Purser's store, Buckhorn, and also the robbery. Both Miss Purser and Miss Higgins, who were in the store at the time of the robbery, identified the prisoner as the man who was there. (As all this story has been detailed in former issues of the Times, we omit full particulars). The evidence of the defence was that of a self-admitted convict, who has been in the Penitentiary and Central Prison. He could not take this evidence against the former mentioned witness. The only other evidence for the defence was that of a nearly blind man who said that on the night of Nov. 5th he was at a house on Sherbourne street, Toronto, with others, and that the prisoner came into the house. The blind man had not met the prisoner for some years before that, as Burke had been in prison during that time. The story as told by the blind man was evidently concocted by his friends in Toronto, and the blind boy had been sent down here for a purpose, viz., to give evidence. The object of putting this witness claimed to have been with on Nov. 5th when he saw Burke in Toronto, were almost of the same class as the prisoner. The friend must've friends evidently sent them down thinking his affliction would gain them sympathy. Jack Carey, at whose house in Toronto the the blind man claims to have seen Burke, had witnessed him, his Honor. Carey's letter described those who were at his house on Nov. 5th celebrating Guy Fawkes' day, including Burke, but made no mention of the blind boy being there. Carey took good care to put off writing the letter until the day of the trial. The prisoner had written him also a letter. He found the prisoner guilty.

The prisoner then said that if the hotel register of the King's Hotel at Norwood were investigated, his Honor would see that he, the prisoner, was at Norwood on 7.20 on the morning of Nov. 5th, as Chas. Bancroft and then, that day took his way on a freight train to Toronto.

Judge Weller said, "Burke, you are a clever one; there's very little you don't know. Supposing I found that Chas. Bancroft had registered at that hotel on Nov. 5th, how do I know you and Chas. Bancroft are one and the same man?"

Burke when asked by his Honor, "Why did you not bring this matter up about the Norwood hotel at the time of your trial?" responded, "Well, Judge, if you had done as much time in prison as I have, you would find your memory goes back on you!"

His Honor remanded Burke until Tuesday, March 10th, presumably to look into the matter of the Norwood hotel register.

Chancellor of Chicago Archdiocese Expects More Assassinations

Has Many Enemies

Chicago, Feb. 26.—"A murder will be committed in Chicago within a month similar to the Denver assassination, where the Rev. Father Leo Bannigan was shot down while administering holy communion in St. Elizabeth's Roman Catholic Church," asserted Chancellor Dunne of the Chicago archdiocese, last night. "I am positive that anarchists, anti-clericals or whatever they call themselves, have prepared lists of priests and clergy to be killed, and am certain that some Chicago man has been marked," he said. ""I am the most logical man for assassination, and although I have thousands of friends in the Italian colony, I also have many bitter enemies."

Father Dunn said if he was not chosen to be murdered the other candidates would be either Archbishop Quigley, the Very Rev. F. S. Angelhaci, of the Church of the Assumption, or the Rev. Father Francis Gordon, Provincial of the Church of Barretellenians.

Detectives Bernacchi and Longhibardi reported to Chancellor Dunne at the chancellery office, and told him they were instructed to serve as his personal body-guard.

A MILLION IN BANK BILLS WAS BURNED

Toronto, Feb. 26.—One million dollars in ashes!

That is the result of the burning process the defunct Sovereign Bank has been carrying on during the last ten days. A fortnight ago the million dollars was good legal tender in five, ten and fifty dollar bills. To-day all that remains is a small quantity of ashes.

Since the Sovereign Bank was taken over by the Syndicate those in the head office of the bank have been gathering in all Sovereign Bank currency. To date over a million dollars has been collected and there is about one million dollars yet in circulation. When these are taken up the same burning process will be gone through.

First of all the bills as they come in are counted by the clerks, then tied in bundles, and left to await a meeting of the directors, who hold, as it were, a funeral service over the doomed bills. The furnace is no ordinary one used for burning wood and coal. It is one of a different sort that is in the head office of the Bank of Commerce. The bills are put in, the fire lighted, and then comes the process of destruction.

Steps Will be Taken To Keep Out Undesirable Britishers

Ottawa, Feb. 26. — The Minister of the Interior, after consultation with the officials of the Immigration Branch, both in this country and in London, has taken steps which will, it is believed, result in preventing the influx from the British Isles during the present year of any immigrants other than those of a desirable class.

Investigation has shown that the most undesirable class of immigration which we are now receiving from the United Kingdom is that which results from the efforts of the benevolent and charitable societies, and of those who are out of employment in Toronto and other Canadian centres a very large proportion is found to belong to this class. Under these circumstances the Minister of the Interior has thought it fair to order that, after April 15 any person who comes to Canada on assisted passage, through charitable or public funds, will be subject to exclusion from this country unless he has a certificate from the Canadian immigration authorities in London that he is a suitable settler.

Regulations are already in force requiring that all settlers must have at least $25 on their persons when they arrive in this country. It has been felt, however, that even stricter measures are desirable to prevent the flooding of our cities with an undesirable class of immigrants.

The new regulation will continue in force until such time as the conditions now prevailing in Toronto and other Canadian cities are relieved.

It is probable that the result of these measures will be so considerably reduce the total immigration into this country from the United Kingdom during 1908, as the number sent out by charitable and benevolent societies last year totalled 13,000. It is hoped, however, that those who do come will be of a class for which there will be no difficulty in providing employment. An even more determined effort will be made this year than before to place those who do come upon the land.

There are no assisted passages to Canada from Continental Europe, and there are almost exclusively confined to the British field. The regulations, of course, will apply to any assisted passages from the Continent.

THOMPSON AND SEXSMITH THE CONSERVATIVE CANDIDATES

Were the Unanimous Choice of the East Peterboro Conservatives in Convention at Norwood Yesterday

Quite a number of the stalwarts of Peterborough city and county left yesterday at noon to attend the Conservative convention at Norwood. Among those who boarded the train were: Messrs. D. Mahoney, R. Mahoney, Edgar Knight, J. W. Garvin, Peter Gardiner, Ald. Butler, Joshua Smithson, J. H. Burnham, Ald. Phelan, O'Brien, Robt. Lancashire, T. Rutherford, J. J. Bowden, R. J. McCamus, Greystock, Keene, O'Langley, Watson, Spence, Strickland and Ingram, Lakefield; Porter, Bowden and Jas. Smithson, Quaker.

LATER.

Yesterday the usually quiet village of Norwood had quite an excitement as delegates to the Conservative nomination convention of the east riding of this great county of ours arrived from all points of the compass.

The afternoon session was mainly devoted to organization business, followed by the equally important matter of selecting standard bearers for the party at both Dominion and Provincial elections. The result of the ballot for the Ottawa House, which was the first taken, was the choice once more of Mr. Sexsmith, who has been a defeated candidate before, but expects to make good at the next general election. Roland Strickland, of Lakefield, and Messrs. Smithson and Moore were also nominated, but Mr. Sexsmith was the unanimous choice.

There were five candidates for the Legislative Assembly honors. The choice of the convention after a close ballot was for Mr. Thompson, the reeve of Havelock and warden of the county. Mr. Thompson was given a close run by Mr. Andrews, an ex-County Councillor, the former winning by 48 to Mr. Andrews 44. The convention was very well attended, and much enthusiasm was observable. During the evening addresses were given by Hon. G. E. Foster, ex-Minister of Finance, and Mr. J. P. Downey, M.P.P., Guelph.

Drivers Must Draw Up at Crossings

As several complaints have recently been made to and in the local press concerning the reckless and illegal way in which some drivers forget that pedestrians have the right of way, and that drivers must pull up to ensure safety to these passing about ever street crossings, it might be noted that a city by-law of Peterborough expressly covers this point. The by-law is No. CCCXCV. of July 22nd, 1879, "regulating by-laws 153 and 227 for the better government of the town of Peterborough and for the suppression of nuisances."

Section 5 of the by-law says, in part, "Every person riding or driving along any public street or thoroughfare in the town of Peterborough shall slacken his speed in approaching any crossing for foot passengers, upon which any person may be crossing such public street or thoroughfare."

This by-law also contains a few points that might well be known to citizens and concerning which possibly many persons are ignorant. For instance the by-law says, "No horse shall be trained on any of the streets of Peterborough. This section of the by-law is often broken, possibly through ignorance. Again as regards the use of sleighs drawn by horses, the by-law says that "At least two bells must be attached to the horse or sleigh. Another section, No. 34, says, "No person shall make or have in possession any lighted pipe or cigar in any stable, cabinet maker's shop, carpenter's shop or other shop or building where straw, shavings or other combustible material may be."

Say Hotel Men Failed in Duty

Lindsay Post: Yesterday County Police Magistrate Moore held court at Fenelon Falls when two of the local hotelmen were confronted with rather peculiar charges. It appears that a couple of weeks ago the Coboconk hockey team journeyed to Fenelon Falls to play a game of hockey with the team of that village. The boys from Coboconk arrived in the Cataract village as they were, at about 7.15, having been delayed in driving over on account of the extreme heavy roads. Immediately upon their arrival they repaired to the Twomey house, where they swore they saw Mr. Twomey and asked for supper, which Mr. Twomey was either unable or unwilling to supply, the evidence of the boys and the proprietor of the Twomey house being conflicting upon this point. From Mr. Twomey's place the Coboconk boys went to the hotel of John Aldous, who at first promised to get them something to eat, but when he found that their horses were at the Twomey house, refused point blank to either give them meals or a room.

The charge against these hotel men is for not providing accommodation for the travelling public, contrary to a section of the Liquor License Act. Judgment was reserved to allow Mr. Weldon, who appeared for the Liscense Inspector, and Mr. McLaughlin, K.C., who appeared for the defendants, to argue the matter before the magistrate.

Will Appoint Delegates

A meeting of the Peterborough branch of the National Sanitarium Association will be held at the Y.M.C.A. to-morrow afternoon at 4 o'clock for the purpose of appointing delegates to attend the convention of the National Association, which opens in Toronto, on Wednesday, March 4th. It will be held in the Royal Alexandra Theatre and will be presided over by Earl Grey.

24th Battery May Visit Quebec

It seems likely that the 24th Field Battery of Peterborough may be present at the ter-centenary celebration at Quebec city during the summer. It is understood that all the batteries in Canada are to be invited to attend, and if this is done the Peterborough men will likely accept the invitation. It would be a fine trip and the members of the corps are hoping that the plan may materialize.

It is likely that something definite about the matter will be learned when Col. Young, of Kingston, visits Peterborough early next month.

Frank Croft Overcome by Gas

Another victim to the poisonous effects of gas, who, however, recovered, was Mr. Frank Croft, who got a deep whiff spliting a cable of the Bell Telephone Co. in the manhole at the corner of George and Hunter streets. The manhole had been covered for some time and the gas accumulating in it was too strong for Croft. He was rescued by some of his companions and taken to the Bell Telephone Company's central office by Mr. Jas. Reid. Drs. Leitch, Ames and Fredericks were called and Mr. Croft was resuscitated in about half an hour.

We refer to that boon to weak, nervous, suffering women known as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

Dr. John Fyfe one of the Editorial Staff of THE ECLECTIC MEDICAL REVIEW says of Unicorn root (Helonias Dioica) which is one of the chief ingredients of the "Favorite Prescription":

"A remedy which invariably acts as a uterine invigorator * * * makes for normal activity of the entire reproductive system." He continues "in Helonias we have a medicament which more fully answers the above purposes than any other drug with which I am acquainted. In the treatment of diseases peculiar to women it is seldom that a case is seen which does not present some indication for this remedial agent." Dr. Fyfe further says: "The following are among the leading indications for Helonias (Unicorn root). Pain or aching in the back, with leucorrhœa; atonic (weak) condition of the reproductive organs of women, mental depression and irritability, associated with chronic diseases of the reproductive organs of women; constant sensation of heat in the region of the kidneys; menorrhagia (flooding), due to a weakened condition of the reproductive system; amenorrhœa, suppressed or absent monthly period, also pain or soreness or accompanying an abnormal condition of the digestive organs and anæmic (thin blood) habit; dragging sensations in the extreme lower part of the abdomen."

If more or less of the above symptoms are present, we invite you to ask your druggist for Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, one of the leading ingredients of which is Unicorn root, or Helonias, and the medical properties of which it most faithfully represents.

Of Golden Seal root, another prominent ingredient of "Favorite Prescription," Prof. Finley Ellingwood, M. D., of Bennett Medical College, Chicago, says:

"It is an important remedy in disorders of the womb. In all catarrhal conditions * * * and general subphasement, it is useful."

Prof. John M. Scudder, M. D., late of Cincinnati, says of Golden Seal root:

"In relation to its general effects on the system, there is no medicine in use about which there is such general unanimity of opinion. It is undeservedly regarded as the tonic useful in all debilitated states."

Prof. R. Bartholow, M. D., of Jefferson Medical College, says of Golden Seal:

"Valuable in uterine hemorrhage, menorrhagia (flooding) and congestive dysmenorrhœa (painful menstruation)."

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription faithfully represents all the above named ingredients and cures the diseases for which they are recommended.

GIRLS OF TODAYS ARE WEAKLING

Few Possess the Vitality and Girlish Beauty of the Olden Times

Never before was physical health and vigor so highly esteemed and so eagerly sought for as to-day.

No man finds happiness in a sickly wife, and the woman who wishes to enjoy the pleasures of life should spare no effort to maintain perfect health.

Is your daughter growing up strong and ruddy? Has she strength to drink in greedily all the pleasures that youth so zealously seeks—or is she compelled to use the street car instead of enjoying the delightful exercise of walking—does she after the ball arise refreshed and vigorous, or is she exhausted, indifferent, and perfume is irritable?

When strength and vigor can be so easily maintained by Ferrozone, when the glow of health is so quickly brought to the cheeks and elasticity to the step, it is plainly a mother's duty to see that Ferrozone is on hand to assist her daughter back to health.

Upon the wake of Ferrozone follows quickly a stream of rich, nourishing blood which imparts that power and surplus energy so earnestly desired by those in ill-health.

Stop and think what this means for your daughter—certainly a great deal, and it can be accomplished by Ferrozone.

Every growing girl and young woman derives enormous benefit in many ways from this nutritive, vitalizing tonic.

It is especially suited for young women and is a guarantee of health and regularity as long as it is used.

Ferrozone is free from alcohol and perfectly safe to use. Prepared in the form of a chocolate-coated tablet and sold in 50c. boxes or six for $2.50 at all dealers.

Morning Times

This paper is the only Morning Daily published between Toronto and Ottawa, and is largely read throughout Eastern Ontario.

Strangers visiting Peterborough are cordially invited to make their headquarters at the office of the Morning and Weekly Times, where they will be furnished with writing material, if needed.

The Times is a member of the Associated Press, and receives telegraphic news each morning up to four o'clock.

The Times will be sent to subscribers in the district at 25 cents per month, and to outside points at $2 per year, strictly in advance.

WHAT A NEWSPAPER COSTS

The Toronto Saturday Night, one of the ablest edited papers in Canada, in its last issue publishes an article dealing with the cost of producing the average daily newspaper, and predicts that in the near future a change will necessarily have to be made in that direction. It says:—

"Sooner or later the daily newspaper will have to be greatly reduced in size. Already the increase in the cost of white newsprint is such that many publishers in the United States deem it necessary to raise the price of the one-cent daily to two cents. In Canada several daily papers have built up large circulations at rates away below cost. Certain papers in Montreal and Toronto have accepted annual subscriptions from points beyond the edge of their local field at one dollar per year. In some cases this cheap rate was accepted from any out-of-town subscriber; in other cases the rule was drawn that the cheap rate was open only to those who lived at such a distance that the paper could not reach them on the day of publication. Of course a daily paper cannot be produced at one dollar per year. At that price the subscriber pays little more than half the cost of the white paper used, and pays nothing whatever towards the cost of editing, newsgathering, and the hundred and one expenses incurred in a modern establishment where blank sheets are converted into newspapers. The advertiser pays all the bills, everything, including, in some cases, huge deficits in circulation. He pays the entire cost of producing the dollar daily, and also subsidizes the subscriber by letting him have it at half the price the white paper costs when bought wholesale by the ton. To a greater or less extent the same kind of thing has been going on all over North America for years, and the dailies selling at less than the cost of the white paper have vastly increased the number of readers. The cheaper and larger a paper becomes the more it will circulate; the more a paper circulates the greater is the volume of advertising it can secure, and, at higher rates. Under this system the consumption of paper has become enormous. Papers have become universally read, huge in bulk, multifarious in contents. Writing in the American Review of Reviews, W. H. Rossiter, says that ten times as much newsprint is used in a year now in the United States as was consumed twenty-five years ago. Not only are there more publications, but the average of circulation is three times greater and the average of size has doubled. For five cents one buys a New York Sunday paper that equals in substance an octavo volume of 600 pages. "Every Sunday", he writes, "there are issued in the United States, 456 Sunday editions, which produce an amount of printed matter sufficient to form a library of six million volumes of 500 octavo pages each.' Yet these 'books' are but glanced at and thrown away. The forests of pulpwood from which paper is made are being devoured with a rapidity that has caused an alarm, reaching even to the Washington Government. President Roosevelt, in his last message to Congress, suggested that a deal should be made with Canada for a future supply—but many of us think Canada should, on her own premises, do the work of converting her forests into paper. As was said on this page some time ago, the paper mills of the United States have got to be fed from this side of the boundary, or they have got to come across to this side to feed.

No doubt diligent experiment will show that there are ways by which other woods than spruce, hemlock, poplar and balsam can be used in paper-making. But, even so, it seems impossible, without vast plans of reforesting, that North America can continue her waste of paper. It is out of all reason. Experts have been discussing the subject gravely of late, and all agree that daily newspapers will have to decline in size, sell at a higher figure, and give advertisers less space for the same money. It is a reform, however, that will be difficult to introduce, until forced by an actual paper famine—such a famine as will make paper so expensive that advertisers will not be willing to pay for the almost free distribution of unlimited quantities of it, and so scarce that only those will be asked to subscribe for a journal who are willing to pay something towards the cost of producing and delivering it."

Sports

New York, Feb. 25.—Matthew P. Halpin, manager of the American team that is to go to London for the Olympiad games of 1908, announces that the team will sail from New York on the steamer Philadelphia for the American Line on Saturday, June 27.

The team will arrive in London about July 4, and will have about a week in which to prepare for the competitions, as the Stadium will open on July 13.

Accommodations for 76 men have been reserved on the Philadelphia.

From Toronto Star.

"Will row you for world's championship and $1,500 side bet in New Zealand, November, or Toronto, September. Give or take £150 expenses, or can Thames, each man pay own expenses."

Such was the challenge Eddie Durman, the Toronto oarsman, who defeated Tom Sullivan here three years ago, and was defeated by Charles Towns in Australia last March, cabled to William Webb, the title-holder, immediately upon receipt of the news of the latter's victory over Charles Tressider, the challenger, this morning.

"I'll race Webb any place, under any favorable conditions," said Durman to-day. "I think I can beat him either in New Zealand, England, or here. Webb is a good man, but he isn't as good a man as Charley Towns, and Towns did not beat me so much, despite my illness. Of course, I would sooner row him here, but I'll row any place for the purpose of getting a chance at the title. I cannot row until the fall. I challenged both Webb and Tressider in letters sent out a month ago, hoping to get a go with the winner. I want to race, and will tackle any man in the world at any distance up to three miles."

From Toronto Star.

Tom Longboat may be away out of shape and all that some people claim, but if any runner in town feels like having a lively little jaunt, let him duplicate the training stunt of the Onondaga yesterday when he and Percy C. Sellen, the little Englishman, ran from the Indian's cigar store at the Princess Theatre to King street subway and back. It was only a bit of a workout, but it developed into a lively race. The Indian came home with a 50-yard lead, but Sellen made him step along in grand style. The Indian made the journey in 17.55, while Sellen's time was 18.05. The distance is a trifle better than 2 1-2 miles.

"You'll catch it this afternoon," said the bronzed boy to his little opponent on the mark, and he proceeded to make good the covert threat when the gun was fired.

He set off like a quarter horse. Sellen clung on gamely, but the pace was a bit too stiff, and the white lad dropped 40 yards going to Spadina avenue. At Bathurst street the Englishman was holding his own, and from there to the turn he commenced to pick up. At the subway he was only 20 yards back. Making the turn Sellen took a tumble and hurt his knee and lost another ten yards, but he gamely continued. From Spadina avenue in it was a ding-dong contest. The Indian ran to his limit, but the best he could do was to add another 10 yards to his lead. They run again Wednesday afternoon.

Ottawa, Ont., Feb. 25.—"If we win the Eastern Canada League championship we will be willing to play the Manitoba champions at any date after Saturday," said an officer of the Ottawa Hockey Club last night, regarding the acceptance of the Manitoba League challenge for the Stanley Cup, by Trustees Ross and Foran.

The formal challenge on behalf of the champions of the Manitoba League was received by Messrs. Foran and Ross from Secretary W. P. Fillmore. They replied that the challenge was accepted, and that they would order the holders of the trophy to be prepared to defend it next week or at the beginning of the following.

"We would welcome Stanley Cup games in the event of our landing the championship of the East," continued the Ottawa officer.

"Our team will be intact until March 20 or 25, and the players will be only too glad to try their skill against the Manitoba champions. They will want a few days' rest, but Portage or Maple Leafs, whichever win the Manitoba championship, will find us willing and ready for them. They cannot come East too soon for Ottawas providing we win from Wanderers."

Stop that tickling Cough! Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure will surely stop it, and with perfect safety. It is so thoroughly harmless Dr. Shoop tells mothers to use nothing else even with very young babies. The wholesome green leaves and tender stems of a lung healing mountain-ous shrub furnish the curative properties of Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. It calms the cough, and heals the sensitive bronchial membranes. No opium, no chloroform, nothing harsh used to injure or suppress. Demand Dr. Shoop's. Take no other. All Dealers.

To Restore The Dead to Life

Paris, February 62. — Dr. Louise B. Robinovitch, of New York, presented a remarkable paper before the French Biological Society, on a new method of resuscitating animals apparently dead from electrical shock.

Miss Robinvitch whose methods of electrical anaesthesia have already attained wide attention in France, after a long series of experiments on rabbits, dogs, and other animals, has reached the conclusion that the cases are rare where the victims cannot be recalled to life if the places the cathod, or negative pole, near the spinal column, and the anode over the kidneys, and gives the patient a series of rhythmic electrical impulses, thus restoring respiration and the cardiac reaction, and the animals which to all intents and purposes were perfectly dead come to life.

The same treatment has been successfully applied where the subject has been suffering from a syncope produced by chloroform.

Dr. Robinvitch will shortly make application to competent authorities in New York for permission to apply her system of resuscitation to the next murderer put to death by electricity.

Capital, $250,000.00 — 1,000,000 Shares 25c. each.

Good coal stock is a safe and sure investment. Galbraith shares are especially attractive.

Modest Capitalization — Large Coal Reserves

This Company organized under the laws of the Northwest Territories of Canada, owns and operates the Galbraith mine located at Lundbreck, Alta. They have four vertical seams of coal traversing their property, aggregating over 40 feet in thickness. Three of these seams are developed to a depth of 350 feet, and as they pass through the Company's lands for nearly a mile, some idea of the amount of coal may be had.

Shipping Steadily

The present output of the mine is about 200 tons per day. These shipments will be rapidly increased, as the C.P.R. allows its cars to be loaded with coal for points in the U. S.

We are selling a limited number of these shares at the extremely low price of

in blocks of 100 or over. Tight money in the States makes it possible for us to give this unprecedented offer in stock that will be paying dividends inside of six months, and you are sure to realize a handsome profit.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTHWEST HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an Agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of a homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father or mother.

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing must be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa, of intention to apply for patent.

W. W. CORY,
Deputy of the Minister of the Interior.

Editor's Advance Sheet

An independent and ably edited newspaper which commands a great circulation is probably the most potent influence for good in the United States today. The power for the better things in public affairs and policies, for instance, which is wielded by such a newspaper as The Chicago Record-Herald can scarcely be exaggerated, and much of that strength comes in the case of this leading Chicago daily from the fact that it is absolutely independent, fearless and free. It is not the mouthpiece of any ..... that is the public. The Record-Herald champions the cause of the good, the clean, the beneficial in every matter of city, state or national moment. It is the knowledge on the part of its readers that it cares not whom it hits or what enemies it makes, so long as it is battling for the welfare of the community, which gives to The Record-Herald much of the influence it enjoys. It gives in its news columns the most complete and impartial reports of political events, another evidence of its splendid news service.

CONTINUED.

"Mr. Norman," said Beecot gravely, "what is the story connected with the brooch?"

Aaron flung up his hands and looked toward the counter. "Don't ask me. What do you mean? I know no story of a brooch. What brooch? I never saw one—I never—ah"—he broke off in relief as two pale faced, spectacled girls entered the shop—"customers. What is it, ladies? How can I serve you?" And he hustled away behind the counter, giving all his attention to the customers, yet not without a sidelong look in the direction of the perplexed Paul.

That young gentleman, finding it impossible to get further speech with Aaron and suspecting from his manner that all was not right, left the shop. He determined to take the brooch to Wargrove himself and ask his mother about it. Then he could learn why she wanted it back—if not from her, then from his father. This knowledge might explain the mystery.

"Did you sell the brooch?" asked Grezzen as they walked up Gwynne street.

"No. I have to send it back to my mother, and"—

"Hold on!" cried Hay, stumbling. "Orange peel—ah"—

His stumble knocked Paul into the middle of the road. A motor car was coming down swiftly. Before Hay could realise what had taken place Paul was under the wheels of the machine.

CHAPTER V.

BART, who had witnessed the accident, hastened to tell Sylvia, and so great had the shock of the dreadful news been that she had fainted, whereupon the foolish shopman had been severely dealt with by Deborah. When Sylvia recovered, however, she insisted upon seeing Bart again and then learned that Paul had been taken to Charing Cross hospital.

"They drawed him from under the wheels, miss, as white as a vellum binding as didn't bin used. That gent as he was a-walking arm-in arm with slipped and knocked Mr. Beecot spinning under the steam engine." So did Bart describe the latest triumph of civilisation. "He was that sorry, in a cold blooded way, as I never saw. He helped to git Mr. Beecot into a cab and drove off. Then I come to tell you."

Aaron never knew that the man who possessed the brooch had been run over by a motor car or was in the hospital. Sylvia and Deborah both tried to look as cheerful as possible and schemed how to see the lover who had thus been laid low. Deborah boldly announced that she was taking Sylvia to buy her a new dress—that is, to choose it, for the cost was to be paid out of the servant's wages—and went with her one afternoon to the hospital. They heard that Paul's arm was broken and that he had been slightly hurt about the head. But there was no danger of his dying, and, although they were not allowed to see him, the two women returned greatly cheered.

Meanwhile their attention was taken up by the odd behavior of Aaron. The old man suddenly announced that he was about to sell the shop and retire and displayed a feverish haste in getting rid of his stock, even at a low price. Whether he sold the jewels so cheap as the books no one ever knew, but certainly the pundit caste did well out of the sale. Within the week the shop below was denuded, and there were nothing but bare shelves, much to the disgust of Bart, who, like Othello, found his occupation gone. The next day the furniture was to be sold, and when Deborah was comforting Sylvia at the week's end the last had already gone forth. Whither he intended to transfer his household the old man did not say, and this, in particular, was the cause of Sylvia's grief. She dreaded lest she should see her lover no more. This she said to Deborah.

"See him you shall, and this very day," cried the maiden decidedly. "Why, there's that dress. I can't make up my mind whether to have suspender or blue, both being suited to my complexion. Not that it's cream of the valley smother in roseleaf as yours is, my angel, but a dress I must have, and your pa can't deny my taking you to choose."

So the end of Deborah's tactful diplomacy was that the two went, not to the inferior draper's where Debby bought her extraordinary garments, though they went there later, but to the hospital, where to her joy Sylvia was allowed to see Paul. He looked thin and pale, but was quite himself and very devoted. "My darling," he said, kissing Sylvia's hand, while Debby sat bolt upright near the bed, with a large handbag and gingham propriety by choking. "How I shall get well quickly. The sight of you is better than all medicine."

"It may be for the last time, Paul," said Sylvia, trying to keep back her tears, "but you'll give me your address, and I'll write."

"Oh, Sylvia, what is it?"

"My father has sold the books and is selling the house. We are going away—where to I don't know."

"Sylvia," he asked, "did your father see my accident?"

"No, Paul. He was busy in the shop. Bart saw it, but Debby said he wasn't to tell father."

Paul asked Sylvia another question. "Do you remember that opal brooch I showed you?"

"The serpent. Yes?"

"Well, it's lost."

"Lost, Paul?"

The young man nodded mournfully. "I'm very vexed about it," he said in a low tone; "my mother wanted it back. I was going to send it that very day, but when I met with the accident it got lost somehow. It wasn't in my pocket when my clothes were examined, though I asked for it as soon as I became conscious. My friend also couldn't tell me."

"Him as caused the smashes," said Deborah, with several sniffs. "A nice, pretty friend, I do say, sir."

"It wasn't his fault, Deborah. Mr. Hay stumbled on a piece of orange peel and jostled against me. I was taken by surprise and fell into the middle of the road just as the motor came along. Mr. Hay was more than sorry and has come to see me every day with books and fruit and all manner of things."

"Sylvia," said Paul softly, "I want you to send your father to me."

"Yes, Paul. Why do you wish to see him?"

"Because he must be told of our love. I don't think he will be so hard as you think, and I am ashamed of not having told him before. I like to act honorably, and I fear, Sylvia, darling, we have not been quite fair to your father."

"I think so, too, Paul, and I intended to speak when we went home. But give me your address, so that if we go away unexpectedly I'll be able to write to you."

Beecot gave her his Bloomsbury address and also that of his old home at Wargrove, in Essex. "Write care of my mother," he said, "and then my father won't get the letter."

"Would he be angry if he knew?" asked the girl timidly.

Paul laughed to himself at the thought of the turkeycock's rage. "I think he would, dearest," said he, "but that does not matter. Be true to me, and I'll be true to you."

Here the nurse came to turn the visitors away on the plea that Paul had talked quite enough. Debby flared up, but became meek when Sylvia lifted a reproving finger. Then Paul asked Debby to seek his Bloomsbury lodgings and bring to him any letters that might be waiting for him.

On arriving in the room over the shop they found themselves confronted by Aaron, who looked less timid than usual and glowered at the pair angrily. "Where have you been, Sylvia?" he asked.

"Father, I have been to see Mr. Beecot at the Charing Cross hospital."

"Why is Mr. Beecot in the hospital?"

"He was knocked down," said Sylvia quietly, "and his arm is broken. A motor car ran over him in Gwynne street. He wants to see you to tell you that he lost something."

Norman turned even whiter than he was by nature, and the perspiration suddenly beaded his bald forehead. "The opal serpent!" he cried.

"Yes, the brooch he showed me."

"He showed you!" cried Aaron, with a groan. "And what did he tell you about it? What—what—what—the truth of"— He became passionate.

Debby grasped Aaron's arm and whirled him into the middle of the room like a feather. Then she planted herself before Sylvia, with her arms akimbo, and glared like a lioness. "You can pinch me, sir, or give me black eyes and red noses if you like, but no finger on my precious, if I die for it."

Aaron was staggered by this defiance and looked fierce for the moment. Then he became timid again and cast the odd, anxious look over his shoulder. "Leave the room, Deborah," he said in a mild voice.

The faithful maid replied by sitting down and folding her arms. "Get your wild horses, sir," she said, breathing heavily, "for only by them will I be tugged away." And she snorted so loudly that the room shook.

"Pshaw!" said Norman crossly. "Sylvia, don't be afraid of me." He wiped his face nervously. "I only want to know of the brooch. I like the opals. I wanted to buy it from Mr. Beecot. He is poor—he wants money. I can give it to him for—the—the brooch."

He brought out the last word with a gasp and again glanced over his shoulder. Sylvia, not at all afraid, approached and took the old man's hand. The watchful Deborah moved her chair an inch nearer, so as to be ready for any emergency. "Dear father," said the girl, "Mr. Beecot doesn't know where the brooch is. It was stolen from him when the accident happened. If you will see him he can tell you"—

"Not where the brooch is," interrupted Aaron, trying to appear calm. "Well, well, it doesn't matter." He glanced anxiously at Sylvia. "You believe me, child, when I say it doesn't matter."

A snort from Deborah plainly said that she had her doubts. Sylvia cast a reproving glance in her direction, whereupon she rose and committed perjury. "Of course it don't matter, sir," she said in a loud, hearty voice which made Aaron wince. "My precious believes you, though he it might be. But folk so good as you, sir, who go to church when there ain't any one to see, wouldn't tell lies without them a-choking of them in their blessed throats."

"How do you know I go to church?" asked Norman, with the smart of a trapped animal.

"Bless you, sir, I don't need glasses at my age, though not so young as I might be. Church you only, say what you may, you being as regular as the taxes, which is saying much. Lor' save us all!"

Deborah might well exclaim this. Her master flung himself forward with outstretched hands clawing the air and with his lips lifted like those of an enraged dog. "You, she cat," he said, in a painfully hissing voice, "you're a spy, are you? They've set you to watch—to drag me to the gallows"— He broke off with a shiver. His rage cooled as suddenly as it had heated, and staggering to the sofa, he sat down with his face hidden. "Not that—not that—oh, the years of pain and terror! To come to this—to this—Deborah—don't sell me. Don't. I'll give you money—I am rich. But if the opal serpent—if the opal"— He rose and began to beat the air with his hands.

Sylvia, who had never seen her father like this, shrank back in terror, but Deborah, with all her wits about her, though she was wildly astonished, seized a carafe of water from the table and dashed the contents in his face. The old man gasped, shuddered and, dripping wet, sank again on the sofa. But the approaching fit was past, and when he looked up after a moment or so, his voice was as calm as his face. "What's all this?" he asked feebly.

"Nothing, father," said Sylvia, kneeling beside him; "you must not doubt Debby, who is as true as steel."

"Are you, Deborah?" asked Aaron weakly.

"I should think so," she declared, putting her arms around Sylvia, "so long, sir, as you don't hurt my flower."

"I don't want to hurt her."

"There's feelings as well as bones," said Deborah, hugging Sylvia so as to keep her from speaking, "and love you can't squash, try as you may, though, bless you, I'm not given to hugging company myself."

"Love," said Aaron vacantly. He seemed to think more of his troubles than of Sylvia going to visit a young man.

"Love—and Mr. Beecot," said Deborah, "she wants to marry him."

"Why, then," said Aaron calmly, "she shall marry him."

Sylvia fell at his feet. "Oh, father, father, and I have kept it from you all these months. Forgive me, forgive me," and she wept.

"My dear," he said, gently raising her, "there is nothing to forgive."

Mr. Jerome Elliott left yesterday for Cookesville, Quebec, where he has accepted a position.

PAIN

Pain in the head—pain everywhere, has its cause. Pain is congestion, pain in blood pressure—nothing else usually. At least, so says Dr. Shoop, and to prove it he has created a little pink tablet. That tablet—called Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablet—counts blood pressure away from pain centers. Its effect is charming, pleasingly delightful. Gently, though safely, it evenly equalizes the blood circulation.

If you have a headache, it's blood pressure.
If it's painful periods with women, same cause.
If you are dyspeptic, restless, nervous, it's blood congestion—blood pressure. That surely is a certainty, for Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets give it in 20 minutes, and the tablets simply distribute the unnatural blood pressure.

Bruise your finger, and doesn't it get red, and swell, and pain you? Of course it does. It's congestion, blood pressure. You'll find it where pain is—always. It's simply Common Sense.

Uraemia Follows Kidney Disease

Dreadful perils lurk in kidney weakness.

Insidiously it develops into Bright's Disease, and Uraemic poisoning. Through the system it sweeps with fatal effect, causing dropsy, gout, gravel and jaundice.

Many remedies contain alcohol.

In consequence they inflame the disease to further fury.

A proper remedy will soothe and heal the kidneys, give them strength, and nourish them back to health

Such a remedy is Dr. Hamilton's Pills, which are composed of simple vegetable extracts and juices that are absorbed at once by the kidneys.

Dr. Hamilton's Pills heal and cure the diseased tissue, restore healthy action, and allay congestion and inflammation.

Proof is abundant, and here is quoted the experience of Mr. Patrick McDonald of 285 Kent Street, Ottawa.

"My back ached from morning till night. Every bit of work I did made me weak and worn. I couldn't stoop or lift without getting dizzy. My tongue was furred and my appetite poor. My head ached continually, and I had severe urinary disorders. My kidneys were in the worst possible state. I heard of the wonderful Dr. Hamilton's Pills, and proved them just the medicine I needed. Why, I felt better in a week, and after using these pills for a month or two at regular intervals I was completely restored."

Dr. Hamilton's Pills give complete relief because they act directly on the diseased tissues of the kidneys. Get the genuine in yellow boxes, 25c. per box, or five boxes for $1.00, at all dealers. Refuse a substitute.

CITY AND COUNTY NEWS

GAMBLES HERE AND THERE BY TIMES' REPORTERS.

City Council Meets Tonight

A meeting of the City Council will be held to-night when several important matters will be dealt with. It is likely that the Finance Committee will have the estimates in shape and that the rate for the year will be struck. Several other committees will also have reports and a busy session is anticipated.

The Council will meet at 7.30 o'clock.

Said Fall on a Hay Rack

As Walter Sullivan, of Emmamore, was loading straw to his rack to bring into the city a few days ago, he fell from the top of the pile, striking the rack so hard as to be unable to get up. Mrs Sullivan was brought to the city, and Dr. McNulty had him removed to St. Joseph's Hospital, where upon examination it was found that both bones below the knee in his left leg were fractured. As a result of the accident, he will be unable to be around again for a few weeks.

Grippe is sweeping the country. Stop it With Preventics, before it gets deeply seated. To check early colds with these little Candy Cold Cure Tablets is surely sensible and safe. Preventics contain no Quinine, no laxative, nothing harsh or sickening. Pneumonia would never appear if early colds were promptly broken. Also good for feverish children. Large box, 25 tablets, 25 cents. Vest pocket tins, 5 cents. Sold by all dealers.

Death of Mr. J. D. Buck

Mr. John D. Buck, one of the best known farmers of the township of Asphodel, passed away on Sunday morning, Feb. 16th, at the age of 64 years. The deceased is a son of Mr. Daniel Buck, who left Yorkshire, England, many years ago and settled in Asphodel. Mr. John D. Buck married Miss S. A. Parker, who with three sons and one daughter survive him. The funeral on Tuesday was very largely attended, testifying to the esteem in which the deceased was held.

A Quiet Otonabee Wedding

A quiet wedding was solemnized at the residence of Mr. E. L. Hair, Otonabee, on Tuesday afternoon when his daughter, Miss Annie, became the bride of Mr. Geo. Irwin Smith, of Minden. The bride was attended by little Miss Ruby Carr and the groom by Herbert Hair as best man. The bride was attired in a going away dress of poplin, and the flower girl in green nun's cuding. Rev. J. G. Potter, of St. Andrew's, was the officiating clergyman. The happy couple left for the west and will reside at Minden, Ont.

I wish that I might talk with all sick ones about the actual cause of Stomach, Heart, and Kidney ailments. To explain to person how weak Stomach nerves leads to Stomach weakness. I can cure would interest all. And it is the cause with weak Hearts or Weak Kidneys. This is why my prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative—so promptly reaches ailments of the Stomach, Heart, and Kidneys. It is wrong to drug the Stomach or stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. Those weak inside nerves simply need more strength. My Restorative is the only prescription made exclusively for those nerves. Next to seeing you personally, will be to mail you free, my new booklet entitled, "What To Do". I will also send sample of my Restorative as well. Write for the book to-day. It will surely interest you. Address Dr. Shoop, Box 5, Racine, Wis. All Dealers.

POLICE

At yesterday's session of the police court a young man named ——— was charged with disorderly conduct. This is the man who a week ago was arraigned on the same charge. It will be remembered that the trouble arose by Mead being arrested by P. C. Newhall whilst in the post office yard with a young girl named Lily Armitage, who has an unsavory reputation.

P. C. Newhall, in the witness box, said that on the night of the 17th the prisoner, Mead, was drunk on the sidewalk on George street. He was impeding pedestrians. As the corner of Hunter a rest Mead used bad language. Mead called him a ——— Prisoner stopped in front of the post office door on Hunter street. Lily Armitage came down Hunter from George street, following Mead from in front of the Crystal. As she passed Mead, the latter grabbed at the girl and said, "Come here, you little ———." The girl ran into the post office from Hunter street and turned round and peeped through the glass door. Mead followed her in. She ran out through the north door with Mead following her into the yard. Witness ran round the building to the yard. Mead and the girl were talking, and used bad language. The girl saw witness' shadow on the snow, and said, "Oh, Mr. Newhall, this man has been following me about and will not leave me alone. I have done nothing wrong." Witness then arrested Mead and let the girl go. Prisoner became violent and threw himself to the pavement three times while on the way to the station. When he got prisoner in the cell the latter grabbed him as he went to search him. P. C. Adams had to assist witness in making the search. Whilst on the way to the station prisoner said to him, "I'll give you $20 if you let me out. I don't want to be in this mix-up."

To Mr. Gordon, Newhall said eight or ten people stood in front of the crown hotel and six or eight in front of the post office whilst the arrest was made.

The prisoner, Mead, next went into the witness box, and said he used no bad language that night. He had been drinking but was not drunk. He did not speak to the girl on Hunter or George street. He was not in the post office. He remembered giving the girl ten cents. He does not know Queenie Grant, but has spoken to her.

A man named Ephraim Windover, the next witness, was with Mead on the night of the 17th. Did not hear Mead use any bad language nor display improper conduct. He was with Mead on Hunter street, but did not see the girl enter the post office.

The magistrate imposed a fine of $10 to be paid forthwith against Mead, which was paid out of funds found on his person when searched on the night of arrest.

A similar charge was laid against Windover, who was also fined $10. Mr. Gordon, who acted for the prisoners, stated that he will appeal. A further case against Meade for having improper relations with the Armitage girl was dismissed.

The mode of disposal of the little girl, Armitage, who admitted having been several times a prisoner in the police court was disposed of. Mr. Gordon noted that a farmer living in the country had offered to take her out at his place to work. Mr. Goodwill, of the Children's Aid Society, asked that the matter be left over for a week that he might correspond with Toronto about her and determine whether she would be taken by the society or placed in the Alexandra Home.

Chief Roszel Repudiates Letter

Yesterday at noon a lady named Mrs. Jas. Jellings brought a letter to the police station that had evidently given her much trouble and worry, as she was crying whilst talking to Chief Roszel. The letter, which with its peculiar orthography, reads as follows:

Miss Mary Young, — Three complaints has reached me of your staying at 861 Water street, and I soon you and a girl driving Sunday last with Mr. Lossey, a married man of bad reputation. I give you three days to leave 861 Water street, and I am hunting the other girl. Remember your oath against your faith. It's standing against you yet. Leave the house, 861 Water street, and Mr. Lossey and I will leave you alone.

CHIEF POLICE.

It might be noted that the Mr. "Lossey" referred to in the above is a brother of Mrs. Jellings'. The Miss Young, to whom the letter was written, is a respectable lady, and Mrs. Jellings, to use her own words, is "a decent woman who works for her living and no disgrace in that." She said that no rig has stopped at her house in fourteen years, but in saying this she evidently meant a "pleasure" rig, i.e., cutter or buggy.

Chief Roszel, after reading the letter, said that he of course did not write any such letter and will try to find out who has taken the unwarrantable liberty of sending such an epistle signed "Chief of Police." Mrs. Jellings claimed to know the handwriting of the letter and will produce another sample of the writing of the man she suspects.

Court Stanley, A.O.F.

A regular meeting was held on Tuesday evening in the S. O. E. Hall. There was a large attendance of members. Chief Ranger Bro. T. Hendry was in the chair. One candidate was duly initiated and five propositions were received for membership. The Chief Ranger made reference to the lamentable death of Bro. P. Bourgouin, who was a member of a court in England. The court have charge of the funeral, and will attend the same to-a body to-morrow afternoon at 2.30 o'clock, and the sympathy of the court is extended to the bereaved widow during her sadness.

The Pacific Fruit Cooling and Vaporizing Company, Incorporated for the purpose of cooling deciduous fruits and removing moisture from citrus fruits and keeping unde cold storage such fruits and other food products from the time of receiving them from the fruit growers until loaded on car and taken away by the Railroad Company for Eastern shipment

STUBBORN FACTS UNIMPEACHABLE

The loss in shipping deciduous and citrus fruits is enormous. The orange crop of Southern California alone is valued at $30,000,000. The government experts estimate that about 25 per cent. or $7,500,000, is lost every year by rough handling in packing and decay of fruit in transit to the Eastern markets. What a revenue of profit this loss would be to the shipper if it could be saved. Our process will save it. The same is true of the deciduous fruits of Northern California.

GREAT FORTUNES ARE MADE BY INVESTMENTS IN NECESSITIES

Fruit is one of the necessities of our civilized life, and the company that can place the fruit in the markets of the world in the best shape, in the quickest time, at the lowest rate, has a fortune within its grasp. The Armour Company in ten years made $5,000,000 net handling California fruit in refrigerator cars. Our process is as necessary to the fruit grower as the refrigerator car. Therefore we ought to receive as large a revenue for handling the same commodity.

GET IN WHILE THE ENTERPRISE IS NEW

No wiser words were ever spoken than these: "The chief point about getting rich is to invest in a new enterprise that is being managed by successful men, who have some of their own money in the deal." "One good investment is worth a lifetime of labor". Think over this sentence. A man's daily labor will never make him rich. He must have some money at work for him. Money invested never gets sick, keeps no holidays, never goes on strike. There are three things that ought to guide you: First, invest with honest men; second, invest with men of sound judgment; third, invest under conditions where you get your full share of profits the business yields. Get into a company whose destiny is guided by men of this stamp when its future is before and not behind it. Here is the secret of fortune. Plant the seed of your investment in the soil of opportunity, at the season of greatest promise when the enterprise is new. Every ounce of honor in the hearts of the men managing this company is pledged to give

A SQUARE DEAL FOR EVERY INVESTOR

There will be no preferred stock. Every dollar invested will be worth 100 cents on the dollar. Our Directors, as honourable business men, will not allow any tricks of trade by which the small investor can be frozen out. Their commercial standing proves they are not "grafters". The poor man's 500 or 100 shares will have the same standing in court as the rich man's 10,000, and they will draw the same proportionate dividend. We court investigation.

EVERY RICH MAN IN THE WORLD WAS ONCE POOR, OR HIS GRANDFATHER WAS.

THE OPPORTUNITY OF A LIFETIME

To get into a company that has the certainty of growth, the assurance of large and quick returns, a rapid advance in the price of stock, to make it an exceptional chance for big profits on a small investment. This is an ideal investment for the wage earner as well as the rich man. Moderate sums invested now will bring splendid returns in the near future. The logic of all this is

DON'T WAIT

Time is the essence of this proposition. The stock will certainly double in a short time. Jay Gould once said: "When you see a good investment don't wait to see if it pans out well, for by that time other people see it, too, and you have lost your opportunity."

WOMEN AS INVESTORS

Some of the heaviest stockholders in our company are women of keen business instincts. One lady in Los Angeles bought 5,000 shares, in a few days she returned and bought 5,000 more. This lady has never made a mistake in her business ventures. Women are good investors because they have courage to follow their convictions. Their intuitions are keener and truer than man's logic. Men may prevent her voting, but they can't prevent her drawing dividends on her investments. This is one branch of trade where sex, culture, or color does not count.

MANAGEMENT

The affairs of this company are in the hands of men of hodesty, ability, courage and good business judgment—men who have made a success of their own business—men whose business reputation is A1 in the commercial circles in which they move.

These men are "square" and "shrewd". They will not deceive you nor will they be deceived themselves. Because of the promise of growth, permanency and profit this business offers they have united their money, energy, time and business experience to make this enterprise a grand success.

Notwithstanding the Financial Crisis, Investments made Six Months ago have Advanced

150 PER CENT

The next six months promises to far exceed the past six months

If you investigate this proposition you will surely invest.

MR. GEO. BALL IS NOW MARKET CLERK

At a Salary of $750 a Year--Will Still Conduct Milk Tests--Sanitary Work to be Done by Police

The committee of the whole City Council met last night, when there were present Mayor Barry Rush and Aldermen McIntyre, Morgan, Johnston, Gillespie, Buller, Morrow, Turner, Bradburn, Tovey, Phelan and Elliott.

Ald. Bradburn was added to the committee appointed to attend the Toronto Legislature in the interests of the city's application for special legislation.

SPECIAL SESSION.

The committee here adjourned into special session of the Council.

Mr. F. D. Kerr addressed the Council on behalf of G. Walter Green, who protests against this municipal body applying to the Legislature for permission to bonus to the extent of $30,000 the company which shall resurrect and operate the William Hamilton Co. Mr. Kerr pointed out that in the Municipal Act it is recognized that bonusing any institution is unlawful and unfair to the other industries, unless with the consent of any person or persons who have by their own industry and capital built and worked up a similar business to that proposed to be bonused. Mr. Kerr said he had been advised by Mr. Green that the business is of the same nature to that to be conducted by the proposed new William Hamilton Co., and on behalf of his client he made public protest, according to law, against the Council petitioning the Legislature for power to bonus the proposed new company.

FINANCE REPORT.

Ald. Morrow submitted the report:

Gentlemen.—Your Finance Committee beg leave to report and recommend as follows:

1. That the property in arrears for taxes the length of time required by law, be put up for sale.

2. That the salary of the city treasurer be fixed at $1,250 from 1st January, 1908.

3. That D. W. Dumble be paid $500 in accordance with the settlement made by the mayor for the land taken for the extension of George street south of Hunter street, and that a cheque for that sum be issued to the city solicitor.

4. That two hundred printed copies of the auditor's report be procured as usual.

5. That the mayor be appointed to attend the commission regarding the differences in Hamilton, on March 4th, and that his expenses be paid.

6. That a by-law be submitted to the electors to make assessments for sidewalks on Hunter street, Aylmer street, Park street, Rubidge street, Water street, Dublin street, Rogers street, Bolton street, Wood street, Parkhill road, Rubidge street, Dublin street, Water street, Park street, Aylmer street, Hunter

VERY PREVELENT IN YOUNG WOMEN

A Condition of "Waite-Bloodedness" is Fast Increasing.

It is always associated with languor and sensitiveness to cold. All the mucous surfaces, such as the gums, lips and eyelids, are blanched and waxy looking, the skin is pallid and colorless.

The pulse becomes rapid and feeble; there is also loss of appetite and enfeebled digestion, palpitation of the heart, breathlessness and tendency to faint. In extreme cases there is complete disappearance of the menses, also, flow and dropsical swelling of the limbs.

Physicians know of no remedy so prompt in results as Ferrozone, which contains all the elements lacking in debilitated blood.

Ferrozone not only improves the present quality of the blood, but actually forms more blood—the rich, red kind that nourishes and feeds the organs that require assistance.

"About a year ago," writes Mrs. S. G. Stanhope, of Rothesay, "my daughter complained of feeling tired. She was very pale and listless, and kept losing strength until too weak to attend school.

"We read of a similar case, that of Miss Deecent, Stirling, Ont., being cured by Ferrozone, and this induced us to get it for Elaine. It took three boxes of Ferrozone to make any decided improvement, but when six boxes were used my daughter was beginning to be her old self again. It didn't take much longer to make a complete cure. It has made a new girl of Elaine. She has gained ten pounds in weight and looks the picture of perfect health. She is stronger and enjoys the best of spirits."

Every growing girl and young woman can make herself strong and healthy with Ferrozone. Price 50c. per box, or six for $2.50, at all dealers.

AN EXPENSIVE ITEM

The Ottawa Free Press is evidently not enamoured of the idea of that municipality assuming the cost of the removal of snow from the sidewalk, and in that connection says: —

"Snow cleaning is an expensive item, no less a sum than $18,000 having been set apart, which, with a deficit of $4,012 last year, makes $22,012 in all. Ottawa has a big reputation to keep up in the matter of snow cleaning, and indeed it is proverbial that no city in Canada can in any way approach the capital in this respect. In addition to the general public convenience being so well served, the removal of the seasonable element provides no little work for hundreds who might otherwise be unemployed, so that, all round, no fault will be found with this year's appropriation. It is, however, practically certain that the snow tax, which was previously imposed on the frontage principle as in the case of street sprinkling, will be again introduced next year. The reimposition would have been made now but for the fact that the assessment rolls had all been compiled when the recommendation of the city engineer reached the Board of Control."

Tuberculosis Conference

Gathering to be Held in Toronto Next Week

The programme for the conference of Municipal Representatives called to meet in the Royal Alexandra Theatre, Toronto, on March 4th, by the National Sanitarium Association, to discuss how more effective provision can be made for the relief of those who are suffering from, and for the prevention of the spread of Tuberculosis, is one that will likely attract a large number of delegates from all parts of the Province.

His Excellency, Earl Grey, will preside, and address the Conference. Addresses will also be delivered by His Honor Sir Mortimer Clark, a number of leading medical men, Mayors, Wardens and others.

The Mayor and Council of the City of Toronto propose to entertain at luncheon the Municipal delegates at 12.30, noon, and His Honor the Lieutenant Governor, will give a reception in the evening from 8 to 10 o'clock. The Conference will be opened at 2.30 p. m.

There has been a remarkable awakening within the past year regarding the Tuberculosis problem. There is little doubt that the outcome of the Conference of March 4th, will have an important bearing on legislation that is expected from the local legislature during the present session.

There is not a municipality in the Province that is not interested in this great problem.

Municipal officers, Medical men, Clergymen, and everyone in fact interested in the study of this question will be made welcome by the National Sanitarium Association. Arrangements have been made for special railway fare, full particulars of which can be obtained by writing Mr. J. S. Robertson, Secretary-Treasurer, National Sanitarium Association, 347 King St., West, Toronto.

WILES OF THE WICKED.

Clever Ruse by Which Two Cops Were "Done" In Alberta.

Many ingenious ways of defeating the prohibition regulations have been devised by thirsty individuals whose lot has been cast in a droughty land. One of the most original schemes on record, however, comes from a small Alberta township.

The anti-liquor regulations were being enforced with all the rigor of the law in that particular town. The desert of Sahara was not so dry. Consequently, when one day a large keg of whisky was discharged on the platform of the station by a passing freight train, the curiosity of the two local constables was aroused. They scented a case and made immediate investigation. There was no name on the keg, so the constables sat themselves down in the shade of the freight shed and waited developments.

Nothing happened, however. No one called to get the whisky. The freight clerk knew nothing about it. It sat solidly on the platform, a blot on the prohibition landscape.

The two constables waited until nightfall. Then one of them went home, leaving the other to keep watch and ward during the night. The lone constable waited till morning, but nothing happened. Watch was changed. One constable went home to get his much-needed sleep, leaving the other in his coign of vantage, watching the keg with eagle eye. All day long he watched, but still nothing happened.

Evening came. "To-night, for sure," thought the constable. Watch was changed, but the keg remained unmolested all that night.

Next morning the constables held a consultation. They decided to remove the keg to one of their houses. Even though they could not arrest the offenders they could at least confiscate the contraband.

They approached the keg gingerly, for the brooding barrel had assumed a sinister appearance in their eyes. They took hold of it. It moved with wondrous ease. They lifted it up. It was empty.

Clean through the boards of the platform up through the bottom of the cask, was a neat augur hole. While they had waited and watched the barrel had been tapped from beneath the platform—the whisky taken away and the keg left for them to look at.

THE NORTHERN LIGHTS.

A Superstition That Lives Among the French Canadians.

"The northern lights are very beautiful to-night," I told the grandmere when I came in. "You should see them."

"The eclairon!" she gasped, and, jumping up, went out on to the galerie. I followed and found her staring blankly at the sky, her hands clasped over her breast.

"Sacre bleu, it is bad—too bad," she repeated, and went in as abruptly as she came out. I stayed to enjoy the glory. The sky grew much brighter. The vapory shafts of delicate violet and rose now shot far down the southern sky, and the aureola had reached the zenith.

The music ceased inside. The habitants came out, and as they looked heavenward a silence fell on them. It grew profound, then intense. I could hear some one's watch tick.

No one spoke or moved until the grandmere, stretching her withered hand skyward, began a low monotonous chant. It was weird and eerie. My scalp seemed to move. The words were so indistinctly spoken I could not catch their meaning. The others joined her, and the song swelled through the village and re-echoed from the distant sombre mountains. One by one the villagers began to leave, and the song gradually died away. Some, however, still sang as they went down the road. The dance was over. As I turned into the house with Philippe, I asked him what the song meant.

The country is very dry, the m'sieur knows," he answered, securing the door with a heavy wooden bolt. "We have a drought in the country, and if the eclairon is very bright during a drought it is that there will be only little of harvest—v'la! It is too bad. So we prayed to-night that it may not come true this autumn. It is a superstition of the oldest. Some believe it not. I hope that is not true, but I don't know," he added shrugging his shoulders.

Test Bureau For Canada.

There is a movement among the electrical supply men and the insurance men to have established in connection with the Canadian Fire Underwriters' Association a bureau for the purpose of testing electrical appliances.

At present every invention or improved appliance has to be sent to the National Board of Fire Underwriters of the United States at Chicago for approval before it can be accepted as a standard. A fee which runs from $10 to $100 is charged for this work. Manufacturers of electrical apparatus express the opinion that it is unfortunate that a country the size of Canada should not have standards of her own, and point to the fact that many of the good moves made by the Canadian Fire Underwriters' Association of Canada have been adopted by the National Association of the United States.

Officers of the Canadian Underwriters' Association agree that while such a bureau would be a capital thing it would cost too much to establish on an elaborate scale. The practical testing of insulation to ascertain its durability is one form of the work which the Canadian Bureau could not take up. It is estimated that a bureau anything like the National Bureau at Chicago would not cost less than $100,000 per year to run. Government assistance may be sought.

The Honest of It.

He claims he made his money
By honest toil alone.
That's truly so, but then, you know,
The toil was not his own.

Stop that tickling Cough! Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure will surely stop it, and with perfect safety. It is so thoroughly harmless Dr. Shoop tells mothers to use nothing else even with very young babies. The wholesome green leaves and tender stems of a hoar hailing mountainous shrub furnish the curative properties of Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. It calms the cough, and heals the sensitive bronchial membranes. No opium, no chloroform, nothing harsh used to injure or suppress. Demand Dr. Shoop's. Take no other. All Dealers.

MODERN POACHING.

Country Thieves Use Many New and Artful Contrivances.

As years pass on, poaching, like everything else, becomes more scientific. The old hempen net which the poacher used to hang across a fieldgate at night for hares has given place to one of silken cord, and the cheap bull's-eye lantern to the more costly but more handy electric torch. Perhaps the most dangerous improvement, from the game-preserver's point of view, says a writer in "Chambers's Journal," is the substitution of the motor-bicycle or motor-car for the old-fashioned one-horse trap. It might be imagined that the motor-bicycle would be of little use for carrying game; but only the other day a motor cyclist was arrested near a Midland town with five newly-killed hares in a box behind the seat. Parisian papers tell of well-organized gangs who raid the coverts near the French capital by the aid of apparatus worth hundreds of pounds, who have relief funds for those injured in affrays, and who retain lawyers to defend those captured by keepers. Happily this sort of thing is still unknown in England.

After Pheasants.

Not unnaturally the pheasant stands at the head of the poacher's list. If a poacher can be sure of a quiet half-hour in the covert, he slips in, sets a net across a run, sends his lurcher slinking round through the undergrowth, and presently, with a flutter and a flop, a fine cock-bird is fast in the net, next moment to be transferred to the poacher's pocket. A method of taking pheasants which was more common a few years ago than it is now was that of "smoking." The first essential is to discover a tree where the birds roost. Then, upon a dark, still night, the poacher goes to the spot armed with a handful of sulphur and the lid of an old biscuit-box. A fire of dry leaves is lighted upon the lid, the illumination being carefully concealed by a coat hung round it. As soon as the leaves have blazed up, the sulphur is flung on the flames, and the lid held up under the bough on which the pheasants are roosting. Soon the suffocating fumes take effect. With a rustle and thump a fat bird thuds upon the ground. One after another they drop, and with luck the poacher may get half a dozen from a single tree.

Drugged Barley.

Another favorite plan is to soak barley or wheat for some hours in warm water. When the grain is thoroughly softened, the water is strained off and strong spirit poured over the wheat. The swollen grains absorb the spirit, and the doctored bait is then spread in one of the glades where the birds feed. It is an odd fact that most birds seem to like alcohol. Pheasants are no exception. The not unnatural result is that the finest birds—those which have secured the lion's share of the feast, are soon reeling about helplessly drunk. The poacher, who has been lying "doggo" near by, has nothing to do but jump up and wring their necks. Another method of the pheasant poacher deserves mention for its very ingenuity. It owes its success to the well-known pugnacity of our finest game bird. A game cock is armed with steel spurs of great length and keenness, and dropped where a pheasant has been observed to crow. The pheasant will allow no rival within its domain, and presently comes strutting out of covert. Naturally, he stands no more chance than a man armed with a paper knife would against a Western desperado with a bowie. He is killed in a few seconds. The poacher picks up the dead bird, catches his game-cock, and moves on in search of fresh victims.

The Birds' Caps.

An old-fashioned way of catching rooks when they become too numerous to suit the farmer was to bury in the plough land little conical bags of paper, the sides smeared with birdlime and a bait at the bottom. The same plan has been adopted with considerable success for the capture of pheasants. The bait is barley, and the bird completely blinded by the cap which clings so tightly to its head, falls an easy victim to man or dog. In an open field you will often see small pieces of brushwood stuck into the ground at intervals. These are set by the keeper for the purpose of hooking up the nets of night poachers for partridges. Partridges roost upon the ground, and by means of a long, light net dragged across the grass by two men a whole covey is often captured at one swoop. This form of poaching is only possible on a dark night, and at such a time the a dark night, and at such a time the branches, and, therefore, they get their nets entangled in them. But some have nowadays taken to lining the ground side of their nets with some stiff glazed stuff. A net so protected will slide over most obstacles.

Unfeeling.

A certain drill sergeant whose severity had made him unpopular with his company was putting a squad of recruits through the funeral exercise. Opening the ranks so as to admit the passage of the supposed cortege between them, the instructor by way of practical explanation walked slowly down the lane formed by the two ranks, saying as he did so:

"Now I'm the corpse. Pay attention."

Having reached the end of the party, he turned round, regarded them steadily with a scrutinising eye for a moment or two, then remarked:

"Yours 'ands is right, and your 'eads is right, but you 'aven't got that look of regret you ought to 'ave."

Rats Grind Off Their Teeth.

A curiously marked stone has been found at Cokesbrooke, Devonshire, England, in the middle of a wheat rick, and geologists who have seen it express the opinion that the markings on the stone were caused by rats using it to grind their teeth, which otherwise grew to an inordinate length.

Some rats have been even known to starve owing to their teeth getting too long.

WILD SPRING MOVEMENT.

Seven Thousand Naked Fanatics Will Make Pilgrimage.

Reports received at Winnipeg indicate that the coming spring will see the Doukhobors leave their Northwest communities and go on another wild pilgrimage. All accounts agree that the fanaticism of the sect has no parallel in modern times.

Doukhobor leaders have been particularly busy since the beginning of winter issuing decrees and each new promulgation seems to have been drafted with a desire to outdo the preceding ones in inflicting hardship and suffering on "the faithful."

Children are said to be dying for the want of proper food.

The people are paupers. They have obeyed an order to sell all their cattle. With the beginning of winter they sold 15,000 sheep to mock the benevolence of the Quakers, who gave the flocks to them. All products of the lands go to the sect leaders. All chickens have been sold in obedience to a decree. Tea, coffee, sugar and pancakes have been tabooed and the general diet has been narrowed to raw potatoes, onions, carrots, turnips, and a few other vegetables.

Among the latest decrees have been those abolishing time and looking glasses. Agents of the leaders have taken away from the people about $7,000 worth of clocks and watches. One of Peter Veregin's lieutenants acted as looking-glass collector.

The women folk who are noted for their deftness with their needles, have been forbidden to make any more embroidery.

The Doukhobor wheat is handled by a committee which does what it pleases with it. This committee controls pretty nearly everything in the way of labor. The gangs which work on the railway and in the community brickyard pay over their wages to the committee without receipt. But when it comes to the laborers getting their meagre food allowances from the committee, they are compelled to give a receipt for every ounce.

In one district five hundred persons are living in two houses. Each adult is allowed a sleeping space four feet wide. All have to climb into their beds over the foot boards. The young men are stowed away in the garrets of the houses after the fashion of canned sardines.

Nobody is permitted to wear more than one shirt, no matter how cold the weather may be.

MANITOBA'S BUDGET.

Increased Subsidy Keeps Balance on Right Side.

The annual budget speech of the Provincial Treasurer commences with a note of warning as to the future and as to the "rich man's panic," through which the financial world has been passing. Mr. Agnew announced a reduction in the surplus from $518,399 of the financial year ending Dec. 31, 1906, to only $294,353.11 for the financial year just ended. He showed how he arrived at this surplus, which was by taking the receipts from the consolidated revenue for the year 1907, which amounted to $2,118,734.12, and deducting therefrom the ordinary expenditure, which, he claimed amounted (excluding capital expenditure) to $1,824,381.01, which leaves a surplus of $294,353.11. The decrease in the surplus is not due to hard times, as later on the Provincial Treasurer gave the figures of his own estimates in 1907, and the actual receipts in that year. The estimates made by Mr. Agnew amounted to $2,047,497.46, whereas the total actual receipts were $2,116,734.12, an increase of $71,236.66 over the estimate. The actual receipts were also $29 0 2 05 in excess of the previous year.

Concluding with his estimates for the year 1908, the Provincial Treasurer assumes that the revenue will mount to $2,827,987.46. This startling increase over previous years is principally due to an estimated income from Government telephones of $625,000 as against an expenditure of only $350,000. The total estimated expenditure for 1908 Mr. Agnew placed at $2,440,350.37. In his closing remarks he admitted that the Government had made mistakes, but, it is claimed, they were made honestly and that they expected criticism.

Big Reunion of Canadians.

Four hundred sturdy sons of Canada, representing all walks of life in New England, gathered at the 21st annual banquet of the Maritime Provinces Association recently in Worcester.

Cheers for the land of their birth, old-time songs, dear to every Canadian, the rekindling of old friendships and stirring speeches lauding the land of their birth were features of the evening.

Acting Mayor Coates welcomed the gathering and said: "Canada has helped us in every way, but her greatest help is in giving us the men I am now addressing." Timely speeches by men from every province were well received. Everything was Canadian in tone and nothing was omitted that would make the reunion memorable.

Good coal stock is a safe and sure investment. Galbraith shares are especially attractive.

Modest Capitalization — Large Coal Reserves

This Company organized under the laws of the Northwest Territories of Canada, owns and operates the Galbraith mine located at Lundbreck, Alta. They have four vertical seams of coal traversing their property, aggregating over 40 feet in thickness. Three of these seams are developed to a depth of 350 feet, and as they pass through the Company's lands for nearly a mile, some idea of the amount of coal may be had.

Shipping Steadily

The present output of the mine is about 200 tons per day. These shipments will be rapidly increased, as the C.P.R. allows its cars to be loaded with coal for points in the U. S.

SYNOPSIS Of CANADIAN NORTHWEST HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an Agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of a homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father or mother.

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing must be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa, of intention to apply for patent.

Editor's Advance Sheet

An independent and ably edited newspaper which commands a great circulation is probably the most potent influence for good in the United States today. The power for the better things in public affairs and policies, for instance, which is wielded by such a newspaper as The Chicago Record-Herald can scarcely be exaggerated, and much of that strength comes in the case of this leading Chicago daily from the fact that it is absolutely independent, fearless and free, it is not the mouthpiece of any interest, except that of the public. The Record-Herald champions the cause of the good, the clean, the beneficial in every matter of city, state or national moment. It is the knowledge on the part of its readers that it cares not whose it hits or what enemies it makes, so long as it is battling for the welfare of the community, which gives to The Record-Herald much of the influence it enjoys. It gives in its news columns the most complete and impartial reports of political events, another evidence of its splendid news service.

CHAPTER VI.

BOTH Deborah and Sylvia were astonished that Aaron should be so indifferent about their long concealment. They had expected and dreaded a storm, yet when the secret was told Mr. Norman appeared to take it as calmly as though he had known about the matter from the first. Indeed, he seemed perfectly indifferent, and when he raised Sylvia and made her sit beside him on the sofa he reverted to the brooch.

"I shall certainly see Mr. Beecot," he said in a dreamy way. "Charing Cross hospital, of course. I'll go tomorrow. I had intended to see about selling the furniture then, but I'll wait till the next day. I want the brooch first—yes—yes," and he opened and shut his hand in a strangely restless manner.

"Sir," said Deborah, folding her arms and scratching her elbow, "I do think as offspring ain't lumps of dirt to be trod on in this way. I ask"—she flung out her hand toward Sylvia—"is she your own or is she not?"

"She is my daughter," said Aaron mildly. "Why do you ask?"

"'Cause you don't take interest you should take in her marriage, which is made in heaven if ever marriage was."

Norman raised his head like a war horse at the sound of a trumpet call. "Who talks of marriage?" he asked sharply.

"Dear father," said Sylvia gently, "did you not hear? I love Paul and I want to marry him."

Aaron stared at her. "He is not a good match for you," was his reply.

"He is the man I love," cried Sylvia, tapping with her pretty foot.

Norman placed his fingers under Sylvia's chin and tipped it up so that he could gaze into her eyes. "Child, do you love him?" he asked gravely.

"Oh, father!" whispered Sylvia and said no more. The expression of her eyes was enough for Aaron, and he turned away with a sigh.

"You know nothing about him," he said at length.

"I should have explained before," said the girl quietly and very distinctly. "I loved Paul from the moment I saw him enter the shop six months ago. He came again and again, and we often talked. Then he told me of his love, and I confessed mine. Deborah wanted to know who he was and if he was a good man. From what I learned of Paul's people he seemed to be all that was good and generous and high minded and loving. Deborah sent Bart one holiday to Wargrove in Essex, where Paul's parents live, and Bart found that Paul had left home because he wanted to be an author. Paul is very popular in Wargrove, and every one speaks well of him. So Deborah thought we might be engaged, and"—

"And have you a word to say against it, sir?" demanded Deborah, bristling.

"No," said Aaron, after a pause, "but you should have told me."

"We should," admitted Sylvia quickly, "but Paul and I feared lest you should say 'No.'"

"My child," said the old man heavily, "so long as you wed a kind and good man I have nothing to say. Sylvia, I have worked hard these many years and have made much money, which, by will, I have left to you. When I die, you will be rich. He is poor."

"Paul—yes, he is poor. But what of that?"

"Many fathers might think that an objection," went on Aaron without noticing her remark. "But I do not. You shall marry Paul before I go to America."

"Lor'!" cried Deborah, "whatever are you a-goin' there for, sir?"

"That's my business," said Aaron dryly, "but I go as soon as I can. I have sold the books, and the furniture of these rooms shall be disposed of before the end of the week. My guess I take to Amsterdam for sale, and I go abroad next week. When I return in a fortnight you can marry Mr. Beecot. He is a good young man. I quite approve of him."

"Oh, father," cried Sylvia, putting her arms round Norman's neck, "how good you are! I do love him so."

"I hope the love will continue," said her father cynically and removing the girl's arms, to the secret indignation of Deborah. "I shall call on Mr. Beecot tomorrow and speak to him myself about the matter. If we come to an arrangement, for I have a condition to make before I give my entire consent, I shall allow you a certain sum to live on. Then I shall go to America, and when I die you will inherit all my money—when I die," he added, casting the usual look over his shoulders. "But I won't die for many a long day," he said, with a determined air. "At least, I hope not."

Aaron looked undecided, then spoke impulsively, walking toward the door as he did so. "Let Mr. Beecot give me that opal serpent," he said, "and he shall have Sylvia and enough to live on."

"But, father, it is lost!" cried Sylvia in dismay.

She spoke to the empty air. Norman had hastily passed through the door and was descending the stairs quicker than usual. Sylvia, in her eagerness to explain, would have followed, but Deborah drew her back with rough gentleness. "Let him go, lily queen," she said. "Let sleeping dogs lie if you love me."

When Bart heard the joyful news he was glad, but expressed regret that

"Hokar is poor: Hokar need money."

Norman should go to America. He did not wish to lose his situation, and never thought the old man would take him to the States also. Deborah vowed that if Aaron did want to transport Bart—so she put it—she would object. Then she unfolded a scheme by which, with Bart's savings and her own, they could start a laundry. "And I knows a drying ground," said Deborah, while talking at supper to her proposed husband, "as is lovely and cheap. One of them suburbs on the line to Essex, where my pretty will live when her husband's frantic par makes it up. Jubilectown's the place, and Victoria avenue the street. The sweetest cottage at twenty pun' a year as I ever set eyes on. I'll do the washing, Bart, and you'll take round the cart, so don't you think things 'll be otherwise."

"I don't want 'em to," said Bart affectionately. "I always loved you, Debby darling."

"Ah," said Miss Junk luxuriously, "I've taught you to be quite a genteel way. What a scrubby little brat you were, Bart!"

"Yuss," said Mr. Tawsey, eating rapidly. "I saw myself today."

"In a looking glass?"

"Lor', Debby, no. But there was a brat all rags and dirty face and sauce as I was when you saw me first. He came into the shop as bold as brass and asked fur a book. I sez, 'What do you want with a book?' and he sez, looking at the shelves so empty, 'I seen your sellin' off,' he sez, so I jumped up to clip him over the 'ead, when he cut. Tray's his name, Debby, and he's the kid as talked to that cold gent Mr. Beecot brought along with him when he got smashed."

"Tray, that's a dog's name," said Deborah, "old dog Tray, and quite good enough for gutternipes. As to Mr. Hay, don't ask me to say he's good, for that he ain't. What's he want talking with gutter Trays?"

"And what do gutter Trays want with books?" asked Bart, "though to be sure 'twas impertinence maybe."

Deborah nodded. "That it was, and what you'd have done when you was a scrubby thing. Don't bolt your food, but make every bit 'elp you to 'ealth and long living. You won't 'ave gormandising when we've got the laundry, I can tell you."

Next day Aaron went off in the afternoon to Charing Cross hospital after holding a conversation with a broker who had agreed to buy the derelict furniture. The shop, being empty, was supposed to be closed, but from force of habit Bart took down the shutters and lurked disconsolately behind the bare counter. Several old customers who had not heard of the sale entered and were disappointed when they learned that Aaron was leaving. Their lamentations made Bart quite low spirited. However, he was polite to all, but his manners broke down when a Hindoo entered to sell boot laces. "I ain't got nothing to sell and don't want to buy nobow," said Bart violently.

The man did not move, but stood impassively in the doorway like a bronze statue. He wore a dirty red turban carelessly wound round his small head, an unclean blouse which had once been white, circled by a yellow handkerchief of some coarse stuff, dark blue trousers and slippers with curled up toes on naked feet. His eyes were black and sparkling, and he had a well trimmed mustache, which contrasted oddly with his shabby attire. "Hokar is poor: Hokar need money," he whined in a monotone, but with his eyes glancing restlessly round the shop. "Give Hokar—give," and he held out the laces.

"Don't want any, I tell you," shouted Bart tartly. "I'll call a peeler if you don't git."

"Ho! ho! who stole the donkey?" cried a shrill voice at the door, and from behind the hawker was poked a tousled curly head and a grinning face, which sadly needed washing. "You leave this cove alone, won't y'? He's a pal o' mine. D'y' see?"

"You git along with your pal, then," cried Bart indignantly. "If he don't understand king's English, you do, Tray."

Tray darted into the middle of the shop and made a face at the indignant shopman by putting his fingers in his mouth to widen it and pulling down his eyes. Hokar never smiled, but showed no disposition to move. Bart, angered at this blocking up the doorway, and by Tray's war dance, jumped over the counter. He aimed a blow at the gutternipe's head, but missed it and fell full length. The next moment Tray was dancing on his body with his tongue out derisively. Then Hokar gave a weird smile. "Kaiser!" he said to himself. "Kaiser!"

How the scene would have ended it is impossible to say, but while Bart strove to rise and overturn Tray, Aaron walked in past the Indian. "What's this?" he asked sharply. Tray stopped his dancing on Bart's prostrate body and gave a shrill whistle by placing two dirty fingers in his mouth. Then he darted between Norman's legs and made off. Hokar stood staring at the bookseller, and after a pause pointed with his finger. "One—eye," he said calmly, "no good!"

Aaron was about to inquire what he meant by this insult when the Indian walked to the counter and placed something thereon, after which he moved away, and his voice was heard dying away down the street: "Hokar is poor. Hokar need money. Hokar Christian."

"What's this?" demanded Norman, again assisting Bart roughly to his feet.

"Blest if I know," replied Tawsey, staring. "They're mad, I think," and he related the incoming of the Indian and the street arab. "As for that Tray," said he, growling, "I'll punch his blooming 'ead when I meets him agin, dancing on me—yah. Allays meddlin', that brat, jus' as he was when Mr. Beecot was smashed."

"You saw that accident?" asked the master, fixing his one eye on him.

"Yuss," said Bart slowly, "I did, but Deborah she told me to say nothink. Mr. Beecot was smashed, and his friend, the cold eyeglassed gent, pulled him from under the wheels of that there machine with Tray to help him, and between 'em they carried him to the pavement."

"Humph!" said Aaron, resting his chin on his hand and speaking more to himself that to his assistant. "So Tray was on the spot. Humph!" Bart, having brushed himself, moved behind the counter and took up what Hokar had left. "Why, it's brown sugar!" he exclaimed, touching it with his tongue. "Coarse brown sugar—a handful." He stretched out his palm heaped with the sugar to his master. "What do that foreign possess mean by leaving that there?"

(To be Continued.)

Indigestion

Stomach trouble is but a symptom of, and not in itself a true disease. We think of Dyspepsia, Heartburn, and Indigestion as real diseases, yet they are symptoms only of a certain specific Nerve sickness—nothing else.

It was this fact that first correctly led Dr. Shoop in the creation of that now very popular Stomach Remedy—Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Going direct to the stomach nerves, alone brought that success and favor to Dr. Shoop and his Restorative Without, that original and highly vital principle, no such lasting accomplishments were ever to be had.

For stomach distress, bloating, biliousness, bad breath and sallow complexion, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—and see for yourself what it can and will do. We sell and cheerfully recommend

THE MYSTERY OF GOUT

Some Interesting Pointers from the Pen of Dr. Hamilton

"The real cause of gout is due to the excessive use of certain articles of food and drink, which in time leads to a disturbance of the functions of the liver. As a result harmful products such as uric acid are thrown into the blood, causing the condition known as gout.

"Consequently it follows that, having proper diet and maintaining liver activity, a cure can be effected."

Probably no physician has achieved such success in liver disease as Dr. Hamilton.

His Pills of Mandrake and Butternut are everywhere acknowledged to be a specific for slow, weak or sluggish liver; they give tone and vitality to this organ that enables it to perform its duties with ease and certainty.

Once the liver is corrected, Dr. Hamilton's Pills apply their peculiar merit to the kidneys and eliminating organs. This cleanses the blood and sends it back through the system, full of nourishment and strength.

Rheumatic tendencies are no longer noticed, for pure blood kills the poison that causes rheumatic aches.

Dull, aching twinges, stiff joints, and difficulty of exertion become things of the past.

Of course by rheumatism such complaints as sciatica, lumbago and neuralgia must be included, for after all, what are they but manifestations of rheumatic poison?

Thus it is easily seen that a world of good is accomplished by Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Acting as a blood renovator and a general tonic for the system their benefit is incalculable. 25c. per box or five boxes for $1.00, at all dealers, and be sure you get the genuine Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

CITY AND COUNTY NEWS

JOTTINGS HERE AND THERE BY TIMES REPORTERS.

Board of Trade Meets Tuesday

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Board of Trade will be held in the City Council Chamber on Tuesday evening. In addition to the election of officers and consideration of reports, a portion of the meeting will be devoted to discussion of the public Library question. As this is a matter in which every citizen is deeply interested at the present time, there will no doubt be a large attendance.

Mr. Carr Gets Gen Booth's Picture

A special enrollment meeting was held last night at the Salvation Army Barracks, when new members were received. A good programme of music, singing and drills was given. A feature of the evening was the presentation of Mr. J. Carr of the local corps of a handsome picture of General Booth. The picture is the prize for selling the largest number of Christmas War Crys in Peterborough. Mr. Carr disposed of 310.

Grippe is sweeping the country. Stop it with Preventics, before it gets dangerous. To check early colds with these little tasty Cold Cure Tablets is surely sensible and safe. Preventics contain no Quinine, no laxative, nothing harsh or sickening. Pneumonia would never appear if early colds were promptly broken. Also good for feverish children. Large box, 48 tablets, 25 cents. Vest pocket tubes, 5 cents. Sold by all dealers.

George St. Church Assets

The assets of George Street Methodist Church, as shown at the annual meeting are:

George street church, including church, land and fixtures	$61,000.00
Green church, including church, land and fixtures	3,000.00
Parsonage, including house land and fixtures	6,000.00
	$70,000.00

Some Distinguished Speakers

Rev. Canon Davidson, rector of St. John's Church, in leaving no stone unturned in his commendable zeal and efforts to have the coming missionary from March 8th to the 15th an unqualified success.

The whole programme, now almost completed, has been submitted at both the women's and the men's meetings, and details as to the method of work discussed. The list of speakers for the mission will include some distinguished clergy. Reports indicate a general interest on the part of the congregation.

A Police Court Compromise

A somewhat peculiar incident of the Crowder case in the police court yesterday was when one of the witnesses for the prosecution was seen to be palpably intoxicated. The defense objected to his testimony owing to his condition (?). The magistrate ... him ground with his evidence. After a little the evidence possibly did not turn out quite what the prosecution expected it would, and then the defense was anxious to have the incriminated one go signed. However, a compromise was offered by the magistrate, the latter being taken down to a cell and locked up, to undergo the sobering up act. Result: him all afternoon to do this.

Personal

Mr. R. Cordingly, Brockville, was in the city yesterday.

Miss Howorth, of Toronto, is the guest of Mrs. F. L. Henderson, Charlotte street.

K the Morley is home after a month's vacation with friends at Nassau and Stuartown.

Toronto Mail and Empire: Miss Mailer, of Peterborough, is visiting Mrs. O. B. Shepard.

Miss Alta Braddi, of Peterborough, is the guest of Miss Ruby Mann, at 60 Prince Albert avenue, Toronto, for a few days.

The engagement is announced of Miss Augustus Adams, to Mr. Douglas Laird, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Laird.—Toronto Globe.

Mrs H LeBrun was the hostess of a delightful reception at her home on Simcoe street, Thursday. Miss Hackett assisted in receiving, and others who helped were Mrs. T. H. G Dennis, Mrs. Harry Phelan, Mrs Bernard Morrow and Mrs. (Dr.) Wood.

Mr. J. H. Archer, representing Messrs. Lowe Bros., Limited, dealers in builders supplies, Toronto, was in the city yesterday and gave the Times a call.

Lindsay Post: Mayor Bigg and Sec. Ray of the Water Commissioners, were in Peterborough yesterday, getting information concerning the affairs of the Peterborough Water Works.

Lindsay Post: Mr. J. E. Firth, of Peterborough, was among those who were in town yesterday. Mr. H. C. Stapleton, of Peterborough, had business with Lindsay people yesterday.

The many friends of Mr. E. Marino will extend their sincere sympathy over the death of his six-months-old child, Francis Marino, at 336 Dorcas street. The funeral took place yesterday afternoon to the Roman Catholic Cemetery.

Another Burglary at Halls' Bridge

This Time the Thief is Captured and Imprisoned

A few evenings ago a rackit was heard in one of the outhouses of Thos. Eastwood of this place, which awoke Mr. John Woodley, one of the hotel staff. On going out in the yard he found a large turkey gobbler lying dead, and in a moment an immense owl was seen carrying off a hen turkey. John followed the brute as fast as he could, and after a chase of about sixty yards the turkey was rescued, but the owl escaped. Determined to catch the intruder, a muskrat trap was set, and in a short time the trap was missing. Subsequently the owl was caught under a log, where it had flown, trap and all.

It is a splendid bird, being as large as a good-sized turkey. Mr. Eastwood has the owl in captivity, and prizes it very highly.

APSLEY

On the 17th inst. the Conservative Club met for the first time this season to appoint delegates to attend the convention on the 26th inst., the former lists being cancelled Since die as being irregular. The President, Humpy John, and Secretary Bass Tom, called in a few of their faithful followers to help them in their hours of trouble; Humpy John, President, occupied the place of honor at the head of the table with Bass Tom on his left full of business.

It was moved by Humpy John that as we are great singers we open the proceedings by singing "Don't Worry", after this was concluded Humpy John addressed the meeting on the objects of singing such a fine opening piece as in his experience in politics he had been worried a lot in the last three years trying to do all the business himself, so as to save his faithful followers worry and when they lost their Master, a pet coon, which they had let loose for pay, nearly broke his heart to find that a Grit sewing machine agent had taken him away to advertise the Singer. Big Ben starts singing "He's old but he's awfully tough". Humpy John said when they had concluded. Well, my chum and I miss his councils very much and when we think of meeting at the foot of th cold harness shop stairs to hold a meeting and save the rest of you so much worry, it brings tears to my Maths dist eyes to think how we lost him. It must be he got too tame. Well, we could not think of asking you learned ones to attend the meeting in the old place as their was no fire on. Old Sol not being sufficiently strong yet. We concluded that Burleigh Tom had laid in a good pile of dry slabs. We hold our meeting here. We are sorry to have to put you to so much trouble as the roads are so bad. However, now we are here we will have to make the best of it, and we hope when we go to appointing the delegates you will quit kicking one another and chewing the rag as it is likely the last time we will ask you to help us for four years. Bass Tom said Fishery Bill and Big Ben was to stir to the anti room and prepare a list of delegates. When they returned Bass Tom called out the names John Lean, Norman Lean, Billy Lean, Local Option Bob, Lame Tom, Humpy John, Big Ben would not go as he says there was too many Leans and he might get lost. Anvil Jim was afraid if he went it would bring on a relapse of his late illness and as he had done running enough now he would take no chances. Ala John thought he would go if somebody would dput up expenses. Local Option Bob would go too, if nobody else would. Humpy John thought he would like to see the Hon. Geo. E. again and give him a few pointers on what not to say. Ha John starts singing old acquaintances be Forgot". Bass Tom got excited singing the last piece and informed them he would be there if he could hit the trail past Mt. Julien and it was wide enough. Friday was going. If the walking was not good he would go on foot. Curly Andy also said he would be there. Lame Andy would not go as he had a grist to grind. Grey Beard Billy would go so Tricky latest styles in spring millinery.

would not have to go on foot. Fishery Bill being three miles down the road thought he could keep shea dof the bunch. Norman was leeing pretty sick, but thought he would go and see what could be done. Tom Miller could not go. He had to watch Andy. Humpy John starts singing "The Mill will never grind with the water that is past." Burleigh Tom, they had him an in South Burleigh. Another kick, but he gets there just the same. When things had got settled down a bit Ha John wanted to know who was going to pay expenses. Humpy John said he got a cheque for a 10 for Chandos, but the rest could go—any way they pleased. He was a Chandosser and would keep his 10. When Curly Andy brought order by singing "In the shade of the old apple tree." When the last strains had died away Reeve Billy could not understand how in the face of such bright prospects of the Conservative candidate sweeping East Peterborough, when they now had C. R. D. helping them with all his pull and influence the government was sure to be sustained. There would be lots of money to spend and they know how to spend it. If you don't see what you want, ask for it, and if you don't want it, you can have it, as we want to keep you all in line like you are to-night. I am going to give you the password and motto of the society. Help thyself. You will notice it is short and to the point. You want to pass it in your hat so you can see it every time you scratch your head, which will be quite often. To choke him off. Parks starts singing for he's a jolly good fellow, when Bass Tom and Humpy John joined in. When they had finished those who did not get inside the ring and know what was up began to go, no wiser than when they went in. Some to Earl Tops to get some tobacc and talk on the chances of the roads being bad, how they were going to go, but down in Jumbo's the main talk was who has the 10. I wonder if they will coff up. I can't understand it. We will hire a rig or will we walk. Or go on foot. Sherry wants us down. I would not go but I got a letter from Sherry; I wonder if we will get a 10, and Jumbo just passes oh humming, "Oh wouldn't you like to catch him". Humpy John seeing so many going out thought he had better finish his speeches and wanted all present that as the prospects never looked better he intended to stick by the guns until the last and that the shanties around Bancroft would not hold him this election day. (Hear, hear, from Local Option Bob) as it did on another occasion. I felt then it was useless to put up a fight. But now I am full of it. Whir, and I move that any member being absent on next election day, be it wet or dry, be subject to a fine of 15 cents, the same to apply to paying the expenses of this society.—Carried. Base Tom wished to inform all present that he held the most profound respect in both the Hon. J. P. Whitney and especially his Geo., also in the leadership of the now Borden and hope to see them both at the head of their respective governments. Be it resolved that we do all in our power, fair or fowl, to elect our member so as not to loose our present pull (aside to Humpy John, it means money to us) we would ask all hands, to put their shoulder to the wheel, and push (we don't want you to pull) and I feel we can carry everything before us. As for myself I am in the fight to stay (hear, hear, from Reeve Billy—more power to you). If there is any pointers any of you think you would like, I will try and inform you. But be sure you don't ask too much. The company beleaning to catch on (a little) Humpy John thinking to get them in a little better humor, began singing in his sweetest strain and rocking from one foot to the other, "What's the matter with Hannah". The meeting dispersed to meet at Jumbo's on the 24th to await further developments and see if the 10 gets here. Base Tom cannot understand how he got left but says he got most all the rest. To be continued.

I wish that I might talk with all sick ones about the actual cause of Stomach, Heart, and Kidney ailments. To explain in person how weak Stomach nerves leads to Stomach weakness, I am sure would interest all. And in the same with weak Hearts or Weak Kidneys. This is why my prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative—so promptly reaches ailments of the Stomach, Heart, and Kidneys. It is wrong to drug the Stomach or stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. These weak inside nerves simply need more strength. My Restorative is the only prescription made exclusively for these nerves. Next to seeing you personally, will be to mail you free, my new booklet entitled, "What To Do." I will also send samples of my Restorative as well. Write for the book to-day. It will surely interest you. Address Dr. Shoop, Box 8, Racine, Wis. All Druggists.

MONEY IN A SAFE DEPOSIT BOX OR AN OLD STOCKINGS DOES NOT INCREAE YOUR WEALTH

February, 1908, is here and so is

the Pacific Fruit Cooling and Vaporizing Company, Incorporated for the purpose of cooling deciduous fruits and removing moisture from citrus fruits and keeping unde cold storage such fruits and other food products from the time of receiving them from the fruit growers until loaded on car and taken away by the Railroad Company for Eastern shipment

STUBBORN FACTS UNIMPEACHABLE

The loss in shipping deciduous and citrus fruits is enormous. The orange crop of Southern California alone is valued at $30,000,000. The government experts estimate that about 25 per cent. or $7,500,000, is lost every year by rough handling in packing and decay of fruit in transit to the Eastern markets. What a revenue of profit this loss would be to the shipper if it could be saved. Our process will save it. The same is true of the deciduous fruits of Northern California.

GREAT FORTUNES ARE MADE BY INVESTMENT IN NECESSITIES

Fruit is one of the necessities of our civilized life, and the company that can place the fruit in the markets of the world in the best shape, in the quickest time, at the lowest rate, has a fortune within its grasp. The Armour Company in ten years made $5,000,000 net handling California fruit in refrigerator cars. Our process is as necessary to the fruit grower as the refrigerator car. Therefore we ought to receive as large a revenue for handling the same commodity.

GET IN WHILE THE ENTERPRISE IS NEW

No wiser words were ever spoken than these: "The chief point about getting rich is to invest in a new enterprise that is being managed by successful men, who have some of their own money in the deal." "One good investment is worth a lifetime of labor". I think over this sentence. A man's daily labor will never make him rich. He must have some money at work for him. Money invested never gets sick, keeps no holidays, never goes on strike. There are three things that ought to guide you: First, invest with honest men; second, invest with men of sound judgment; third, invest under conditions where you get your full share of profits the business yields. Get into a company whose destiny is guided by men of this stamp when its future is before and not behind it. Here is the secret of fortune. Plant the seed of your investment in the soil of opportunity, at the season of greatest promise when the enterprise is new. Every ounce of donor in the hearts of the men managing this company is pledged to give

A SQUARE DEAL FOR EVERY INVESTO

There will be no preferred stock, every dollar invested will be worth 100 cents on the dollar. Our Directors, as honourable business men, will not allow any tricks of trade by which the small investor can be frozen out. Their commercial standing proves they are not "graiters". The poor man's 5c0 or 100 shares will have the same standing in court as the rich man's. 10,000, and they will draw the same proportional dividend. We court investigation.

EVERY RICH MAN IN THE WORLD WAS ONCE POOR, OR HIS GRANDFATHER WAS.

THE OPPORTUNITY OF A LIFETIME

To get into a company that has the certainty of growth, the assurance of large and quick returns, a rapid advance in the price of stock, to make it an exceptional chance for big profits on a small investment. This is an ideal investment for the wage earner as well as the rich man. Moderate sums invested now will bring splendid returns in the near future. The logic of all this is

DON'T WAIT

Time is the essence of this proposition. The stock will certainly double in a short time. Jay Gould once said: "When you see a good investment don't wait to see if it pans out well, for by that time other people see it, too, and you have lost your opportunity."

WOMEN AS INVESTORS

Some of the heaviest stockholders in our company are women of keen business instincts. One lady in Los Angeles bought 5,000 shares. In a few days she returned and bought 5,000 more. This lady has never made a mistake in her business ventures. Women are good investors because they have courage to follow their convictions. Their intuitions are keener and truer than man's logic. Men may prevent her voting, but they can't prevent her drawing dividends on her investments. This is one branch of trade where sex, culture, or color does not count.

MANAGEMENT

DAVE HARTLEY IN FIFTH PLACE

Mr. R. J. Munro yesterday received the following telegram from W. D. Scoville, secretary of the association which is holding the big walking contest at Kansas City:

"Hartley is in fifth place and in good condition."

No further news of the race is expected until this morning.

HARTLEY IN FIFTH PLACE.

Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 28.—David Hartley, of Peterborough, Ont., is still in fifth position. He lost ground in the last twenty-four hours. Player, who is fourth, having gained nearly two miles. The pace set by the leaders has been very strong, Hoagland, the leader, walking over 44 miles in the allotted time. Hartley clipped off forty-one miles. Slater, who was tied yesterday with Messier, pulled away, and is now a good second, with 192 miles to his credit. Messier is third with 191. Player fourth with 187, Hartley fifth with 173, Blake sixth with 160, and Lloyd seventh with 110 miles.

License Reduction on an Enormous Scale, 30,000 Bars Cut Off

London, Feb. 28.—Rt. Hon. Mr. Asquith, Chancellor of the Exchequer, introduced in the House of Commons yesterday afternoon the Government's long-looked-for licensing bill. Its sweeping provisions will, if enacted, reduce the number of licensed houses in England and Wales by one-third, doing away with about 30,000 bars at which intoxicants are now sold.

Compensation is to be paid those who are thus dispossessed, this being levied as now in certain cases upon the remaining license holders, but after fourteen years no compensation will be paid when a license is taken away.

Clubs are brought within the Act to prevent evasion of the law, and must renew their licenses annually. Public houses outside of London may keep open only three hours on Sunday.

The granting of all new licenses in future will be the subject of local options, a poll being taken when demanded, and a simple majority to decide. A refusal in such a case to grant a license cannot be reconsidered by another poll till after three years.

Justices of the peace will act wholly as the licensing authority. One of the essential aims of the Act is the recovery by the State of property in licenses, hitherto only a charge.

The Opposition's attitude to the bill is one of strong criticism, amounting to hostility. Mr. Balfour, in the course of the debate, used the word robbery in describing it. It is probable that the measure will be modified before it can be passed.

Everything Ready for the Visitations

Everything is now in complete readiness for the long headache and promising house to house visitation. The districts and supervisors are as follows:

1. From Albert street, south, and Park street west, G. Hayward, 907 Albert street.

2. From Townsend street south and Park street east to the river, W. Stevens, High street.

3. Between Albert and Charlotte from Park street west, D. Campbell, 544 Bolivar street.

4. Between Townsend and Charlotte, from Park street to the river, A. E. Wilson, 464 Bolivar street.

5. Between Charlotte and Brock and Weller, from Rubidge street, west, Goodwin, 331 Reid street.

6. Between Charlotte and Brock, from Rubidge street, east, to the river, J. C. Shook, 185 Hunter street.

7. Between Brock and Dublin from Stewart street, west, but taking in the block between Dublin and Smith, west of Downie street, T. N. Robertson.

8. Between Brock and Dublin, from Stewart street, east, to the river, J. W. Covey, George street.

9. From Dublin and Smith, west of Downie, north, and Aylmer west, J. J. Hartley, 234 Aylmer.

10. From Aylmer to the river and north from Smith, G. W. Mulligan, 804 George street.

11. East of the river from Smith street, north, G. W. Powell, Smith street.

12. East of the river, between Smith and Hunter, Wm. Scott, 169 Hunter street east.

13. From the river east and from Hunter street south, Jos. Bucee, 169 Hunter east.

Visitors will receive notice by letter informing them of the district to which they are assigned and the location of their headquarters. They will be expected to report there on the afternoon of Wednesday, March 11th, when they will be given instructions.

Temperance League Mean Business

The recently organized temperance league has got to work, and gives promise of "doing things." A constitution for the society, after discussion in detail, has been adopted. The work of the association will be largely taking steps to bring about local option in Peterborough or the abolishing of the bar in some way. A law enforcement committee was appointed, consisting of the officers of the league and Messrs. B. F. Ackerman, G. M. Rogers, R. Neill, R. Lees, G. A. Gillespie, J. J. Howden, D. W. Dumble, K. F. Matthews, W. Madill and Dr. Scott.

Chased a Hat for Two Miles

Yesterday a number of local sports were out at Chemong Lake on a pleasure trip. While on the ice and looking for game a sudden gust of wind lifted the tile from the head of one of the party and landed it on the ice. The Christie as soon as touching the ice was kissed by the gentle touch of a passing zephyr and moved a few feet along the slippery surface just ahead of its owner. As the owner reached for it a more sturdy breeze happened along and sped the hat merrily towards the end of the lake. The owner ran as though in a championship running match after his runaway lid, but every time he was just about even with it the hat fled along ahead. After a chase of about two miles the owner captured the hat, and Mayhew he was not puffed out by his exertions.

BELL TELEPHONE IN THE NORTH WEST

Shareholders at Annual Meeting Told They May Have to Sell

Think It Is Wise to Sell

Montreal, Feb. 28. — At the annual meeting of the Bell Telephone Company of Canada, held at 11 o'clock yesterday, it was announced by President Sise that the company is preparing to sell its plant and business in the provinces of Saskatchewan and Alberta, provided that a proper agreement can be arrived at.

Mr. Sise stated that the Bell Company had no particular desire to sell as they had already done in the province of Manitoba, but that it was better to do this than to enter into competition with the Government.

The shareholders passed a resolution authorizing the board to deal with the the governments of these provinces for the sale of either one or both as being best.

The news that a scale was contemplated to either one of these provinces came as a surprise to the shareholders, as they had no idea that such a move was contemplated.

Mr. Sise in his remarks referred feelingly to the death of Mr. F. P. Fisk, an old director of the Bell, and president of the American Telephone Company, and also to that of Mr. C. F. Sclater, secretary-treasurer, both of whom had died during the year.

Referring to the business of the past year, Mr. Sise stated that the Bell Company, as well as all others, had had a hard year; they had, however, done as well as could be expected, and there were no complaints to make.

There was but one change in the directorate, this being the election of Theodore McVail, president of the American Telephone Company, in the place of Mr. Fisk, deceased.

The remaining directors being as follows:—C. F. Sise, Hon. Robert Mackay, Robert Archer, Wm. R. Driver, Hugh Patron, Charles Cassils, Thos. Sherwin and H. D. Warren.

The annual report gave the following facts not heretofore made public:

The company now owns and operates 582 exchanges and 1,254 agencies; 6,848 miles of wire have been added to the long distance system in 1907. The long distance lines now owned and operated by the company comprise 69,748 miles of wire on 9,540 miles of poles. $266,000 of 5 per cent. bonds were sold during the year, the net premium on which, $14,380, has been carried to the contingent account. 25,000 shares of new stock were offered to the shareholders at par, and are included in this statement, bringing the paid-up capital to $2,540,000. The balance of the issue of 1906, and also of the issue of 1907 which was not applied for have been sold, and the premium thereon, amounting to $15,974, has been carried to the contingent account.

From the balance of revenue account amounting to $233,816.41, $1,631.07 has been carried to insurance reserve account, $3,540.13 to accident reserve account, and $182,491.48 to the contingent account, leaving a balance of revenue account to be carried to 1908 to $46,224.68.

MR. CROWLEY MEETS WITH BAD ACCIDENT

Yesterday afternoon Mr. Morris Crowley met with a serious accident at the C. G. E. Co.'s works. While operating one of the machines his hand, by some means, got caught in the wheels, the injuries being of such a serious nature as to necessitate amputation of the hand at the wrist. The operation was performed at St. Joseph's Hospital by Dr. Young, assisted by Dr. Eastwood. Mr. Crowley is a married man, and with his family resides in the city.

Girls Hockey Match Ended in a Fight

Oshawa, Feb. 28.—Whitby ladies defeated Oshawa ladies here last night by 2 goals to 1, in an exciting match. The score was 1 to 1, and the visitors scored the winning goal just as the whistle blew for time. The referee did not hear the whistle blow, and allowed the goal. Some spectators protested in vigorous fashion, crowding on the ice and assaulting the referee.

The first game played last week at Whitby resulted in a tie — one goal all.

INS AND OUTS

Our esteemed contemporary, the Review, stated the other day that there is any amount of bad-smelling paper money in circulation. Yes, dear boy, this great family journal is of opinion that there is not less than a hundred scents to the dollar.

—o—

Our city spending department have had dozens of men at work chopping out weeds, grasses alongside the pavements. The sporting blood of this g. f. j. stirs us to bet dollars to doughnuts that these gutters will be filled up and the money wasted.

—o—

Those city snow ploughs are certainly a veritable piece of machinery. They can do almost anything but clean the sidewalks.

—o—

They say Paris eats 40,000 horses a year. No wonder there are so many horseless carriages there.

—o—

A train was wrecked leaving Toronto a few days ago, but it will be excused. This g. f. j. quite sympathizes with it in its hurry to get away.

—o—

It is said that a certain local newspaper scribe, on returning from a banquet, hung his trousers to a bed-post by the suspenders in a moment of aberration, forgetting that he was inside of them. Please omit flowers.

—o—

Here is something that The Times wants everybody to read and heed: "Smiles cost less than the electric lights, and they make the home brighter."

—o—

The next time our George street contemporary airs the bran new editor of the Review up, it had better be done over the long distance telephone.

—o—

A correspondent writes The Times in which reference is made to the good reputation the g. f. j. has earned for its advocacy of all matters pertaining to the welfare of the community. The trouble we find is, that it is sometimes difficult to live up to a good reputation. This is no joke.

—o—

A citizen remarked to The Times yesterday that the esteemed pastor of St. Paul's Church was no lord to have shaken hands with several newspaper men the other Sunday morning after service. This is gratifying to this g. f. j., as it proves that newspaper men go to church.

—o—

A Regina man has been sent to gaol for stealing an umbrella. That will serve to show that the umbrella joke has been put up with long enough.

—o—

The sic man complain that ice cut on the Little Lake is too thick, but that excuse is too thin.

—o—

"Do we need more money?" asks a Toronto paper. After consulting with its creditors this g. f. j. emphatically answers in the affirmative.

—o—

ANECDOTE OF JULIUS CAESAR.

Once more the Senate presses about Caesar, offering him the crown, and once more he thrusts it away.

A Voice — "All hail!" Everybody hailed violently. A voice, "Now, Julius, if we hail, you ought to be willing to reign!"

This was some 44 years B.C., or about 712 from the foundation of the city, yet the yoke was deemed too ancient even then to be spread upon the official minutes.

Cobourg Children In Local Shelter

"Every cloud has a silver lining." A pleasing feature of an otherwise sad, sad story is the adoption of two fatherless children, whose mother is ill, by the local Children's Aid Society. About a year ago a man named Perring was killed in a railway accident, leaving a wife and two small children. Now the mother being too ill to look after the little ones the Peterborough C. A. Society was asked by her to take care of the children, Charles, aged nine, and Dorothy, aged six years. Arrangements were concluded whereby the children are now in the Shelter here, and are being well looked after as usual.

POLICE

After yesterday's session of the police court, Tom Cleary, of Indian River, known as Fighting Tom, retired to the seclusion of Castle Nesbitt for ten days, in lieu of payment of a $2 fine, imposed by his Worship because Tom, the day before, got outside more red-liquor than his capacity would well accommodate.

The immigrant named Arthur Reginald Turnar, who was said some days ago to have committed suicide at Sharbot Lake by throwing himself in front of a C. P. R. engine, left for the Old Country in charge of Dominion Government Deputation Officer Dowlin.

Local Couple Marry but Are Expelled

Complaint was laid by a man working in a local factory yesterday to the police concerning the proprietress of a leading George street restaurant and rooming house. It seems that the man referred to has been rooming at this house for some time, and a few days ago asked the landlady if it would be all right for him to bring his wife there to room until such time as he got a house furnished and settled. The landlady, who is very particular as to whom she admits at her establishment, in order to retain both its and her good name, said this would be all right if the couple were really man and wife. On Wednesday evening the man brought a lady to the house and presented her as his wife, saying that they had been married by a prominent clergyman of the city. The landlady, rather suspecting the marriage to have taken place at about 8.30, called up the clergyman in question over the 'phone and asked if such-and-such a man and woman had been married by him. The divine replied "No," but that the couple had spoken to him and had made an engagement with him to have the ceremony performed, but did not come at the time specified. The landlady, having been told by other roomers, who also suspected the alleged marriage that they would not stop there if the couple lived together as man and wife without the due rites of the church, at once notified the couple they would have to leave. To complicate matters, the couple did really go to the reverend gentleman referred to next night, after his denial of the wedding, and soon made legally man and wife. Now the landlady has notified them to leave, it seems that the newly married man threatens to take action. There are, however, circumstances related by the landlady to a Times representative that make it most unlikely that any real action will be taken, as neither of the couple would care to face in court details that would thus inevitably be made public. As it is the couple have left whilst their goods are held for payment of rent.

Former Dummer Boy Has Done Good Work

Residents of the township of Drummer will we with pride that the photograph of one of the former Drummer boys adorns the cover page of the Christian Guardian's last issue. This picture is that of Rev. Jas. Hannon, who spent his younger years in Drummer, and who is a brother of Mr. Michael Hannon of that township. The rev. gentleman is this year celebrating his fiftieth year in the work of the Methodist ministry, and not long ago he commemorated his seventieth birthday. He entered the ministry in 1858 and continued in the active work until three years ago, when he was compelled to retire. He has long been chairman of district and also president of the Guelph conference.

That our American forests abound in plants which possess the most valuable medicinal virtues is abundantly attested by scores of the most eminent medical writers and teachers. Even the untutored Indians had discovered the usefulness of many native plants before the advent of the white race. This information, imparted freely to the whites, led the latter to continue investigations until to-day we have a rich assortment of most valuable American medicinal roots.

Dr. Pierce believes that our American forests abound in most valuable medicinal roots for the cure of most obstinate and fatal diseases, if we could properly investigate them; and in confirmation of this conviction, he points with pride to the almost marvelous cures effected by his "Golden Medical Discovery," which has proven itself to be a most efficient stomach tonic, liver invigorator, heart tonic and regulator, and blood cleanser known to medical science. Dyspepsia, or indigestion, torpid liver, functional and even valvular and other affections of the heart yield to its curative action. The reason why it cures these and many other affections, is clearly shown in a little book of extracts from the standard medical writers, which is mailed free to any address by Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., to all sending request for the same.

Not less marvelous in the unparalleled cures it is constantly making of women's many irregular affections, weaknesses and derangements, is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, as is amply attested by thousands of unsolicited testimonials contributed by grateful patients who have been cured by it of internal pelvic congestions, displacements, prolapsus, anteversion, retroversion, bearing-down sensations, chronic weakness, nervousness, and kindred affections, after many other advertised medicines and physicians had failed.

Both the above mentioned medicines are wholly made up from the glyceric extracts of native, medicinal roots. The processes employed in their manufacture were original with Dr. Pierce, and they are carried on by skilled chemists and pharmacists with the aid of apparatus and appliances specially designed and built for this purpose. Both medicines are entirely free from alcohol and all other harmful, habit-forming drugs. A full list of their ingredients is printed on each bottle-wrapper.

THE COMMONS SAT ALL NIGHT AND IS STILL IN SESSION

Has Been in Session Over 24 Hours and May Continue Until Saturday at Midnight-- Bennett's Fierce Criticism

The House of Commons met at three o'clock yesterday afternoon, and has been in session ever since. The Conservatives threaten to keep the House going without adjournment until Saturday midnight, as the Liberals did on one occasion in order that the Minister of Marine might explain his expenses to Europe last year, and the result of the audit made last year. Mr. Borden was away and Hon. Geo. E. Foster led the fight until 4 o'clock this morning, when Wm. Taylor took charge. The Government declines to allow the estimates of any other department to be taken up, and the Opposition will pass none of the Marine Department items, "they are all contentious." The Liberals say the Opposition have wantonly insulted Mr. Brodeur by insinuations of extravagance if not of graft. So the merry war goes on.

Ottawa, Feb. 28.—Hon. W. S. Fielding led the House throughout the forenoon. When Hon. George E. Foster came in at two o'clock in the afternoon he took over the leadership of the Opposition. W. H. Bennett (Simcoe) made a bitter attack upon the expenditures made on the expert audit of the Marine Department accounts last year, and coupled with his remarks such terms as "thief" and "swindler." If the Minister of Marine's Explanation of these transactions was right the return to Parliament of the accounts for this audit was a reeking mass of corruption and thievery. The Ministerial returns showed that the accounts for this audit amounted in the aggregate to $42,000. Of this $6,000 had not yet been paid, because the accounting firm had not produced vouchers for the board bills of men it employed.

$12 A DAY BOARD.

Mr. Bennett claimed that three accountants called Marvin, Hopwell and Ellis, engaged in this audit, were allowed in all twelve dollars a day for living expenses, while, according to Mr. Jackson, M.P. (Elgin) who lived in the same boarding house with them last year, they paid no more than a dollar a day at the boarding house in which they stayed while in Ottawa.

The Minister of Marine assured the House that the allowance for living expenses would conform to the vouchers.

In answer to a question by Mr. Foster, the Minister stated that his arrangement for the expert audit of the department accounts was made with Mr. K. Faulkner, of Montreal. The agreement was made verbally.

Mr. Bennett made no charge against Mr. Faulkner, but said that he held his judgment in suspense.

BRODEUR OF 15 YEARS AGO.

At half-past three o'clock Col. Sam Hughes was reading from a House of Commons Hansard of fifteen years ago to show that Hon. Mr. Brodeur then in Opposition had demanded the production of voluminous information before supply was voted.

At a quarter to four o'clock Mr. Owens (Northumberland) accused the Government of itself obstructing the progress of public business. Parliament had been in session three months and had already cost half a million dollars. But for all this outlay of public money there was but a single item of important legislation to show.

At 4 o'clock Dr. Reid (Grenville), one of the more pugnacious men in the Opposition ranks, was reviewing the Public Accounts Committee investigations of last session and trying to extort an admission from the Minister of Marine that a man called Marwin had beaten the Government.

At 4.30 p.m. Mr. Blain had taken up the thread of Dr. Reid's discourse in regard to the expenditures of the Marine Department, and was quoting copiously from the public accounts investigations of last session.

Bomb Thrown at Shah of Persia

Two Bombs Hurled from a Roof Shattered the Royal Automobile

Three Blown to Pieces

Teheran, Persia, Feb. 28. — An attempt was made in this city this afternoon to assassinate the Shah of Persia by a bomb.

His Majesty was not hurt.

Three of the outriders who were accompanying him at the time were killed.

The Shah owes his escape to the precautions taken to protect him from just such an attempt as was made this afternoon. He was on his way to a nearby town where he intended to pass a few days. The procession had left the palace and was traversing a narrow street when two bombs were hurled at it from the roof of a house. One exploded in the air, but the other struck the ground near the Shah's automobile. The missile killed the three outriders, wounding the chauffeur and a score of bystanders, and shattered the vehicle.

A WILY SOVEREIGN.

The Shah, however, was not in his automobile, having taken the precaution to send the motor car on ahead and ride himself in a carriage further in the rear of the procession. The motor car was a closed one, and it was thought that the sovereign was inside.

As soon as the Shah heard the explosions he alighted hurriedly from his carriage and entered a neighboring house. Here he remained quietly while his attendants sent word for a detachment of troops. The soldiers were hurried to the scene and formed in front of the house where the Shah was. He then came out and surrounded by a body guard, returned to the palace.

The house from which the bombs were thrown, and the buildings nearby were searched by the police, but no arrests were made.

Bell Telephone Co. Gets Orillia Franchise

At a meeting of the Town Council yesterday it was decided to grant the Bell Telephone Company a franchise for one year. In exchange the company will grant the town the free use of six telephones. The question of installing the central energy system which does away with the ringing of the bell, was discussed. Mr. A. T. Smith, district superintendent of the Telephone Company, stated that it would be installed here as soon as possible, but at the present time it was a physical impossibility, and he thought it would be two or three years before we could look for it. Nor was there any probability at the present time of the company placing its wires underground on Mississaga street. The cost of this would be about $7,000 and the business did not warrant the expenditure just now. The revenue of the telephone office here from long distance business last year was slightly over $10,000 and from the local exchange about six thousand.—Orillia News-Letter.

Chronic Rheumatism Cured

50,000 BOXES FREE

Try Like I Did Under Like Conditions
JOHN A. SMITH

For rheumatism, that horrible plague, I found a simple remedy and in order that every suffering reader may learn about it, I will gladly mail him a package free. This marvelous remedy I found by a lucky chance while an invalid from rheumatism, and has since cured hundreds of others, among them cases of over 80 and 90 years standing. In Fountain City, Wis., it cured an old gentleman who had suffered 82 years, and after seven doctors had tried in vain. In Marion, Ohio, it cured a lady who had been bedfast for thirteen weeks. In Palmer, Neb., it cured a lady 64 years old. In Bennington, Vt., it cured an old gentleman who had been lame for 30 years. In Stayner, Ont., it enabled a lady to abandon her crutches. In Englewood, Ohio, it cured a gentleman of 67, who had suffered 12 years.

No matter whether your rheumatism is chronic, muscular or sciatic, nor mind if other remedies have disappointed you, write me without fail, and by return mail you will receive the trial package absolutely free and also free a book on rheumatism which is illustrated with many stipplet drawings from actual life, and which will tell you all about your case.

Never before has a remedy for rheumatism been so highly endorsed as this. Among the eminent people who have endorsed it is Eugene H. Plumacher, United States Consul, Maracaibo, Publisher of "Health", London, England, Doctor Quintero, of the University of Venezuela, Stevenson Mac Adams, F. J. C., F. C. S., of Analytical Laboratory, Surgeons Hall, Edinburg, Scotland and many others. Adress: JOHN A. SMITH, 39 Laing Bldg., Windsor, Ont.

PETERBOROUGH, FEBRUARY 29 1908.

NAVAL PROGRAMMES OF ENGLAND AND GERMANY.

Radical and labor members of the British parliament have prepared a resolution demanding a decrease in military naval expenditures and accusing the government of violation of definite pledges of economy in that direction. The resolution was introduced some time ago, but at the suggestion of the premier was temporarily withdrawn. Had it been pressed, tory organs say, the government would have been defeated, for the tories would have voted with the radicals and laborites.

That it will be reintroduced after the naval estimates for the year are submitted is practically certain, for the estimates are not likely to be marked by a decrease. On the contrary, the admiralty officers expect the estimates to be a sort of "answer to Germany's naval programme"—not a complete answer, but a partial one. It is said that the government will ask three vessels of the Dreadnought type, two heavily armoured cruisers, six smaller cruisers, twelve torpedo craft, additional submarines, etc. Next year, it is said, a larger number of new ships will be demanded, as England is determined to stick to "the two-power standard" at any cost and permit no country to encroach upon her present naval superiority.

Germany has announced her intention of raising her fleet to the highest level and to maintain it there. The naval budget for 1908 reaches $90,000,000. She is planning heavy expenditures on new vessels, and has shortened the life of war ships by five years to prevent their becoming obsolete. She is borrowing money to strengthen her fleet, and it is this which has stirred up some of the English officers and editors. The friends of economy and decreased naval expenditures point out that England's actual supremacy is still too decided to render alarm rational. She has 39 battleships of the first class against Germany's 11 and the same number for France. She has 17 inferior battle ships against Germany's 9, and 32 armoured cruisers against Germany's 6 and France's 13. Large economies are, therefore, declared both desirable and expedient. But the ministerial organs say that the starting of the new Dreadnought type created a new situation and that England must be supreme in the new type as well as in the older and less powerful types of ships. A long lead in other types, it is urged, would not suffice in the event of war under modern conditions, and the pledge of reduction, therefore, must be "regarded as modified" by the unexpected developments in naval construction.

Of course, England's "answer" will bring about a rejoiner from Germany, and so on. Sober-minded observers admit that the military-naval burdens are heavy to be borne indefinitely, and that the time must soon come for negotiations looking to general reductions of war budgets.

CAUGHT BY THE GRIP-- RELEASED BY PE-RU-NA.

La Grippe Is Epidemic Catarrh.

THE disease now known as 'grip' used to be called 'influenza.'

It very closely resembles a cold, but is more tenacious in its hold upon the system and produces more profound disturbances.

Grip is in reality epidemic catarrh. When it once begins it spreads over the country very rapidly.

People do not catch the grip from each other, but each one catches it from the atmosphere.

"Most Effective Medicine Ever Tried for La Grippe."

Robt. L. Madison, A. M., Principal of Cullowhee High School, Painter, N. C., is chairman of the Jackson County Board of Education.

He is a writer of occasional verse and has contributed to a number of leading papers and magazines,—religious, educational and secular.

In speaking of Peruna, Mr. Madison says:

"I am hardly ever without Peruna in my home. It is the most effective medicine that I have ever tried for la grippe.

"It also cured my wife of nasal catarrh. Her condition at one time was such that she could not at night breathe through her nostrils.

"In consequence, an inflamed condition of the throat was brought about, getting worse and worse and yielding to no remedy until Peruna was tried."

Healthy Mucous Membranes.

Those who are fortunate enough to have perfectly healthy mucous membranes ordinarily do not catch the grip.

The mucous membranes lining the nose, throat and lungs, when in a normal state, are an effectual barrier against the invasion of grip.

But, if there happens to be the slightest catarrhal derangement of the mucous membranes, then the victim becomes an easier prey to the grip.

This in part explains why some people get the grip, while others do not.

The rational thing to do is to keep the system free from catarrh. In attempting to do this most people have found Peruna to be invaluable.

Systemic Catarrh, the Result of La Grippe. Pe-ru-na Receives Credit for Present Good Health.

Mrs. Jennie W. Gilmore, Box 44, White Oak, Ind. Ter., formerly Housekeeper for Indiana Reform School for Boys, writes:

"Six years ago I had la grippe, which was followed by systemic catarrh.

"The only thing I used was Peruna and Manalin, and I have been in better health the last three years than for years before.

"I give Peruna all the credit for my good health."

During an epidemic of grip Peruna should be used. The doses recommended on the bottle are sufficient.

After the grip has once been acquired, Dr. Hartman recommends the use of Peruna in teaspoonful doses every hour during the acute stage, after which the directions on the bottle should be followed.

Experience has shown that the people who use Peruna as a remedy for grip generally recover sooner and are less liable to the distressing and long-continued after-effects of the grip.

When Peruna has not been used during the course of the grip and the patient finds himself suffering from the after-effects of this disease, a course of Peruna should be resorted to.

Suffered Twelve Years From After-Effects of La Grippe.

Mr. Victor Patneaude, 528 Madison St., Topeka, Kan., member of Knights and Ladies of Security, writes:

"Twelve years ago I had a severe attack of la grippe and I never really recovered my health and strength—but grew weaker every year, until I was unable to work.

"Two years ago I began using Peruna and it built up my strength so that in a couple of months I was able to go to work again.

"This winter I had another attack of la grippe, but Peruna soon drove it out of my system. My wife and I consider Peruna a household remedy."

Pneumonia Followed La Grippe

Mr. T. Barnecott, West Aylmer, Ontario, Can., writes:

"Last winter I was ill with pneumonia after having la grippe. I took Peruna for two months, when I became quite well, and I can say that any one can be cured by it in a reasonable time at little expense."

Pe-ru-na—A Tonic After La Grippe.

Mrs. Chas. E. Wells, Sr., Delaware, Ohio, writes: "After a severe attack of la grippe, I took Peruna and found it a very good tonic."

Mrs. Jane Gift, Athens, Ohio, writes: "Six years ago I had la grippe very bad. I read a testimonial of a woman who had been cured of grip by Peruna. My husband bought me a bottle of Peruna. I was soon able to do my work. I continued using it until I was cured."

A Business Proposition !

FOR BUSINESS MEN AND WOMEN

I want business men and women who have money to invest to write me for particulars.

I have an absolutely clean and safe deal that has been tested and proved by actual experience.

It will pay over $500 yearly income on every $1,000 invested, (over $100 yearly on each $200 invested) yet is not a racing or gambling scheme, but a straight, legitimate, profitable, honest business you would be proud to to be identified with.

It needs more money to run it on a large scale, hence this offer to you who have money and the business sense and acumen to share in this good thing.

I have submitted particulars of this deal to the proprietors and editors of this paper; they are business men and have approved it because it is safe, sound and clean, and the promises made are straight and reasonable.

When you read these particulars I believe you will approve and be glad you investigated. No matter if you have $5,000 or $10,000 to invest or only $100 or $200, it applies equally to all. It is a

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTHWEST HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an Agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each on and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of a homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father or mother.

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing must be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa, of intention to apply for patent.

The Opal Serpent

CONTINUED.

"I don't know, nor do I care," snapped Aaron, who appeared to be out of temper. "Throw it away!" which Bart did, after grumbling again at the impudence of the street hawker.

Norman did not go upstairs, but descended to the cellar, where he busied himself in looking over the contents of the three safes. In these were many small boxes filled with gems of all kinds, cut and uncut also articles of jewelry, consisting of necklaces, bracelets, stars for the hair, brooches and tiaras. The jewels glittered in the flaring gaslight, and Aaron fondled them as though they were living things.

"You beauties," he whispered to himself, with his one eye gloating over his hoard. "I'll sell you, though it goes to my heart to part with lovely things. But I must—I must—and then I'll go—not to America—oh, dear, no—but to the south seas. They won't find me there—no—no! I'll be rich and happy and free. Sylvia can marry and live happy. But the serpent," he said in a harsh tone, "oh, the opal serpent! The pawnbroker's shop. Stowley—yes—I know it. I know it. Stowley. They want it back; but they shan't. I'll buy it from Beecot by giving him Sylvia. It's lost—lost." He looked over his shoulder as he spoke in a terrified whisper. "Perhaps they have it, and then—then," he leaped up and flung the armful of baubles he held on to the desk table, "and then—I must get away—away."

He pulled out three or four canvas sacks of a small size and filled them with the jewelry. Then he tied a cord round the neck of each sack and sealed it. Afterward, with a sigh, he closed the safe and turned down the gas. He did not leave by the trap, which led through the shop, but opened and locked the back door of the cellar, ascended the steps and went out into the street through the side passage. "If they come," he thought as he walked into the gathering night, "they won't find these. Not me!" and he hugged the bags closely.

Sylvia upstairs waited anxiously for the return of her father from the hospital, as she both wanted to hear how her lover was progressing and what he said about the permission to marry being given. But Aaron did not come to supper, as was his usual custom. Bart said, when inquiries were made, that the master had gone down into the cellar and was probably there. Meanwhile, according to his usual habit, he put up the shutters and departed. Sylvia and Deborah ate their frugal meal and retired to bed, the girl much disturbed at the absence of her father. Outside, in the street, the passersby diminished in number, and as the night grew darker and the lamps were lighted hardly a person remained in Gwynne street. It was not a fashionable thoroughfare, and after nightfall few people came that way. By 11 o'clock there was not a soul about. Even the one policeman who usually perambulated the street was conspicuous by his absence.

Sylvia in her bed had fallen into a troubled sleep and was dreaming of Paul, but not happily. She seemed to see him in trouble. Then she awoke suddenly with all her senses alert and sat up. Faintly she heard a wild cry, and then came the twelve strokes of the church bells announcing midnight. Breathlessly she waited, but the cry was not repeated. In the darkness she sat up listening until the quarter chimed. Then the measured footsteps of a policeman were heard passing down the street and dying away. Sylvia was terrified. Why she hardly knew; but she sprang from her bed and hurried into Deborah's room. "Wake up," she said, "there's something wrong."

Deborah was awake in a moment and lighted the lamp. On hearing Sylvia's story she went down the stairs followed by the girl. The door at the bottom, strange to say, was not locked. Deborah opened this and, peering into the shop, gave a cry of alarm and horror.

Lying on the floor was Aaron, bound hand and foot.

CHAPTER VII.

"GO BACK, go back, my precious!" cried Deborah, her first thought being how to spare Sylvia the sight.

But the girl, remembering that agonized cry which had awakened her, faint and far away as it sounded, pushed past the servant and ran into the middle of the shop. The lamp, held high by Deborah over her head, cast a bright circle of light on the floor, and in the middle of this Sylvia saw her father breathing heavily. His hands were bound behind his back in a painful way, his feet were tightly fastened and his head seemed to be attached to the floor. At least, when the body (as it seemed from its stillness) suddenly writhed, it rolled one side, but the head remained almost motionless. The two women hung back, clutching each other's hands, and were almost too horrified to move at the sight. "Look, look!" cried Sylvia, gasping. "The mouth!" Deborah looked and gave a moan. Aaron's mouth was rigidly closed under a glittering jewel.

Deborah bent down, still moaning, so great did the horror of the thing paralyze her speech, and saw the lights flash back from many diamonds. She saw bluish gleams and then a red sparkle like the ray of the setting sun. It was the opal serpent brooch, and Aaron's lips were fastened together with the stout pin. On his mouth and across his agonized face in which the one eye gleamed with terrific meaning

"Look, look!" cried Sylvia, grasping lamp shining on that dreadful sight—the body with sealed lips and the glittering jewel, and leaning against the wall were the two women, Deborah staring at her dead master, but with Sylvia's eyes pressed against her bosom so that she might not witness the horror. And the stillness deepened weirdly every moment.

Sylvia tried to move her head, but Deborah pressed it closer to her breast. "Don't, my pretty—don't," she whispered harshly.

"I must—I—ah!" The girl freed her head from those kind arms with a wrench and looked at the gruesome sight. She staggered forward a few steps and then fell back. Deborah received her in her arms and, thankful

FISH PROTECTION IN CANADA.

Great Lakes Are Rapidly Being Depleted—Close Time Needed.

At a meeting of the American Fisheries Society, held at Erie a short time ago, Mr. A. Kelly Evans of Toronto read a valuable paper advocating a better protection of fish in international waters. Mr. Evans is secretary of the Ontario Fish and Game Protective Association, and, along with Mr. Oliver Adams has brought about the formation of thirty-five branches of this organization throughout Ontario. Its object is to conserve the great but diminishing fish wealth of the province. One of the most striking features of the address delivered by Mr. Kelly Evans was an extract he read from the evidence taken by the commission appointed by the Dominion Government, fifteen years ago, to enquire into the fresh water fisheries. Albert Hutchins was a witness before the commission at Midland. "He had been fishing in the great lakes since 1850. Under examination he said:

"I have fished in Lake Ontario for about thirty years for whitefish and trout, the great majority were whitefish and were caught at Wellington Beach. They were caught very numerously with seines, as many as from 5,000 to 10,000 in one haul during the night; this was in the summer time in June and July. These were salted or sold on the ground to dealers. I have caught as many in a season as would allow the owners of the seine for their share about $2,000, the other $2,000 would go to the fishermen. Even more than this number were caught sometimes. Fishing was carried on in the fall of the year also. Whitefish were thick also everywhere in Lake Ontario at that time. I have known as many as 90,000 to be taken in one haul in one night; I was present and saw them counted. I have often known of from 5,000 to 10,000 being taken, and have taken 40,000 myself in a seine several times; this was in July, at Wellington Beach. Those that were saved of the 90,000 hauled were salted, many of these were lost because they could not be taken care of. There was another haul as large as this taken at West Lake Beach; the net was a 175 rod seine, it was then called the 'southwester.' When I left Lake Ontario, some fourteen years ago, there was no whitefish to be had by the fishermen where these great hauls had been made before, in fact the whitefish fishery had ceased to exist, there was no more of it. I left Lake Ontario to fish here, and a number of other fishermen also left there for the same cause."

Such was the fish wealth of Lake Ontario not so very long ago! Half a century of waste and slaughter leaves the lake to-day almost a barren stretch of water. If it is not too late, certainly it is not too soon, to form fish protective societies in order that a campaign for the preservation of our fish may be carried on with vigor.

The Suffragettes.

Canada awaits, not without trembling, the honor of a visitation by the Suffragettes. There are two great institutions on which we depend for our civilization and happiness; the state and the family. Both are just now in conflict with revolutionary forces, which in both cases perhaps have their source in passion as much as in thought, and are consequently violent in their manifestations. Violent is surely not too strong an epithet to be applied to the demonstrations of the Suffragettes over the water. Strange would be the state of a family in which one of these should be wife and mother. The men alone make the laws because they alone can uphold them. The men alone declare war because they alone can fight. Men, as a rule, regulate the family, though with women as their helpmates, because as a rule it is their duty to maintain it. Such apparently is the ordinance of nature, which assigns at the same time to woman a sphere gentler, but not by any means less momentous. No specific charge seems to have been brought by the Suffragettes against British legislation. They do not, it is hoped, want greater laxity of divorce. Upon that question the children have a claim to be heard. Mothers cannot well attend Parliament or public offices, and yet their practical exclusion from politics would be the exclusion of the most important part, and, generally speaking, of the most prudent part, of the sex. It is to be hoped that our fair visitors will leave this country with the conviction that the harmony of the family is as dear to the wife as it is to the husband, and that her belief is not likely to be shaken by such physical arguments as the Suffragettes have been using in England. It is but just to the leaders of the present agitation, who appear to be Radicals, to bear in mind that it was the Tories, with their Primrose League, that started the agitation in England. The Radicals in taking it up are giving it a less decorous form. Faction spares nothing, not the domestic hearth or the cradle.—Goldwin Smith, in The Weekly Sun.

Mr. R. Cordingly, Brockville, was in the city yesterday.

Weak Kidneys

Weak Kidneys, surely point to, weak kidney Nerves. The Kidneys, like the Heart, and the Stomach, find their weakness, not in the organ itself, but in the nerves, that control and guide and strengthen them. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is a medicine specifically prepared to reach those controlling nerves. To doctor the Kidneys alone, is futile. It is a waste of time, and of money as well.

If your back aches or is weak, if the urine scalds, or is dark and strong, if you have symptoms of Bright's or other distressing or dangerous kidney disease, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative a month—Tablets or Liquid—and see what it can and will do for you. Druggist recommend and sell

What Causes Your Frequent Colds?

People catch cold either because of exposure, low vitality or neglect of the bowels.

Once bowels become costive, allow the eliminating organs to grow sluggish, and cold will fill the entire system.

But the worst cold is curable in one night.

Don't use a strong cathartic—it only makes matters worse.

Just take one or two Dr. Hamilton's Pills before retiring.

While you sleep, this wonderful medicine works through the system and completely carries away the cold.

By stimulating the bowels and kidneys, it ensures healthy elimination, wakes up the sluggish organs and gives nature a chance.

Next morning you wake up with a fresh, brisk feeling. Color has improved, appetite is sharp, cold has disappeared.

Nothing simpler, nothing half so effective as Dr. Hamilton's Pills, which not only destroy the cold but tone and regulate the whole system.

In rheumatism, gout and kidney ills, the action and effect of Dr. Hamilton's Pills is just the same as with the simple cold.

Prevent sickness by keeping Dr. Hamilton's Pills on hand, 25c. per box or five boxes for $1.00, at all dealers, and refuse a substitute.

Candidates for Deaconship

Rev. Dr. Langtight was engaged yesterday and will be to-day examining candidates for ordination as deacons in St. Luke's rectory. The ordination service will take place on Sunday morning at St. John's church and the Lordship, Bishop, Rev. Dr. Reeves, will conduct the ceremony.

Mr. Ames at Conservative Club

Mr. Ames of the St. Antoine Division of Montreal, will address the members of the Young Conservative Club this evening at eight o'clock. Mr. Ames will speak on organization and give illustrations on lantern views. This will be one of the most instructive and profitable evenings yet held in the rooms, and it is anticipated that a large audience will welcome and hear this eloquent speaker.

Press Game Receipts to Good Cause

Mr. E. L. Goodwill, secretary of the Children's Aid Society, acknowledges the receipt of a cheque for ten dollars from the Peterborough Hockey Club, Ltd. This is the rink company's share of the receipts at the press game Thursday night after the payment of actual expenses. The company's generous action is greatly appreciated by the officers of the Children's Aid Society.

Grippe is sweeping the country. Stop it with Preventics, before it gets deeply seated. To check early colds with these little Candy Cold Cure Tablets is surely sensible and safe. Preventics contain no Quinine, no laxative, nothing harsh or sickening. Pneumonia would never appear if early colds were promptly broken. Also good for feverish children. Large box, 48 tablets, 25 cents. Vest pocket home, 5 cents. Sold by all dealers.

Visitation Workers Meet Tuesday

A meeting of all the workers in connection with the house to house visitation will be held in the Y.M.C.A. Hall on Tuesday evening, March 10th, at which Mr. Yellowlees will be present to give instructions and explanations as to the details of carrying on the work. The organization is now fairly complete, and all that is necessary to carry the work to a successful finish is energy and faithfulness on the part of the workers.

Died Because no Hospital There

A sad case is reported from Hunstville of a young man named Phelps. It seems that Phelps had been working for a farmer some three miles from Burke's Falls, and got his hands, arms and feet so badly bitten that mortification was imminent. The employer drove him to Burke's Falls in the hope that Phelps might be granted admission to the hospital. Both institutions there are now only private enterprises, the Government grant having been withdrawn, and as the young fellow had no sufficient money to pay for an operation and treatment, admission was denied. The farmer promised municipal aid to the extent of $40, but could only arrange for admission of the sufferer to a private house. A physician attended him, but Phelps succumbed to his injuries.

Peterboro Canoes for Brazil

That Peterborough is as well, if not better advertised throughout the wide world by her canoes, is an admitted fact. Not a sporting magazine is printed by what, sooner or later, contains a reference to "Peterborough Canoes." A few days ago the English Canoe Company, shipped a canoe to Brazil, and there is a probability that more will be sent in the future. This is the first canoe ever sent by the English company to that country and perhaps the first canoe ever sent from Peterborough to that country. The canoe was shipped to New York and placed on a steamer and taken to South America.

Use of Word "Rake-Off" by George Taylor Permits of a Vote which Breaks Deadlock

Ottawa, Feb. 29.—(Special.) — The long long debate on the item for ice-breakers was broken at 4.30 this afternoon by an appeal from the ruling of the chair. The division bells clanged the summons, and from corridor and smoking room, even from the foundations of the parliament buildings issued forth four score deputies and the vote was taken.

George Taylor had been speaking. He used the word "rake-off" in referring to some transaction of the government and Armand Lavergne (Montmagny) raised the point of order that a member was not within the rules in using such a word in reference to a member of the house.

"Bill" Galliher of British Columbia, was in the chair. He referred the point to Mr. Speaker Sutherland, who decided that the point was well taken.

Mr. Taylor appealed against the ruling of the chair, hence the vote.

China Must Yield or Fight the Japs

Tokio Insists on Both an Apology and Payment of Indemnity

No Compromise

Tokio, Feb. 29. — The Japanese Government is maintaining a determined attitude concerning the seizure of the Tatsumaru, and demands both an apology and an indemnity from China.

The Chinese foreign office wants to submit the entire question to a mixed court. This is refused by the Japanese Government unless the vessel has first been released and an apology made for insult to the flag.

It appears that the Tatsu was regularly cleared from Kobe with a consignment of arms and ammunition for Macao. The Portuguese Minister at Pekin supports the contention of Viscount Hayashi, the Japanese Minister of Foreign Affairs, that the vessel was seized in Portuguese waters. The Chinese claim the rifles were really for revolutionists.

It is believed here among officers that the Chinese will finally yield to the demands of Japan. It is said by Japanese officials that no ultimatum has been issued, and that the sailing of the Japanese cruiser Idzumi for Hong Kong is not intended as a threat.

It is evident, however, that the Japanese will resort to force unless their demands are conceded within a reasonable time.

LIFE IN THE SLUMS OF OLD GLASGOW

Its Awful Sleeping Quarters and Their Demoralizing Effects

In the Milgate Monthly there is a description of the "Atlantis of Glasgow"—the Cowcaddens—where "all that is most unutterbious and repellent in our modern life is to be found." Side by side with all that is demoralizing live and flourish harpies of various kinds and degrees. None is so dangerous to the health of the community as she who night after night seeks to make a dishonest penny by overcrowding her slummy house. Sanitary inspectors find the occupants of over-crowded houses, in their attempt to avoid detection, concealed in every conceivable corner—hidden in cupboards, under beds and even on the housetops. Two tiers of people have been found in one bed, one on the boards or mattress, the bed then flung over, and another living tier on the top.

What are known as "penny pawns" abound in the district. A broker who keeps one of these can purchase an article of any value from a penny upward. He is compelled to keep it for only seven full days, and at the end of that period he may sell it to whomsoever he chooses, and that, too, in all probability, for several hundred per cent more than he paid for it. Thousands of poor people are entirely ignorant of the difference between a pawnbroking establishment and a "penny pawn," with the result that in many cases when they go to the latter they lose goods which, if pledged with the former, they might have redeemed in time.

A TERRIBLE REWARD.

Cromwell's Payment For the Capture of Pembroke Castle.

During the struggle between King Charles and the parliament Pembroke castle was so well fortified that Cromwell, with all his cannon, could not take it.

After many failures he gave up his intention and began to march on for Tenby. But before he had proceeded far a country shoemaker came up to Cromwell and asked him whether he would reward him if he would tell him how to get the castle into his possession.

Cromwell, very glad of this offer, consented. Then this old shoemaker, glad to get some money, as no doubt he was rather poor, told him that there was a pipe through which they got their water and that if he were to cut the pipe the castle would surrender.

Cromwell said, "I thank you for the information you have given me, but as you have turned traitor to your countrymen the only reward I will give you is that you shall be hanged on the very next tree that I come to."

Cromwell had the shoemaker hanged and cut the pipe he had told him of, leading to the castle, which then surrendered.—London Telegraph.

Sir Wilkie Injured

Mr. William Wilkie, who is visiting his brother, Mr. Wilkie of the C. G. F. Co., met with a painful accident on Saturday evening. It seems that Mr. Wilkie with a number of young ladies and gentlemen were out for a snowshoe pleasure tramp that evening. Mr. Wilkie wore "skats" and whilst descending a declivity in the neighborhood was unfortunate enough to have one of his skats collide with a stump and rock hidden beneath the snow. He was thrown over, and sustained a severe sprain in one of his legs. The members of the party assisted him to the Jackson Park car on which he rode home. It is hoped that no severe complications will ensue.

Local Plumber to Live in Toronto

Mr. Norman Reid, a partner in the hustling plumbing firm of MacGregor & Reid, George street, will in future reside in Toronto, where he goes to assume a responsible position in connection with the Esplanade Foundry Company, of which Mr. Reid's father, of Rosedale, Toronto, has for many years been the controlling member, and who recently acquired the whole business. He has given each of his three sons a financial interest in this business.

Mr. Reid will also retain an interest in the local firm, which has of past years earned an enviable name for the number of their contracts and the integrity in which the contracts are carried out.

A Very Promising Investment in Oil

Messrs. T. Paterson Secure Block of Stock That Looks Good

The only man or woman not acquainted with the fortunes made of late in oil is one who is either blind or dead. Fortunes have been made in oil and are still in the making. Oil is a wonderful proposition as gold is investment, and in many cases is safer and cheaper to exploit than the average gold mine, while the dividends are equally desirable.

Messrs. T. Paterson & Co., 161 Simcoe street, the local Fiscal Agents, have been fortunate enough to secure a block of the Calumet, Michigan Oil and Mining Company's stock for sale, and recommend it as a promising investment. This company has full title to one hundred and sixty acres, fully paid for, with an option on four hundred and sixty acres at reasonable terms, in the famous mineral section of Colorado. This property has coal on it. Mr. Henry C. Lord, the well known mining engineer and chemist of Denver, Colorado, and equally well known experts on geology and mineralogy have certified to favorable conditions as regards production of oil in large quantities on the property of the Calumet Mesa Oil and Mining Co. In speaking of the property in the vicinity of the Company's property, the Evening says that at 990 feet there is a flow of gas amounting to 20,000 cubic feet a day and between 20 and 25 barrels of oil every 24 hours.

The company is capitalized at $50,000 and has decided to sell only 25,000 shares at 25 cents per share, par value $1 each. Each first well will be sunk by contract. There is plenty of capital and water at hand, thus ensuring cheap operations. For full particulars apply to Messrs. Paterson & Co., 161 Simcoe street or write Mr. Wm. A. Bateman, Fiscal Agent, Calumet, Mich.

Dave Hartley Finished Third in the Kansas Walk?

Efforts were made by the Times at an early hour this morning to get a despatch from Kansas City, as to whether Dav Hartley had finished inside the money, but no news could be got as the heavy storm of yesterday had played havoc with communication. A rumor was current throughout the city that Hartley had finished in 3rd place, but this could not be verified.

THE QUESTION OF SURGEON'S FEES

Obituary

The many friends of Dr. Richard Coughlin of Hastings will learn with regret that this well known and highly esteemed physican passed away at that village Saturday morning, after a long illness. The deceased was less than 50 years of age but was well known throughout this district. His widow was, prior to marriage in 1889, Miss Teresa Hurley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. Hurley, Hunter street, Peterborough. The funeral will take place in Hastings this morning. The deceased was a cousin of Dr. Coughlin, formerly of Peterborough, and now of Belleville.

Hot Bisouit

Kind of Breakfast Passing Away

The old-time hot biscuit played a prominent role in the breakfast bill of fare, along with fried potatoes, ham and eggs, and coffee.

The whiter and lighter the biscuit the more pleased the cook, which was usually Mother, who did the best she could, with her understanding of the matter.

But most people have learned in recent years, that white flour lacks the nourishing elements of the entire wheat berry, and many cases of imperfect nutrition follow its use.

In Grape-Nuts, all the food elements of wheat and barley are used, and this largely accounts for results similar to those given in the following letter:

"I wish to tell of the health and strength-giving properties of Grape-Nuts. I am 45 years old and had for years been afflicted with indigestion and other stomach troubles, brought on by eating hot biscuits, white bread and improperly cooked cereals.

"Nothing I ever tried seemed to do me the least bit of good, and I was skeptical because I had tried so many so-called 'health-foods'. I thought it would be useless to try Grape-Nuts.

"But during the last six months I have been using it, my stomach has been the best for years, my mind clear, my nerves quiet and a feeling of buoyancy pervades my whole being.

"And I attribute to Grape-Nuts as I have left off using medicines I now firmly believe it is the brain-clearing, nerve-steadying and muscle-building properties of Grape-Nuts.

"I am healthier than I have been for years, weigh 10 lbs., which is more than ever before."

Method by which it is Said the Fees are Being Charged

Frequently laymen who have had occasion to settle the bills of surgeons upon whom they have called in extremities to use the knife are heard to complain against what they call "the exorbitant charges of surgeons."

A skilled surgeon may charge $250 for a simple appendicitis operation. The patient, who never thinks of complaining until he is convalescent, objects oftentimes to paying the bill. He says, "It is outrageous for a surgeon to charge $250 for half an hour's work."

The question of surgeons' fees often puzzles a patient. He knows of one man upon whom a surgeon of wide reputation has operated and charged only $75. He may know of another who has paid $1,000 for the same operation. He cannot figure it out.

Yet surgeons of known ability and national, perhaps international, fame have a general plan in charging for operations. Their prices range from nothing to $5,000. They will operate without any question of willingness or ability to pay in any case where the situation is imperative. Afterward they will present the bill. The general public does not understand how a surgeon will charge one man $50, another $250 and another $5,000.

Surgeons have a fixed price scheme. They aim to charge the patient about one month's income. They figure that any person who is in such bad condition as to be forced to submit to a surgical operation surely can afford to give one month's income. They ascertain roughly what a man makes per month and send in a bill for that amount. The man whose income is but $50 a month pays $50. The man who gets $5,000 is asked to pay $5,000—and generally objects, even though he should know that his life is worth as much proportionately as that of his fellow.

SEVENTY-SIX KILLED IN MINE EXPLOSION

Monterey, Mexico, Feb. 29.—A despatch from Musquiz to the News says: Details of the explosion in the Larosita Mine, near San Juan de Sabinas received here, indicate that it was more disastrous that at first believed, 76 men being killed.

The explosion occurred just as preparations were being made to change the shift, in what is known as shaft No. 3, and in which most of the laborers were Japanese. Fire damp is believed to have been the cause.

A Big Naval Programme

Radical and labor members of the British parliament have prepared a resolution demanding a decrease in military naval expenditures and accusing the government of violation of definite pledges of economy in that direction. The resolution was introduced some time ago, but as the suggestion of the premier was temporarily withdrawn. Had it been pressed, tory organs say, the government would have been defeated, for the tories would have voted with the radicals and laborites.

That it will be reintroduced after the naval estimates for the year are submitted is practically certain, for the estimates are not likely to be marked by a decrease. On the contrary, the admiralty officers expect the estimates to be part of "answer to Germany's naval programme"—not a complete answer, but a partial one. It is said that the government will ask three vessels of the Dreadnought type, two heavily armoured cruisers, six smaller cruisers, twelve torpedo craft, additional submarines, etc. Next year, it is said, a larger number of new ships will be demanded, as England is determined to stick to "the two-power standard" at any cost and permit no country to encroach upon her present naval superiority.

Germany has announced her intention of raising her fleet to the highest level and to maintain it there. The naval budget for 1908 reaches $90,000,000. She is planning heavy expenditures on new vessels, and has shortened the life of war ships by five years to prevent their becoming obsolete. She is borrowing money to strengthen her fleet, and it is this which has stirred up some of the English officers and editors. The friends of economy and decreased naval expenditures point out that England's actual supremacy is still too decided to render alarm rational. She has 39 battleships of the first class against Germany's 11 and the same number for France. She has 17 in solar battle ships against Germany's 9, and 32 armoured cruisers against Germany's 6 and France's 13. Large economies are, therefore, declared both desirable and expedient. But the ministerial organs say that the starting of the new Dreadnought type created a new situation and that England must be supreme in the new type as well as in the older and less powerful types of ships. A long lead in other types, it is urged, would not suffice in the event of war under modern conditions, and the pledges of reduction, therefore, must be "regarded as modified" by the unexpected developments in naval construction.

Of course, England's "answer" will bring about a rejoiner from Germany, and so on. Sober-minded observers admit that the military-naval burdens are heavy to be borne indefinitely, and that the time must soon come for negotiations looking to general reductions of war budgets.

Hartley was Ill on First Day of Walk

Whilst up to Saturday noon many of Dave Hartley's friends, and they are legion, regretted that the last despatch from Kansas City then placed him only fifth in the great six days walking competition, none of them were ignorant that Dave lost considerable time on the first day of the race by sickness, although he made a game effort to retrieve lost time. On Saturday Mr. R. J. Munro received a letter from the local walker.

"I did not have very good luck the first day of the race as I took ill and had to leave the track after making 50 miles. If I had not had a good trainer I would have had to quit. He says I should have had five months of good hard training. Of course I had no place to work out in but Tuesday I was doing better and have worked my way up to fifth place. I gained and passed 10 men and 3 have dropped out. I am treated splendidly by the people here, and get more sympathy than any one of the walkers."

Complimentary Banquet

Mr J W Van Norman Honored by His Friends Here

On Saturday evening last Mr. J. W. VanNorman, who has just completed his course of electrical engineering with the Canadian General Electrical Company, and who leaves this morning for his home in Prince Edward Island, was banqueted at the T. A. S. rooms, by his fellow students and others.

The chair was occupied by Mr. S. W. Cunniff, who filled the position of toastmaster in a satisfactory manner.

A feature of the affair was the presentation of a handsome gold headed silk umbrella to the guest of the evening, which was acknowledged by Mr. VanNorman in a few well chosen words.

Songs by Mr J. W. MacKie and Mr E. H. Hooker, added greatly to the pleasure of the evening. The good old familiar airs of "God Save the King", "The Maple Leaf Forever" and others were audible to George street.

A Bold Step.

To overcome the well-grounded and reasonable objection of the more intelligent to the use of secret, medicinal compounds, Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., some time ago decided to make a bold departure from the usual course pursued by the makers of put-up medicines for domestic use, and so has published broadcast and openly to the whole world, a full and complete list of all the ingredients entering into the composition of his widely celebrated medicines. Thus he has taken his numerous patrons and patients into full confidence. Thus too he has removed the cause for any further criticism from among secret nostrums of doubtful merits, and made them entries of Known Composition. Dr. Pierce has shown that [illegible] of every bottle of his famous [illegible] for weak stomach, torpid liver and [illegible] and catarrhal diseases, above [illegible] to the world, by printing upon it, in plain English, a full and complete list of all the ingredients composing it, but a small book has been compiled from numerous standard medical works of all the different schools of practice, containing very numerous extracts from the writings of leading practitioners of medicine, endorsing the strongest possible terms, each and every ingredient contained in Dr. Pierce's medicines. [illegible] be found free to any one sending a postal card request to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., and requesting the same. Then, too, when you look at it will be learned that Dr. Pierce's medicines contain no alcohol, nor other stimulating agent, nor narcotic, nor any other form of spirituous liquor, and that they are not recommended as cure-alls, but as medicines of great value, and that some of the most valuable ingredients contained in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for weak, worn out, over-worked, "run-down," nervous and debilitated women, were employed long years ago, by the Indians for similar diseases affecting their squaws. In fact, one of the most valuable medicinal plants entering into the composition of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription was known to the Indians as "Squaw Weed." Our knowledge of the uses of this and a few of our most valuable native, medicinal plants was gained from the Indians. As made up by improved and exact processes the "Favorite Prescription" is a most potent restorative, regulative, all-the-year-round, general, and specific, curative, strengthening, invigorating and nutritive tonic, and blood purifier, acting equally well in all climates and seasons of the year. For all weakness, prolapsus, anteversion and retroversion, overcoming painful periods, drains, inflammations and ulcerations, it is unequaled and unsurpassed. Sold by all dealers in medicines.

Miss Catherine Hurley Has Passed Away

The many friends in this city and county of Miss Catharine Hurley will learn with heartfelt regret that this most esteemed and generally popular young lady succumbed to her late illness at 4 p. m. on Saturday.

The late Miss Hurley was a daughter of Mr T. Hurley, Hunter street. She suffered from tuberculosis and passed away with a patient and Christian fortitude. The deceased, who was a skilled musicians, leaves to mourn her loss her parents, and three sisters, the latter Miss Lily at home, Mrs. McCarthy of this city and Mrs. Dr. Coughlin, of Hastings. In this connection her death was particularly sad as her brother-in-law, Dr Coughlin, died in Hastings, on Saturday also.

She was a general favourite about the town, not only for her winning ways, but also for her skical talent. As a girl she was a pupil of St. Peter's Convent here, afterwards going to Loretto Convent, Niagara Falls, and spending a year in violin and piano at Toronto Conservatory of Music. She was organist of St. Peter's Cathedral for several years but failing in health compelled her to retire from her musical activities two years ago. She spent two winters in Texas where she gained a host of warm friends, but did not succeed in reestablishing her physical strength. A wide circle of admiring acquaintances regret her early demise.

There will be Mass celebrated in St. Peter's Cathedral then interment in the Roman Catholic Cemetary.

Knox Church Exhibition Today

This afternoon at 3 o'clock an exhibition of curios from all the parts of the world will be opened to the public in Knox Church School House. Many of the exhibits arrived in the city Saturday from Toronto and Montreal and the exhibition will excell anything ever shown before in this city and should be well attended. In the evning a rally of the different young people's societis of the city in the school house, and Rev. Mr. A. E. Armstrong, of Toronto, will deliver an address on "The young people and the world's evangelization".

Employees were Terribly Burned in Sulphur Mill

New York, Feb. 29. —Six employees of the National Sulphur Co. Mill in Brooklyn were terribly burned and lacerated by the explosion of sulphur in the company's plant to-day. A driver of a passing truck was struck and his skull fractured by a section of the roof which was blown off the building.

The factory was destroyed by fire with a loss of about $150,000.

The burned building was a 4-storey brick structure on Kent avenue, Brooklyn, the rear of the building ending to Wall, about creek. The six employees were at work in the sulfiling section ing sulphur, when it is supposed a spark from one of the grinding machines ignited the powdered sulphur, causing a series of heavy explosions.

Miles Hamilton Presents a Cup

Referring to an old Peterborough boy a son of Mrs. (Hon.) Robt Hamilton, "Auburn", but now manager of the Bank of Montreal in Fenelon Falls, the Lindsay Post says:—

"Mr. R. M. Hamilton, manager of the Bank of Montreal, Fenelon Falls, has like most Fenelon Falls people, become thoroughly interested in all good sport, and particularly in hockey. To furnish some excitement along these lines he has very kindly donated a handsome cup, to be played for by home and home games between Lindsay and Fenelon Falls.

Two Deacons Ordained in St. John's

Yesterday morning the solemn and interesting ceremony of ordination was performed in St. John's Church by his Lordship Bishop Reeves, of Toronto. There were two candidates for orders as deacons, viz., Mr. C. E. Wilkins, of Apsley and Mr. F. H. Battersby, of Young's Point.

Mr. Wilkinson is an Englishman with several years experience in lay-mission work in England. He came here last November and has been at Apsley since. He preached at St. John's Church in the evening.

Mr. Battersby has been at Young's Point for several years and has done very splendid church work. He was formerly engaged in work in the Northwest mission field.

His Lordship Bishop Reeves delivered a most impressive and instructive sermon during the ordination service, anent the obligations, duties and privileges, etc., of of these ordained. Bishop Reeves is a fluent speaker with a very clear and distinct ennunciation. Every word spoken was worth hearing and spoken so that it could be heard and understood.

Rev. J. G. Potter in Series of Sermons

Beginning last night in St. Andrew's church the Rev. James G. Potter gave a series of short addresses during the month of March on practical subjects at the evening service as follows:—

March 2.—"Is life measured by length of days?"

March 8.—"Is life valued by the portion of goods that falls to us?"

March 15.—"Is life a time of probation?"

March 22.—"Is life merely spectacular?"

March 29.—"Is life worthy of loyalty to Christ?"

These addresses are particularly arranged for the young people of the congregation in view of the April Communicants classes will be held each Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Guild Room.

Tea in St. John's Sunday School

Yesterday afternoon a large number of men by previous invitation gathered in the Sunday School at five o'clock and partook of an excellent tea provided by Messrs. F. L. Roy and Frank Linton. An air of goodfellowship was noticeable throughout the function. Rev. Canon Davidson is an ardent advocate of these fellowship teas as tending to promote harmony among the congregation and subsequent furtherance of the good cause.

Engineering Magazine

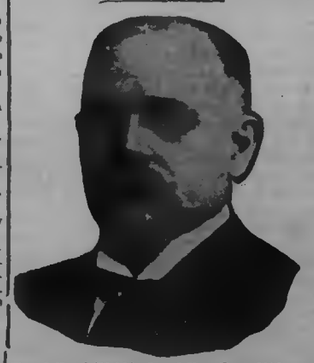
The Engineering Magazine for March gives the leading place to a discussion of conditions and prospects in the American iron industry, by Edwin C. Eckel, late expert of the United States Geological Survey on this very subject. One of the most interesting points he brings out is the probability of a great opening for competition with the steel trust through the establishment of tide-water works using the Appalachian coals and iron ores, or higher grade ores imported, and delivering their product very cheaply to American coastal cities or to export markets. Important illustrated features are articles on conveying and hoisting machinery, by Werner Hoecklin and T. Kennard Thomson; on the power plant for the small factory, by Percival Robert Moses; and on the purification of water supplies, by J. C. Wm. Greth. H. M. Wharton gives a very clear description of the production system of the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Co., and George F. Stratton describes the labor-cost distribution methods of the General Electric Co. Professor Sidney A. Reeve and Reginald Pedham Bolton conduct a joint debate on the best method or practise in the heating of boiler-feed water.

POLICE

At Saturday's session of the Police Court His Worship noted in fair but unmistakable terms that the Crouter family, i. e., Crouter and his wife, who were on Thursday found guilty of disturbing a house of ill-repute, had better seek a climate more congenial to their peculiar habits and mode of life. He told Mrs. Crouter that she was old enough to know better and he despaired of her changing her mode of life. His Worship told Crouter he could go on suspended sentence, but must leave the city and County within fifteen days, or he would be haled before the Court and given a heavy sentence. Crouter was also placed under $200 bonds to keep the peace for the priod of one year. This means that should the man remain here for ten minutes or a year, he must behave. He cannot even have the liberty of having a row with his own family: he must, in fewest words keep the peace! His own bail was accepted. Mrs. Crouter must also leave this part of the county within the same 15 days. The girl Queenie Grant was sentenced to one year in the Mercer Institute, Toronto. The girl took the sentence much to heart, but judging by appearances, or in fact as the Magistrate remarked, she will be cleaner in both body and soul at the expiration of her term.

Chronic Rheumatism Cured

50,000 BOXES FREE



Try Like I Did Under Like Condition

JOHN A. SMITH

For rheumatism, that horrible plague, I found a simple remedy and in order that every suffering reader may learn about it, I will gladly mail him a package free. This marvelous remedy I found by a lucky chance while an invalid from rheumatism, and has since cured hundreds of others, among them cases of over 30 and 40 years standing. In Fountain City, Wis., it cured an old gentleman who had suffered 32 years, and after seven doctors had tried in vain. In Marion, Ohio, it cured a lady who had been bedfast for thirteen weeks. In Palmer, Neb., it cured a lady 64 years old. In Bennington, Vt., it cured an old gentleman who had been lame for 20 years. In Stayner, Ont., it enabled a lady to abandon her crutches. In Englewood, Ohio, it cured a gentleman of 67, who had suffered 18 years.

If other remedies have disappointed you, write me without fail, and by return mail you will receive the trial package absolutely free and also free a book on rheumatism which is illustrated with many stippled drawings from actual life, and which will tell you all about your case.

Never before has a remedy for rheumatism been so highly endorsed as this. Among the eminent people who have en-

YOU FEEL TIRED ALL THE TIME

Night comes and it's hard to sleep. Morning dawns and the aurious tired feeling is still there. Unwilling to get up, a strong desire to rest just a little longer.

Unwise to neglect this gradual decline. It can't cure itself,—but Ferrozone by forming rich pure blood at once supplies nutriment for building up the system. This extra nourishment is distributed throughout the entire body, gives force to the nerves, strength to the muscle, and power to the digestive organs.

At once you feel braced, toned and strengthened. You know a powerful force is building up depleted energies, you realize what it means to have the vim and spirit of robust health.

Search the world over and you won't find a tonic, to nourish, build up, and fortify a weak body like Ferrozone. Physicians claim it is the best all round strengthening medicine ever discovered.

To take Ferrozone regularly is an insurance policy of health, a guarantee that you will be free from vexatious spells of Languor and debilitating sickness of every kind. Surely it is worth while trying a medicine that Mrs. H. S. Gold, of Bowsman, Man., speaks of as follows;

"I want to state my case, because I think it may be the means of assisting other suffering women back to health. A year ago I was almost a wreck. I was pale and emaciated, suffered from nervous exhaustion and dyspepsia. Little things that went wrong in the house bothered me. The doctor advised different treatments, but they didn't help. He said that my low condition of health was due to weakness that might never be cured. Ferrozone had a peculiar grateful effect and built me up quickly. The ills I suffered from are cured. I am now strong and vigorous, and was made so by Ferrozone." (Signed) Mrs. H S. Gold.

Before your ill-health assumes a chronic or malignant form build up with Ferrozone. Sold everywhere, 50c. per box or six for $2.50, at all dealers.

FOREST PRESERVATION

Forest preservation and the perpetuation of existing forests are the essential objects aimed at by the Canadian Forestry Association. This is a national body, which now numbers about 1200 members, having on its rolls representatives of all the provinces and districts of Canada, and, in addition, of Newfoundland, the United States, Great Britain and several European countries.

Prominent lumbermen and manufacturers of lumber, pulp and paper, teachers of forestry, well-known scientists, professional foresters, prominent government officials having charge of the public timberlands and others interested in one or other of the many aspects of forestry are included in its membership. The first president of the association was Sir Henry Joly de Lotbiniere, lately Lieut.-Governor of British Columbia, and among his successors have been prominent lumbermen, such as Messrs Hiram Robinson, of Ottawa; Wm. Little, of Westmount, P. Q.; and E. G Joly de Lotbiniere, of Quebec, and prominent officials, such as Messrs. Aubrey White, Deputy Minister of Lands and Forests for Ontario, and E. Stewart, late Superintendent of Forestry for the Dominion.

The president for 1907-1908 is Mr. H. M. Price, of Quebec, well-known in the pulpwood industry, and the secretary is Mr. R H Campbell, of Ottawa. Superintendent of Forestry for the Dominion.

The Canadian Forestry Convention, held at Ottawa, in January, 1906, was organized by the Association, and has resulted in greatly increasing the interests in forestry throughout the Dominion. Provincial forestry conventions held during the past couple of years in Vancouver, B. C., Fredericton, N. B., and Yarmouth, N. S., have also owned much to the example and encouragement of the parent association.

The association meets annually in the The Association meets annually in March. The next annual meeting is to be held in Montreal, on March 13th and 14th, 1908. Previous annual meetings have convened at Ottawa, Toronto and Quebec.

The Association was organized in 1901 through the efforts of Mr. E. Stewart, then Superintendent of Forestry for the Dominion. Its objects, as set forth in its constitution, include the advocating of judicious methods of dealing with Canada's forests and woodlands, the awakening of public interest in the consequences of reckless deforestation, the exploration of the public domain and its division into agricultural and non-agricultural land, with a view to having the latter set aside for permanent forest reserves, the encouragement of tree planting and the spread of information with regard to forests and forestry.

To aid in the last-named object the Association has established the Canadian Forestry Journal which is issued quarterly and sent to each member of the Association.

EVANS' BIG FLEET.

The Way It Would Have Toyed With the Spanish Armada.

Speaking of the fleet of American battleships now on its way to Pacific waters as an "armada," as some writers appear fond of doing, is comparing very great things with things very small. It is true that the Spanish armada in 1588, to which allusion of course is made, filled a large place in history and was a very spectacular affair in its day, but its power as compared with that of the fleet under Admiral Evans was the power of a crow compared with that of an eagle. The "invincible armada" of Spain, which set out to invade and capture England in 1588, was a formidable demonstration of naval power for that period, though it met with complete disaster.

The armada consisted of about 130 vessels, some of them of great size, but all wooden and without any protection against even the feeble artillery of that day. They carried in all 2,431 guns and more than 19,000 men, besides the working crews. As the soldiers could not help work the ships, they were really in the way and much more helpless on shipboard than modern marines. The cannon which formed the armament of the ships were mere toys compared with those of the present day. Finally the ships were all sailing ships, cumbrously built, hard to maneuver and liable to be put out of action by adverse winds. Torpedo boats and monitors were unknown at that day.

The American fleet consists of sixteen first class battleships, eight armored cruisers, nine protected cruisers, six gunboats, six torpedo boat destroyers and three monitors. The ships carry a total of 2,184 guns, any one of which could sink the biggest ships in the Spanish armada with one shot from a distance that the heaviest gun in the Spanish fleet could not cover half the way. The concentrated fire of all the ships in the Spanish fleet would not make a dent in the armored sides of one of the American ships, while a single broadside from the latter would sink or disable the entire armada. Finally the American ships, being worked by steam and electricity, are entirely independent of wind and weather. After they had steamed through the Spanish armada once, from end to end, coming out scathless, there would be nothing left of the armada.—Kennebec Journal.

How the World Grows.

In a little more than a hundred years, according to government figures, the population of the world has grown from 640,000,000 to 1,600,000,000, an increase of 150 per cent. At the end of so many hundreds of centuries, in other words, there were in the world in 1800 only 640,000,000 of persons, and in 106 years, from 1800 to 1906, to this number had been added 960,000,000.

The total commerce of the world in 1800 was about $1,500,000,000; in 1906 it was more than $20,000,000,000. Other figures show that in wealth and the growth of various industrial agencies the increase has been far swifter than that of population.

The overpopulation of the world is not a present menace to the thinkers of today, but the thinkers of a period when there were less than half as many people in the world as there are now seriously debated the imminence of the catastrophe that the overcrowding of the earth would produce.—Boston Globe.

The Plight of Mouchot.

Twenty years ago a famous work on "Solar Heat" was produced by Professor Bernard Mouchot. This clever old gentleman has just been discovered starving in Paris, eighty-two years of age, and on the point of being turned out of a poverty stricken home for nonpayment of rent. At the age of seventy-five he married a young woman, who subsequently passed off a relative as the professor in order that after his death the younger man could continue to draw his pension. Unhappily the impostor went first, and as Bernard Mouchot was supposed to have died the pension ceased. The professor could not claim the pension without exposing the fraud of his wife; hence his present plight.

Docking the Big Liners.

When the Cunard line steamship Lusitania finished her maiden voyage to this country the services of twenty-one tugs were required to warp her into her dock. Recently when the Mauretania arrived here on her third passage four tugs had as easy time in pushing her into position to steam alongside the pier.

"The tide causes the difference," said a riverman. "I have seen the Deutschland absolutely immovable with nearly thirty tugs puffing and pushing simply because the tide had hung her up. Then again I have seen the Kaiser Wilhelm II. go in under two tugs."—New York Post.

The Big Zulu Chief.

Dinizulu, the Zulu chief who is believed to be at the bottom of the trouble in Zululand and has surrendered himself to the British government, is a hopeless drunkard. Like his father, Cetewayo, he is so unwieldy in his person that it will not be a very easy matter for him to run away. The present Zulu trouble is largely due to misguided humanitarianism, which brought Dinizulu back from his exile in St. Helena. Tradition gives him great power among his followers.

A Good Opening.

Ian Maclaren was talking to a group of literary beginners in New York. "Begin your stories well," he said emphatically. "There's nothing like a good beginning. Indeed, it's half the battle." Then, with a smile, this excellent beginner of stories added, "Always bear in mind the case of the young man who, desiring to marry, secured a favorable hearing from his sweetheart's irascible father by opening the interview with the words, 'I know a way, sir, whereby you can save money.' "—Good Health.

The Hen's Repartee.

The roosters smiled and the ducks did grin
When the brown hen sat in the old coal bin.
But the brown hen laughed as well as they
And said: "Now listen to my lay:
'The old coal bin is the place for me,
For it's filled with egg coal, don't you see!'"

Corrected.

It was on a street car in the city of Washington. Two colored women in cheaply gorgeous splendor were talking, and one chanced to mention a Mr. Jinks in her conversation.

"Excuse me," said the other woman, "but his name is not Jinks. It is Mr. Jenks."

"Oh, I seen," said the other woman complaisantly—"I seen that you puts de accents on de pronoun."—Lippincott's.

The Blushing Bride.

A clergyman, having performed the marriage ceremony for a couple, undertook to write out the usual certificate; but, being in doubt as to the day of the month, he asked, "This is the ninth, is it not?"

"Why, parson," said the blushing bride, "you do all my marrying, and you ought to remember that this is only the third."—Current Literature.

Engineering Magazine

The Engineering Magazine for March gives the leading place to a discussion of conditions and prospects in the American iron industry, by Edwin C. Eckel, late expert of the United States Geological Survey on this very subject. One of the most interesting points he brings out is the probability of a great opening for competition with the steel trust through the establishment of tide-water works using the Appalachian coals and iron ores, or higher grade ores imported, and delivering their product very cheaply to American coastal cities or to export markets. Important illustrated features are articles on conveying and hoisting machinery, by Werner Boecklin and T. Kennard Thomson; on the power plant for the small factory, by Percival Robert Moses; and on the pasification of water supplies, by J. C. Wm. Greth. H. M. Wharton gives a very clear description of the production system of the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Co., and George F. Stratton describes the labor-cost distribution methods of the General Electric Co. Professor Sidney A. Reeve and Reginald Pelham Bolton conduct a joint debate on the best method or practice in the heating of boiler-feed water, and P. J. Darlington begins an interesting analysis of the fundamental principles of shop management, designed to reduce the present confusion to a definite science. The number concludes with the Review of the Engineering Press and the Engineering Index.

A Business Proposition!

FOR BUSINESS MEN AND WOMEN

I want business men and women who have money to invest to write me for particulars.

I have an absolutely clean and safe deal that has been tested and proved by actual experience.

It will pay over $600 yearly income on every $1,000 invested, (over $100 yearly on each $200 invested) yet is not a racing or gambling scheme, but a straight, legitimate, profitable, honest business you would be proud to be identified with.

It needs more money to run it on a large scale, hence this offer to you who have money and the business sense and acumen to share in this good thing.

I have submitted particulars of this deal to the proprietors and editors of this paper; they are business men and have approved it because it is safe, sound and clean, and the promises made are straight and reasonable.

When you read these particulars I believe you will approve and be glad you investigated. No matter if you have $5,000 or $10,000 to invest or only $100 or $200, it applies equally to all. It is a

BUSINESS PROPOSITION

for Business Men and Women of sense and discrimination. THIS MEANS YOU.

Write at once; write now, before you forget, stating about the amount you have for investment, and I will promptly send you a personal reply with the clearest and most concise facts and particulars.

Good coal stock is a safe and sure investment. Galbraith shares are especially attractive.

Modest Capitalization Large Coal Reserves

This Company organized under the laws of the Northwest Territories of Canada, owns and operates the Galbraith mine located at Lundbreck, Alta. They have four vertical seams of coal traversing their property, aggregating over 40 feet in thickness. Three of these seams are developed to a depth of 350 feet, and as they pass through the Company's lands for nearly a mile, some idea of the amount of coal may be had.

Shipping Steadily

The present output of the mine is about 200 tons per day. These shipments will be rapidly increased, as the C.P.R. allows its cars to be loaded with coal for points in the U. S.

We are selling a limited number of these shares at the extremely low price of

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTHWEST HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an Agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of a homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father or mother.

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing must be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa, of intention to apply for patent.

that Sylvia had fainted, carried her up the stairs to lay the unconscious girl on her own bed. Then she descended rapidly, locked the door leading from the shops to the stairs and again looked at the body. The time she had been away was about seven or eight minutes, and the body still remained with the one open eye staring meaninglessly at the ceiling. Deborah, drawn by fascination like a bird by a serpent, crept forward and touched the head. It moved, and she again tried to lift it. This time she found she could do so. The head she lifted against her breast and then laid it down again with horror when she found the bosom of her nightgown was stained with blood. Pulling her wits together, for she felt that she needed them every one, she examined the head and neck. To her horror she found round the throat a strong thin copper wire, which disappeared through a hole in the floor. Apparently this had been pulled so tightly as to keep the head down and to choke the old man, and so cruelly as to cut deeply into the flesh. With a moan of horror Deborah dropped the head and ran to the trapdoor in the corner. If anywhere, those who had murdered Aaron Norman were lurking in the cellar. But the trapdoor would not open, and then she remembered that it was closed by a bolt underneath. She could not reach the midnight assassin that way.

"The front door," she gasped, and ran to unbolt it. The bolts were easily removed, but the door was also locked, and Aaron usually had the key deposited nightly in the cellar by Bart. Repugnant as it was for her to approach the dead body, Deborah again went forward and felt in the pockets and loose clothing. The man was completely dressed, even to an overcoat which he wore. But she could not find the key and wondered what she was to do. Probably the key had been hung up in the cellar as usual. Necessity being the mother of invention, she remembered that the window glass was fragile and ran up in the hope of breaking through. But the street shutters were up, so Deborah found that she was sealed in the house.

Almost in a state of distraction, for by this time her nerve had given way, she unlocked the door to the stairs and ran up, three steps at a time, to the sitting room. Here she opened the window and scrambled out on to the ledge among Sylvia's flower pots. Just as she was wondering how she could get down the measured tread of a policeman was heard, and by craning her neck Deborah saw him coming leisurely along the street, swinging his dark lantern on the windows and doors. It was a moonlight night and the street was extraordinarily well lighted, as the moon shone straightly between the houses. Gathering her strength for a last effort, Deborah yelled as only she could yell and saw the startled officer spinning round, looking up and down and sideways to see where the shrieks came from. "Up—up—oh, look up, you fool!" screamed Deborah. "Murder—oh, murder! Burst in the door! Call the police, drat you! Help! Help!"

By this time she was the center of a circle of bright light, for the policeman had located her and his lantern was flashing on her white nightgown as she clung to the window sill.

"What are you making that noise for?" called up the officer gruffly.

"Murder, you fool!" screamed Deborah. "Master's murdered. No. 45—the door's locked—break it open. Police! Police!"

Before she finished the sentence the officer blew his whistle shrilly and ran to the door of the shop, against which he placed his shoulder. Deborah climbed in again by the window and ran down again, but even then, in her excitement and horror, she did not forget to lock the door leading to the stairs, so that Sylvia might not be disturbed. As she descended she flung a thick shawl over her shoulders, which she had caught up when leaving her room, though for the rest she had nothing on but a nightgown. But the poor woman was too terrified to be troubled by any scruples at the moment and reached the shop to hear heavy blows on the door. Between the thuds Deborah could hear footsteps running inward from every quarter. "I ain't got the key!" she shrieked through the keyhole. "Break in the door, drat you! Murder! Murder!"

From the noise she made those without concluded that some terrible crime was taking place within and redoubled their efforts. Deborah had just time to leap back after a final scream when the door fell flat on the floor, and three policemen sprang into the room with drawn batons and their lights flashing like stars. The lamp was still on the floor shedding its heavy yellow light on the corpse. "Master!" gasped Deborah, pointing a shaking finger. "Dead—the—the cellar—the"— and here she made as to drop. A policeman caught her in his arms, but the woman shook herself free. "I sha'n't faint—no—I sha'n't faint," she gasped, "the cellar—look—look"— She ran forward and raised the head of the dead man. When the officers saw the dangling slack wire disappearing through a hole in the floor they grasped the situation. "The passage outside!" cried Deborah, directing operations; "the trapdoor," she ran to it, "fast bolted below, and them murdering people are there."

"How many are there?" asked a policemen, while several officers ran round the back through the side passage.

"Oh, you dratted fool, how should [illegible] there may be one and there may be twenty. Go and catch them—you're paid for it. Send to 20 Park street, Bloomsbury, for Bart."

Deborah ran up the stairs to Sylvia's room, where she found the poor girl still unconscious.

Meanwhile, an inspector had arrived, and one of the policemen was detailing all that had occurred from the time Deborah had given the alarm at the window. The inspector listened quietly to everything and then examined the body. "Strangled with a copper wire," he said, looking up. "Go for a doctor, one of you. It goes through the floor," he added, touching the wire which still encircled the throat, "and must have been pulled from below. Examine the cellar."

Even as he spoke, and while one zealous officer ran off for a medical man, there was a grating sound and the trapdoor was thrown open. A policeman leaped into the shop and saluted when he saw his superior. By this time the gas had been lighted. "We've broken down the back door, sir," said he, "the cellar door—it was locked but not bolted. Nothing in the cellar, everything in order, but that wire," he pointed to the means used for strangling, "dangled from the ceiling and a crosspiece of wood is bound to the lower end."

"Who does the shop belong to?"

"Aaron Norman," said the policeman whose beat it was. "He's a second-hand bookseller, a quiet, harmless, timid sort of man."

"Any one about?"

"No, sir. I passed down Gwynne street at about a quarter past 12 and all seemed safe. When I come back later—it might have been twenty minutes and more, say twenty-five—I saw the woman who was down here clinging to a window on the first floor and shouting murder. I gave the summons, sir, and we broke open the door."

Inspector Prince questioned not only the Gwynne street policeman, who had given his report, but all others who had been in the vicinity. But they could tell him nothing. No one suspicious had been seen leaving Gwynne street north or south, so, finding he could learn nothing in this direction, Prince turned his attention to the servant. "Now, then, what do you know?" he asked. "Don't say anything likely to incriminate yourself."

"Me!" shouted Deborah, bounding up with a fiery face. "Don't you be taking away my character. Why, I know no more who have done it than a babe unborn, and that's stupid enough, I hopes, Mr. Policeman. Ho, indeed! And we pays our taxes to be insulted by you, Mr. Policeman!" She was very aggravating, and many a man would have lost his temper. But Inspector Prince was a quiet and self controlled officer and knew how to deal with this violent class of women. He simply waited till Deborah had exhausted herself and then gently asked her a few questions. Finding he was reasonable, Deborah became reasonable on her part and replied with great intelligence. In a few minutes the inspector, by handling her deftly, learned all that had taken place on that terrible night from the time Sylvia had started up in bed at the sound of that far distant [illegible]

POSTAL BARRIER DOWN.

United States Periodicals May Enter Canada at Second Class Rate.

In May, 1906, the Canadian postal authorities gave the six months' notice required by the convention, that they would no longer permit American newspapers and periodicals to be mailed to points in Canada at the second-class, or pound rate, of postage. Up to that time there had been no postal barrier between Canada and the United States with respect to the transmission of newspapers and periodicals through the mails. Papers deposited at postoffices in the United States were delivered in Canada without payment of additional postage.

The notice of abrogation of this agreement by Canada was protested by the United States postal authorities, but as Canada had a legal right to abrogate this feature of the convention, the protest of Postmaster General Meyer was without avail.

After nearly one year under this agreement the Canadian postal authorities reached the conclusion that the conditions which they had forced upon American publishers were not to their advantage, and sought a reopening of the question. As a result, a new agreement has been reached to the effect that legitimate periodicals and magazines may apply for and secure entry at the Canadian second-class rate of postage at any office in Canada which may be selected for that purpose. The Canadian authorities give assurance that all applications for such entry will receive favorable consideration if the periodical or magazine is of the legitimate sort and not primarily designed for advertising purposes.

A further agreement has been reached under which legitimate daily newspapers may be mailed in the United States to postoffices in Canada at the pound rate of postage. This is a restoration of the old order of things so far as the legitimate daily newspapers are concerned, and is a step in that direction for the magazines and other periodicals. While American publishers do not under the new arrangement secure all that it is believed they are entitled to, Postmaster-General Meyer accepted the recent proposals of Canada regarding them, as the entering wedge which would ultimately lead to the restoration in their entirety, of the conditions that formerly prevailed.

A telegram has been received at Washington from the deputy postmaster-general of Canada, advising that the public and postmasters [illegible] new agreement had gone into effect on the 6th inst.

It is understood that the demand for American newspapers and periodicals had become so great that the Canadian postal authorities could no longer resist the pressure for a modification of their former action.

WINE FROM THE MAPLE.

Surprising Statement In New Encyclopedia Quoted In London.

The recent dinner of the Canada Club at the Ritz Hotel, London, was largely attended. The president, Mr. F. W. Taylor, who spoke eloquently, toasting "Canada and the Governor-General," made an amusing reference to an encyclopedia "recently revised and brought up-to-date" by a Cambridge professor, which informed the world that the maple tree produced a light and refreshing wine much liked by the natives of Canada and also yielded a syrup which when crystalised supplied the Dominion with sugar. He proceeded to criticise the United States in a humorous and sometimes sub-acid fashion, emphasizing the financial serenity of Canada, which was undisturbed during the financial storm over the border. (Cheers.) If Canada had been to any extent unwise her follies were those of lusty youth and were forgivable. (Applause.)

The remaining speeches glowed with confidence in Canada's future. Admiral Douglas piously hoped the Admiralty would restore a fleet to Canadian waters. They could man one ship entirely with officers willing to serve there.

Major D. W. Stevens dwelt on the question of transportation in Canada and the development of her terminals.

Signor Marconi expressed his gratitude to the Dominion Government, which first gave him practical encouragement. He declared the wireless system of the St. Lawrence was unequaled in the world. He would spare no effort to show that the encouragement given him by Canada should not be thrown away. He remarked that he had just demonstrated to the Admiralty officials what could be done in the way of wireless ing transmission across the Atlantic.

The Earl of Ranfurley, Sir E. Ward and Gen. Lawrie were among the guests.

Mr. R. Cordinely, Brockville, was in the city yesterday.

Rheumatism

I have found a tried and tested cure for Rheumatism! Not a remedy that will straighten the distorted limbs of chronic cripples, nor turn hair grow the back to flesh again. That is impossible. But I can now surely kill the pains and pangs of this deplorable disease.

In Germany—with a Chemist in the City of Darmstadt—I found the last ingredient which Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy was a perfected, dependable prescription. With that last ingredient, I successfully treated many cases of Rheumatism; but now, at last, it positively cures all curable cases of this heretofore much dreaded disease. Those mud-like products, found in Rheumatic Blood seem to dissolve and pass away under the action of this remedy freely as does sugar when added to pure water. And then, when dissolved, these poisonous acids freely pass from the system, and the cause of Rheumatism is gone forever. There is now no real need—no actual excuse to suffer longer without help. We sell, and in confidence recommend

Extra Mission Devotions Yesterday

Yesterday afternoon a men's mass meeting was held at St. John's Church, in connection with the Mission services, beginning March 8th. On conclusion of Evensong another of the supplementary services was held, with informal devotions, and mission hymns, lead by the orchestra. This was one of the last services in preparation for the missions.

Better Times in the Spring

Among native-born Canadians, or those who have been in the country long enough to find their bearings, and it enough to find their bearings, there is little or no privation, and it is expected that the inevitable revival in the spring will relieve the congestion in the labor market. A brisk demand for laborers for railway construction has already set in, and in a couple of months no man who is willing to work need be without it.

That Rat Story Discounted

An evening contemporary devotes some space to describing how a lady in the east ward saw, and was frightened by a large rat that entered her front door. One can go that one better. The Times absolutely knows of a certain local gentleman who last week saw, and was frightened by, a lavender colored crocodile with green eyes, that chased him, not only into, but all over the house, including both cellar and garret. And this alligator was invisible to every other resident of the house, too.

Old Surgeon

Found Coffee Caused Hands to Tremble

The surgeon's duties require clear judgment and a steady hand. A slip or an unnecessary incision may do irreparable damage to the patient.

When he found that coffee drinking caused his hands to tremble, an Illinois surgeon conscientiously gave it up and this is his story.

"For years I was a coffee drinker until my nervous system was nearly broken down, my hands trembled so I could hardly write, and insomnia tortured me at night.

"Besides how could I safely perform operations with unsteady hands, using knives and instruments of precision? When I saw plainly the bad effects of coffee, I decided to stop it, and three years ago I prepared some Postum, of which I had received a sample.

"The first cupful surprised me. It was mild, soothing, delicious. At this time I gave some Postum to a friend who was in a similar condition to mine, from the use of coffee.

"A few days after I met him and he was full of praise for Postum declaring he would never return to coffee but stick to Postum. We then ordered a full supply and within a short time my nervousness and consequent trembling, as well as insomnia disappeared, blood circulation became normal, no dizziness nor heat flashes.

"My friend became a Postum enthusiast, his whole family using it exclusively.

"It would be the fault of the one who brewed the Postum, if it did not taste good when served.

"The best food may be spoiled if not properly made. Postum should be boiled according to directions on the pkg. Then it is all right, anyone can rely on it. It ought to become the national drink." "There's a Reason. Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

The Wily Redman Not so Very Green

On Saturday a tall Indian drawing a long handsleigh up George street, said sleigh having a flour bag filled with the goods and chattels of the aboriginal attracted much attention from passersby. He would stop in front of each store and stand in the middle of the street gaping up at the massive two or three storey buildings as might a man from Port Hope look at the Masonic Temple in Chicago or the Flat Iron building in New York. The small boy several times cried "Hey rube" as they saw this dusky dweller of Chemong starin, at the stores. However, there was evidently "method in his madness." A Times man spoke to the Indian asking the history of the sleigh. It was about six or seven feet long and about a foot high. The top was made of cedar strips hewn out with an axe and the runners of ironwood, not iron shod. The whole structure was absolutely jointed and made by hand, not a metal nail entering its composition. The moment the Times man hailed the sleigh, this innocent descendant of the soil's first owners remarked, "Say, Mister, you want to buy that sleigh, I sell him cheap." "What do you want for it?" "I'll give it to you for $1.75." After finding the scribe was not buying sleighs, the Indian volunteered the remark. "I make him in one hour and a quarter." Thus his dusky nibs was doing the innocent to try and, by calling attention, sell his wares.

OUR TIMBER SUPPLY.

Need For Protection and Proper Treatment of Canadian Forests.

France is one of the greatest timber importing countries of Europe. Over $30,000,000 were paid in 1906 by this country for wood brought in from other countries, American and European. This includes over $20,000,000 worth of wood (mostly pine) used for building purposes, and $500,000 for mine props alone. The great amount of wood used for paper pulp and a few minor purposes brings the total up to the thirty million dollars.

On this timber another $10,000,000 was paid in freight—mostly to other countries, for the French flag is flown by only about ten per cent. of the ships in which this wood is carried. And import duties claim another sum of $6,000,000.

The quantity of wood exported from France, on the other hand, in 1906, did not amount to more than $16,400,000.

Yet the forests of France are by no means small. They cover an area of over 23,500,000 acres. Of this a little over a ninth (2,707,000 acres) is in the hands of the state, and is very carefully managed. Over a seventh of the area (3,472,000 acres) is under the control of the departments and communes and is not so carefully looked after. The rest is in private hands and often large tracts are sold to speculators and recklessly cut, everything of value being taken off them.

This state of affairs demonstrates the wisdom of the course pursued in almost the whole of Canada, namely, keeping the ownership of the forests in the hands of the crown, so that the Dominion and the different Provincial Governments may have the power to make regulations for the cutting, with the result that practically all of the forests may be so treated as to give continuous crops of wood and become a permanent asset of the people.

Canada at present is one of the few countries in the world that can export timber, having a surplus over that required for its own use. Such a surplus is a most valuable asset, and promises—far from decreasing in value—to increase rapidly and greatly in years to come, owing to the growing scarcity of wood.

It is for this country, therefore, to exercise great care both in protecting the timber it has and in providing for future supplies from the same ground. This will require the employment of a large number of men, many of them possessing a high degree of technical and scientific training. It is gratifying to note that already some steps have been taken to care for our timber and provide a staff of trained men to look after it. Much more remains to be done, and it is for the people of Canada to see that arrangements are made for the proper care of one of her most valuable resources.

Quebec Celebration Causes Friction in Eastern Province.

There is still a good deal of friction at Quebec over the participation of outsiders in the coming celebration. It is only just to say, however, that the following article from La Verite reflects the opinion of a very small portion of the population of the ancient capital.

La Verite claims that it will not be a Catholic celebration in August next, as the good people of Quebec expected, but the celebration of Canada as a whole. It is not the foundation of Quebec by the French, no: they want to celebrate the capture of the city by the English. It is not, so it appears, the three hundredth anniversary of the planting of the cross and the flag of our ancestors on Cape Diamond, but instead the 149th anniversary of the defeat of our heroes by the English troops.

"We wished to celebrate the commencement of our history, but they will instead celebrate the beginning of British domination in this country. The symbol which they propose to acclaim is the angel of peace, but to what peace do they refer. If it is the peace that the generosity of our people caused to reign around Quebec, so much the better, but it is the more extended peace which they are going to commemorate. It is the peace following the abolition of the French language in several of the provinces. It is the peace following the destruction of Catholic schools in New Brunswick, in Manitoba, in Alberta and Saskatchewan.

"In a word it is the peace which reigns after the wolf has eaten the lamb and sleeps after his bloody repast."

Preserving Niagara Falls.

Persistent efforts are to be made in Congress at Washington to prevent the re-enactment of what is known as the Burton law, passed in 1906, governing the disposition of the waters of the Niagara Falls. The object of the enactment was to conserve the waters of the falls against the encroachment of commercial enterprises. It was destined, as a purely temporary measure to be supplanted by a general convention or treaty on this subject between the United States and Canada which is intended to cover also the disposition of other waters forming a boundary line between the two countries.

The Burton law expires in less than a year and a half. Those opposing its re-enactment for ten years, as is proposed in some quarters, declare this is a distinct advantage to the Canadians, who because such a large portion of the falls are on the Canadian side of the river, are content to let existing conditions remain in preference to agreeing to a treaty which will restrict the privileges they now enjoy. The International Waterways Commission, which is made up of members from the United States and Canada, has turned in a mass of information on the whole question, which has been laid before the two Governments for their consideration. The United States Government is anxious that some disposition shall be reached in the whole matter, and that at an early date. It wants a treaty prepared and ratified at this session of Congress, if it

The property is situated at Mancos, Colo., and consists of 160 acres, fully paid for. The Company expects to secure at least 400 acres or more, we are negotiating for it now and the terms are satisfactory and there is coal on the same, and they also intend to secure some Coal Mines of which they have the refusal. Some of the best coal mines in Colorado are in this district, as well as some of the richest gold and silver mines. In fact this is one of the richest parts for mineral in the State of Colorado, and the Company has the refusal to several prospects on reasonable and easy terms.

DANTE'S HUMOR.

It Is of the Wholly Unconscious Kind and Woefully Grim.

The humorous side of Dante is analyzed in the Westminster Review by George Trobridge, who is a great admirer of the famous poet and who has in previous writings expressed his appreciation of Dante as a nature poet and as a novelist.

Although Dante's great poem is a "comedy." In the sense of being a drama working to a happy ending, we do not look for ridiculous situations in it, such as we usually associate with the idea of comedy. Ridiculous situations occur nevertheless, and there is no lack of humor even in the poet's description of the sufferings of the lost. Dante's humor, however, is of the unconscious kind, arising from a total lack of perception of the ludicrous. It is said that he was never seen to smile, and we can quite believe it, since he never forsakes sober seriousness in his writings, and it is his deadly earnestness that betrays him into occasional comicality.

The sinners in hell, the poet tells us, are relegated to their proper quarters on the judgment of Minos, who indicates the particular circle to which the culprit is consigned by wrapping his tail so many times around his bestial body. Fancy the trembling sinner waiting to count the coils that he may know his fate!

It is a horrible punishment which is assigned to those guilty of simony, to be buried head downward in a circular pit, with only the legs and feet protruding, while flickering flames glide over the soles of the latter, inflicting exquisite torture, yet our sense of humor is provoked by the description of Dante standing over one of these holes and holding a conversation with its occupant, "reversed, and as a stake driven in the soil," while numberless legs wriggle in continual motion around him.

Fish Spearing by Firelight.

In the sunny south in the blue waters of the Mediterranean one may frequently behold the strange sight of fishermen reaping a rich harvest with the aid of a long forklike instrument, which is used in place of a net. There the ancient "peche aux flambeaux," a singular custom of fishing at night by the light of a blazing fire, still exists, enabling hundreds of hardy toilers of the deep to gain a livelihood.—Wide World Magazine.

February, 1908, is here and so is

The Pacific Fruit Cooling and Vaporizing Company, Incorporated for the purpose of cooling deciduous fruits and removing moisture from citrus fruits and keeping under cold storage such fruits and other food products from the time of receiving them from the fruit growers until loaded on car and taken away by the Railroad Company for Eastern shipment

STUBBORN FACTS UNIMPEACHABLE

The loss in shipping deciduous and citrus fruits is enormous. The orange crop of Southern California alone is valued at $20,000,000. The government experts estimate that about 25 per cent. or $7,500,000, is lost every year by rough handling in packing and decay of fruit in transit to the Eastern markets. What a revenue of profit this loss would be to the shipper if it could be saved. Our process will save it. The same is true of the deciduous fruits of Northern California.

GREAT FORTUNES ARE MADE BY INVESTING IN NECESSITIES

Fruit is one of the necessities of our civilized life, and the company that can place the fruit of the markets of the world in the best shape, in the quickest time, at the lowest rate, has a fortune within its grasp. The Armour Company in ten years made $5,000,000 net handling California fruit in refrigerator cars. Our process is as necessary to the fruit grower as the refrigerator car. Therefore we ought to receive as large a revenue for handling the same commodity.

GET IN WHILE THE ENTERPRISE IS NEW

No wiser words were ever spoken than these: "The chief point about getting rich is to invest in a new enterprise that is being managed by successful men, who have some of their own money in the deal." "One good investment is worth a lifetime of labor". Think over this sentence. A man's daily labor will never make him rich. He must have some money at work for him. Money invested never gets sick, keeps no holidays, never goes on strike. There are three things that ought to guide you: First, invest with honest men; second, invest in men of sound judgment; third, invest under conditions where you see your full share of profits the business yields. Get into a company whose policy is guided by men of this stamp when its future is before and not behind it. Here is the secret of fortune. Plant the seed of your investment in the soil of opportunity, at the season of greatest promise when the enterprise is new. Every ounce of honor in the hearts of the men managing this company is pledged to give

A SQUARE DEAL FOR EVERY INVESTOR

There will be no preferred stock. Every dollar invested will be worth 100 cents on the dollar. Our Directors, as honourable business men, will not allow any tricks of trade by which the small investor can be frozen out. Their commercial standing proves they are not "grafters". The poor man's 50 or 100 shares will have the same standing in court as the rich man's 10,000, and they will draw the same proportionate dividend. We court investigation.

EVERY RICH MAN IN THE WORLD WAS ONCE POOR, OR HIS GRANDFATHER WAS.

THE OPPORTUNITY OF A LIFETIME

To get into a company that has the certainty of growth, the assurance of large and quick returns, a rapid advance in the price of stock, to make it an exceptional chance for big profits on a small investment. This is an ideal investment for the wage earner as well as the rich man. Moderate sums invested now will bring splendid returns in the near future. The logic of all this is

DON'T WAIT

Time is the essence of this proposition. The stock will certainly double in a short time. Jay Gould once said: "When you see a good investment don't wait to see if it pans out well, for by that time other people see it, too, and you have lost your opportunity."

WOMEN AS INVESTORS

Some of the heaviest stockholders in our company are women of keen business instincts. One lady in Los Angeles bought 5,000 shares, in a few days she returned and bought 5,000 more. This lady has never made a mistake in her business ventures. Women are good investors because they have courage to follow their convictions. Their intuitions are keener and truer than men's logic. Men may prevent her voting, but they can't prevent her drawing dividends on her investments. This is one branch of trade where sex, culture, or color does not count.

MANAGEMENT

The affairs of this company are in the hands of men of honesty, ability, courage and good business judgment—men who have made a success of their own business—men whose business reputation is A1 in the commercial circles in which they move.

These men are "square" and "shrewd". They will not deceive you nor will they be deceived themselves. Because of the promise of growth, permanency and profit this business offers they have united their money, energy, time and business experience to make this enterprise a grand success.

The Opposition Justified

Mr. R. L. Borden Defends the Recent Obstruction of Parliamentary Business

Toronto, March 2. — "The Opposition at Ottawa thought they were fully justified in the course they took last week," said Mr. R. L. Borden, the Conservative leader, who arrived at the King Edward to attend the banquet to Premier Whitney tonight.

"It is the only thing an Opposition can do when the Government refuses to bring down information," he added, referring to the obstruction of Parliamentary business which was kept up from Thursday afternoon till Saturday night.

Mr. Borden was not present all of the time, having had to fill engagements at Belleville and Montreal.

"One of the features of the affair," he concluded, "was the active part taken by the Liberals. They did a large part of the talking, and helped to pass the time, which was a little unusual."

Two Men Killed, Two are Dying and Six Seriously Hurt in a Mine

St. John's, Nfld., March 2.—A fatal explosion occurred on Saturday at the Nova Scotia Steel Company's mines on Belle Island.

A jack struck a buried dyamite cartridge, and six workmen were rendered senseless. When the smoke cleared, comrades rushed to the rescue, and found all of them unconscious.

Jordan Door, of Cartonear, married; Martin Bolger, Portugal Cov., married, have since died, and two others are reported dying. The rest are badly injured.

Within a week there have been five fatalities, and the mines are earning unfavorable reputation.

It is believed blasting is being done by inexperienced men, who are careless about the removal of dynamite sticks that have missed fire

The four men injured are:
James Smart, Carbonear.
Thomas Eveley, Freshwater.
Benjamin Corbett, Harbor Grace.
Bernard Moriarity, Harbor Grace.

The public are demanding immediate investigation by competent persons.

A Serious Case of Mayhem Last Night

Last night a serious fight took place in a Hunter street hotel bar, whereby Harry Cassels spent the night in a cell of the police station, minus a good-sized piece of his upper lip. The police were summoned to the hotel, and after capturing Cassels and locking him up proceeded to get hold of witnesses of the affair. After hearing the statements of several of those present at the time much conflicting testimony was heard.

It seems that Cassels and a man named Lebrau got into a scrap, and during a clinch Lebrau is alleged to have bitten out quite a large piece of Cassels' lip. Whether the missing piece was bitten out or not, it is gone. Officers Newhall and Moharry about 7.30 went out on a tour of the city to try and capture Lebrau, the man alleged to have committed the act of "Mayhem."

Dr. Morgan was summoned and attended Cassels later during the evening at the police station.

THE FINANCES OF THE PROVINCE

Toronto, March 2. — The Ontario surplus, as announced by Provincial Treasurer Matheson, this afternoon, is $606,173.58. This does not take into account the amount of $2,429,329.15 advanced to the T. and N. O. The total receipts for 1907 amounted to $8,320,419.19, plus $5,197,239.62 at special deposit and current account on Dec. 31, 1906.

The expenditures were $7,714,245.61, to which must be added the amount advanced to the government road and the sum of $1,674,084.05, at special deposit and current account Dec. 31, 1907.

Gold Watch Lost on Hartley's Race

The resident of the East Ward who had unbounded confidence in the ability and staying powers of Dave Hartley last Friday, got a bad attack of the betting bug under his Christie. As a gambling transaction is involved we will mention no names, but the story is true just the same. This East Warder on Friday evening, whilst conversing with some fellow sports, got hot under the collar, when a friend said Hartley would never see the Kansas City money. The resident of Ashburnham, slammed his fist down and offered to bet any money Hartley would win first money. He was quickly taken up, but unfortunately had left his coin on the kitchen piano. He pulled out his gold watch and put it up against the gold watch of a well known local sport, and the two watches were handed over to a stake holder. A little later Tom offered to bet his overcoat with another man present on the same terms, but the other said it was too cold to go home without a coat. Now a local sport is wearing two gold watches.

A funny feature was that last night about six o'clock a gentleman asked the loser "What time is it?" Tom replied, "I can't tell you: I've just lost my ticker."

SECRET SOCIETIES ARE CONDEMNED BY BISHOP DOWLING

All Catholics Must Leave the Societies Named Are Considered a Travesty on Religion

Must Sever Connections

Hamilton, March 2.—Bishop Dowling's pastoral letter read in the Catholic churches of the Hamilton diocese yesterday contains another warning against secret societies, and declares that any Catholics who belong to the organization under the ban must sever their connection immediately, at any cost. Among the orders named are:

The Knights of Pythias
Oddfellows.
Masons.
Sons of Temperance.

Dean Mahoney, speaking at St. Mary's Cathedral yesterday, said every society demanding an oath of blind and absolute obedience was under the ban.

"The secret societies with their ritual, prayers, and high pretentesses are a travesty on religion," he declared. Another point emphasized in the letter is that no Catholic society can be established in the diocese without the bishop's permission, and that societies have not the right to elect their chaplains. They must be appointed by the bishop.

Down Come the Prices Of All School Books

Toronto, March 2.—In the Legislature this afternoon Hon. Dr. Pyne announced that a reduction in the price of text books had been arranged for.

The change in the prices will average thirty to fifty per cent. and there will be a further discount when the books are bought from publishers, and a still further reduction when large lots are bought. This last will benefit cities that buy books for the scholars.

LION AND LAMB FALLACY MARCH AS A STORMY MONTH

"No, we weren't deceived about the weather," was the emphatic response of the weather man, who is supposed to be on the inside track with the elements.

"We knew there was a storm coming from the southwest but we didn't think it would take the abnormal spirit it did Sunday.

"It is a noteworthy fact," commented the weather man, scanning intently the sky in his chart and gazing over the top of his spectacles, "how science and figures destroy the fondest axioms and beliefs of the people. Everyone talks of March as if it was the stormiest month in the year. To really there are fewer gales in March than in the four preceding months. January, for example, of this year was exceptionally stormy, and there'll have to be a complete turnover of natural phenomena if March is going to beat January's record for gales and hurricanes. Why, down in the Maritime Provinces there were ten consecutive gales in January this year, which is a record for those parts since the establishment of the meteorological service. One gale blew for fourteen consecutive days and at St. John the wind mileage for the month totalled 12,770 miles. At Halifax it registered 11,000.

"In the Lake region there were nine gales or wind last January. It was the greatest blow since 1890.

THE LION AND LAMB FALLACY.

"Another popular fallacy," continued the weather man, "is the oft-repeated statement, "if March comes in like a lion, it'll go out like a lamb,' year. To really there are fewer gales and vice versa. This is entirely wrong. Nine times since 1874, March has been both ushered in and out with stormy weather.

"Just to show you how March compares as a stormy month with the four preceding months, I'll quote you a few figures," said the weather man.

"Between 1874 and 1907, in the Lower Lake region, there have been 145 gales in March, 55 of which were heavy, 178 in February, 66 of which were heavy, 194 in January, 91 of which were heavy, 201 in December, of which 71 were heavy; and 200 in November, 89 being heavy.

"Not much excuse for calling March the blustery month," commented the weather man.

Coming Lecture Before Canadian Club

Dominion Parole Officer W. P. Archibald will speak on "Modern Methods of Dealing With Criminals" before the Peterborough Canadian Club on Thursday night. Mr. Archibald is connected with the Department of Justice at Ottawa, and is an excellent speaker. The meeting will be held in the National Hotel, and the dinner will commence at 7.30 o'clock sharp.

Wedding Bells

Yesterday a marriage of interest throughout the whole county and particularly in the township of Douro, when the reeve of that township, Mr Dennis Mohoney, was united in marriage to Miss Kate McCarthy, of this city. The ceremony was performed in St. Peter's Catedral at seven o'clock, and was celebrated by Rev. Dr. O'Brien. The witnesses were Mr. D. P. McCarthy and Miss Susie Mohoney.

A BOWL OF BITTER TEA.

Himalayan Hospitality in a Snow Enveloped Hovel.

In spite of a poverty which limits their good intentions the inhabitants of central and south central Asia display a charming hospitality. Such, at least, is the impression gained from Mr. Ellsworth Huntington's book, "The Pulse of Asia."

At Matayan, a village in the province of Ladakh, the habitable portion of the upper Indus valley, a friendly villager invited Mr. Huntington to dive down from the crust which covered eight or ten feet of snow into a one story house. This was at an elevation of 10,500 feet.

Although it was April 11, the snow, even on a level, was higher than the tops of the houses. Where it had been shoveled off the flat roofs it formed high banks, protecting them from the wind and making them the favorite sitting room at that season and even in winter, for the sunshine is always warm in that dry, cloudless climate.

When the little black cows had been driven and pulled out of the way Mr. Huntington descended to an almost closed shed used for the two or three hardy sheep and goats and was ushered, stooping, into a dark stable containing a little pony, shaggy, like all the animals. Bending low once more, he climbed over a high sill and was in the warm, close family living room.

Light and air came in through a hole in the roof a foot square surmounted by a chimney pot a foot high made of three stones set up to keep out the snow. A few bits of ragged cloth on the mud floor for sleeping purposes, a half dozen metal utensils and an iron pot full of Himalayan tea, kept warm over some embers, comprised all the visible equipment for housekeeping.

After the host had persuaded Mr. Huntington to take a seat on the floor a half-palsied old woman insisted upon ladling out for him a bowl of tea. It was surprisingly good in view of the fact that a poor grade of tea leaves had been steeped half an hour or more with milk, butter, salt and soda. In richer houses Mr. Huntington was often served with tea which had been improved by being churned violently in a slender, greasy black churn, twenty inches long by four in diameter, in order to mix the rancid butter well into the compound before it was turned into the drinking bowls.

Monster Gathering of Canadian Militia to Camp at Quebec

Arrangements are Not Completed but it is Likely They will be Carried Out

The Report Confirmed

Kingston, March 2.—It is rumored that the military authorities are considering the concentration of 25,000 men at Quebec and Levis to undergo training, and also to be used for a military display during the tercentenary celebrations. It is also said that General Sir John French will as a British visitor at the great camp.

The funds used for the various camps would be granted for the big mobilization.

REPORT VIRTUALLY CONFIRMED.

Ottawa, March 2. — If the plans which are now being provisionally made for a big military concentration in connection with the Quebec tercentenary celebration are brought to maturity, it will mean that the militia camps in Ontario and Quebec for the coming season will be cancelled, and that the permanent corps, with from 15,000 to 20,000 militiamen will be assembled in Quebec in the month of August. Until the Government Commission, however, has been appointed to take charge of the tercentenary celebration, nothing further can be done in the matter.

There is every reason now to believe it is that the tercentenary will be celebrated in August on the lines already proposed, but all the arrangements have yet to be made, and if things are to go ahead a board of officers will shortly be assembled in Quebec to provide for the accommodation of the troops.

Indians May Ask City for Assistance

It is probable that the refusal of the County Council to assist financially in building a floating bridge at the Narrows for the Chemong Indians will result in the Indians doing asking the city to aid them. The bridge in question reaches from the Indian Village to the Ennismore shore. The county have practically declined to aid the Indians, as the latter pay no county taxes and transact their business in the city. It will be remembered that some time ago when they asked the County Council for aid, a deputation was appointed to go to Ottawa and press the claims of the Indians for assistance in this connection.

It is now claimed that the city will apply to the city for support in connection with the deputation to Ottawa.

POLICE

Only one case was tried at yesterday's police court, that of a youth, who was charged with using profane language in a public place. This unparliamentary style of conversation cost the aforesaid youth $4.00, i.e., a $2 fine and $2.00 costs.

Moral: Let your conversation be yea, yea, or nay, nay, whilst the costs or any one liable to have sensibilities as to the style of talk used, are within hearing.

It was said yesterday that a firm of Hebrews has arranged to purchase the buildings at the northeast corner of Simcoe and Water streets, at present occupied by Mr. M. T. Butcher. The firm, if the deal goes through, will use the premises for a second-hand clothing store.

Nursing Mothers and Over-burdened Women

In all stations of life, whose vigor and vitality may have been undermined and broken-down by over-work, exacting social duties, the too frequent bearing of children, or other causes, will find in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription the most potent, invigorating restorative strength-giver ever devised for their special benefit. Nursing mothers will find it especially valuable in sustaining their strength and promoting an abundant nourishment for the child. Expectant mothers too will find it a priceless boon to prepare the system for baby's coming and rendering the ordeal comparatively painless. It can do no harm in any state, or condition of the female system.

Delicate, nervous, weak women, who suffer from frequent headaches, backache, dragging-down distress low down in the abdomen, or from painful or irregular monthly periods, gnawing or distressed sensation in stomach, dizzy or faint spells, see imaginary specks or spots floating before eyes, have disagreeable, pelvic catarrhal drain, prolapsus, anteversion or retro-version or other displacements of womanly organs from weakness of parts will, whether they experience many or only a few of the above symptoms, find relief and a permanent cure by using faithfully and fairly persistently Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

This world-famed specific for woman's weaknesses and peculiar ailments is a pure glycerin extract of the choicest native, medicinal roots without a drop of alcohol in its make-up. All its ingredients printed in plain English on its bottle-wrapper and attested under oath. Dr. Pierce thus invites the fullest investigation of his formula knowing that it will be found to contain only the best agents known to the most advanced medical science of all the different schools of practice for the cure of woman's peculiar weaknesses and ailments.

If you want to know more about the composition and professional endorsement of the "Favorite Prescription," send postal card request to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., for his free booklet treating of same.

You can't afford to accept as a substitute for this remedy of known composition a secret nostrum of unknown composition. Don't do it.

Chief Killed One Anarchist

Two Men Attacked Chicago's Police Chief and His Two Companions, and All were Wounded --Chief Shot One Man Dead

Chicago, March 2.—An unsuccessful attempt to assassinate George M. Shippey, chief of the Chicago Police Department, was made as the officer was leaving his residence this morning.

The chief, his son and his driver, James Foley, were attacked by two men with revolvers. Young Shippey and the driver were wounded. The chief returned the fire, killing one of his assailants outright. The chief, it is reported, was stabbed in the right arm during the affray. None of the men were seriously injured.

The attack is supposed to have been made by anarchists following the recent activity of the Chicago police after the tragedy at Denver.

Harry Shippey is seriously hurt, but Foley will probably recover. The chief's wound is trivial.

The assailant entered Shippey's home while the chief and his son were alone in one of the rooms. The men are said to have handed Chief Shippey a letter, which the chief opened and began to read. Almost immediately the anarchists drew a revolver and fired at Harry Shippey. The boy fell to the floor and his father grappled with the assailant.

Droves of Italians Leave Montreal--May Locate in Peterboro

Montreal, March 2. — The vigorous campaign which the police have inaugurated against the lawless Italians of the city is having an immediate effect. Not only are the sons of sunny Italy refraining from carrying arms about the streets, but many of the more lawless, who perhaps find that they cannot worry along without a stiletto up their sleeve, are beginning to clear out and leave the city to the more peaceful inhabitants in the east. During the last four days ever since the search of Italian quarters for arms, the Italians have been leaving the city in droves, according to officials at the railway stations.

At least an average of fifty per day have left for other parts during the past week.

It is not unlikely that many of these will join the Italian colony here. It is reported that many have already arrived.

George St. Sunday School Anniversary

The anniversary entertainment of the George Street Methodist Sunday School was held last night, and was a great success.

The programme given by the scholars of the school and the creditable showing made by them and the manner in which they acquitted themselves must have been very pleasing to the parents and teachers.

Miss Amy L. Doty, of London, under whose direction the programme was rendered, and who had the training of the scholars, is to be complimented on the efficiency of the children in their various parts.

The drills and illustrated hymns were carried through with precision and effectively.

The church was filled with a delighted crowd, who time and again applauded the scholars for an encore.

The programme opened with a chorus, "Living for Jesus," by 200 scholars of the school, in costume, and elicited much applause from the audience, as did also the choruses and solos. Another number which is deserving of special mention was the illustrated hymn, "Lead, Kindly Light" by 12 young ladies in costume. The solo part being taken by Miss Chasty.

The accompanists for the evening were Miss Chasty and Miss L. Smith.

Non-Jury Trial for Ex-Pres.-Cookburn

As there were nearly six hundred shareholders on the defunct Ontario Bank, it would be almost impossible to select a jury to try the case against Ex-President Cockburn and others, without including friends or relatives of some of the shareholders, thereby possibly prejudicing such jury against Cockburn, et al., notice of motion having been given on behalf of Messrs. G. R. R. Cockburn, R. D. Percy, Richard Harcourt, Ruleff Grass, Thomas Walmsley and John Flett that an application will be made to-day before the Master-in-Chambers for an order changing the trial of the action of the Ontario Bank against them from the jury list to the non-jury assizes. The applicants claim that so much publicity has been given in previous cases against other officers of the bank that a fair verdict is unattainable.

How Fat May be Removed Rapidly by a Simple Home Remedy Without Causing Wrinkles, Distributing the Diet or Necessity for Exercise

"Fat is nothing but unused energy," says a prominent physician, and the man or woman who is burdened with it can easily get rid of it if they wish. All they need is 1-2 ounce of Marmola, 3-4 ounce of Fluid Extract of Cascara Aromatic and 4 3-4 ounces of Syrup Simplex; all of which they can get at any good drug store for a few cents. Then let them take one teaspoonful after meals and at bedtime until they are down to the weight they want to be.

This simple home recipe is far and away better than any or all the patent or secret medicines, for it reduces the fat safely and harmlessly. The ingredients are, in fact, beneficial to the system, having both tone and purifying qualities and so help rather than destroy the stomach. The remedy does not cause wrinkles, for it reduces one gradually and naturally, preserving a good outline, and, best first of all, needs no exercise to help it do the work, nor does it require any change in diet—one can get results and still take things easy—eating meanwhile just what, when and how he or she pleases. Be sure and get the Marmola in a sealed package, so that you get Marmola and not a substitute.

FIRST AID

The lives of three children were saved on Saturday because a Hamilton policeman had learned how to give "first aid to the injured." These three children were at the point of death, having been asphyxiated with gas from a defective heater. Constable Yaxley was summoned. Fortunately the officer, while a member of an English police force, had received instruction in rendering first aid to the injured, and he promptly used the means necessary to save the lives of the little unconscious children. A city physician testifies that but for the policeman's knowledge of the proper thing to do and his promptitude in putting his knowledge into practice, the children must have died.

This incident suggests the wisdom of having the members of the police force instructed in 'first aid' work by local physicians. Such knowledge would be useful in many a sudden emergency when there is no time to summon a doctor.

Remember that when the stomach nerves fail or weaken, Dyspepsia or Indigestion must always follow. But, strengthen these same weak inside nerves with Dr. Shoop's Restorative, and then see how quickly health will again return. Weak Heart and Kidney Nerves can also be strengthened with the Restorative, when Heart pains, palpitation, or Kidney weakness is found. Don't drug the Stomach, nor stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. That is wrong. Go to the cause of these ailments. Strengthen these weak inside nerves with Dr. Shoop's Restorative and get well. A simple, single test will surely tell. All dealers.

A Metaphor With a History.

To "know a hawk from a hernshaw" is a metaphor with a curious history It is a comparison drawn from falconry. "Hernshaw" is a corruption of "heronshaw," or young heron, a bird which was a common prey of the falcons. To know a hawk from a hernshaw is therefore to be able to distinguish the falcon from its prey. A further colloquial corruption crept into the phrase, "to know a hawk from a handsaw," a form used by Hamlet in one place. Possibly the distinction between a hawk and a hernshaw was found not to be strong enough for the purposes of the proverb.—Manchester Guardian.

No Death Penalty.

European countries which inflict no death penalty, however brutal or premeditated the crime, are Italy, Holland, Norway, Switzerland, Portugal and Russia, save where the lives of the emperor, the empress or the heir to the throne are concerned. The canton of Zug, in Switzerland, imposes the lowest minimum penalty in the world—three years' imprisonment for wilful homicide, the maximum punishment being imprisonment for life.—London Chronicle.

An Inconsiderate System.

"Why don't we take an express train?" asked the sweet young thing of her escort at a subway station.

"This isn't an express station," explained her escort kindly.

"How tiresome!" exclaimed the s. y. t. "They ought to have express trains at every station!"

For himself doth a man work evil in working evil for another.—Hesiod.

CANADA'S EARLY DAYS

PRICES OF SIXTY YEARS AGO IN UPPER CANADA.

Former Clerk of Ontario Legislature Gives Interesting Reminiscences—Cherries at Twenty-Five Cents a Tree—Venison Four Cents a Pound —Farm Stock of 1844 Was Inferior —Simple Home Life.

Mr. Charles Clarke, late clerk of the Ontario Legislature, has issued a very readable historical work entitled "Sixty Years in Upper Canada." It was in June of 1844 that Mr. Clarke arrived at Port Robinson, on the Welland canal, and very interesting are his reminiscences of those pioneer days.

"Food," he says, "partook of a simplicity similar to that of dress. Salt meat, eggs and potatoes were the staple edibles after bread. Fresh meat, in country parts, was at some seasons a comparative luxury. Veal was obtainable in spring, mutton in summer, and beef or pork in the fall and winter months, while poultry was generally marketed as soon as possible after the fattening stubbles were exhausted.

Ten Dollar a Pound.

"Fancy groceries were actual luxuries. I have seen currants sold at three yorkers (37 1-2 cents) a pound, and raisins, of a poorer quality than we now see, often commanded a 'quarter.' Tea was dear, although duties were low, and frequently brought a dollar, and coffee, cheaper in proportion, was more freely used.

"Native fruits were cheap. Peaches were bought off the tree in the Niagara district for twenty-five cents per bushel; apples had little commercial value, and cherries could be had in the rural localities in the Niagara district at twenty-five cents 'a tree,' the purchaser picking off the fruit.

"Ale and beer were obtainable, of drinkable quality, in town, but little of either reached country parts. Cider was often used, the most desirable being 'frozen,' so that the watery element was largely eliminated and a very potent intoxicant produced. Whiskey, the common drink of the country, could be had at any of the numerous distilleries by the barrel, at sixteen or twenty cents the gallon, and there were few 'bees,' 'loggings,' or 'raisings' at which it was not more freely dispensed than water, and there was a prevalent opinion that it was much more wholesome.

"Venison, now a luxury, was a common article of food in many sections, and obtainable at three or four cents per pound. Maple sugar and molasses were as common an article for trading transactions in country stores as home-made straw hats, butter, tallow, dried apples, timothy seed, woolen socks, whittled butter ladles, bowls and axe-helves."

Many a Mongrel Breed.

Mr. Clarke discourses entertainingly of the farm stock of those days.

"If cows were 'mixed,' swine, the pork factors, were as ugly as that famous possessor of them who drove them pell-mell into the sea, and wore manes as do the wild boars of the German forest. Sheep were of a degenerate Merino breed, small in size and of little value for mutton, and the selling price, minus the skin, was often as low as one dollar the carcase. Cattle were sometimes large when at four or five years of age, they reached maturity, but even then were bony, coarse and more of active than adipose tendencies."

This is some of Mr. Clarke's early history. He would probably say himself that it is of less value than the review of political events which follows. That may be so, for many a reminiscence of Legislative halls has been gathered within the pages of this book. But the records of the simple home life of bygone days should never lack for listeners, and this writer has spread them before the public very entertainingly.

"Swap" National Relics.

A "swap" in national relics is suggested by Mr. W. W. Fox of Toronto, who recently visited New Jersey. Mr. Fox has discovered an old cannon, which was once the property of the British forces, and has had altogether an adventurous career before it found a resting place in Elizabeth, N.J. For years United States tourists visiting the Citadel at Quebec have cast envious eyes on an old cannon which is kept there as a relic, and which bears the inscription: "Captured by the British army at Bunker Hill, June 17, 1775." It seem to have been one of the four cannon which constituted the whole train of field artillery possessed by the colonies at the commencement of the war in 1775.

The gun at Elizabeth, N.J., was cast in Strassburg in 1758, and was sent by Louis XV., King of France, to Canada for the defence of Quebec. Upon the surrender of that place in the following year the gun fell into the hands of the British. In April, 1760, the French recaptured it, and in May the British retook it. In the fall of 1775 it aided in the repulse of the continental forces under Gen. Richard Montgomery, who was mortally wounded while attempting to recapture it. In June, 1779, Sir Henry Clinton captured Stony Point, and a month later Gen. Anthony Wayne retook it, finding this gun among the trophies. Gen. Washington presented the piece to troops from Elizabeth who had acted as a reserve, and it was taken to Elizabeth soon after.

Canadian Bounties.

Canada has paid, during the twelve years that the bounties on iron and steel have been in existence, $5,108,-288 as bounty on pig iron; on steel ingots $4,499,825; on articles manufactured from steel, such as rolled angles, plates and wire rods, $1,941,-473. The bounty upon lead amounting to $742,843. During the last four years there has been paid out in bounties on the production of crude petroleum a sum of $1,204,128.

DESIRE OF DISTINCTION.

Quaint Illustration of a Peculiar Phase of Human Nature.

In "Doc Gordon," by Mary E. Wilkins-Freeman, is a quaint illustration of a peculiar phase of human nature. It develops with the visits of the two doctors to their poorer patients:

James drove all the morning with Dr. Gordon about the New Jersey country. The country people were either saturnine with an odd shyness, which had something almost hostile in it, or they were effusively hospitable, forcing apple jack upon the two doctors. James was much struck by the curious unconcern shown by the relatives of the patients and even by the patients themselves. In only one case, that of a child suffering from a bad case of measles, was much interest evinced. The majority of the patients were the very old and middle aged, and they discussed and heard discussed their symptoms with much the same attitude as they might have discussed the mechanism of a wooden doll. If any emotion was shown, it was that of a singular inverted pride. "I had a terrible night, doctor," said one old woman, and a smirk of self conceit was over her ancient face. "Yes, mother did have an awful night," said her married daughter, with a triumphant expression. Even the children clustering about the doctor looked unconsciously proud because their old grandmother had had an awful night. The call of the two doctors at the house was positively hilarious. Quantities of old apple jack were forced upon them. The old woman in the adjoining bedroom, although she was evidently suffering, kept calling out a feeble joke in her cackling old voice.

"Those people seem positively elated because that old soul is sick," said James when he and the doctor were again in the buggy.

"They are," said Dr. Gordon; "even the old woman herself, who knows well enough that she has not long to live. Did you ever think that the desire of distinction was one of the most, perhaps the most, intense purely spiritual emotion of the human soul? Look at the way these people live here, grubbing away at the soil like ants. The most of them have in their lives just three ways of attracting notice, the momentary consideration of their kind—birth, marriage, sickness and death. With the first they are hardly actively concerned; even with the second many have nothing to do. There are more women than men, as usual, and, although the women want to marry, all the men do not. There remains only sickness and death for a standby, so to speak. If one of them is really sick and dies, the people are aroused to take notice. The sick person and the corpse have a certain state and dignity which they have never attained before. Why, bless you, man, I have one patient, a middle aged woman, who has been laid up for years with rheumatism, and she is fairly vainglorious, and so is her mother. She brags of her invalid daughter. If she had been merely an old maid on her hands, she would have been ashamed of her, and the woman herself would have been sour and discontented. But she has fairly married rheumatism. It has been to her as a husband and children. I tell you, young man, one has to have his little footstool of elevation among his fellows, even if it is a mighty queer one, or he loses his self respect, and self respect is the best jewel we have."

Much Wanted.

The following advertisement, quoted from a Boston paper of a date early in the nineteenth century by Mr. Janson in "The Stranger In America," shews that the domestic problem is not one of modern manufacture. But what mistress of today would dare to impose such conditions on the hindrance in the kitchen?

Much Wanted: A neat, well behaved female to do kitchen work in a small family in Charlestown, near Boston. She may pray and sing hymns, but not over the dishkettle. She may go to meeting, but not belong to the congregation of midnight worshipers.

Inquire at Repertory office, near Boston.

A Natural Fortress.

In the northern part of Madagascar is the most remarkable natural fortress in the world. It is occupied by a wild tribe who call themselves the People of the Rocks. The fortress is a lofty and precipitous rock of enormous size, 1,000 feet high and eight square miles in area. Its sides are so steep that it cannot be climbed without artificial means. Within it is hollow, and the only entrance is by a subterranean passage.—St. James' Gazette.

Thrift.

There is an old fashioned word that ought to come into use again—thrift. There are a distressing number of shiftless people in the world, and, while we shall call no names, we hope every reader will pause at this paragraph and think seriously of thrift and shiftlessness.

The Changed View.

Every man takes care that his neighbor does not cheat him. But a day comes when he begins to care that he does not cheat his neighbor. Then all goes well. He has changed his market cart into a chariot of the sun.—Emerson.

A Little Salt.

Cassidy—Ah, well, no was his private w'at's past an' gone. Casey—Ye could if ye only acted quick enough. Cassidy—Go 'long, man! How could yer? Casey—Stop it before it happens.

A common danger produces unanimity.—Latin Proverb.

Modest Capitalization Large Coal Reserves

This Company organized under the laws of the Northwest Territories of Canada, owns and operates the Galbraith mine located at Lundbreck, Alta. They have four vertical seams of coal traversing their property, aggregating over 40 feet in thickness. Three of these seams are developed to a depth of 350 feet, and as they pass through the Company's lands for nearly a mile, some idea of the amount of coal may be had.

Shipping Steadily

The present output of the mine is about 200 tons per day. These shipments will be rapidly increased, as the C.P.R. allows its cars to be loaded with coal for points in the U. S.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTHWEST HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an Agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of a homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father or mother.

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing must be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa, of intention to apply for patent.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

Sealed Tenders addressed to the undersigned and endorsed "Tender for Trent Canal," will be received until 16 o'clock on Thursday, 12th March, 1908, for the works connected with the construction of Section No. 3, Ontario-Rice Lake Division of the Canal.

Plans, specifications, and the form of the contract to be entered into, can be seen on and after the 5th February, 1908, at the office of the Chief Engineer of the Department of Railways and Canals, Ottawa, at the office of the Superintending Engineer, Trent Canal, Peterborough, Ont., and at the office of Mr. J. B. Brophy, Division Engineer, Trenton, Ont., at which places forms of tender may be obtained.

Parties tendering will be required to accept the fair wages Schedule prepared or to be prepared by the Department of Labor, which Schedule will form part of the contract.

Contractors are requested to bear in mind that tenders will not be considered, unless made strictly in accordance with the printed forms, and in the case of firms, unless there are attached the actual signatures, the nature of the occupation, and place of residence of each member of the firm.

An accepted bank cheque for the sum of $10,000 must accompany each tender, which sum will be forfeited, if the party tendering declines entering into contract for the work, at the rates stated in the offer submitted.

The cheque thus sent in will be returned to the respective contractors whose tenders are not accepted.

cry of a soul in agony. "And that, from what Miss Sylvia says," ended Deborah, "was just before the church clock struck the hour of 12."

"You came down a quarter of an hour later?"

"I did when Miss Sylvia woke me," said Deborah. "She was frightened out of her seven senses and couldn't get up at once. Yes, it was about twenty minutes after the hour we come down to see it." And the woman, strong nerved as she was, shuddered.

"Humph!" said the inspector. "The assassin had time to escape!"

"Begging your pardon, sir, them or him or her or it as murdered master was below in the cellar when we saw the corp—not that it was what you'd call a corp then."

"Will you say precisely what you mean?"

Deborah did so and with such wealth of detail that even the hardened inspector felt the creeps down his official back. There was something terribly merciless about this crime. The man had been bound like a sheep for the slaughter, his mouth had been sealed with the brooch so that he could not cry out, and then, in the sight of his child and servant, he had been slowly strangled by means of the copper wire which communicated with the cellar. One of the policemen brought up an auger which evidently had been used to bore the hole for the wire to pass through, for the fresh sawdust was still in its wheels. "Who does this belong to?" Prince asked Deborah.

"It's Bart's," said Deborah, staring. "He was using it, along with other tools, to make some deal boxes for master, who was going away. I expect it was found in the cellar in the tool box, for Bart always brought it in tidylike after he'd done his work in the yard, weather being fine, of course," ended Deborah, sniffing.

"Where is this Bart?"

"In bed, like a decent man, if he's to be my husband, which he is," said Miss Junk tartly. "I told one of them idle bobbies to go and fetch him from Bloomsbury."

"One has gone," said another policeman. "Bart Tawney, isn't he?"

"Mr. Bartholomew Tawney, if you please," said the servant grandly. "I only hope he'll be here soon to protect me."

"You're quite safe," said Prince dryly, whereat there was a smile on the faces of his underlings, for Deborah in her disordered dress and with her swollen, flushed, excited face was not comely. "But what about this brooch you say is the cause of it all?"

Deborah dropped, with an air of fatigue. "If you kill me I can't talk of it now," she protested. "The brooch belonged to Mr. Paul Beecot."

"And where is he?"

"In the Charing Cross hospital, if you want to know, and as he's engaged to my pretty you needn't think he done it—so there."

"I am accusing no one," said the inspector grimly, "but we must get to the bottom of this horrible crime."

CHAPTER VIII.

ONE of the first people to call on Miss Norman was a dry, wizen monkey of a man, who announced himself as James Pash, the solicitor of the deceased. He had, so he said, executed Aaron's legal business for years and knew all his secrets. Yet when questioned by the police he could throw no light on the murder. But he knew of something strange connected with the matter, and this he related to the detective who was now in charge of the case.

This officer was a chatty, agreeable, pleasant faced man, with brown eyes, brown hair and brown skin. Also, to match his face, no doubt, he wore brown clothes, brown boots, a brown hat and a brown tie—in fact, in body, face and hands and dress he was all brown, and this prevalent color produced rather a strange effect.

The brown man, who answered to the name of Hurd, or, as he genially described himself, Billy Hurd, saw Mr. Pash, the lawyer, after he had examined every one he could lay hold of in the hopes of learning something likely to elucidate the mystery. "What do you know of this matter, sir?" asked the brown man pleasantly.

Pash screwed up his face in a manner worthy of his monkey looks. He would have been an absolute image of one with a few nuts in his cheek, and as he talked in a chattering sort of way, very fast and a trifle incoherent, the resemblance was complete. "I know nothing why my esteemed client should meet with such a death," he said, "but I may mention that on the evening of his death he called round to see me and deposited in my charge four bags of jewels. At least he said they were jewels, for the bags are sealed, and of course I never opened them."

"Can I see those bags?" asked Hurd amiably.

The legal monkey hopped into the next room and beckoned Hurd to follow. Shortly the two were looking into the interior of a safe wherein reposed four bags of coarse white canvas sealed and tied with stout cords. "The odd thing is," said Mr. Pash, chewing his words and looking so absurdly like a monkey that the detective felt inclined to call him "Jacko," "that on the morning of the murder and before I heard anything about it a stranger came with a note from my esteemed client asking that the bags should be handed over."

"What sort of a man?"

"Well," said Pash, fiddling with his sharp chin, "what you might call a seafaring man. A sailor, maybe, would be the best term. He was stout and red faced, but with drink rather than with weather, I should think, and he rolled on his bow legs in a somewhat nautical way."

"What name did he give?" asked Hurd, writing this description rapidly in his notebook.

"None. I asked him who he was, and he told me—with many oaths, I regret to say—to mind my own business. He insisted on having the bags to take back to Mr. Norman, but I doubted him—oh, yes," added the lawyer shrewdly, "I doubted him. Mr. Norman always did his own business and never in my experience of him employed a deputy. I replied to the unknown nautical man—a sailor, as you might say; he certainly smelt of rum, which, as we know, is a nautical drink—well, Mr. Hurd, I replied that I would take the bags round to Mr. Norman myself and at once. This office is in Chancery lane, as you see, and not far from Gwynne street, so I started with the bags. When I reached Gwynne street I found that Mr. Norman was dead and at once took the bags back to replace them in this safe, where you now behold them."

"Is there a will?" asked Hurd, rising to take his leave.

Pash screwed up his eyes and inflated his cheeks and wriggled so much that the detective expected an acrobatic performance and was disappointed when it did not come off. "I really can't be sure on that point," he said softly. "I have not yet examined the papers contained in the safe of my deceased and esteemed client. He would never allow me to make his will."

"Well, I'm off to look for your nautical gentleman," said Hurd.

"Do you think he is guilty?"

"I can't say," said Hurd, smiling, "and I never speak unless I am quite sure of the truth."

Hurd had learned a great deal about the opal brooch from Sylvia and Deborah, and what they told him resulted in his visiting the Charing Cross hospital to see Paul Beecot. The young man was much worried. His arm was getting better, and the doctors assured him he would be able to leave the hospital in a few days, but he had received a letter from his mother, whom he had informed of his accident. She bewailed his danger and wrote with many tears—as Paul saw from the blotted state of the letter—that her domestic tyrant would not allow her to come to London to see her wounded darling. This in itself was annoying enough, but Paul was still more irritated and excited by the report of Aaron's terrible death, which he saw in a newspaper. So much had this moved him that he was thrown into a high state of fever, and the doctor refused to allow him to read the papers. Luckily Paul, for his own sake, had somewhat calmed down when Hurd arrived, so the detective was permitted to see him. He sat by the bedside and told the patient who he was. Beecot looked at him sharply and then recognized him.

"You are the workman," he said, astonished.

"Yes, Mr. Beecot, I am. I hear that you have not taken my warning regarding your friend, Grexon Hay."

"Ah, then you knew his name all the time!"

POSTAL BARRIER DOWN.

United States Periodicals May Enter Canada at Second Class Rate.

In May, 1906, the Canadian postal authorities gave the six months' notice required by the convention, that they would no longer permit American newspapers and periodicals to be mailed to points in Canada at the second-class, or pound rate, of postage. Up to that time there had been no postal barrier between Canada and the United States with respect to the transmission of newspapers and periodicals through the mails. Papers deposited at postoffices in the United States were delivered in Canada without payment of additional postage.

The notice of abrogation of this agreement by Canada was protested by the United States postal authorities, but as Canada had a legal right to abrogate this feature of the convention, the protest of Postmaster-General Meyer was without avail.

After nearly one year under this agreement the Canadian postal authorities reached the conclusion that the conditions which they had forced upon American publishers were not to their advantage, and sought a reopening of the question. As a result, a new agreement has been reached to the effect that legitimate periodicals and magazines may apply for and secure entry at the Canadian second-class rate of postage at any office in Canada which may be selected for that purpose. The Canadian authorities give assurance that all applications for such entry will receive favorable consideration if the periodical or magazine is of the legitimate sort and not primarily designed for advertising purposes.

A further agreement has been reached under which legitimate daily newspapers may be mailed in the United States to postoffices in Canada at the pound rate of postage. This is a restoration of the old order of things so far as the legitimate daily newspapers are concerned, and is a step in that direction for the magazines and other periodicals. While American publishers do not under the new arrangement secure all that it is believed they are entitled to, Postmaster-General Meyer accepted the recent proposals of Canada regarding them, as the entering wedge which would ultimately lead to the restoration in their entirety, of the conditions that formerly prevailed.

A telegram has been received at Washington from the deputy postmaster-general of Canada, advising that the public and postmasters of [illegible] new agreement had gone into effect on the 6th inst.

It is understood that the demand for American newspapers and periodicals had become so great that the Canadian postal authorities could no longer resist the pressure for a modification of their former action.

WINE FROM THE MAPLE.

Surprising Statement in New Encyclopedia Quoted in London.

The recent dinner of the Canada Club at the Ritz Hotel, London, was largely attended. The president, Mr. F. W. Taylor, who spoke eloquently, toasting "Canada and the Governor-General," made an amusing reference to an encyclopedia "recently revised and brought up-to-date" by a Cambridge professor, which informed the world that the maple tree produced a light and refreshing wine much liked by the natives of Canada, and also yielded a syrup which when crystalised supplied the Dominion with sugar. He proceeded to criticise the United States in a humorous and sometimes sub-acid fashion, emphasizing the financial serenity of Canada, which was undisturbed during the financial storm over the border. (Cheers.) If Canada had been to any extent unwise her follies were those of lusty youth and were forgivable. (Applause.)

The remaining speeches glowed with confidence in Canada's future. Admiral Douglas piously hoped the Admiralty would restore a fleet to Canadian waters. They could man one ship entirely with officers willing to serve there.

Major D. W. Stevens dwelt on the question of transportation in Canada and the development of her terminals.

Signor Marconi expressed his gratitude to the Dominion Government, which first gave him practical encouragement. He declared the wireless system of the St. Lawrence was unequaled in the world. He would spare no effort to show that the encouragement given him by Canada should not be thrown away. He remarked that he had just demonstrated to the Admiralty officials what could be done in the way of wireless transmission across the Atlantic.

The Earl of Ranfurley, Sir E. Ward and Gen. Lawrie were among the guests.

Heart Strength

Heart Strength, or Heart Weakness, means Nerve Strength, or Nerve Weakness—nothing more. Positively, not one weak heart in a hundred is, in itself, actually diseased. It is almost always a hidden tiny little nerve that really is all at fault. This obscure nerve—the Cardiac, or Heart Nerve—simply needs, and must have, more power, more stability, more controlling, more governing strength. Without that the Heart must continue to fail, and the stomach and Kidneys also have their same controlling nerves.

This clearly explains why, as a medicine, Dr. Shoop's Restorative has in the past done so much for weak and ailing Hearts. Dr. Shoop first sought the cause of all this painful, palpitating, suffocating heart distress. Dr. Shoop's Restorative—this popular prescription—is alone directed to these weak and wasting nerve centers. It builds; strengthens; it alters real, genuine heart help.

If you would have strong Hearts, strong digestion, strengthen these Nerves—re-establish them as needed, with

CITY AND COUNTY NEWS

JOTTINGS HERE AND THERE BY TIMES' REPORTERS.

Warsaw Stage Had Hard Trip

It was only with the greatest difficulty that the Warsaw stage was able to reach the city yesterday morning. Mr. Crowe, the driver, had a hard time getting through. The roads in the country are badly drifted, and in some sections almost impassable.

Who Took Mr. Stabler's Hog?

Mr. W. A. Stabler called at the police station yesterday afternoon and complained that on Saturday a dressed hog was taken from the market. He bought five of them for Mr. H. P. Kennedy and left them at the market weigh scales. On coming to get them he found that there was only four left. Mr. Stabler thinks that it was accidentally carried off by someone we thought it was theirs.

Knocked Down by Farmer's Rig

A poor young man, Fred. Milton, received a nasty cut in the scalp yesterday morning. He was struck by a farmer's horse on Reid street near the corner of Hunter while crossing the road. The driver and another gentleman who was nearby immediately went to his assistance. He was driven to his boarding house on Aylmer street, instead of being taken to a physician, as advised by the driver.

Death of Mrs. Matthew Clarke

Mrs. Matthew Clarke, one of the best known and most highly respected ladies living near Springville, passed away Sunday after a short illness. Her death will be a great shock to her many friends and relatives. The deceased was a daughter of Mr. Geo. Atchison, of North Monaghan, and is survived by her husband and two small children. Mrs. Clark was a member of the Springville Presbyterian Church. The funeral will take place to-day.

Local Traveller on Bancroft Roads

Mr. Jack Burdill, traveller for Messrs. T. Kinnear & Co., the local wholesale grocers, in talking with some friends yesterday, said: "Snow! Snow! Why you people here don't know what snow is. If you had seen the roads out around Bancroft, where I was snowed in for two days recently, you would know what heavy roads and deep snow means." Mr. Burdill said the roads were the worst he ever encountered since he has been on the road.

Quietly Celebrated Wedding

A quietly celebrated but pretty wedding was performed in St Peter's Cathedral yesterday morning at nine o'clock by Rev. Father McColl, when Miss Maggie McGillen, daughter of Mr. Peter McGillen, became the bride of Mr. Cornelius Heffernan, son of Mr. Dorrodius Heffernan, all of this city. The witnesses were Mr. Thomas Ryan and Miss Nora McGillen. The happy couple were congratulated by a large number of friends.

—The meeting of the Mission Study Class of George Street Church has been postponed from this evening until Thursday evening, when it will meet at the residence of Mrs. Duncan Cameron, George street north.

—Prof. Green of Green's Picture Show in writing to a friend here, says the Crystal is the neatest and best conducted moving picture place of amusement he has seen in his travels. This speaks well for a local enterprise.

CHARMS FOR LUCK.

The Sort of Superstitions Some Wall Street Men Harbor.

Let all the dear readers, feminine gender, take cognizance of what follows, for surely the fairer sex is, after all, the stronger sex. Women know no such abject obedience to superstitious fears and signs as do the men. With a view to eliciting something of interest, the writer had a chance to put a certain question to a captain of industry. "Tut, tut," he replied suspiciously, "you'd be getting me into trouble, would you?" With a promise that no names would be mentioned, he finally agreed to tell a thing or two.

The question was, "Aren't men in Wall street carrying all sorts of queer things to try to change their luck?" In answer to this the writer heard some curious stories. One man of worldwide fame, for example, carries a cane in the center of which there is a slender steel rod. Circling the rod there are rings made of leather and of hard rubber, like the washers that plumbers use. Each seventh ring is made of leather from the soles of the shoes worn by the billionaire during what he considered his luckiest year. Elephants and pigs as lucky charms there are of course in plenty, but the proper caper is to wear the animal pinned inside on the watch fob pocket. Then there is another great financier who carries with him a gold ink well and would never sign a document with fluid from another receptacle. Once upon a time, when he had, say, only a pleasure million or two, he signed a paper in a deal that doubled, then trebled, his wealth. The ink used that day was emptied into a long gold tube or well that he now carries. The ink was used up, but to the well, so he thinks, the good luck power has been translated. Lucky coins pass from father to son in several of the multimillionaire families, and the man who inherits them would never be without them. We have few secret drawers in desks or doors in houses, as they had in olden times, but there are many secret pockets in the suits made by smart tailors.

A GRATEFUL GUEST.

The Reward She Bestowed Upon Those Who Entertained Her.

"Human nature is a queer thing," said the philosopher.

"Not long ago some friends of mine got badly down on their luck. Times were so hard for them that they scarcely knew which way to turn for the necessities of life.

"At that most inopportune time they received word from a woman friend of theirs that she was coming to visit them for a few days. They were dismayed, but by the exercise of great ingenuity and by depriving themselves to almost the vanishing point they managed to entertain her and really to set before her most excellent meals.

"After she left their affairs continued to grow even worse, if possible, and while they kept up a brave front I was near enough to them so I couldn't help knowing all about it, though they were not aware that I saw the situation.

"I thought it was time some of their friends came to the rescue if a suitable way could be devised, so I wrote the woman who had been their guest—being slightly acquainted with her myself—told her I would head the procession, would like her aid and would be glad of any suggestions she could make as to a practical plan for helping our old friends without hurting their proper pride.

"Her reply gave me something to think about for many a day. She said she didn't care to help them, as they already lived too well and set too expensive a table; that when she had visited them they had a great deal more to eat than was necessary and that they must be very extravagant people; that it was undoubtedly their own fault they were in such trouble and that it would probably teach them to be more economical in future!"

The Missing Window Pane

"Every kitchen has a window with one pane out in the Brazilian town of Rio Grande do Sul," said a cook. "That town is a servants' paradise. Servants live in their own homes there, as they should everywhere. They come to work at 7 in the morning, and they quit at 7 at night—a twelve hour day. Quite long enough. The paneless window is for the milkman, the baker, the butcher, so that those traders can leave their supplies—they usually come early—in a safe place. The Rio Grande servant is, of course, not there to receive them. She is in bed at her own home."

Monism.

Monism is the doctrine of the oneness of mind and matter, God and the universe. It ignores all that is supernatural. Monism teaches that "all are but parts of one stupendous whole, whose body nature is and God the soul;" hence whatever is only conforms to the cosmic laws of the universal all. Mind can never exist without matter, nor matter without mind. They are but the two sides of the same thing.

The Bloodstained Equator.

Human life, I have reason to know, is held cheap at Equatorville, and the place is stained with many crimes. In fact, the whole equator is throughout its 25,000 miles a line of ignorance, savagery and blood. It is a black line which civilization ought to paint white.

The man who is always on time has a big advantage in the struggle for success.—Chicago Record-Herald.

$1,000.00 paid by Dr. Shoop for any recent case of Grippe or acute Cold that's 25 cent box of Preventics will not break. How is this for an offer? The Doctor's supreme confidence in these little Candy Cold Cure Tablets—Preventics—is certainly complete. It's a $100 against 25 cents—pretty big odds. And Preventics—remember, contain no quinine, no laxative, nothing harsh nor sickening. Pneumonia would never appear if early colds were always broken. Safe and sure for feverish children. 25 Preventics 25c. All dealers.

The property is situated at Mancos, Colo., and consists of 160 acres, fully paid for. The Company expects to secure at least 400 acres or more, we are negotiating for it now and the terms are satisfactory and there is coal on the same, and they also intend to secure some Coal Mines of which they have the refusal. Some of the best coal mines in Colorado are in this district, as well as some of the richest gold and silver mines. In fact this is one of the richest parts for mineral in the State of Colorado, and the Company has the refusal to several prospects on reasonable and easy terms.

APPLICATION TO PARLIAMENT

Notice is hereby given that in addition to the application of which notice has already been given, an application will be made on behalf of the City of Peterborough to the Legislative Assembly of the Province of Ontario, at the present Session thereof for legislation to confirm a By-law to aid The William Hamilton Company (Limited) by a loan of $30,000, a fixed assessment of $10,000 for 10 years and other concessions.

Dated this 6th day of February, 1908.

Made It Clear.

When Colonel Edmund Rice was in command of the Twenty-sixth infantry (mostly volunteers from New England) in the Philippines, he organized from his regiment a company of mounted scouts. To equip them for this service he made requisition on headquarters for the necessary outfit, including eighty nosebags. Some officious clerk in the quartermaster's office in Manila returned the requisition to Colonel Rice with these written remarks: "Your report shows but sixty men in your mounted company. Why do you require eighty nosebags?"

The colonel's explanation was short and characteristic. It was: "It is true I have but sixty men, but I have eighty horses. The nosebags are for the horses, not for the men."

Inoculation For Smallpox.

Lady Mary Wortley Montagu is generally credited with having introduced inoculation into England from Turkey. In 1718 she had her son inoculated at Adrianople with success. She was allowed to have it tried in England on seven condemned criminals in 1721, and in 1722 two members of the royal family were inoculated. The practice was bitterly opposed by the clergy until 1760. A Dr. Mead practiced inoculation with success up to 1754, and Dr. Dunsdale of London inoculated Catherine II. of Russia in 1768. Vaccine inoculation was introduced by Dr. Jenner in 1799.

The Moors of Today.

The Moors of today are the descendants of those who conquered Spain, who were practically paramount in the southern portion for two centuries and relics of whose wonderful buildings are to be found at the present day in that country. Indeed, it is strange to consider the position of the Moors of today when we see the work of their hands in past centuries, and the only explanation lies in the fact that they are unable to adapt themselves to modern conditions.

Crushed.

"Brudder Jones, if you didn't smoke, you might own a brick house, like what I does."

"Look here, man, don't you come pesterin' wif me like dat. You didn't git dat brick house by not smokin'. You got it by borrowin' mah newspaper to read an' mah clothes to wear an' mah vittles to eat. You may be a fly financier, but dat don't gib you no license to set up fer a human copy book!"

Capital.

"Let me illustrate the difference between capital and labor," said the rich uncle to the impecunious nephew. "Suppose I give you £5"—

"That's capital," replied the nephew, extending his hand for the money.—London Telegraph.

Gypsy Musicians.

Though there are many gypsies in England, the United States and other nations, it is in Roumania, Hungary and Russia that they are chiefly found, their numbers in that part of Europe being placed at 500,000. Many of them are capable musicians. The gypsy players of Hungary are famous. In that country gypsies are called "Tsiganes." The French call them "Bohemians," from which fact comes the use of that word to describe the easy

The Pacific Fruit Cooling and Vaporizing Company, Incorporated for the purpose of cooling deciduous fruits and removing moisture from citrus fruits and keeping under cold storage such fruits and other food products from the time of receiving them from the fruit growers until loaded on car and taken away by the Railroad Company for Eastern shipment

STUBBORN FACTS UNIMPEACHABLE

The loss in shipping deciduous and citrus fruits is enormous. The orange crop of Southern California alone is valued at $20,000,000. The government experts estimate that about 25 per cent. or $7,500,000, is lost every year by rough handling in packing and decay of fruit in transit to the Eastern markets. What a revenue of profit this loss would be to the shipper if it could be saved. Our process will save it. The same is true of the deciduous fruits of Northern California.

GREAT FORTUNES ARE MADE BY INVESTMENT IN NECESSITIES

Fruit is one of the necessities of our civilized life, and the company that can place the fruit in the markets of the world in the best shape, in the quickest time, at the lowest rate, has a fortune within its grasp. The Armour Company in ten years made $5,000,000 net handling California fruit in refrigerator cars. Our process is as necessary to the fruit grower as the refrigerator car. Therefore we ought to receive as large a revenue for handling the same commodity.

GET IN WHILE THE ENTERPRISE IS NEW

No wiser words were ever spoken than these: "The chief point about getting rich is to invest in a new enterprise that is being managed by successful men, who have some of their own money in the deal." "One good investment is worth a lifetime of labor". Think over this sentence. A man's daily labor will never make him rich. He must have some money at work for him. Money invested never gets sick, keeps no holidays, never goes on strike. There are three things that ought to guide you: First, invest with honest men; second, invest with men of sound judgment; third, invest under conditions where you get your full share of profits the business yields. Get into a company whose destiny is guided by men of this stamp when its future is before and not behind it. Here is the secret of fortune. Plant the seed of your investment in the soil of opportunity, at the season of greatest promise when the enterprise is new. Every ounce of honor in the hearts of the men managing this company is pledged to give

A SQUARE DEAL FOR EVERY INVESTOR

There will be no preferred stock. Every dollar invested will be worth 100 cents on the dollar. Our Directors, as honourable business men, will not allow any tricks of trade by which the small investor can be frozen out. Their commercial standing proves they are not "grafters". The poor man's 500 or 100 shares will have the same standing in court as the rich man's 10,000, and they will draw the same proportionate dividend. We court investigation.

EVERY RICH MAN IN THE WORLD WAS ONCE POOR, OR HIS GRANDFATHER WAS.

THE OPPORTUNITY OF A LIFETIME

To get into a company that has the certainty of growth, the assurance of large and quick returns, a rapid advance in the price of stock, to make it an exceptional chance for big profits on a small investment. This is an ideal investment for the wage earner as well as the rich man. Moderate sums invested now will bring splendid returns in the near future. The logic of all this is

DON'T WAIT

Time is the essence of this proposition. The stock will certainly double in a short time. Jay Gould once said: "When you see a good investment don't wait to see if it pans out well, for by that time other people see it, too, and you have lost your opportunity."

WOMEN AS INVESTORS

Some of the heaviest stockholders in our company are women of keen business instincts. One lady in Los Angeles bought 5,000 shares. In a few days she returned and bought 5,000 more. This lady has never made a mistake in her business ventures. Women are good investors because they have courage to follow their convictions. Their intuitions are keener and truer than man's logic. Men may prevent her voting, but they can't prevent her drawing dividends on her investments. This is one branch of trade where sex, culture, or color does not count.

MANAGEMENT

The affairs of this company are in the hands of men of honesty, ability, courage and good business judgment—men who have made a success of their own business—men whose business reputation is A1 in the commercial circles in which they move.

These men are "square" and "shrewd". They will not deceive you nor will they be deceived themselves. Because of the promise of growth, permanency and profit this business offers they have united their money, energy, time and business experience to make this enterprise a grand success.

BOARD OF EDUCATION IN REGULAR SESSION LAST NIGHT

Ald. Gillespie Offers Free Tuition at Queen's University, to a Collegiate Institute Student

Last night the Board of Education held a regular meeting in the secretary's office. Those present were Messrs. Dunnie, Chase, Dr. Burnham, Hayes, Farr, Morrison, Nelson, Ackerman, Hall and Inspector Mowat. On motion Dr. Burnham took the chair. The minutes of last meeting were read and confirmed.

The correspondence was read chiefly consisting of tenders by builders and prices for the position of janitor. Mr. William Pringle, a prominent member of the Board, was hung in the effigy a short time prior to being placed in the King Edward school. The carving out of the pictures and frames was highly commended by two fees. The actual portrait, inclosed in crayons, is of oval shape. An inscription is inscribed in the lower part of the border. The inscription, which is a chaste outcrop of the penman's art, was very kindly done gratuitously by Mr. Thos. Quartermaine, secretary of the Board of Trade, and is as follows:

WILLIAM PRINGLE.

Who was chairman of the Building Committee during the erection of this building in 1907, and whose faithful services in the cause of education are thus marked by the Board of Education of this city in perpetuation of his memory.

With a disinterested devotion to duty, he lived to see King Edward school successfully completed, and was then suddenly called to a higher sphere just when he saw his ideal consummated.

A letter from Mr. R. R. Hall, M.P., regarding the supplying of pictures if necessary along the route of the Interoceanic Railway was read. Mr. Hall has given the matter his attention.

A letter of thanks from Mrs. W. H. Wrighton and also one from Mrs. Pringle were read in which the writers thanked the Board for the kindly sentiments expressed over the demise of their respective husbands, who were, in life, active members of the Board.

A letter from Rev. J. G. Potter was read as follows:

To the Board of Education:

Gentlemen,—Ald. G. A. Gillespie has given through St. Andrew's church, a gift to Queen's University, Kingston, which gives him the right to nominate a student for a four years' course in Arts in that university.

Ald. Gillespie has transferred the gift to me, and with his consent it is offered as a scholarship to the Peterborough Collegiate Institute as an award for general proficiency.

The scholarship entitles the winner to the course leading to the Arts degrees without fees.

Yours very sincerely,

JAS. G. POTTER,

Master.

Mr. Dumbi moved that the letter be received, and a hearty vote of thanks be tendered to the writer. This gave the beneficiary the right of a four years' tuition free at Queen's University.

FINANCE COMMITTEE.

The Finance Committee reported and recommended payment of a number of accounts.

Accounts passed: Peterborough Hardware Co., 86c.; Bell Telephone Co., 60c.; News Pub. Co., $2.64; Bell Telephone Co., $10; P. L. & Power Co., $5; R. Gibbs, $2.50; P. L. & Power Co., $0.50; Kurgan H. S. Co., $45.15; Chamberlain W. S. Co., $100.60; B. F. Ackerman & Co., $1.50; Athletic Association Co., $7.50; London Assurance Co., $3.75; Davis Thompson Co., $11.25; G. Gumpright, $2.

ATTENDANCE.

The Public School reports for February showed that there were 1,753 pupils on the rolls, with an average attendance of 1,503, or 89.3 per cent.

The Collegiate Institute returns showed for the same month 286 pupils on roll, with average attendance of 271.

MONIES RECEIVED.

City treasurer, municipal grant, $4,000; Mrs. Ridge, rent, $6, text book fees, $236.47.

Chairman Farr noted that he had not called the members together during the past month to visit any of the schools because the weather had been so bad, or at other times some of the members were out of town.

Inspector Mowat called attention to the fact Mr. Whitney was going to put through no grants to schools.

The meeting adjourned at an early hour, several of the members wanting to attend the annual meeting of the Board of Trade held last night.

The Bell Company Had Good Year

Possibly the most generally used and highly appreciated utility in Canada is the Bell Telephone Company's splendid service. It will interest the many thousands of subscribers and stockholders in the company to learn that at the twenty-eighth annual meeting of the company a most encouraging report was presented by the directors. Notwithstanding the prevailing financial depression and stringency in the money markets, this company during the past year have added 6,348 miles of long distance wire and now own and operate 49,748 miles of long distance lines, strung on 9,540 miles of poles. As an indication of the confidence placed in the Bell Company of Canada it might be noted that last year $286,000 of this 5 per cent. bonds were sold, the premiums on which amounted to $14,300. This amount realized as premium has been carried to the Contingent account. During the year 25,000 shares of New Stock were offered to shareholders at par, thus bringing the capital up to $12,500,000. A premium of $15,074 was realized on the balance of the shares sold in 1906 and 1907 this being also placed to credit of Contingent Account. The company now owns and operates 1,254 agencies and 592 ch... From the balance of ... venue account, viz., $233,816 41, $1... 63107 was carried to Accident Reserve Account, and $162,451.48 to Contingent Account, leaving a balance of Revenue Account to be carried to 1908 of $66,281 68.

A resolution was passed unanimously confirming the sale of the company's plant and business to the Government of Saskatchewan and Alberta. The usual 3 per cent. dividend was declared on stock.

A full report of the meeting is contained in other columns of this issue.

POLICE

At yesterday's session of the police court his Worship gave any thing but a pleasant look at Henry Waters, a confirmed "no good," who prizes prison life to earning his own living. Henry has "done time" at his own request both in Central Prison, Toronto, and in the stone building that frowns down on Victoria Park. Henry is not a decrepid old man, maimed or otherwise unable to work, further than having been born with a bad attack of "That tired feeling."

The magistrate, when Henry was called a vagrant in court, remarked "$2," but Henry only smiled and said he was without the price. He was allowed the privilege of a further six months' sojourn in Castle Nesbitt.

The magistrate thought the application of a whip would about suit Henry's case.

Former Local Banker for Toronto

Some few days ago Mr. Gladstone L. Main, of the Bank of Montreal, here, received notice of his removal to the bank's head branch in Toronto. He will take up his work there in a few days, after he has completed a few short visits he wishes to make before he goes to that city. Mr. Main's removal is much regretted by his many friends. He was well known about town, as this is his second stay here, in fact this was one of the first branches he entered when he joined the bank. He was also situated for a number of years at Fenelon Falls, where he was a general favorite. There is no doubt of Mr. Main's success in the main office work.—Lindsay Post.

Beach--Sullivan

A quiet wedding was celebrated yesterday when Mr. Bert Beach, formerly of this city, and brother of Mr. Robert M. Beach, proprietor of the Parker Dye Works, was united in marriage to Miss Anna Sullivan, daughter of Mr. John Sullivan, 11 Para street. The Rev. Dr. O'Brien officiated. Miss Mona Sullivan was bridesmaid, and Mr. Jas. Jubby assisted as best man.

Mr. and Mrs. Beach will reside in Hamilton, where Mr. Beach is employed with Mr. A. Parker, formerly of this city.

HOW OLD IS YOUR COMPLEXION

In the morning, when you look at the face, does the skin look just as old as it did when you went to bed? If you do not, you have only taken off the outside layer. Underneath, all the wrinkles and facial blemishes are still unremoved. They can readily be removed and kept permanently out of sight by the use of a little attention. The face, neck and arms should be thoroughly washed every night and morning in tepid water and just as thoroughly dried. Then throw the greasy cream, the rouge pot and the powder box away and use the following simple wash regularly every night and morning:

Obtain at your drug store Rose Water, 2 ounces; Cologne Spirits, 1 ounce; Eppotone (skin food), 4 ounces. Put the Eppotone in a pint of hot water (not boiling) and when dissolved, strain and let cool. Then add the Rose Water and Cologne Spirits.

This wash can be easily made at home. It does not cost much and is better than all the widely advertised "beauty preparations" you can buy.

That Northern P. O. Clock Stoppage

Editor Morning Times:

Dear Sir,—Can you tell me whom is to blame for the long rest given the hands of that clock on the Post Office building? It is now over a month or possibly six weeks since the hands on the northern clock got to 5.40, and once stuck there permanently. If this clock comes under the jurisdiction of the Department of Public Works our local member of Parliament should see the proper officials and have the matter attended to. It is a great inconvenience to every man living on Water street north of the Post Office, as well as to hundreds who live on other streets in the Fourth Ward, that they can neither set their watches by that clock nor tell the time whilst going down town to their work.

Yours truly,

WATER STREET.

Delegates to Missionary Convention

As a result of Rev. Mr. Armstrong's visit to this city and a conference held in Knox Church, three churches have decided to send representatives to the great International Missionary Convention, to be held next week in Pittsburg, Pa. Three others, it is understood, will also be represented. Those chosen were as follows:

Knox Church—Rev. H. J. Keith.

Charlotte Street Church — Misses Pearl Bell and Pearl Sheridan.

St. Luke's—Mr. H. C. M. Porter.

The other churches mentioned are Murray Street Baptist, St. Andrew's and St. Paul's.

Castle Taken to Nichols Hospital

Richard Castle, of 136 Maria street, who, as noted in yesterday's issue, sustained severe cuts and had his lip bitten badly in a scrap in the Royal Hotel on Monday night, is now in Nicholls Hospital. His alleged assailant, Lebarge, has not yet been located, although the police are after him.

Mr. Holland, proprietor of the Royal, was seen yesterday morning, and he said he was going to lay an information against those who took part in the disturbance. He said the fight did not last long and took place between the bar and the sitting room.

DR. MORRISON RE-ELECTED PRESIDENT BOARD OF TRADE

Annual Meeting Last Night--Public Library Discussed Board Approves of Accepting Donation from Carnegie

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Board of Trade was held in the City Council Chamber last night.

The meeting was largely attended, and commendable interest manifested in the proceedings.

The Board was honored in the attendance of Hon. Senator Ferguson, of Prince Edward Island. Amongst those present were President Dr. Morrison, Aldermen Bructurn, Gillespie, Turner, D. Hughes-Charles, R. S. Wood, Rev. J. G. Potter, Dr. Caldwell, W. S. Dodds, John Nugent, R. McWhinnie, John Riddell, R. J. Todd, Thos. Barry, Jas. Drain, W. H. Moore, W. Rudkins, Jas. English, Dawson Kennedy, C. Walter Greig, W. R. Morris, J. S. Stubbs, Dr. McClellan, Dr. Gowan, D. W. Dumble, F. D. Kerr, Robert Fair, E. F. Musson, A. P. Poussette.

PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS

To the Officers and Members of the Board of Trade.

Gentlemen,—In presenting the annual report of the Board of Trade, I wish first to express my thanks to the officers and members for their loyal assistance during the year, and especially to those members who so ably contributed to the success of our meetings by presenting papers and addresses.

During the year we have held five Board meetings, seven committee meetings and a very successful Banquet. Our aim of a live Board of Trade is not such in numbor of meetings held, but in its readiness to grapple with any and all public questions, and to serve the interest of the community at large. This has been evidenced in the past year by the interest taken in all our meetings.

Our Manufacturers Committee has spared no effort in endeavoring to get some concern to take over the Wm. Hamilton Mfg. Co. Works and operate them. After many efforts we succeeded in getting the City Council in touch with the A. R. Williams Co. of Toronto, and we believe have successfully succeeded in arriving at an agreement whereby the works will soon be one of our active industries.

To the members of the Council of the Board of Trade, together with the able assistance of the Mfg. Committee of the City Council, and our vice-president in particular is due the credit of bringing the Dairyman Publishing Co. to Peterborough. This company publish three journals and will provide employment to about thirty-five hands, besides giving Peterborough a very wide advertisement.

It is with pleasure that I note that though we have passed through a period of financial stringency unbefore experienced by this generation, not a single failure has occurred amongst the mercantile and manufacturing interests of Peterborough; this indicates that the business conditions of our manufacturers and business men are on a sound basis. Also I note that where manufacturers' orders were not up to their full capacity, that the employer, instead of dismissing a number of hands, and leaving some men without employment, adopted the other plan of shortening the hours of all employees, and retaining the largest number possible. This would indicate a practical sympathy between the employer and his men.

Building operations have been active during the year. The total number of permits issued was 296, making a total expenditure of $761,321. Last year we drew the attention of those contemplating building houses for rental, of the scarcity of moderate priced houses. I find that during the year there were 75 houses built that cost less than $1,500, many of which should rent for $10 or $12 per month.

The fact that the Government are replacing the balance of the Trent Canal under contract, puts us to the belief that the long looked for water communication with the great lakes is about to be realized, and with it the advantages of water transportation. From a local standpoint this should mean the saving of thousands of dollars annually to our citizens.

As many towns and cities in western Ontario can now compete with us in electric power, and whereas there is now before the Legislature a bill to prevent all bonuses to manufactories. Therefore, I would suggest that our Manufacturers' Committee meet with the Manufacturing Committee of the City Council and discuss ways and means of approaching manufacturers who contemplate locating in Ontario.

The outlook for the coming year is not at all gloomy, but on the other hand many indications point to a resumption of business on an voluminous a scale as that of the last three or four years. We have a great country with great natural resources, and in such a state of development that it is impossible for it to stand still, and with progress on all sides of us Peterborough is bound to go ahead.

Thanking you for the honor of occupying the president's chair for the past year, I wish you all prosperity and success.

This report was received with considerable applause.

SECRETARY'S REPORT

The following report was adopted as very satisfactory and carried:

Mr. President and Gentlemen, — I have the honor of presenting to you as secretary the nineteenth annual report of this Board.

MEETINGS.

This year we have held five meetings of the Board, viz., 26th March, 9th April, 14th May, 8th October, 1907, and 28th January, 1908. We have also held several committee meetings, viz., one meeting of the Council of the Board and three meetings of the Manufacturers' Committee, one of which on Dec., 1907, was held in conjunction with the Manufacturers' Committee of the City Council.

SUBJECTS UNDER DISCUSION.

The following subjects were duly discussed, "Railway Charg a for Inter-switching," "The Present Mode of Assessment, when the City Council (hamber was so closely packed that about 25 visitors congregated about the doors. This I believe to be the largest meeting ever held by the Board of Trade. "Municipal Government by commission," at which Mr. W. H. Moore, K.C., read a paper; 200 copies of which were mailed, 100 to heads of municipalities and 100 to secretaries of Boards of Trade in the Dominion.

ATTENDANCE.

As secretary the nineteenth annual was 20, an increase of five on that of the previous year.

CITY COUNCIL CHAMBER.

The thanks of the Board of Trade are due to ex-Mayor McWilliams, his Worship Mayor Rush, the past and present members of the Board of Aldermen and City Clerk Armstrong for the use of the City Council Chamber during the past year.

LOCAL PRESS.

The thanks of the Board are also due to the reporters of our local newspapers for the able manner in which the business of the Board has been reported the last year.

The Welland Board of Trade wrote, asking the Board's sympathy with and indorsation of a resolution passed by the former organization, petitioning the Local Legislature to pass an act making it unlawful for any municipality to encourage bonusing the establishment within its midst of any industry. This matter was referred to the Manufacturers' Committee.

The report of the treasurer, Ald. W. H. Bradburn, was very satisfactory, and showed a balance of $8.40.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS.

On motion of Mr. R. E. Wood, seconded by Mr. D. Hughes-Charles, Dr. Morrison was re-elected president for the ensuing year.

Ald. George A. Gillespie was elected vice-president.

Ald. W. H. Bradburn was the unanimous choice for re-election as treasurer.

Messrs. Peter Campbell and John Crane were appointed auditors.

Mr. T. Q. Quartermaine was re-elected secretary.

The standing committees of last year are continued in office.

PUBLIC LIBRARY.

Mr. D. W. Dumble gave a lengthy and able address in support of the only site going from Mr. Andrew Carnegie $25,000 with which to erect a public library. He did not think Mr. Carnegie's to us that the city should raise annually 10 per cent. of the donation, which would mean $2,500 for the purpose of maintaining and up to date library, and the addition of new books from time to time, would be termed onerous.

Mr. W. H. Moore replied to Mr. Dumble briefly. He did not think we needed to perpetuate existing conditions in the present library, where three-quarters of the books are of no value on earth. If we have at present library at all we should at least have the assurance of a better selection of books in the future than has been made in the past. The books should be of a high character, consisting mainly of books of reference, scientific and educational, with a line of standard novels. Mr. Moore urged that Peterborough should pay for its own public library and not ask alms of Mr. Carnegie. This city has always paid its own way, and can continue to do so.

Mr. D. Hughes-Charles here said he opposed taking Mr. Carnegie's money in aid of a public library for two reasons. First, Mr. Carnegie is an alien. Secondly, he has shown himself to be an enemy towards Canada. To say nothing of the manner in which Mr. Andrew Carnegie made his money. Mr. Charles contended that no man, no matter in what business engaged, could, even should he live hundreds of years, amass six or eight hundred million dollars, and do it honestly. Mr. Charles was thoroughly in accord with Mr. W. H. Moore's contension that Peterborough is quite capable of paying for its own library.

Mr. A. P. Poussette remarked that we should not ask Mr. Carnegie for a library. Peterborough can well afford to erect a handsome building and maintain it properly.

Mr. R. Fair was strongly in favor of accepting Mr. Carnegie's offer, as was also Mr. W. H. Hill. One of the things absolutely necessary is, for the Normal School is a good free reference library.

Senator Ferguson, in talking on the public library question, said such an institution should be considered as carrying on the work of the common schools. A free library is part of our educational system in furnishing opportunities for study and educational advancement to those who cannot avail themselves of the advantages offered by the city universities.

Rev. J. G. Potter, felt that when Mr. Carnegie, out of the generosity of his heart, is willing to contribute to the welfare of this community in the way of a public library, Peterborough should not refuse the gift.

The above discussion resulted in the following resolution being carried by a substantial majority.

Moved by Mr. D. W. Dumble, seconded by Mr. R. E. Wood, that this Board of Trade approves of the proposal to erect a free public library, and thoroughly approves of accepting from Mr. Andrew Carnegie sufficient money with which to erect a suitable library building.

The Board here adjourned.

Test Bureau For Canada.

There is a movement among the electrical supply men and the insurance men to have established in connection with the Canadian Fire Underwriters' Association a bureau for the purpose of testing electrical appliances.

At present every invention or improved appliance has to be sent to the National Board of Fire Underwriters of the United States at Chicago for approval before it can be accepted as a standard. A fee which runs from $10 to $100 is charged for this work. Manufacturers of electrical apparatus express the opinion that it is unfortunate that a country the size of Canada should not have standards of her own, and point to the fact that many of the good moves made by the Canadian Fire Underwriters' Association of Canada have been adopted by the National Association of the United States.

Officers of the Canadian Underwriters' Association agree that while such a bureau would be a capital thing it would cost too much to establish on an elaborate scale. The practical testing of insulation to ascertain its durability is one form of the work which the Canadian Bureau could not take up. It is estimated that a bureau anything like the National Bureau at Chicago would not cost less than $100,000 per year to run. Government assistance may be sought.

FLY TO PIECES

The Effect of Coffee on Highly Organized People.

"I have been a coffee user for years, and about two years ago, got into a very serious condition of dyspepsia and indigestion. It seemed to me I would fly to pieces. I was so nervous that at the least noise I was distressed, and many times could not straighten myself up because of the pain.

"My physician told me I must not eat any heavy or strong food and ordered a diet, give me some medicine. I followed directions carefully, but kept on using coffee and did not get any better. Last winter my husband, who was away on business, had Postum Cereal served to him in the family where he boarded.

"He liked it so well that when he came home he brought some with him. We began using it, and I found it most excellent. While I drank it my stomach never bothered me in the least, and I got over my nervous troubles. When the Postum was all gone we returned to coffee, then my stomach began to hurt me as before and the nervous conditions came on again.

"That showed me exactly what was the cause of the whole trouble, so I quit drinking coffee altogether and kept on using Postum. The old trouble left again and I have never had any trouble since." "There's a Reason."

HOW CHILDREN ARE QUICKLY STRENGTHENED

Develop Them with Ferrozone, Which Makes Rich Blood, Hardy Muscle, Steady Nerves.

Children brought up on Ferrozone are known by their strong, rugged frames their chubby cheeks and healthful appearance.

Mothers find it an indispensable tonic and body builder, and in thousands of homes no other remedy is used.

EVERY CHILD IMPROVES ON FERROZONE

Mrs. E. Montgomery, of Pittsburg, writes: "A little niece came to visit me and noticing her pale and haggard looks, I started her on a course of Ferrozone. The change that girl underwent in a few weeks was marvellous. Her appetite chirped up, she had more spirit and strength, and a rosy color came into her cheeks that I never saw there before. I weighed my niece about the time she started to pick up, and in seven weeks she gained almost eight pounds, and just looked the picture of health. I think this should be an example to many mothers, and I hope that others will try Ferrozone for their little boys and girls. I am thoroughly convinced that it's the most strengthening tonic it has my strongest endorsement."

The reason Ferrozone works so beneficially with Ferrozone is that it acts directly on the blood, freeing it of all unhealthy matter, at the same time giving it an additional supply of iron.

This at once results in more strength new spirit and renewed vitality. Just one tablet at meal time works wonders.

Refuse to accept any article the druggist may say is just as good. Get Ferrozone, and the result we guarantee will be satisfactory. Price 50c per box or six boxes for $2.50, at all dealers.

OUR INDUSTRIAL GROWTH

A recent bulletin of census statistics issued by the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa contains interesting and valuable information relating to the extent and present development of manufacturing industries. By its returns it will be seen that in 1906 in Canada there were no less than 15,796 industrial establishments, which possessed an aggregate capital of $446,585,023, and employed 387,539 persons at a cost for wages and salaries of $165,166,811 and manufactured products to the extent of $718,352,602.

Ontario and Quebec as indicated by the value of the capital employed absorb more than three-fourths the manufacturing industries of Canada. Compared with 1900, the value of the capital in Canada had in four years increased in the ratio of 86 per cent. In Ontario the increase represents 82 per cent. and in Quebec 77 per cent. In Western Canada the value of the capital employed, though small as relating to the rest of Canada, has grown in a very much larger ratio. The increase in Manitoba was as high as 250 per cent. The development of the two new provinces of Alberta and Saskatchewan has given each an industrial importance far beyond that enjoyed by both provinces when known in 1900 as territories. They then possessed manufacturing capital of $1,500,000 and its value in 1906 was more than $7,540,000.

For Canada the average cost of salaries per establishment is $1,045. For Ontario the average is $2,052, and for Quebec $1,708. The highest average is in British Columbia, $3,517. Manitoba comes next with $3,237. Alberta averages $2,093, New Brunswick $1,740, Saskatchewan $1,668, Nova Scotia $1,667 and Prince Edward Island $338.

Salaries per employee average for Canada $342. By provinces the largest average salary per employee is paid in British Columbia, $1,165, and the lowest in Prince Edward Island, $424. In Manitoba the average is $1,093, in Saskatchewan $926, in Alberta $946, in Quebec $433, in Ontario $438, in New Brunswick, $746, and in Nova Scotia $729. The average salary per male employee is also highest in British Columbia, $1,149. All the other western provinces average over $1,000.

Wages for Canada amount for 1906 to $134,376,925, males receiving $119,550,831, or 89 per cent., and females $14,826,104, or 11 per cent. Ontario and Quebec contribute the largest proportion of this amount, the former province paying $66,-962,631, of which males receive $57,511,7[illegible] or 86 per cent., and females $9,147,245, or 12 per cent. In the latter province the total is $38,766,743, males receiving $33,-601, 105, or 87 per cent., and females $5,-162,898, or 13 per cent. The wages paid in the other provinces are, in British Columbia $9,738,414, in Nova Scotia $7,-751,378, in New Brunswick $5,428,480, in Manitoba $4,767,145, in Alberta $936,739, in Saskatchewan $668,324, and in Prince Edward Island, $360,353.

Wages per establishment are higher in British Columbia, where the average is $21,946. The other provincial averages per establishment are: Manitoba $12,466, New Brunswick $6,730, Nova Scotia $5,-057, Ontario $6,264, Quebec $7,795, Alberta $1,722, Saskatchewan $7,355 and Prince Edward Island $1,226. For Canada the average cost of wages per establishment is $4,567.

ELEPHANTS IN INDIA

HOW THESE HUGE ANIMALS ARE TRAINED FOR SERVICE.

Used Extensively by Government—Trapping Tuskers in Their Native Forests—Tame Elephants Used as Decoys—Many Die on March Back—They Become Docile and Display Great Sagacity.

One-fifth of the entire population of the globe is found in the Indian peninsula, chiefly in agricultural village communities, divided in many cases by great forest tracts abounding in big game. Foremost among this game came the wild elephants, which have played so important a part in the economy of Hindustan ever since the days of the Mogul empire. Elephants indeed are employed in all branches of the civil and military services; and their duties range from hauling artillery over the Himalayan passes to stacking teak logs in the big sawmills of Rangoon and Moulmein in Burma.

All the wild elephants of India are Government property, except in the native territories, where they belong to the feudal princes. These potentates have very different uses for the big tuskers. In a state like Mysore newly-tamed elephants are used in tiger hunts, and also for the great tamashas—those gorgeous festivals which have been such a notable feature of India for thousands of years. Fights between elephants and also elephants and tigers are common features at such entertainments.

A Curious Industry.

But to see the wild elephant traffic at its best, one must visit the centre of this curious industry, which is Dacca in Bengal. To such a point newly-trapped elephants are marched by a small army of men, then lodged in vast stables, and drawn upon as required for Government and private service. All the railroads, particularly in South India, maintain specially-constructed elephant trains; and up and down the coast ply entire fleets of steamers, likewise specially built for the elephant traffic. Altogether there are at least 17,000 men employed in the Elephant Service of the Indian Government; and these have both native and white officers. Every military post has its battery of working elephants, each capable of marching forty miles a day with a load of half a ton—ideal freight animals for so wild a country, where in many parts roads are wholly unknown. Dacca is the headquarters of the Bengal Elephant-Catching Establishment of the Indian Government. It lies on a branch of the Ganges, and its environs supply enormous quantities of water grasses as fodder. The city is also within 190 miles of the great forests of Chittagong, Sylhet, and Cachar, where the wild tuskers are trapped in great keddhas or staked inclosures. This work is easily the most remarkable of Government undertakings, and quite a small army is deputed for the purpose, headed by officers whose knowledge of woodcraft and elephant wiles is nothing short of miraculous.

Elephant Hospital.

Outside Dacca is an enormous peelkhana, or elephant depot, over one square mile in extent. This great square is ditched on every side; and in the centre huge herds of tuskers are picketed in long rows awaiting the periodical auctions, and afterward transported by sea and land to all parts of India. Each elephant stands on a square of concrete, with iron posts at head and feet. To these the great creatures are roped.

In the middle of the huge quadrangle is a shed roofed with wet grass; here the delicate animals are kept during the heat of the day. There is even a hospital; and adjoining are warehouses for howdahs, gear, and stores, as well as the offices of physicians and surgeons, who treat both attendants and animals.

All these buildings are close to the river, so that the elephants may have easy access to water. This also insures the carriage by boat of enormous quantities of green fodder.

How They Are Trapped.

The elephant-trapping armies leave Dacca at the end of November and are practically lost for four months in the great forests of Chittagong. Some time in May the white officers return with their motley "army," driving before them hundreds of captured tuskers. The methods of trapping are simple enough. For some days an army of beaters, hunters, and general laborers track the herd through the jungle; and when the feeding ground is reached, the laborers set to work felling trees and constructing a huge enclosure draped with creeping plants. This is the kheddah; and it has a funnel-shaped opening with a drop-door secured by a cable in such a way that one stroke of an axe will bring it down as soon as the last elephant is within.

The construction of the trap complete, the beaters set up a terrific din with tom-toms, gongs, and fireworks. The bewildered elephants are driven toward the mouth of the tunnel, down which they press until they reach the narrow entrance to the enclosure. When the last elephant is driven in, down comes the great door; and after a day or two's rest for all the elephant-catching army, trained mahouts ride in on tamed elephants to conquer the wild specimens. One of the latter is handled by two tame tuskers; and if he shows fight, they punish him severely. As a rule, however, the newly-taken monster soon submits.

Elephants Delicate Creatures.

Needless to say, this queerest of Government work is full of excitement. For in one herd there may be 80 or 90 enormous creatures, many of them uncertain in temper and full of fury at being trapped. After the elephants have been tamed, they are roughly classified. Some are preempted for the native princes; others set aside for the commissariat, transport and artillery services.

Some may die on the march back to Dacca; and the least valuable are put up to public auction, when they correct, so far as it goes. Here is the result, in case some reader should be seized with an irresistible desire to carry it a stage or two further:

[illegible]

Undoubtedly, however, of all the now admittedly unsolvable figure problems which have from time to time occupied the attention of mathematicians the most famous is that generally known as squaring the circle. The time and energy thrown away upon it in days gone by are simply amazing. A Dutch professor, Jacob Marcelis by name, worked at it for forty-three years and came at last to the conclusion that the circumference contained the diameter exactly times. He was wrong. Another notable computer, one Ludolph van Ceulen, continued his calculations as long as he lived and at his death had the result inscribed on his tombstone at St. Peter's church, Leyden.

Yet a third enthusiast worked out the calculation to more than 700 places of decimals and even then did not get so near as Peter Metius, who guessed at his answer. This latter lucky gentleman asserted that the diameter is to the circumference as 113 is to 355. This is so nearly right that the error would be less than a foot in a circle with a 2,000 mile radius.

For a long time this approximation was as near as any one got, but in 1863 a lady mathematician went one better. Here is her formula: "From three diameters deduct eight thousandths and seven millionths of a diameter, and to the result add 5 per cent." We have then not quite enough, but the shortage is only at the rate of about an inch and a sixteenth of an inch in 14,000 miles. Finally, an Englishman named Shanks succeeded in reducing by more than one-half even this well nigh infinitesimal error, and there for the present the matter rests.

It may be of interest to note, however, that some little while back a man made a great hubbub in London because he had not obtained the reward which he alleged had been offered for the discovery of the correct solution, although he claimed to have arrived at it. He said he did it by actual measurement, and it was found on investigation that he had constructed a box-wood disk of twelve inches in diameter which he rolled along a straight rail. The man was a joiner by trade and evidently knew well what he was about when he measured, for his answer, 3.140625, is wrong by less than one in 3,000.

INDIA'S WHITE ANTS.

Only One Kind of Wood, Sandal, Can Withstand Their Attacks.

Insects of various kinds are a perennial plague to Indian dwellers, tea growers and others.

The tea bushes in the Assam gardens have no less than four destructive enemies, from which no means of escape has yet been devised by man. These are the bark eating borer, the sandwich caterpillar, the mosquito and the white ant, all of which attack the bush and do immense damage.

By far the worst of these plagues is the white ant, the mosquito merely attacking the leaves and causing a blight. The ants, however, begin at the roots and eat upward, reducing the wood to powder and leaving only the bark to support the top, which soon topples over by reason of its own weight.

There is no Indian wood which would resist the ants' insidious attack except sandal. It delights in reducing pine and white wood to a powder. It cannot work in the light, but must get at the wood from some dark recess and work within a shell.

In some mysterious way the white ant gets indoors and has a particular penchant for penetrating into a veneered or lacquered picture frame, and in a short time nothing will remain but the veneer or lacquer, nothing else being left but a small portion of the powder, the rest being consumed or removed.

The method of attack is by emitting a kind of acid, which destroys the wood. And this ant has been known to bore holes through the sheet iron bottoms of trunks. Several long, supporting joists in a consular building in Calcutta were eaten out so completely that they had to be replaced with steel ones.

While these destructive white ants do not seem to possess much literary taste, they sometimes attack books and destroy them by boring holes through leaves and cover from side to side.

An English resident in an Indian city had a fine set of upholstered furniture, which he protected by some covering as well as he could before leaving his home for an absence of some months on business, and when he returned he sat down in a chair, which collapsed under him like a framework of cardboard.

Literary Coincidences.

Tennyson said of a strange literary coincidence, "A Chinese scholar some time ago wrote to me saying that in an unknown untranslated Chinese poem there were two whole lines of mine almost word for word." Byron in his monody on the death of Sheridan, where he says there will never be another Sheridan, the mold being broken up, employs, word for word, terms in which an ancient Sanskrit document refers to the death of Maru, notwithstanding that Byron could never have seen the document. Shakespeare's passage about love and lightning in "Romeo and Juliet," ii, 2, is almost identical with a quotation from "Malata and Madhava," an Indian poem by Bhavabuti, written nine centuries before and not translated up to Shakespeare's time.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTHWEST HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an Agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of a homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father or mother.

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing must be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa, of intention to apply for patent.

CONTINUED.

"Of course I did. I merely spoke to you to set you on your guard against him. He'll do you no good."

"But he was at school with me," said Beecot angrily.

"That doesn't make him any the better companion," replied Hurd. "See here, Mr. Beecot, we can talk of this matter another time. At present, as I am allowed to converse with you only for a short time, I wish you to tell me about the opal serpent."

Paul sat up, although Hurd tried to keep him down.

"I will if you will tell me about Miss Norman. I'm engaged to marry her, and I hear she is ill."

"Oh, she is much better," said Hurd, pausing, pencil in hand. "Don't distress yourself. That young lady is all right, and when you marry her you'll marry an heiress, as I learn from the lawyer who does the business of the deceased."

"I don't care about her being the heiress. Will you take a message to her from me?"

"Certainly. What is it?" Hurd spoke quite sympathetically, for even though he was a detective he was a human being with a kindly heart.

"Tell her how sorry I am and that I'll come and see her as soon as I can leave this confounded hospital. Thanks for your kindness, Mr. Hurd. Now, what do you wish to know? Oh, yes—about the opal serpent, which, as you say, and as I think, seems to be at the bottom of all the trouble. Listen!" And Paul detailed all he knew, taking the story up to the time of his accident.

Hurd listened attentively. "Oh," said he, with a world of meaning, "so Mr. Grexon Hay was with you? Hum! Do you suppose he pushed you into the road on purpose?"

"No," said Paul, staring. "I'm sure he didn't. What had he to gain by acting in such a way?"

"Money, you may be sure," said Hurd. "That gentleman never does anything without the hope of a substantial reward. Hush! We'll talk of this when you're better, Mr. Beecot. You say the brooch was lost."

"Yes. It must have slipped out of my pocket when I fell under the wheels of that machine. I believe there were a number of loafers and ragged

"So Mr. Grexon Hay was with you?"

creatures about, so it is just possible I may hear it has been picked up. I've sent an advertisement to the papers."

Hurd shook his head. "You won't hear," he said. "How can you expect to when you know the brooch was used to seal the dead man's lips?"

"I forgot that," said Paul faintly. "My memory"—

"Is not as good as it was." Hurd rose. "I'll go, as I see you are exhausted. Goodby."

"Wait! You'll keep me advised of how the case goes?"

"Certainly, if the doctors will allow me to. Goodby." And Hurd went away very well satisfied with the information he had obtained.

The clew, as he thought it was, led him to Wargrove, where he obtained useful information from Mr. Beecot, who gave it with a very bad grace and offered remarks about his son's being mixed up in the case, which made Hurd, who had taken a fancy to the young fellow, protest. From Wargrove Hurd went to Stowley, in Buckinghamshire, and interviewed the pawnbroker whose assistant had wrongfully sold the brooch to Beecot many years before. There he learned a fact which sent him back to Mr. Jabez Pash, in London.

"I say, sir," said Hurd when again in the lawyer's private room, "that nautical gentleman of yours pawned that opal serpent twenty years ago, more or less."

"Never," said the monkey, screwing up his face and chewing.

"Yes, indeed! The pawnbroker is an old man, but he remembers the customer quite well, and his description, allowing for the time that has elapsed, answers to the man who tried to get the jewels from you."

Mr. Pash chewed meditatively and then inflated his cheeks. "Pooh," he said, "twenty years is a long time! A man then and a man now would be quite different."

"Some people never change," said Hurd quietly. "You have not changed much, I suspect."

"No," cackled the lawyer, rather amused. "I grew old young and have never altered my looks."

"Well, this nautical gentleman may be the same. He pawned the article under the name of David Green—a feigned one, I suspect."

"Then you think he is guilty?"

"I have to prove that the brooch came into his possession again before I can do that," said Hurd grimly. "And as the brooch was lost in the street by Mr. Beecot I don't see what I can do. However, it is strange that a man connected with the pawning of the brooch so many years ago should suddenly start up again when the brooch is used in connection with a terrible crime."

"It is strange. I congratulate you on having this case, Mr. Hurd. It is an interesting one to look into."

"And a mighty difficult one," said Hurd, rather depressed. "I really don't see my way. I have got together all the evidence I can, but I fear the verdict at the inquest will be willful murder against some person or persons unknown."

Hurd, who was not blind to his own limitations, like some detectives, proved to be a true prophet. The inquest was attended by a crowd of people, who might as well have stayed away for all they learned concerning the identity of the assassin.

So after questions had been asked, and evidence obtained, and details shifted, and theories raised, and pros and cons discussed, the jury was obliged to bring in the verdict predicted by Mr. Hurd. "Willful murder against some person or persons unknown," said the jury, and every one agreed that this was the only conclusion that could be arrived at.

Of course the papers took up the matter and asked what the police were doing to permit so brutal a murder to take place in a crowded neighborhood and in the metropolis of the world. "What was civilization coming to and," etc. All the same the public was satisfied that the police and jury had done their duty. So the inquest was held, the verdict was given, and the remains of Aaron Norman were committed to the grave, and from the journals every one knew that the daughter left behind was a great heiress. "A million of money," said the papers, which was not true.

CHAPTER IX.

BUT while London was still seething with the tragedy and strangeness of the crime, Mr. Jabez Pash came to the heterogeneously furnished sitting room in Gwynne street to read the will. For there was a will after all. Deborah and Bart, who had witnessed it at the request of their master, told Mr. Pash of its existence, and he found it in one of the three safes in the cellar. It proved to be a short, curt document, such as no man in his senses would think of making when disposing of five thousand a year. Aaron was a clever business man, and Pash was professionally disgusted that he had left behind him such a loose testament.

THE SHIPS OF TYRE.

Types of These Vessels Still in Use in the Far East.

Away back, even when Solomon was king in Israel, the ships of Tyre, manned by brave Phoenician sailors, went through the prehistoric canal where the Suez channel is now and navigated from China clear around to England.

Their ships were the models for Greece and Rome and later for Venice, the Spaniards and the Portuguese. Only the Englishman improved on shipbuilding, and from him all modern models have dated.

In the old Tyre models the waist of the ship was low, so the oars could get good play on the surface of the ocean, and the sterns were lofty, so as to give room for stowing cargoes and to provide dry quarters for the upper mariners.

As wind power came into use the waist grew higher and the poop deck disappeared. Step by step from galley to caravel, from caravel to frigate, the British shipwrights improved on the ships of Tyre.

But in the far east the models have remained much the same, and the ship makers of Persia and India have stuck to the old Tyrian models to the present day.

Today their high square sterns recall the ships of Columbus. The mariners still have to get out of sight of land and steer by stars and the feel of the wind on cloudy nights. They sail around Trinidad and carry pilgrims to Mecca.

These vessels, on which the queen of Sheba might have traveled to visit Solomon, are used by native Hindoos, Arabs and by the peoples of Indo-China.

On board the captain, his men, the cargoes, pilgrims and sheep, asses and other live stock live in a proximity that would stir an American's stomach to immediate rebellion.

The Antique She Bought.

In Cologne a few blocks from the great cathedral there is a little shop where one may buy old books, prints and curios of all kinds. An American tourist and his daughter bought some trinkets there a few months ago and were leaving the place when a little, apparently antique crucifix attracted the attention of the girl. She examined it, found that it was bronze, somewhat corroded, and was told that it was "very old." The emblem was purchased and brought home with other souvenirs of the voyage, and last week the evidences of antiquity were removed when the bronze was polished. The owners were surprised to find on the reverse side, scratched with a sharp point, "S. C." and parts of another indistinguishable letter and under these the words, "New York."—New York Tribune.

Guests Fix the Price.

According to a publication devoted to the interests of hotel keepers, a novel scheme is to be tried by a boniface who, to quote his advertisement, possesses "a house of the first order—modern comforts, central heating, exquisite French cooking, superb view."

The proprietor will fix no prices either for the rooms or meals, and visitors only have to call at the office before their departure and pay "according to their judgment, conscience and sense of equity."

The new scheme will have a year's trial.—London Cable to New York Times.

Camp For Wolf Hunters.

The wolf hunters who recently returned to Montreal from the wilds about Kippawa, Que., caught two poisoned wolves and one Canadian lynx, says a Montreal despatch to The New York Sun. The hunters say that weather conditions were against them, the snow not being sufficiently deep or the weather cold enough. However, the members had a good outing.

A result of the excursion will be the establishment of a permanent camp in Algonquin park for the special purpose of wolf hunting during the cold period. This camp, L. O. Armstrong says, will be established next autumn and operated throughout the winter.

Weak Kidneys

Weak Kidneys surely point to weak kidney Nerves. The Kidneys, like the Heart, and the Stomach, find their weakness, not in the organ itself, but in the nerves that control and guide and strengthen them. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is a medicine specifically prepared to reach these controlling nerves. To doctor the Kidneys alone, is folly. It is a waste of time, and of money as well.

If your back aches or is weak, if the urine scalds, or is dark and strong, if you have symptoms of Bright's or other distressing or dangerous kidney diseases, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative a month—Tablets or Liquid—and see what it can and will do for you. Druggists recommend and sell
